Mrs. Violet Van Der Elst, British millionaire's wife, is continuing her campaign for abolition of capital punishment unaided, and without much encouragement, despite failure of her "sitting strike". She parked her car in front of prison where condemned man was being held, broadcasting attacks on authorities by loud-speaker, and refused to leave until police moved her and car by force. She hired demonstrators to parade before other prisons.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

Fine sheets and pillow cases may be perfectly plain with hems handstitched, machine or hand hemstitched, or ornamented with embroidery. Color may enter into the ornamentation on white bed linens, or the entire cotton or linen may be tinted.

• • • • • •

Linen remains the textile preeminent for these articles, but the name bed linen has become flexible, signifying, in its broad meaning, both cotton and linen. In cotton sheeting, percale holds the high place. Many homemakers are content with machine stitched hems, while others consistently cling to hand hems.

• • • • • •

The woman who decides to have ornamental hems of her own work either uses linen sheeting, or expects to devote as much time pulling out threads of cotton sheeting as she takes to do the embroidery. But when the linens are finished, she has handsome sheets and pillow cases whichever textile she uses.

• • • • • •

The reason why linen can have its threads more rapidly drawn out, is because good flax fibres spin into strong fine strands which remain individual, while cotton, which has shorter fibres differs when spun. It does not keep its separateness under weaving as does linen.

• • • • • •

Hems can be partly finished by machine and partly by hand, and a pleasing combination of work results. The sheets and pillow cases may be bought with machine hemstitched ends. Then the featherstitching can be done at home. In the original style which is being revived, hems were hand-hemmed rather than hemstitched and featherstitching in one or more rows was done below.

"Hey," said Billie Pullis, "don't cut my clothes. They're my good ones."

HYPNOTIZED GIRL MAN'S SLAVE CLEARED AFTER CRIME CAREER

Said She Was Powerless Before Man With Irresistible Look

JAILED AND FREED

London.—An extraordinary story of hypnotism in crime—resulting in the release from prison of a beautiful girl of 16, and the arrest of her man friend — was told here recently.

This hypnotic experiment was conducted by Dr. Leopold Thoma of Vienna University at the headquarters of the Vienna Criminal Investigation Department, and was detailed by Dr. Thoma at a private house in South Kensington.

Dr. Thoma's story was as follows:

Edith von Schaumberg, daughter of a Viennese privy councillor, disappeared. Two months later she was arrested for stealing a watch.

His "Irresistible Look"

A man friend with her was released after being exonerated by her. She was sentenced to two years' imprisonment.

The prison governor, puzzled by the case, allowed Dr. Thoma to conduct the hypnotic experiment on Edith.

Under this experiment the girl made a dramatic confession of how the "man friend" dogged her in the street and compelled her against her will to accompany him.

He took her to a park bench and looked at her in a way that was irresistible, Edith declared. Her hearers were told a story of her life of crime with the criminal whose slave she had become.

Told It in "Waking State"

Before bringing her out of hypnosis, Dr. Thoma suggested to her that her man friend was now dead, and had no power over her. He suggested also that at five o'clock that afternoon she must ask for the president of the criminal court and tell him the same story in the waking state.

On the stroke of five, though she had no watch in her cell, Edith demanded to see the president, and told her story once more, with full consciousness of what she was saying.

The man friend was arrested and sentenced, and a few weeks later Edith was pardoned.

PERFORM LAST SCENE OF 'PERFECT MURDER'

Perhaps—Inquest Held on Trunk Crime No. 1 But Police Continue Work

Brighton.—What may be the last official act in one of the greatest murder dramas of modern times—the mystery of Trunk Crime No. 1—was played recently in the drab surroundings of the Brighton coroner's court.

The inquest was not, as the police had once confidently expected, the prelude to an assize court murder trial.

It was a formality enabling the coroner to register the death of "an unknown female person, aged 20 to 25, found in a trunk at Brighton railway station, 17-6-1934," and to sign papers providing for burial in a pauper's grave.

The proceedings lasted exactly 10 minutes. In that brief space it appeared that at the moment Trunk Crime No. 1 must be regarded as the perfect murder.

The coroner briefly sketched the story of the crime, telling the jury how the dismembered body of the woman, who was an expectant mother, was found in the trunk at Brighton; how the legs were found next day in a suitcase at King's Cross station.

"Investigations will go on at Brighton and Scotland Yard," the coroner stated.

"One clue in which we are still particularly interested is that of the man from Dartford who travelled to Brighton via London Bridge on Derby Day carrying a trunk similar to the one in which the body was found. He has never been traced."

JAYWALKING ELEPHANT RUINS CAR THAT HIT IT

Pachyderm Pedestrian Provides Finale to 9,000-Mile Safe Journey

Durban, Natal.—A "jay-walking" elephant provided a motorist, who has just arrived here after a 9,000-miles run from London, with his most exciting adventure on the trip.

The motorist, Frank Humphrey, was driving through dense bush near Kasama, Northern Rhodesia, when he was confronted by an enormous tusker in the middle of the track.

There was no time to stop and no room to swerve. The car struck the elephant heavily on its hindquarters. The shock sent its legs from under it and it sat down on the front of the car.

The radiator was crushed, the headlamps snapped off and the mudguards flattened.

Very much surprised, the elephant rose quickly and lumbered off into the bush, and Mr. Humphrey was able to continue his journey.

POLITICIAN TALKS BY TALKIE

Rugby.—Capt. H. David R. Margesson, the government chief whip, on finding that he would be unable, owing to official duties, to attend a meeting in his constituency here recently, delivered his speech at a London film studio, and the "talkie" was shown to the audience.

STAGE JUBILEE PARTY FOR KING'S SERVANTS

London.—So that workers on the Sandringham estate may celebrate the silver jubilee, the King has given permission for the grounds at Sandringham House to be used for a huge garden party on May 6 for 1,500 of his employees.

When the King heard that his employees were anxious to mark the occasion of his silver jubilee, he immediately suggested that he himself should act as host.

Neighboring farmers, pensioners and school children from the local schools will attend the party, and an attractive program has been arranged for their entertainment.

Meanwhile the workers at Sandringham are contributing for a jubilee present to the King. It is to be a permanent memorial and will take the form of two wrought-iron gates for the main entrance of the royal residence.

LOVELY SPY IS ILL AS OPIUM CUT OFF

Woman Who Followed Her Heart Instead of Her Head Jailed

Brest.—Greta Lydia Oswald, the beautiful German-Swiss, under arrest here charged with trying to obtain details of the secrets of the new French cruiser La Galissoniere in the interests of a foreign power, is lying ill in the prison infirmary.

She admitted when arrested that she had been commissioned to carry out the dangerous task of a spy, with orders to use her charms to captivate French officers attached to the ship. When, however, in the execution of her orders she thought she had won the heart of Captain Count de Forceville it was only to find that she was so madly in love with him that she was unable to carry out her mission.

She is now in a state of utter depression, and it was the prison doctor who ordered her removal to the infirmary.

Her dashing young lover was examined closely by the magistrate in charge of the case, and he vehemently denied that he had revealed to Greta any of the secrets of the ship, which is about to undergo her sea trials.

He admitted that he had invited Oswald to take a glass of champagne on board the new cruiser Emile Bertin and a glass of port in La Galissoniere, but he pointed out that there is nothing extraordinary in a naval officer inviting a girl on board his ship in this way.

A small quantity of opium was found in the officer's flat, where he often received the visits of the beautiful Greta, who admittedly was addicted to opium-smoking, and it is the fact that she is deprived of the opiate which, it is thought, may be the cause of her indisposition since her arrest.

HE WAS SEEING ELEPHANTS

London.—Alfred Thompson, of Westmoreland Rd., Walworth, S.E., driving in New Kent Rd., swerved and braked when he suddenly saw a vast mass on the road, but his taxicab came into collision with the object—an elephant going to a dealer's, which received an injury to a hind leg.

CHECK "BABY GANGSTERS"

REVELS IN TOWER OF LONDON TO BE SEEN BY 11,000 NIGHTLY

2,000 TO TAKE PART

London.—For the first time in its history the Tower of London is preparing to admit the public to a pageant and tattoo.

A structure 300 feet long, representing a 16th century village complete with castle and jousting ground, is rising against the western wall.

Facing it is a forest of scaffolding tubes, on which workmen will be busy for another month erecting 11,000 seats for the spectators.

Flood-Lighting

It is expected this will cost $6,000. The village and castle cost $8,000, the scaffolding $55,000 or $5 a seat.

A great archway, dressing rooms and refreshment rooms and two control towers have yet to be built.

Yesterday 500 children from the Browning and Bermondsey Settlements and the L.C.C. schools gathered in the moat for the first rehearsal of one of the episodes, the May Day Revels of the time of Queen Elizabeth.

Tight Rope Walkers

In this episode will appear the only amateur sword swallower in the world, a young woman from Malling, Kent.

There will also be amateur tight-rope walkers, jugglers, fiddlers, pipers, wrestlers, cudgel players and a dancing bear borrowed from a circus.

For the past month 2,000 volunteers from London's amateur dramatic societies have been rehearsing for the pageant. They include men and women workers in the war office, Scotland Yard, the Land Registry Office, city offices and the banks.

The pageant and tattoo will be presented nightly at nine from May 25 to June 8.

SAY GIPSY'S CURSE CAUSE OF TRAGEDY

Reading.—The curse called down by a gipsy on a family is held by some of the villagers at Warfield (Berks) to be responsible for the death of two sisters in a fire.

The sister, Lucy and Sarah Fletcher, aged 71 and 77, were suffocated when their 200-year-old cottage caught fire through the overturning of an oil stove.

Returning a verdict of accidental death at the inquest to-day, the jury declared that Lucy lost her life by going back into the burning bedroom in an attempt to save Sarah, who was bedridden and practically blind.

When the keeper of an inn next door ordered out some gipsies, they shouted, "May the gipsys' curse strike you and your relatives."

MOTHER A DRUNKARD BEQUEATHS $185,000

Insane Bully and Miser, Five Children Charge

Leeds. — Charging that their mother was a drunkard, a miser, a bully and insane, five children of the late Mrs. Eliza Ogden, of Acre Lane, Wibsey, Bradford, are disputing her will.

She left $85,000, largely in small house property, and after her death another $100,000 in notes was found in an old rusty safe in her cellar.

Under the terms of the will she left $5,000 to be divided equally among her five children, and the remainder to belong entirely to her daughter, Eva.

Mr. Justice Goddard said she must have been a thoroughly unpleasant mother to say the least of it.

She bullied her children and was cruel and sent them out to work at a very early age, taking all their wage from them and giving them very little back.

But, however, that might be, she could leave her property to whoever she pleased.

GIRL GOLF CHAMPION BECOMES MAGISTRATE

"Women Haven't Legal Brains of Men," Says Lawyer at 23

Matlock, Derbyshire.—Miss Ursula Newell, of Darley Dale Hall, Matlock, has been appointed a county magistrate at the age of 23—three years after giving up a legal career because she thinks women have not much chance of success at the bar.

Miss Newell, a barrister with a LL.B. degree, will sit on the bench of which her father, His Honor Harold Newell, a retired Derbyshire county court judge, is chairman.

She became a barrister of the Middle Temple—her father's inn—nearly three years ago, on the same day as her brother.

A month later she gave up the idea of a career as a barrister and turned her attention to competitive golf—with such success that she is now a Derbyshire county player.

"Women have not got the legal brains of men," she told me.

DIVORCED IN 'TEENS

London.—Although not 20 years old, there were 16 youths who were widowers and nine who had been divorced at the time of the last census of England and Wales in 1931.

This is revealed in the final analysis of the census.

Seventy-two girls had been widowed before reaching the age of 20, and 11 had been divorced while still in their teens.

Centenarians totalled 156, the women far outnumbering the men by 129 to 27.

There were many more women than men between the ages of 95 and 99, the figures being 1,713 to 565.

AUTOMOBILES INCREASE

London.—A ministry of transport statement shows that on Feb. 28 there were approximately 2,012,714 motor vehicles under licence, as compared with 1,789,336 at the corresponding period in 1934.

SOME JUBILEE GUESTS ORDERED TO MOVE ON

Throng of Princes, Millionaires Offers Rich Harvest For Crooks

London. — International crooks who hope to reap rich harvests during the jubilee celebrations will have to overcome stringent precautions now being undertaken by the authorities.

Scotland Yard, the home office, the customs service and a chain of private detectives working in hotels are uniting to see that these unwelcome visitors get short shrift.

Watchers in the criminal underworlds of foreign capitals reported some time ago that certain gangs had planned jubilee raids on London.

Secret warnings reached Scotland Yard and then "black lists" of suspects were sent to the special branch men at the British ports.

Already certain "tourists" arriving here "on holiday" have been politely advised to move on—and they have gone without a murmur!

London during the next two months will present glittering prizes. Indian princes with their jewels, rich Americans and wealthy men from all parts of the empire will be gathered in a small area, and the criminal fraternity regard it as a wonderful opportunity.

The British crook presents another problem. It is impossible to keep tally with every man with a criminal record, but the Yard usually hears when a crook leaves his customary haunts and this often presages a haul.

FROM MINE TO MOVIES A STAR IN TWO WEEKS

Welsh Miner Soars to Popularity As Producer on Holiday Listens

Reading.—David Knight, unemployed, unknown Welsh miner two weeks before, became the "hit of the program" at a Reading theatre recently.

His sudden leap from obscurity was due to the fact that two men, holiday-making, heard his voice in a public-house at Pentre, in the Rhondda Valley.

They talked to him. He told them he was David Knight, aged 21, of Pentre, that he was a miner, unemployed for two years, that his mother was a widow, that the whole family was workless, and that he sang "for the love of it".

When the conversation ended, David was no longer unemployed.

Within 24 hours he was on his way to Reading to sing between films at a big movie theatre.

So sweeping was the success of his first performance in a theatre that people flocked to hear him from miles around Reading.

"HEIRESS" JAILED

"Canadian K.C.'s Daughter" Specialized in Defrauding Lawyers

London. — A woman who had posed as the daughter of a Canadian K.C. and as a million dollar heiress was sentenced to four years' penal servitude at London sessions recently.

She was Joan Crago, 36, housekeeper, and she pleaded guilty to obtaining $25 from three solicitors by false pretences.

She asked that 10 similar charges should be taken into consideration, as well as admitting a further charge of obtaining clothing by false pretences.

Her specialty, it was revealed, was explaining to a solicitor that she had been married in England, only to discover that her husband was a bigamist. The solicitor would be asked to look into her affair and give her a loan.

DOUBLE LIFE IN BEST CIRCLES FINALLY ENDS FOR CAIRO COP

Greatest Hoaxer of Modern Times Ends Colorful Career

HAD 'VANITY' TITLES

London.—No trickster of modern times—with the possible exception of "Major Crane", of "Wenhaston millions" fame—can claim so fantastic a record as Maurice Mount Falcon, aged 35, the "bogus marquis" who was recently sentenced to three years' penal servitude at the Old Bailey for defrauding a rich widow of $15,000.

Nor, indeed, can any other member of the "fraternity of frauds" claim such a flair for the use of musical, high-sounding names.

Perhaps to compensate for the ill-luck which gave him so prosaic a real name as Maurice Joe Goldstone, Falcon adopted such euphonious titles as:

Captain the Marquis Goldstone.
Comte d'Avison.
Duc de Montfaucon.
Maurice J. d'Avison de Goldstone.

Born in Cairo, he has been described officially as a person of no nationality. At one time he served as an interpreter in the British army and at another as a constable in the Egyptian police force in Cairo.

The "Dashing Duke"

He carried out the first big exploit of his career in London some years ago, where for a time he contrived to live a remarkable double life.

While the landlady of his lodgings thought him an impoverished French nobleman, highly placed people in exclusive west end clubs and societies knew him as a dashing duke with "money to burn."

Expressing fervent wishes for the extermination of Bolshevism, Republicanism, and Socialism, Falcon joined the Royal Stuart Society—an association for the preservation of the monarchy—and his plausibility won him the post of secretary.

Then "certain information" reached the members and he was abruptly dismissed. He vanished from the fashionable life of London. . . .

Paris knew him next, as the Duc de Montfaucon. After five months of spectacular life there, he was arrested on a charge of uttering worthless cheques and attempting to defraud prominent people in both Paris and London and sentenced to two months' imprisonment.

Sixty-eight medals and decorations of French and British orders, a gold laced uniform, and the emblem of a Commander of the Legion of Honor were found in his flat.

Reception Failed

It was then revealed that he had attempted one of the biggest social bluffs of recent times—a magnificent reception at one of the fashionable Paris hotels.

Falcon invited 40 of the most distinguished diplomats, politicians, doctors and journalists. But none had heard of the "Duc de Montfaucon." Inquiries failed to trace the title, and the reception and banquet had to be cancelled because no one accepted an invitation.

From Paris he went to Brussels, and there had the misfortune to be arrested again, this time for falsely assuming a title. The penalty was imprisonment and a fine of $50.

The "Duc," in a faultlessly cut suit—so extensive was his wardrobe that it included 200 pairs of pure silk pyjamas—adjusted his monocle and smiled at the sentence.

From Brussels he came back to London — to commit the fraud for which he has just been sentenced.

TEN FOR TEA

Wimbledon. — A woman was granted a separation order here recently because: Her husband cut off her finger nails when she tried to scratch him in self-defence. He attacked her because she could not accommodate ten people he wanted to ask to tea.

'YARD' RADIO SCORES 820 IN SIX MONTHS

"Fair Muckin' Up Crime," Old Lag Admits

London.—More than 820 arrests have been made in the last six months as a direct result of the radio organization at Scotland Yard.

Lord Trenchard, the police commissioner, in his annual report, makes this comment on the point:

"It is perhaps too much to hope that what one old 'lag' said, when unexpectedly arrested, may turn out to be an accurate forecast: 'Look 'ere,' he said, 'your blinkin' squadrons are fair muckin' up crime'."

The old lag concerned had been arrested, by the aid of radio, within a few minutes of his crime.

SCOTLAND YARD TRAPS THREE-FINGERED JACK

"Cleverest Forger in England" Sentenced to Five Years' Penal Servitude

London.—Scotland Yard has now brought to book the men responsible for one of the most audaciously organized systems of cheque forgery in the history of crime.

The leader of the gang, Jack Seymour, aged 36, who was described at the Old Bailey as "the cleverest forger in England," was sentenced to five years' penal servitude.

His forgeries have been so clever that people whose names were used on stolen cheques were unable to say whether the signatures were their own or not.

Seymour's method was to receive stolen cheques, forge them, and send them to his gang to utter. The police search for him which lasted a year, was hampered by the fact he never went to a bank himself.

Detective-Sergt. Keen described how Seymour spent his evenings with people whose names were above reproach so as to cover up his activities during the day.

He had received thousands of pounds by his forgeries.

Judge Dodson, passing sentence, said: "It is a pity a man of your talent has not been able to serve the community instead of making war on it. In addition to your talents you are a brave man, for I am told that you have the military medal with a bar."

One of three-fingered Jack's confederates was an expert letter-box thief whose method was to push a sheet of newspaper under a doorway to catch letters as they were delivered. Cheques in the letters were given to Seymour to alter.

The four underlings received jail terms of from 18 months to four years.

DONKEY KING DEPOSED AS OUTBID BY NEPHEW

Ramsgate. — Old John Todd, donkey king of Ramsgate for sixty years, is a king no longer. His 20 donkeys stand idly grazing in a field outside the town, far from the sea and sands. He sits weeping in his little cottage on a hill by the sea.

Old John is broken-hearted. For—

One of his nephews offered $650 a year for three years for the donkey-riding contract, and had it accepted by the local council. Old John could offer only $825 for the whole of the three years.

Old John in his little cottage on a hill . . . a cottage peopled by the ghosts of laughing children sat with tears running down his face.

"I spent all my life on the sands with donkeys giving children a bit of delight in their holidays," he said. "Now what shall I do?"

"My seven sons all depended on my donkeys. There are twenty-four grandchildren. All got a living somehow out of these donkeys. There was not much left, but we managed to scrape along.

"I never thought I should live to see the day when sons of mine would have to ask for public relief.

"I cannot afford to pay for the winter keep of the donkeys, so they will have to be sold."

GIRL TOREADOR OF 20 VICTOR OVER 53 BULLS IN SEASON

Ex-Stenographer Made $25,000 in Ring Before Ban Imposed

HOPES TO RESUME

Madrid.—Senorita Juanita Cruz, the 20-year-old Madrid girl matador, is eagerly awaiting a decision from the minister of the interior over her application to be allowed to engage in bullfights without let or hindrance in the future.

She killed 53 "toros" last year, and very nearly equalled the record of the leading men matadors, and made $25,000. But then came a decision from the minister, debarring women from taking part in any bullfights.

But Senorita Cruz relies on the present republican constitution, which grants women equal rights with men in this country.

Sex, says the constitution, shall not be a deterrent for women to follow any profession, including those hitherto exclusively reserved to men. However, the rules regulating bullfighting in Spain are now being reformed, and there is a new clause which, if approved, enacts the exclusion of women as bullfighters.

Formerly a Stenographer

Senorita Cruz is good looking, with big black eyes, smart and intelligent; she is modest and unassuming. She was a stenographer when she decided to take up bullfighting.

She was in love with this profession and never missed a bullfight in Madrid.

She gets up every morning at nine, has her breakfast, the usual Spanish one, consisting of a cup of coffee and a buttered roll, and goes to the small bullring at Ciudad Lineal, a Madrid suburb, to practice.

Sometimes she goes shopping in the afternoon, and as a rule attends a movie show.

Asked whether she had a fiance, she said she had decided not to have one, for fear that he might prohibit her fighting. She added that she would never marry a bullfighter.

Bullfighters only interested her in the ring. She had no use for them outside the ring.

She is not afraid of bulls.

"If I were," she said, "I would spend my time knitting."

The bulls she fought and killed last year were not full-grown. She was classified as a "beginner," and fought as such. Beginners only kill young bulls, although they are real fighting bulls and as apt to kill a person as the full-grown ones.

Now, she aims at qualifying as a full matador to enable her to fight full-grown bulls.

She is a militant Roman Catholic and holds a devotion for Our Lady of Sierra, whose statue is venerated by the faithful at Cabra, in the province of Cordopa.

Senorita Cruz receives numerous letters daily from people abroad asking for an autographed photograph. Letters from men admirers rain on her. The last she received a few days ago came from a telegraph operator in Seville. It ran to six foolscap pages!

A young man in Milan recently wrote to her saying how much in love he was with her despite the fact that he had never met her personally.

This man claimed that he had Spanish blood in his veins because h.. grandmother was a Spaniard. In the midst of his enthusiasm for the girl bullfighter he wondered whether she would send some money to enable him to come over and have the pleasure of meeting her personally!

LEARN IN YOUR SLEEP BUY A GRAMOPHONE

Vienna.—Dr. Feodor Kuuerjie, a professor of philology, claims that the brain is only a registering machine, and that it is possible to learn in one's sleep.

This is the way, according to the professor, to achieve the feat.

First accustom yourself to sleeping while the gramophone is playing. Then have lessons on the subjects you wish to study imprinted on records.

Next keep the records automatically running in your bedroom — and, says Herr Kuuerjie, your brain will assimilate the lessons.

A student at the Vienna military wireless station gave the professor the hint. The student said that he kept a record of Morse signals playing in his bedroom.

NUDISTS DISCOURAGED

Didn't Know There Would Be So Much Opposition

Denver, Col. — Denver's pioneer nudist organization has disbanded.

"When we started out we had no idea we would meet opposition in the form of police and public opinion," J. L. Garrison, chairman of the board of directors of the Mile High Health club, explained. "In deference to this opposition we are quitting."

The announcement came after 27 members of the organization had been arrested while attending a meeting and 18 of them fined $1 each in police court.

AS SULTAN IS EXILED 7 FIGHT FOR THRONE

Spurn Educated Princes, Make Caitiff Lord of Thousand Isles

Colombo.—There has been an election in the Indian Ocean; the result has just reached Ceylon. The people of the Maldive Islands had to choose a new sultan—the old one, Muhammad Shams-ud-din, was deposed in October after a reign of 32 years, and his sons were exiled.

The deposition was not without excitement: the mob rose, looted the house of the minister of justice and beat up the attorney-general.

Yet there were seven candidates for the sultan's uneasy throne. Six were well-educated princes; one, Aggamge Manissullu, had a poor reputation: it was said that he had kept the father of the ex-premier, Ibrahim Didi, chained up for three years.

Nevertheless Aggamge has been elected lord of the Thousand Isles, Ceylon, to which the Maldives pay tribute, fears the worst. A British political agent will probably have to be sent to clarify the situation.

Tortoiseshell, cocoanuts, fish, and cowrie shells come here from the Maldives, a group of coral islets which are very hot and unhealthy. About 200,000 people are said to inhabit them, but no one really knows.

ENTIRE VILLAGE SOLD MODEL LANDLORD GOES

Abingdon, Berkshire.—Once again in the peaceful 400 years of its history a picturesque Berkshire village is to change hands.

It is Kingston Bagpuize and it forms part of the 1,870 acres estate of E. A. Strauss, head of Messrs. Strauss and Co., the grain firm which failed recently.

The history of Kingston Bagpuize goes back as far as 1542, and Mr. Strauss, though a comparatively newcomer, has been a landlord in the old tradition.

Many of his "tenants" lived in their cottages rent free.

Every Christmas the doors of the manor house were flung wide to admit the villagers, who flocked in to offer the squire the season's greetings and to receive in return a joint, five shillings and a handclasp.

400 SQUARE MILES LOST—NO COMPLAINT

Belgrade. — Jugoslavia has just "lost" about 400 square miles of territory by a stroke of "revision" which does not involve a single peace treaty.

A new estimate by the general statistical department of the state of Jugoslavia has "rectified" and reduced the previously accepted area of the kingdom by 1,445 square kilometres, while the last population estimate is increased from 13,900,000 to 14,730,000.

Other statistical estimates just published show that Belgrade, since district, has now the smallest population per square mile of any capital city in Europe.

It is revealed that nearly 2,200,000 Jugoslavs are living outside Jugoslavia, mostly as emigrants in the United States, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, and South Africa.

HAILSTONES 3 FT. DEEP AREA'S WORST STORM

Birds, Zebras Perish As Tropic Storm Sweeps Countryside

Pietersburg, Transvaal. — Birds, bucks, and even antelopes and zebras have perished in the worst local hailstorm within living memory, which recently swept over the Gordonia estate, between the Sand and Njelele rivers.

Buildings were blown and battered down, and natives' household belongings — pots and pans and articles of clothing — were strewn over the veld.

In one instance a man, his wife, and three children had just left a bedroom when one of the walls collapsed.

Two natives were trapped in another house for several hours before being released.

After the downpour, hailstones lay on the ground three feet deep.

'ALL IS VANITY', WROTE GIRL LOST FROM SHIP

Beautiful Estonian on Way to English School Lost in Fog

Hull.—A fragment of a poem, ending in the word, "Vanity, vanity, in all is vanity," was found in the cabin of a beautiful Estonian girl student after she had been missed from a steamer in the North Sea.

The missing girl, Ella Leidorf, aged 26, was coming alone to England to finish her education.

She was last seen when the steamer was 70 miles off the Yorkshire coast.

"Miss Leidorf," one of the crew states, "boarded the ship at Helsingfors and appeared all right until the week-end, though the sea had been rough.

"There was a lot of fog, and the girl was seen pacing about the deck, looking into the sea."

SOFT DRINKS ARE NOW NECESSITY WITNESS CLAIMS

Case of Consolidated Beverages Against Logan Continues.

"TOLD NOT TO WORRY.'

Assertions that he had been repeatedly advised by Consolidated Beverages not to worry about the financial end of his business as distributor of the company, featured the evidence of Roy Logan as he took the stand yesterday in the suit of Consolidated Beverages against him for $4,000. With the witnesses for the defence holding the spotlight, trial of the case neared an end.

The hearing is being held before Mr. Justice Hugh Kelly at the Supreme Court sittings. H. A. Lovatt of Toronto is acting for the plaintiffs in their claim for money allegedly owing them from transactions with Logan. W. J. Arthur Fair is conducting Logan's defence and pressing his counter-claim for $7,000.

Payment Details

As Logan was called to the box late in the afternoon by Mr. Fair, he told of the incidents leading up to his appointment as distributor for the beverage company. He said that at the time when the agreement was first made, he discussed the matter of payment for the goods he was about to distribute in Peterborough. Forsythe, company head, understood his financial position, he testified, and said "everything would be all right."

He testified he took his first load to Peterborough and started business the next morning without a single customer arranged for. He continued to tell of the increasing difficulties in financing, asserting that, on each occasion when he revealed his worries to Forsythe, the official told him not to worry and to keep on distributing the drinks.

Mrs. Logan

Ann Graham Logan, wife of the defendant, testified. She reiterated the claim that Forsythe urged her husband to continue as a distributor, despite his increasing losses. "Mr. Forsythe said, 'Don't worry about letters and statements from us. All we want you to do is sell the drinks."

She said she often contributed money to the company to help her husband try to keep even. "I wanted to call things off, but my husband said he didn't want to let Bill ((Forsythe) down. We didn't like to see bills piling up because we knew we'd have to pay them some time."

"You knew that?" asked Mr. Lovatt in cross-examination.

"Yes," affirmed the witness.

Continuing his testimony from yesterday, Forsythe declared that there were never any changes made in the original agreement between the beverage company and Logan beyond the extension of the growing credits to him. Logan was to have done business on a cash basis, he said. He stated the company had never intended to extend permanent credits to him.

Mr. Forsythe

Mr. Fair commenced his cross-examination. Forsythe told him he had known Logan about 15 years and that he had employed Logan as a driver of several years when he was in charge of Coca-Cola here.

"You say 'engaged'," Forsythe objected at one point. "We did not engage him."

"Mr. Logan's knowledge of this district would be of some considerable value to Consolidated Beverages, wouldn't it " Mr. Fair asked.

"I wouldn't say that. It would be of value to him."

Forsythe denied suggestions that his company had sold directly to Loblaw's and the A. & P. Store here, thus doing Logan out of his rightful business. He denied that Logan suffered undue hardships from the economic depression by reason of soft drinks being a luxury. Soft drinks are regarded as a necessity, he said. Soft drinks were a necessity during prohibition, Mr. Justice Kelly observed with a smile.

Forsythe revealed that the district is now being operated through a branch warehouse. Twice as much business is now being done compared with the business Logan did, he said. The arrangement with Logan was concluded last October or November, he stated.

Mr. Mott

Kennon Mott, manager of sales and production for Consolidated Beverages, was called to the box by Mr. Lovatt. He testified regarding the financial dealings of the firm with Logan, telling of the original credit extended to him and the steady growth of Logan's indebtedness to the company to the sum now claimed, $4,009.49. He said Logan was repeatedly warned and every effort to get him up even with things, asking him to pay for his previous load of liquid, bottles and cases, before taking a new load, was made.

Mott related the details of a visit to Peterborough late in 1934. He said he told Logan it would be necessary to discontinue Logan's connection as a distributor of the company.

"Logan said he would pay up his account if it was the last thing he did. I told him we would probably have to get a judgment against him, but that we would not have the judgment executed if he would undertake to make regular monthly payments."

Profitable Business

Mott gave the opinion Logan could have made a big profit in the summer and a profit all year round. He denied that any other contract after the original agreement had ever been made to his knowledge.

"That point that he was in the relationship of a purchaser of your goods was never pointed out to him," Mr. Fair suggested during his cross-examination of the witness.

"Yes. It was made clear repeatedly in conversation and letters to him."

YOUNG LADIES RECEIVE HABIT

Most Impressive Religious Ceremony Takes Place at Mount St. Joseph.

TWO TAKE FIRST VOWS.

Enhanced by the joyous Eastertide note in floral decoration and in the exquisite musical accompaniment of the Sisters' choir, the impressive ceremonies of Profession and of Reception were exemplified on Thursday morning, in the stately Gothic chapel of Mount St. Joseph, Peterborough.

Holy Mass was celebrated by His Excellency, Bishop O'Connor, attended by Rev. C. J. Carroll and Rev. J. V. Corkery, while assisting from the sanctuary were noticed Right Rev. W. McColl, Lindsay; Rev. J. J. O'Brien, Sacred Heart Church, Peterborough; Rev. J. V. McAuley, Ennismore; Rev. J. J. Garvey, Lakefield; Rev. P. Costello, Rev. Dr. Masterson, Rev. C. Begley and Rev. C. Moloney, all of Peterborough.

The preparatory eight-day retreat had been conducted by Rev. Father McCann, C.SS.R., Toronto, and with Our Lord's last words to the rich young man as theme, his concluding sermon was a scholarly and eloquent exposition of the meaning of the religious vocation. The Rev. preacher's earnest congratulations to the young candidates who were so generously responding to that call, and to the parents and relatives whose families were being so singularly favoured, were convincing assurance that the world attitude of sympathy on such an occasion is misdirected.

In the the Ceremony of Profession which followed Sister M. Concetta, Peterborough, and Sister M. Lidwina, Sudbury, were privileged to pronounce their first vows, while the young ladies receiving holy habit included Miss Imelda Kelley, Fort William, to be known as Sister M. Theophane; Miss Mary Brennan, North Bay, as Sister M. Honora; Miss Beata Pepin, Blind River, Sister M. Fabian; Miss Margaret Duff, Allumette Island, as Sister M. Terrence, and Miss Patricia McLaughlin, Northfield, as Sister M. Joanna.

ILLINOIS TENSE MINE WAR NEAR

Thousands of Workers Flock to Capital—Tent in City Parks.

JAIL ATTACK FEARED.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., April 26. — (AP).— Alarmed by the influx of thousands of Illinois miners, authorities of the State capital waited tensely to-day fearing renewed violence in the long-standing mine war that has torn the coal fields of Illinois sporadically. They were established in encampments in two city parks. Further contingents were reported to be moving along the highways into Springfield.

All special police and special deputies were called into emergency service last night by authorities fearing an attack on the city jail where three men, members of the United Mine Workers of America, are held on charges of slaying a member of the rival mine union, the Progressive Miners of America.

An ominous quiet prevailed over the miners' encampments, and no one would comment on the purpose of the concentration of miners' forces.

Ed Mabie, miner, fell fatally wounded and injuries were inflicted on seven others in Sunday's battle here. Police arrested three men on murder warrants. They were: Ray Edmundson, provisional president of the Illinois' branch of the United Mine Workers of America, William Furlow, Alton, Ill., and Fred Thomason, who was wounded in the shooting.

The trio is lodged in the Springfield city prison under heavy guard. Mabie was an organizer of the Progressive miners.

Two trucks bearing Progressives were fired on last night near Rana, Ill.

$700,000 Fire Razes Capitol Of Oregon

SALEM, Ore., April 26 (A.P.).—A smoldering black shell was all that remained to-day of Oregon's $700,000 State Capitol building, destroyed last night by a fire in which one fireman was killed.

Fireman Floyd McMullen was crushed to death by a crumbling chimney. A relief worker was injured by falling bricks.

The fire started in the basement of the 60-year-old building, swirled in through an elevator shaft, roared through the rotunda and caused the 187-foot dome to collapse a little more than an hour after the flames were discovered.

A few personal effects and records were the only articles salvaged from the office of Gov. Charles H. Martin.

WHICH WILL YOU BE?

PALE, LISTLESS, TIRED—OR—Colourful, Radiant, Energetic.

SCIENTIFIC RESEARCH TELLS YOU HOW

Have people remark on your radiant, healthy colour.

Be ready for a romp with the children when you get home.

Have energy and pep for a full day's work every day.

(NOTE—All statements in this advertisement regarding the prevalence of iron deficiency and the place of iron in the diet are taken from independent, authoritative sources, and are not claims of the advertiser).

Scientific research workers have recently made two vitally important discoveries.

1. A very high percentage of apparently healthy people (as high as 80%) have too little iron in the blood.

2. From 25% to 90% of the iron we get in our foods is not assimilated.

Think What These Two Vital Facts Mean

Fact 1 means that probably you, your family, your friends—would all have more pep, more vigor, better colour, more resistance to disease if you got more iron every day.

Fact 2 means that an additional source of assimilable iron is essential to supply this need.

VIP Does More Than Supply Iron

In addition to iron, VIP contains 27% wheat germ, one of the only two known excellent sources of Vitamin B1, the Vitamin which increases appetite and growth, prevents nervous troubles and combats constipation. Tough Job Before Rajah

Hard to Predict Better Than Sixth Position for Browns This Season.

FAIR MOUND STAFF

IN MANY ways the St. Louis Browns are an amazing ball club. On paper last year, the team, with only two men who hit .300, and with rookies and peculiar fielders at important spots, rated cellar selection. But it hauled itself into sixth place and came within a couple of whiskers of beating out the Athletics for fifth. It is hard to predict better things for the Browns over this season. The pitching staff is only fair. The same can be said for defence. The one bright thing about the team—and this helps to explain how sixth place was attained last year — is the smart way it plays ball under Rogers Hornsby.

There is no room to doubt Hornsby's sound baseball knowledge. He can teach a club not only to grab every break but to make a few for itself as it goes along. Also to hustle. Much has been written about his brusqueness, and of how it galled the men under him. As a player he used to have the reputation of trouble-maker. But the fact is that last year the Browns hustled for him. It required inspiration to keep a ball club like the Browns out of the cellar. The Rajah, a fighter through and through, can be given credit for that spirit.

THE BROWNS were able to win from only three teams last year more games than they lost, taking 14 games each from White Sox and Senators, and 12 of their 22 games with the Athletics. This year Hornsby says his club will knock off at least two more teams, Boston and Detroit. If that does happen, the Browns can't help landing in the first division.

But the chance appears remote, both from training camp activity, and even now that the campaign is on. Hadley has gone from the pitching staff, which now is composed of Newsom, Blaeholder, Knott, Coffman, Andrews, Weiland (from Cleveland), Fay Thomas (from the Pacific Coast league) and whatever he can get from the rookies, none of whom appears ready to win. Hemsley is a good catcher, when he's not slugging sailors, and the infield, while it lacks punch, is a good fielding outfit, with Burns at first, Melillo at second, Strange or Burnett at short, and Clift at third.

DODGERS HOLD NATIONAL LEAD ON 6-0 TRIUMPH

Johnny Babich Yields One Hit to Phillies as Brooklyn Wins.

GIANTS KEEP PACE.

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, Jr.
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

If New York Giants fail to finish at or near the top of the New York league standing—and their adherents stoutly maintain there will be no failure this season—it apparently won't be the fault of Bill Terry's pitching "big four."

The quartet already has made a highly promising start even though Fred Fitzsimmons has been belted out twice. Carl Hubbell has rung up two victories on three appearances; Hal Schumacher cut loose with a great three-hit effort Wednesday and yesterday Roy Parmelee, who failed to keep pace with the rest last season, came through with a game that almost duplicated Schumacher's to beat the Braves 2-1.

Parmelee Holds Braves

Parmelee, whose previous appearance was in Sunday's tie game with the Phillies, also limited the Braves to three hits and lost a shutout because of a home run.

Wally Berger caught one on the nose in the seventh and rode it out of the park after Mel Ott had produced the two Giant tallies in a similar fashion, clouting his third homer with Manager Terry aboard in the fourth.

Brooklyn Dodgers, however, continued to outshine the Giants in pitching as well as in other departments and retained the league lead on the strength of an outstanding mound performance by 21-year-old Johnny Babich. Johnny hurled the second one-hit game of the National League season against the Phillies to win 6-0. The first was tossed by Cy Blanton of Pittsburgh.

BELATED RALLY WINS GAME FOR BOONEMEN FROM BIRDS; BISONS SWAMP NEWARK BEARS

Leafs Nick Gumbert For 13 Hits and 6 to 4 Triumph.

WINGS BEAT CHIEFS.

Albany Pitching No Puzzle to Royals and Montreal Knocks of 12-6 Win.

(By The Associated Press)

One of the things that make baseball the popular sport it is—the team standing—finds Toronto Leafs at the head of the International League again to-day.

The Leafs regained the lead after a lapse of 24 hours by taking a 6-4 decision from Baltimore Orioles in an affray amounting to eating the dog that bit you. Two days ago the Leafs lost the leadership when they were overwhelmed 11-2 by the Flock.

Walter Hilcher pitched eight innings for the Leafs and limited the Birds to seven hits, one of them Puccinelli's eighth home run of the young season. Hilcher got sterling support from his teammates in the field and at bat, the Leafs nicking Gumbert for 13 hits.

Bisons Swamp Bears

Newark Bears, yesterday's pacesetters, were swamped by Buffalo Bisons and consequently slipped to second place, a few percentage points above the Orioles. Owen Carroll, a former big league pitcher, turned in a three-hit performance as the Bisons mauled the New York Yankees' farm club, 16-2. Buffalo picked up 15 runs in the first three innings. Newark used three pitchers, Wicker, Larocca and White. As the result of their victory the Bisons remained in fourth place.

No Puzzle to Royals

Montreal's Royals pounded out a 12-5 triumph over Albany Senators after the Senators gathered four runs in the first inning and sent Appleton, Montreal starting pitcher, to the showers. Kimsey took up the mound task in the second inning for the Royals and held the Senators to four hits in the remaining eight innings. In addition to that Kimsey collected three hits in five trips to the plate—a triple, double and single.

Rochester registered its second victory in as many days over Syracuse Chiefs as John Berly held the Chiefs to six hits in a 7-3 triumph for his team.

WINDSOR EVENS BASKET FINALS

THIRD GAME SATURDAY.

VICTORIA, April 26. (CP).—The smiling band of veterans and youngsters who make up the smart Assumption College basketball quintet from Windsor, Ont., were firm in their belief to-day that history would repeat itself in the men's Canadian senior basketball championship series here.

Outplaying Victoria Blue ribbons, western champions, the Windsor team last night scored a 44-21 victory to even the series at one victory each. Ribbons had won the first game 44-22 and the third in the five-game series will be played Saturday night.

Two years ago Windsor-Walkerville Alumni won the opening game of their title series with ribbons but lost the series. Ribbons won the first game of the present series, and the Assumption College outfit were determined to-day to repeat their victory of last night and made the first game of the series count for nothing.

It was not an unexpected victory for Windsor as far as impartial observers, who saw the first game and 15 Windsor shots tantalizingly rim the basket, are concerned. It was just that the college lads adapted themselves to a strange floor and slipped into the form that has made them the smartest squad in eastern Canada.

KEEN COMPETITION ASSURED IN CHURCH SOFTBALL LEAGUE

Season Opens Monday With St. Paul's Juveniles Meeting St. John's.

QUEEN MARY GROUNDS.

Keen competition seems assured again this year in the Church Softball League. Every division has several well-matched squads entered and the fight for the shields should be hot. The league opens Monday with St. Paul's Juveniles playing St. John's at six at Queen Mary School. Games Tuesday at six—Trinity Seniors vs Murray St. at King Edward Park, St. James Juniors vs Trinity at Queen Mary, Park St. Midgets vs All Saints at Queen Mary. Wednesday games at six—Mark St. Juveniles vs Murray St. at Queen Mary, St. John's Midgets vs St. James at King Edward Park.

The senior section looks stronger than last year. Mark St., 1934 winners with Bill Brady managing, and Knox, runners-up with Harold Darling managing, have practically all last season's players again. The other three senior teams of '34, George St. with Harold Mosley in charge, Trinity with no manager yet, and St. Paul's under George Brosdley, are back again. Murray St. is in with Jack Dundas at the helm and with new players to the Church League.

The junior division has only four teams in yet. St. James, who won the last two years, have lost several key-players but are rebuilding in hopes of getting permanent possession of the shield. Bill Leggott will direct play from back of the plate. Trinity are back after a year's layoff with a new crowd handled by Earl Barrie. All Saints look good with Bud Charlton coaching. George St., which lost half its games last year in the last inning, will have Bill Hamilton managing. Knox were booked for this section but decided otherwise. St. John's may be back to make the fifth team.

There areseven juvenile teams. They are, with their managers: George St., Don Lewis; Mark St., Lew Agnew; St. Paul's, Jack Kirkwood; St. James, Ken Meredith; St. John's, Harry Walsh; Murray St., Roy White; All Saints, Art Beauclere. St. Andrew's, St. Luke's and Knox are possibilities after this week end.

Just five teams are definitely in the midget section but St. Andrew's, Knox and Trinity are good prospects. All Saints will be in with Wilf Lee managing; St. James have Bill Anderson at the helm; St. John's play under Jack Chamberlain; Park St. is coached by Roy Tranter; and George Street will be managed by Roy Parnall.

With 22 teams definitely in, the league expects no trouble in achieving its object of a 26-team league this year. With good weather, all teams should be in action by the end of next week. As in other years, the closing date for entries has been extended somewhat and prospective teams this season have until the first of next week to decide.

INDIANS TAKE LEAD IN AMERICAN LOOP

Trosky's First Homer of Season Provides Runs to Beat Browns.

(By Canadian Press.)

The American League clubs went in mostly for heavy hitting although two former college stars, Vernon Wilshere of Indiana and the Athletics and Johnny Broaca of Yale and the Yankees upheld the prestige of the mound department. Wilshere blanked the Senators with two hits as the A's won 10-0 with the aid of an eight-run second inning. Broaca hurled a less spectacular seven-hit game against Boston and the Yanks put on a similar rally, scoring seven times in the fifth to smother the Red Sox 12-4.

Another seven-run inning sent the White Sox along to their fifth victory in six starts, with the champion Tigers, 9th Schoolboy Rowe was the victim of the uprising in the fourth. The Indians captured the junior circuit lead by coming from behind to defeat the Browns with Hal Trosky's circuit swat with one on in the seventh producing the winning runs.

SPORTS
Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two.
DAY BY DAY

(By G. J. P.)

After being stymied back of a bald-headed gent for five straight hours at the annual what-is-it of the O.A.S.A. only last week, we figured we were all caught up on softball sessions for a couple or five years. But time erases callouses, or else youth is resilient or something—anyway, we took in the annual gabfest of the local Men's Softball League in Duffus' yester e'en. While it was lengthy enough, it wasn't too terrible, and they accomplished quite a bit. Quite a few folks sashayed around, which is always a good sign. One more open meeting will be held next Wednesday night at 7.30 in Duffus' and another good turnout can about clean up the business preparatory to starting the loop off with a loud bang. (Did you ever hear a quiet bang?)

• • • • • •

Officers elected—or in several cases re-elected—were: Hon. Presidents, J. E. Sullivan, W. H. Taylor and R. M. Glover; president, Fred Scates; vice-prexy, Dick Cowan; secretary-treasurer, Dave Leether; executive members, managers of the teams plus two or three guys to be appointed. This looks like an experienced and first-rate slate of outfers to us. Every one is a worker and, while we've tangled with some of them in a few of the finest arguments we've been in since we've taken this argumentative job, we figure they're the best softball officers you can find. They give a lot of time, dough and energy for no monetary return.

Probably the two most important decisions to come out of this meeting were (1) to run a straight schedule with the team on top Aug. 10th going into O.A.S.A. playdowns and with the schedule then continuing and first three teams at the end being in the loop playoffs, and (2) to reduce the entry fee for teams this year from ten smackers to five bucks. The league will continue to supply the balls and the home team each game will be given the used ball from the previous contest. This latter idea will no doubt interest several prospective teams. Fashion-Crafts and Omemee are definite entries, while Westclox, Board and Huffman, Payne's, Southend Loop Juniors, Quaker Oats and a few others were all considered as prospects. They will be checked up on before the next meeting.

City Baseball League held a meeting last night, too. They had a big crowd on hand and things look good for a successful season. Bantam teams ready to enter are Maple Leafs, Jerry Whaley's, Trojans (put in by Doug Mowry and Lefty Lesurf), and possibly King Edward and St. Peter's again with maybe one other west end outfit. This section should be okay once more. It is uncertain about the juveniles but if sponsors can be obtained, they should have at least two squads in this division. And Herb Ralph admits he is seriously figuring on a junior team in the Lakeshore League. All these and several others will be looked into by the present officers before another meeting is called next Tuesday at seven in Duffus', when officers will be elected and final arrangements made for the season.

• • • • • •

The Johnson Motors—or the Petes if you wish—will practise Saturday afternoon in Riverside Park, starting about two o'clock. Most of the prospective players have been holding light workouts recently. Knotty Lee and a few of the players expect to be in Toronto Saturday to see the opening of the Ulster Stadium League and try to arrange a few exhibition games with Queen City outfits. Other players will workout that day here and Knotty will have the first real call to arms under his direction Monday evening and nightly from then on, starting around 5.30 in the twilight at Riverside. Nothing new so far on the proposed spring series with Smith's Falls.

• • • • • •

Belleville had a fine response for their first drill call the other day. Over 30 players took part under Messrs. Young and Mills. Their pitchers include Chief Williams, Art Calhoun, Ernie Smith, Carl Casey and a couple of former minors, Wilkins and Hammett. Jim Barclay will be the regular catcher with Mills and Green also available. Infielders trying out include McIlroy, and Hansen of Toronto, with Ford, Kerr, Smith and Green. Prospective outfielders are Utronki, Weir, Morgan, Blaker, Darrah, Rigby and others. Looks like a strong battery, a fair infield but only a passable outfield to us at present.

Following another good lacrosse practise in Lindsay a few nights ago, the Lindsay Post says: "Several of the Peterborough players showed plenty of class, Magee particularly being an outstanding player. This Magee is the same firebrand who played defence for the Petes' intermediates in hockey and who likes nothing better than a rugged game and enjoys it best when the going is tough. He will certainly be an asset to the Lindsay lacrossers this year." The Tri-County League holds its annual meeting in the Chamber of Commerce here at eight bells Tuesday night.

• • • • • •

Several of the gals' softball teams are working out these days and look good. There's still room for another entry or two, and the officers are busy trying to dig up several junior squads for the proposed junior section. Westclox, Chesters, C.G.E. and Bristoles are all prospects but nothing definite has been heard from them as yet. Meanthme, Keene, Omemee, Sixth Line, C.G.E. and Westclox look like starters in the regular division. There should be one more local entry, anyway. May 8th is set for closing of entries at a meeting at eight in Duffus'.

A big minor baseball loop will operate in Lindsay this summer to build up future diamond stars.

Good Prospects For Minor Ball In City

A strong bantam section in the City Baseball League seems assured this summer since the first league meeting held last night in Duffus'. It is expected that six teams will enter this division, with possibly two juveniles and one junior to round out the circuit. There was a good representation on hand at the session but the election of officers was left over till the next meeting.

President Jack Dennard conducted business. Teams represented included King Edward School, Terriers, Jerry Whaley's, Maple Leafs and possibly Board and Huffman's.

The Trojans, Maple Leafs and Whaley's team definitely signified their intention of entering the bantam section. Max Board was uncertain about entering a team at this time. It was felt that St. Peters might join and possibly one other from the west end. The Trojans were promised by Doug Mowry and Lefty Lesurf. With a number of St. Peter's and King Edward team graduating from bantam to juvenile this year, it was agreed that two juvenile teams should be entered if sponsors are obtained. The present officers will make an effort to obtain sponsors before the next meeting which will be next Tuesday night at seven in Duffus'. Herb Ralph will enter a junior team if he can secure a berth in the Lakeshore League. With nothing further to be done at this time, the meeting adjourned till next week when these prospective teams will announce themselves.

LEAGUE LEADER ON AUGUST 10TH REPRESENT CITY IN PLAYDOWNS

Two Schedule Halves and Early Playoffs as in Vogue Done Away With.

SEASON STARTS MAY 17TH.

The adoption of a straight schedule this summer with the leading team on August 10th representing Peterborough in O.A.S.A. playdowns was the main feature of the annual meeting of the City Softball League in Duffus' last night. This decision was arrived at after considerable discussion and it means doing away with the two halves and early playoffs as in past years.

With a good crowd on hand, the league got off to a fine start, cleaning up considerable business at this general session. Following the secretary-treasurer's report — the bank balance will be announced later when outstanding accounts have been settled—it was moved that an entry fee of five dollars, a reduction from ten, be in force this year for teams with the league supplying the balls and the home club receiving the used ball. This was passed unanimously.

Fashion-Crafts and Omemee definitely stated they would enter while Westclox, Board and Huffman, Herb Payne's and the Southend League juniors were mentioned as likely to enter shortly. Several others were named as prospects and these will be checked by the executive before the next meeting. It was decided to start the schedule on May 17th, and the closing date for entries was set at May 10th.

Owing to last year's playoff trouble, there was much argument regarding schedule and playoffs. A motion was finally passed that a straight schedule be adopted and the team first in the standing on August 10th, inclusive, be entered into the O.A.S.A. playdowns. This team will continue in the schedule and the second and third teams at the end of the schedule will playoff for the right to meet the first-place team at the end of the schedule for the league championship. Semi-final series will be two games out of three and the final series will be three out of five.

A motion was passed that the team going into the O.A.S.A. playdowns get the usual financial assistance from the league. The circuit will advertise for umpires, and the executive will handle the matter of obtaining grounds and equipment. It was decided to hold the next meeting at 7.30 in Duffus' next Wednesday night.

The election of officers was the last item of business. The honorary officers of last year were re-elected, these being W. H. Taylor, Jim Hamilton, J. J. Duffus, R. M. Glover and J. E. Sullivan. President Fred Scates was returned with no opposition. Dick Cowan was elected vice-president. Dave Leether was re-elected secretary-treasurer unanimously. The executive will consist of the managers of the teams with the president having power to add to the membership as he sees fit. The meeting then adjourned.

LONDON COULD SUPPORT BOUT

More Loose Money Floating Around England's Capital Than Any Time Since 1929.

9,000,000 POPULATION.

(By Gayle Talbot).

LONDON, April 26 (A.P.).—There is no good reason to believe that Greater London, with an estimated population of more than 9,000,000, is not capable of absorbing a championship fight between Max Baer and Max Schmeling in August.

Walter Rothenburg, German promoter, has promised Baer about $300,000 to defend his crown here, and presumably would have to hand Schmeling another $150,000. To say that London doesn't have that kind of money to spend is eye-wash.

I, one is to believe his eyes, there is more loose money floating around England's capital than has been in evidence in any other world capital since the years before 1929.

Rothenburg, in outlining to the Associated Press his plans for the Baer-Schmeling bout, pointed out he would have to sell only 10,000 seats at $40 each to put himself in the clear on his guarantee. The remainder of Wembley's 80,000 or 90,000 seats he would price moderately, ranging down to $1 for the distant sections.

Will London buy $40 chairs in quantity? One can only look at the record. They pay $10 tops to see hockey games the average fan in Canada would not invest 50 cents to see, the calibre being far from first-class.

ADAMS HAS OLYMPIANS

DETROIT (C.P.)—When Halifax Wolverines return from the Olympic Games next year, it wouldn't be much of a surprise if Owen Lennon and Ron Hudson move up to Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League. Manager Jack Adams of the Wings has the star wingmen on his negotiation list. He saw them play in the Allan Cup finals.

GOLF FACTS
NOT THEORIES!
By ALEX J. MORRISON

At this time of year many players get new clubs. The new clubs are not always suited to the player's build.

There is one thing that club makers can't determine before the clubs get into the hands of the player, and that is the lie of the clubhead. With wood clubs this is more or less standardized, but with irons it varies considerably.

The lie of an iron club has much to do with the direction you get. If it isn't suited to your position over the ball, you'll have plenty of trouble keeping on the line. The sole of the clubhead or bottom edge of the clubface should rest squarely on the ground when you are standing in a natural position over the ball.

Take your clubs to your pro and have him check up on this angle for you. If some of them are out of line he can fix them in a matter of minutes.

ONLY SIX AMERKS ARE SURE OF JOBS

Manager Dutton Plans Big Shake-up in Gotham Hockey Team.

(By GEORGE MAGUIRE.)
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

NEW YORK, April 26.—(CP)— A spirit of optimism totally unknown to New York American Hockey Club activities in years permeated the atmosphere yesterday as Mervin ('Red') Dutton, fiery defenseman, signed a two-year contract to manage the team, amid ballyhoo typical of major Gotham events.

Dutton signed with young Bill Dwyer, son of the clubowner; other officials, and a swarm of newspapermen and photographers bustling about. His contracts calls for a "substantial increase" in salary over the stipend he earned as a player when he drew the National Hockey League top of $7,500.

To Seek Players

Dutton will leave New York this week-end on a lengthy trip, seeking new talent for the team that finished fourth in the Canadian section of the N.H.L. last season after threatening to gain a play-off berth early in the race.

The new manager expressed optimism the team would gain a play-off berth next season and his statements were echoed by the junior Dwyer and Marty Schenker, club treasurer.

Dave ('Sweeney') Schriner and Lorne Carr of Calgary, Art Chapman of Winnipeg and Fred Hergerts, forwards; Al Murray, defenseman, and Roy Worters, goalkeeper from Toronto, are the only players, it was reported, Dutton has decided are certain of jobs when the next season rolls around.

May Make Trades

"Red" already has selected five forwards and one defenseman from the Calgary, Winnipeg and other Western Canada districts, to report at the training camp at St. Paul or Minneapolis next fall. He hopes to add several others during his exploratory trip while en route home from New York. He is almost certain to call at Montreal and Chicago in an effort to put over deals with Maroons and the Black Hawks toward strengthening the Amerks.

Selection of Dutton to succeed the famous "Bullet Joe" made an instant hit in local hockey circles. Always popular and styled "a good mixer," the impression prevailed among hockey writers today the Amerks will really go places next season. Dutton came to the Gotham club from Montreal Maroons, where he played two seasons after the old Western Canada League disbanded.

FAMOUS ENGLISH TROTTER SUCCUMBS TO PNEUMONIA

LONDON, April 26 (C.P. Cable)—Pneumonia caused the sudden death yesterday of one of the world's greatest stallions, Blandford, whose get set an all-time record for winning on the English turf last season.

Up to the end of last season Blandford's stock won 201 races with a value of £202,000 (about $980,000). In 1934 his offspring won 53 races worth £75,707 (about $368,000) topping the previous record of Stockwell by $6,100.

GYPSY GIRL

THE STORY OF AN IMPASSIONED ROMANCE

By McDONALD FEADER

READ THIS FIRST:

Consuelo, a beautiful gypsy girl who longs to dance with all the world at her feet, is loved by the Dummy, a deaf mute, and Marcu. She despises her mother, Anica, but is fond of her father, Girtza. Marcu tempts Consuelo with a huge diamond and she agrees to marry him. Just as Girtza notices Consuelo's ring, which she tells him she has stolen, the sheriff appears. He proceeds to haul the gypsies into court but Consuelo is no longer wearing the ring. When the judge's wife and another woman search her, Consuelo fights them savagely. Meantime Marcu comes into the courtroom and announces he bought the ring. The town jeweler is summoned and admits selling Marcu the ring for $12.60. When the merchant declares it isn't worth a dollar, Consuelo is furious. The gypsies are dismissed from court and break camp hurriedly. Shortly afterwards the jeweler discovers he sold Marcu a $3,000 ring for $12.60. He had neglected to wear his glasses when he made the sale. (NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 11

Laziness settled upon the gypsy camp during the hot summer days. Most of the time was spent around the camp, smoking, talking, singing, sleeping, little caring what was happening in the world outside their own. When inertia became too great they moved on to greener passages. And they were content in their indolent way. It was too hot to work. Only occasionally did they exert themselves to enter the two mares in the races. One of them, a lovely little bay with good racing blood in her veins, won a fair sized stake and they traded her for two young colts and a milk cow. There was not enough money to buy more racing horses, so even interest in that was lost.

Only the Dummy worked, and he did so because he loved to. It was part of him. He could bury his soul in the bright colors as his brushes smoothed in the paint. On many of the baskets he had painted the head of Consuelo, his brush giving tone and life to the reeds. Consuelo laughing. Consuelo serious, or a miniature dancing figure with long raven hair. The girl would sit beside him, her eyes full of wonder as the likeness on the basket grew, or unconscious of him, she would be surprised to see her head on the basket, the painting reflecting the mood she had been in.

This day they were sitting apart from the camp under a spreading tree and her eyes took in the dilapidated old van and the wagons and the tents mended and old. Two of the women were lolling in front of one of the tents with their men. There was a listless passion about their embraces. The girl turned that she might not see them. That was the way marriage was. Stale embers. Poor fools! She would not be one to be caught by it. The lines grew deeper about her mouth when she thought that once she had been willing to say to Marcu, "Today I will marry you." Fool! Fool! She hated herself for having spoken the word of love to him that day in the crowded court house. It made the humiliation the deeper, the more biting.

Oh, but she hated him! The very thought of him made the blood rush to her temples and her senses reel. The weeks had passed and still she had not found the moment for revenge—nothing was bitter enough to pay him back for the way he had tricked her. A piece of glass! It sickened her inside to think how easily she had been fooled. And it sickened her more to remember that she had loved his strong arms around her.

The Dummy held the finished basket that she might see it, but so intent were her thoughts of hatred for Marcu that she struck the basket from his hand and it rolled in the dirt, and she did not see or care.

The Dummy turned away, his dark head bent. He was of no interest to her. No interest to anybodybody. He looked down at the bright head on the basket. It was smudged with dust but underneath was the gay insouciance of the laughing head. She was like that, gay, uncaring, or moody, impatient. How well he knew her!

He picked up the basket and his fingers touched the wet paint. He was nothing to her, a thing that moved and walked. That was all. A dummy! His fingers crossed the paint, blurring out the happy face.

The gesture was futile, despairing, yet half angry. Angry at the God who had created him without a voice or the power to hear. Dumb lips, dead ears! A silent world of his own that was filled with loneliness. It was a torture to sit hour after hour beside this girl he adored with every breath he drew and yet be utterly separated from her. Restlessly his fingers smeared the oil until the head was only a confusion of color.

The girl looked up and grabbed the basket from him.

"Why did you do that? What is the matter with you? Are you mad with me?" The futility of speaking struck her, he couldn't talk back. She would have shouted with joy if he could have cursed her. Her anger dropped to sullenness.

"Oh, Lord, I get sick of you. You sit and look at me all day. Why don't you hit me once just for a surprise—or kiss me. Men—men—I hate them all! Marcu is a coward, a dog of a coward. He dares not take me in his arms now. And this Dummy—" She pushed the hair back from her forehead and clutched her hands together.

"I shall go mad—mad! I am stifled! I am screaming inside!" Something whispered to her. "Why don't you dance again?" Dance—dance, why?

She closed her eyes and against her will came the dream she had almost forgotten. She heard the beat of music, the clapping of hands. Like another person she stood and looked down at herself and she was dancing on a floor of marble and below her on the hill as far as the eye could see were people who carried gifts in their arms. They stood hushed, breathless, watching. For them she danced and her body was light and free.

Then in a whirl of color come the end of the dance and she stood above them arms flung out. Now the hillsides rose and the volume of sound—ovation. She did not bow to them, but stood motionless, arms held up. From all sides came the people and laid their gifts at the foot of the marble palace and spoke their words of praise and passed on. And the procession was endless.

The girl sitting under the tree was trembling. Her dream. Her dream. In the mad turmoil of love and hate she had almost forgotten, but now it was thrilling her as never before. For the first time in long weeks peace crept back to her. Her body relaxed. A smile came to her lips. The lines about her eyes vanished. She sighed blissfully. To dance—to dance, and to hell with the rest!

She sprang to her feet.

"Petru!" she called to one of the men at the tent, "Petru, get your flute and play for me. Play me the wildest music you know. My feet are aching to dance." Her voice was like a song.

"Well, it is good to hear you say that again," and Petru left his woman and put his flute to his lips and played for her.

At the sound of the music the gypsies stirred themselves and gathered in a circle and watched. They began to clap time and beat with their feet in the dirt, for never had they seen the girl dance as she danced now. She was a whirling maelstrom of color, her feet as light as the thistledown.

Marcu and Voda and the young gypsy chavs crowded forward and she danced up to this one and that, held up her lips and then whirled away before they could kiss her. She set their blood afire and they would not let Petru put down his flute nor let her stop dancing. The women whispered together that now surely there would be a wedding.

Her dancing grew wilder. It seemed that she was making up for the lost weeks and that she would never be exhausted.

The Dummy had come up to the circle. What bee can keep away from the honey? When she saw him she danced up to him, enticing, loving with her eyes. She paused, her body close to his. And desire grew greater than he was and he grabbed her up in his arms and buried his lips in the warmth of her neck. For an instane she rested there.

He stood back then and stripped off his jacket and shirt and waited.

Now the gypsies began to shout.

"Oh, ho! they are going to wrestle for her!"

"The Dummy hasn't a chance!"

"She is Marcu's before they begin!"

"Ah, that Dummy is a coward!"

"Take off your shirt, you Dummy, and let us see your arms!"

"Marcu will kill the youth!"

With slow fingers the Dummy pulled the shirt over his head and there were gasps of astonishment. No one had realized how strong his arms were or how muscled his back or how broad his shoulders. Why, who ever had paid attention to this Dummy, anyway?

Then the Dummy and Marcu began to wrestle. The match that had looked so unfair in the beginning was evened now and the Dummy fought with almost as much skill as Marcu and his arms were quicker. Those who had called him coward changed their cries—not that it mattered to the deaf one.

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Saturday, April 27

A very lively and promising day may be looked for, according to the planetary configurations, although a great measure of success may depend on the methods of individual application. All pertaining to writings, letters, publicity and promotion should thrive, although these may be nullified by indulgence in rash and impulsive actions. Shun speculation and protect funds.

Those whose birthday it is are confronted by a year of splendid oportunity for activity and prosperity, although all must be handled with restraint and wise judgment. An incentive to strife, wraggling and dispute as well as impetuosity would prove perilous.

Then the Dummy and Marcu began to wrestle. The match that had looked so unfair in the beginning was evened now and the Dummy fought with almost as much skill as Marcu and his arms were quicker. Those who had called him coward changed their cries—not that it mattered to the deaf one.

A child born on this day may be talented, versatile and brilliant but probably prone to extravagance and the pursuit of pleasure.

WARSAW.

Mrs. George Weller and Mrs. Arthur Payne attended the district annual board meeting of the Women's Institute in Lakefield on Wednesday, April 17th. The district annual meet will be held on Thursday, May 23, at which Mrs. Colloton, of Lorn Park, Provincial W. I. President, is expected to be present.

A large crowd attended the shower given to Mr. and Mrs. Bodenham in the town hall on Easter Monday evening. A bountiful supply of many household necessities was donated.

Fred and Anthony Platt started on a hike to the mining district on Wednesday, April 24.

Mr. and Mrs. David Miller spent the week-end in Toronto.

Rev. W. and Mrs. Wilkinson and family are spending a few days with Mrs. Williamson's sister this week.

Can You Wear To-day's Dresses?

Here is a Proved Way of Keeping a Fashionable Figure

"Dresses, this year," says the fashion expert from Paris, "will be specially designed to accentuate the waist."

What does this mean to you? If you are one of those unlucky women who have "let their figures go", it means that the new flattering styles are not for you. It means being content with out-of-date dresses—unless you decide to do something to restore the figure of your girlhood days.

There is a thing to do—and it does not include a "starvation" diet. Just take faithfully every morning a half-teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a tumbler of hot water. You will soon find that you are gaining in energy and vitality—your skin will become clearer, eyes grow brighter—whilst at the same time you will be achieving that much-desired youthful, slender figure.

One lady (Mrs. D. S.) writes:—"Only a few months ago I could not get a nice dress to fit, now I can wear a size 30. Many thanks to Kruschen. I've recommended it to all my friends."

Cage Tournament

Clark's crew and Weir's outfit copped the honors in the Boys Hobby Show basketball tournaments which finished last evening in the Y.M.C.A. In the intermediate cage final fixture, Johnston's team fell before the Clark crowd, 23 to 13; while in the junior final, Weir's gang took a 16-8 decision over Gillespie's clan.

It was 13-7 at half-time for Clark's in the intermediate game, and they continued in front with a smart passing and checking game. Galley led the scorers with 16 points while Penrose topped the losers with eight. The teams:

Johnston's — Penrose, Foster, R. Johnston, G. Johnston, and Kirn.

Clark's — Galley, Turner, Clark, Laing, and Sexsmith.

Referee—G. McIntyre. Scorer—A. Stinson.

A strong second-stanza rally by Weir's gave them the junior tilt. They were down 6-4 at the halfway mark, but showed enough class to pile up the count the final frame. They had an edge in every department this last half. Weir was the main sniper, getting 11 points of his team's 16. Gillespie led the losers with four. The teams:

Gillespie — Amys, Burgess, Gillespie, Morley and Loomis.

Weir's — Rogow, Ascott, Weir, Andrews, and Vallery.

Referee—G. McIntyre. Scorer—Jim McClenaghen.

ORPEN FAVORS DOLLAR WAGER LONDON TRACK

Will be Welcome Innovation to Moderate Sportsmen in Ontario Turf Circles.

HALF-MILE OVAL

For the first time in the history of the Canadian turf, single dollar pari-mutuel wagering will be in vogue at an Ontario track, the Orpen confederacy of Toronto controlling the Long Branch and Dufferin tracks in Toronto, Kenilworth Park in Windsor and Queens Park in London, having decided to introduce the low popular wager at the last-named track. This must not be confused with the single-dollar combination in which two dollars is really the lowest sum that can be expended on any one race, one dollar to win and one dollar to place, or as is the custom at some tracks, another dollar to show, making a total of three dollars.

One Dollar Wager

At the London seven-day meeting, being inaugurated on July 20, it will be possible to make a wager with just the one dollar, either for first, second or third as the patron desires. If the popularity of the one-dollar combination can be taken as a criterion, the latest move of the Orpen confederacy in the interest of the individual of moderate means should turn out to be one of the most welcome innovations in recent Dominion turf history. The move is in keeping with the enterprise that characterizes A. M. Orpen, Grand Old Man of Canadian racing, and his devoted band of henchmen.

Ever since pari-mutuel wagering was introduced in Canada in 1911, and made compulsory in 1917, following the legalizing of the Miller Bill controlling race track wagering, two dollars was the minimum wager adopted at all Dominion tracks, though why it should be that amount nobody has been able to explain. After all race track odds are computed according to the single numeral and a single dollar wager, apart altogether from any popularity it might have enjoyed, would have been the logical minimum wager.

This has finally been realized by the Orpen's, along with the fact that a dollar wager was more in keeping with the purse of the average sportsman and sportswoman. Introduction of the single dollar wager is in the nature of an experiment and upon its success or otherwise will depend whether other of the Orpen tracks will employ it.

Aid to Enjoy Sport

It is hard to see how it can be anything but a success for there are many occasions on which a patron would hesitate to wager two dollars but would be willing to take a fling with the odd dollar. With wagering on horses the order of things, that is at race tracks where a percentage goes to the Government and helps relieve the taxation burden, the Orpen controlled tracks are making it possible for everybody to enjoy his or her popular sport with the least possible expenditure.

The Queens Park track at London, where this important wagering experiment is being made, is a half-mile oval and the impending meeting is the first under the auspices of the Orpen group. In the old days, London was a great center for the runners, the Kings Plate having been decided there on a number of occasions. Re-introducing the runners there and over a half-mile oval should be a decidedly popular move, especially with the single dollar wagering in vogue.

KIWANIS HONOR GEORGE HARPER

VARIETY PROGRAM.

A potpourri program directed by Dr. G. R. Scott, chairman of the reception committee, rippled the scale of interest from gay to mildly grave at to-day's Kiwanis luncheon.

The graver note was lightly sounded in Archie Gates' expression of the club's regret in its loss of the valued association and membership of George Harper, district superintendent of the Bell Telephone Company, who has been transferred to Windsor.

"The best wishes of this Club go with you," Mr. Gates said in connection with a presentation to Mr. Harper, "and there is no comfort to us in thinking that Windsor's gain is our loss."

Al Sharpe presented Mr. Harper with a dress shirt set on behalf of the Club, and the tenor of the meeting returned to the lighter note. A pleasing musical program included trio selections by Walter Parr, violin, George Nicholls, piano, and Herb McCannan, harmonica; community singing, and violin solo by Mr. Parr.

Harold Scott's brief contribution, a reminder that the opening of the trout fishing season was only 5,736 minutes away, or some such figure, indicated one of his expectations for next week.

Dr. Scott referred to the fact that the past presidents of the Kiwanis Club are members of the reception committee, and by way of recollection and gratitude for the sustained leadership which has flowed from the presidential position, he mentioned the past presidents appreciatively as follows: Frank Whitehouse, 1921, and successively Jack McKone, J. R. Marshall, Charlie Cook, J. J. Turner, Isaac McNabb, the late Joseph John, John Turner, Carl Browne, John I. Allen, Harry Boyle, Jack Nelson, and Archie Gates, with Ivan Lillico next in line when his present term expires.

MANY WOULD BE CANADIANS.

LONDON, Ont., April 26.—(CP).—Unrest and rumors of war in Europe are believed responsible for an unprecedented rush of applications for naturalization in Middlesex county, in the last few months.

Seldom within the memory of local officials have there been so many Central Europeans anxious to become Canadian citizens.

Germans lead in the increased number of applications, followed by Hungarians, Roumanians, Poles, Russians and other sons of European States.

Daily air service has been inaugurated between Brussels and Berlin.

BREAKS AGAINST DETROIT TIGERS

"Up to Cochrane and His Players to Snap Out of It," Says Navin.

SLOW STARTING TEAM.

(By Earl J. Hilligan).

DETROIT, April 26 (A.P.).—A slump is just a slump, Frank J. Navin said, not too-mournfully today, and Manager Mickey Cochrane and his champion Detroit Tigers "will just have to suffer." He laid the current Bengal slump right in the laps of Manager Mickey and his boys, treated rather roughly recently by Cleveland Indians and Chicago White Sox.

"There's nothing much I can do about it," Navin said. "It's strictly up to Cochrane and his players. Breaks of the game have gone against them; there's no particular department that has failed and started them off wrong. It's just one of those things that have to run so long before the team can come out of it. Cochrane and his team will just have to suffer until they do."

The Bengal losing streak, Navin indicated, hasn't caused him to change his opinion his team still is the best in the circuit. He points out Tigers started slowly last year, and didn't get going until about June 1. After that, he said, they got going in a way that won the pennant for them, and the team this year may be another slow starter. He recalled that about 1920 his Tigers lost 13 straight games at the start of the season.

Tied at Half Time 1-1 the The Wednesday Supplies Punch in Latter Section.

THRILLING DISPLAYS.

St. Mirren Fails in Fight to Avoid Relegation to Second Division.

LONDON, April 27 (CP Cable)—Sheffield Wednesday won the English Soccer Cup for the Third time in the history of the club to-day, defeating West Bromwich Albion, 4-2, before a crowd of 93,000 at Wembley Stadium.

It was Burrows, a Wednesday halfback, who created an opening which allowed Hooper to drive in a goal from a pass by Rimmer.

At this juncture Sheffield played an inspired game, but a long kick by Trentham proved its undoing. The long drive found the Throstle forwards unmarked. Carter sent an accurate pass to Sandford who shot a fine left-footer well wide of Brown to tie the score.

Five minutes from the end the Wednesday made certain of victory when Rimmer rammed home two wonderful goals with minutes between. The first was a header from a pass by Hooper.

The second came when he pushed a rebound after Pearson had only partially saved a hard drive from Starling.

Result: Sheffield Wednesday 4, West Bromwich Albion 2.

LONDON, April 27 (CP Cable).—Thrilling displays by teams fighting against relegation attracted much interest in to-day's games in the English soccer league. Victories for Tottenham Hotspurs and Middlesbrough and defeat of Leicester City make it still uncertain which of these clubs will descend into the second division for the 1935-6 season.

At White Hart Lane, Tottenham Hotspurs ran up a 5-1 win over Liverpool, while Middlesbrough did exceptionally well to defeat Aston Villa, 3-0, at Villa Park. On the other hand Arsenal already champion of the league, put Leicester City again in a precarious position by administering a 5-3 defeat.

As the table now stands Tottenham is on the last rung of the league ladder with 30 points; Leicester have 32, and Middlesbrough, 33. Each team has one game to play.

Brentford is champion of the second division, but a fine struggle is going on for second place and the right to promotion next season between West Ham United, Bolton Wanderers and Blackpool. West Ham retains second place despite a 3-1 defeat by the Wanderers, who, however, are only one point behind. Blackpool, another point in the rear, lost a glorious opportunity by losing, 2-0, at Southampton.

ST. MIRREN FAILS.

GLASGOW, April 27. — (C P Cable.)—St. Mirren failed to-day in its uphill fight to avoid relegation to the second division of the Scottish Football League, being defeated 2-1 by Celtic at Celtic Park.

The defeat of the Paisley team means that it will accompany Falkirk to the minor division next season. Rangers who were beaten 2-1 to-day by Hamilton Academicals, had already clinched the championship of Scottish Football by a wide margin. Today's win for the Accies left a rather bitter taste as last Saturday the famous Rangers won the Scottish Cup, defeating them by an identical score.

Third Lanark and Abroath were the successful teams of the season's play in the second division and move up to senior company. Third Lanark brought its total points to 52 by defeating Forfar Athletic 3-1. Arbroat had already

Neighbors Rescue 7 Trenton Children

TRENTON, Ont., April 27 (CP)—Quick-acting neighbors saved the lives of seven children last night when fire destroyed a large double frame house here. The children were in bed while the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Cook, were at a dance, and the fire had gained considerable headway before it was noticed.

Jack Woods, Harry Cooney, Pat Coe and Earl Conkwright rushed to the house. The four men carried the children to safety, while the flames ate through the building.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Downs, who occupied the other side of the double house, were also at the dance.

Building and contents are a total loss and the firemen had to fight fires in adjoining buildings that started from sparks from the main fire.

Summer Schedules Effective On Sunday

Summer schedules on the railways become effective Sunday with a few changes in the local service.

The 9.15 a.m. west bound C.P.R. train will leave half an hour earlier at 8.45 o'clock; and the east bound 1.55 a.m. night train will leave Peterborough at 1.35 a.m. These are the only alterations in the C.P.R. time table.

On the C.N.R. the Sunday evening passenger train to Toronto will leave at 6.15 p.m. instead of 7.30 p.m. and the morning train from Belleville arrived here at 8.20 o'clock instead of 8.45.

German U-Boat Program Creates Stir

LONDON REPORT STATES DOZEN NOW BEING BUILT

Berlin Officials Deny Orders Placed But Admit Future Intentions.

TREATY AGAIN BROKEN?

British Cabinet to Discuss Situation—France, Italy May Protest.

Acknowledgment at the Berlin defence ministry that submarines constitute a part of the Reich rearmament program sent a twinge of apprehension through world capitals today in memory of the U-boat scourge during the world war which sent a total of 5,408 ships to the bottom.

First disclosed in London, Germany's intention to build submarines was to be considered by the British cabinet, probably early next week. Spokesmen close to the government claimed Germany had again broken the Versailles Treaty.

British reports said 12 submarines of 250 tons each were now under construction in German shipyards, but the Berlin defence ministry denied that any orders had been placed.

BERLIN, April 27 (AP) — The German Defence Ministry admitted to-day submarines constitute a part of Germany's rearmament program, although denying orders had been placed for the construction of new U-boats.

The ministry's official spokesman, when informed it had been reported abroad Germany had placed orders for submarines, said:

"The whole matter of rearmament at sea is in a state of flux and

SEVEN BADLY HURT.

ST. LOUIS, April 27.—(A P). — Four laborers were dead, seven were seriously injured and two men were under arrest to-day as the aftermath of an explosion and fire that trapped 13 workers in a sewer yesterday.

The explosion, police said, occurred when a laborer, after lighting a cigarette, threw the match into a pool of water filmed with a mixture of gasoline and fuel oil.

They quoted Nischbach as saying he emptied 1,500 gallons of a combustible mixture into the sewer at Dubinsky's orders after gasoline had mistakenly been pumped into an underground tank containing fuel oil.

Britain Asks Report On Nazi Sub Building

LONDON, April 27.—(C.P.Havas)—The British foreign office today instructed Ambassador Sir Eric Phipps at Berlin to submit a report of newspaper charges appearing here and in Paris that Germany has begun submarine construction, in open violation of the Versailles Treaty.

Reports the British government proposed immediate increase in its air forces was denied today by the air ministry. It was denied also the air council had met yesterday to consider the threat to the British Isles constituted by the number of Reich planes.

It is stated Germany has stored up enough petrol to meet all air requirements for at least a year. Merchants supply valuable raw materials have been warned if they wish to continue doing business with Germany it must maintain larger stocks there.

Live Evidence

CHICAGO, April 27. (CP).—Mrs. Kristine Erobe, not only isn't dead, but she says she would like to have some more alimony.

She appeared in Superior Judge Desoris court yesterday and said her husband, Carl, had been telling friends he didn't have to pay alimony any more because his wife was dead.

"Take a look at your wife and from now on pay her $12 a week instead of $5" said the court.

MILE PAVEMENT FOR LAKEFIELD DURING SUMMER

$1,000 FOR RIVER ROAD.

The main street in Lakefield has been assumed by the Ontario Department of Public Highways, and will be paved this summer, according to an announcement by the Hon. T. B. McQuesten in a letter received this morning by J. J. Duffus.

The Department will also spend $1,000 on the reconditioning of the Deere road between Peterborough and Lakefield which was broken up by the diversion of traffic last summer during the period of the construction of the new highway on the west side of the river.

The Lakefield project actually means the extension through the village of the pavement that was laid last year to its southwestern gate. It will be built to the north-eastern boundary of the municipality as requested by the council of Lakefield when the Minister visited the village last autumn.

"When I was in Toronto on Wednesday I again reminded Mr. McQuesten of the promise he had made to consider the two petitions which were presented to him at the dinner in Lakefield and he assured me that these two matters had not been forgotten, and that we might expect some news in a short time," Mr. Duffus stated this morning.

"His letter in to-day's mail will no doubt be pleasing news to Reeve Burrows and the council of Lakefield and Reve Frank Leahy and the council of Douro. It has often been said that the road on the east side of the river is one of the most beautiful drives in Central Ontario, and should be kept in good condition for traffic."

The visit of Hon. Mr. McQuesten last fall was arranged by James Hawthorne and Mr. Duffus in order that he might see the new highway to Lakefield, the needs of the road to Burleigh, also a stretch of the Burleigh-Apsley road, and finally the Douro road along the river.

YOUNG TORONTO WOMAN KILLED BY C.N.R. TRAIN

TORONTO, April 27 (C.P.).—The body of a 26-year-old woman, killed when she was run over by a Canadian National Railways train in the yards here to-day, has been identified as that of Amelia Duri, reported missing a few minutes before the accident. Her brother made the identification.

Engineer Ben Bear of Allandale said he had no chance to stop the train before she was struck.

HEPBURN PAYS CROWLAND VISIT TO PROBE STRIKE

Interviews Council Before Making Tour of Relief Area.

ROEBUCK, CROLL ATTEND.

Premier, Croll, Roebuck to Hear Strikers Complaints To-day.

CROWLAND, Ont., April 27. — (CP).—Premier M. F. Hepburn of Ontario and two of his Cabinet members, Attorney-General A. W. Roebuck and Minister of Welfare David A. Croll arrived to-day and immediately went into conference with City Council behind closed doors before making a personal investigation of the relief strike situation in this Welland district community.

Inspector Chris Airey, in charge of police guarding a relief project, was brought from his station and joined the conference.

E. G. Humphries, Toronto, secretary of the National Unemployed Council, who accompanied the Premier's party, said his organization had directed the strike and possibly he would act as mediator in an effort to settle the dispute.

It was understood here children of striking workers who went to Toronto this week were on their way back to their homes here.

Meanwhile strikers were to be offered another chance to return to work on the Beatrice street sewer project today. Adam Wakunick who yesterday brought about the first break in the strike, was scheduled to be escorted by police to the sewer job where he worked 45 minutes under a heavy police guard yesterday.

There was another problem on the hands of the strikers. The premier announced at Toronto unless the children they sent to demonstrate there were back in school Monday the strikers would be prosecuted under the Truancy Act. His announcement came after the children staged a two-hour protest meeting at the north end of Queen's Park.

Kitchener Furniture Factory Is Burned

KITCHENER, April 27. (CP). — The plant of the Kitchener Woodworkers Limited, one of the city's biggest furniture factories, was completely destroyed by fire early to-day. The origin of the blaze is not known. Damage was estimated at approximately $35,000.

It was the second major industrial fire in a month and will throw 50 men out of work. Only recently the plant of the Canada Skate Company was gutted.

Residents of the neighborhood turned out in night attire to play every available garden hose over roof tops. As a result no other fires broke out despite the fact the sky was full of sparks.

The glare in the sky was visible for miles around.

NOTED BANJOIST DEAD.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., April 27 (C.P.).—Kenneth C. Bell, 17-year-old Wesleyan University freshman, and son of a Hamilton, Ont., barrister, was injured fatally to-day in an automobile accident in which one of his classmates and a Vassar College student were hurt.

Bell, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Bell, and nephew of Prof Herbert C Bell of Wesleyan, died in a hospital of internal injuries 10 minutes after his automobile crashed into a telephone pole. Bell's father defended David Meisner in his trial for kidnapping John Labatt.

Policeman Stanley Connelly quoted Gates as saying that Bell apparently fell asleep at the wheel. The latter was thrown out of the vehicle.

LIBERALS RALLY THURSDAY, MAY 2

Over 900 Delegates Are Expected to Attend Convention in Opera House.

WELL ORGANIZED.

With the most complete organization in at least the last thirty years the Liberals of the federal riding of Peterborough will nominate a candidate at their convention in the Grand Opera House on Thursday evening, May 2, to contest in the forthcoming general elections the seat now held by E. A. Peck, M.P.

"By the decision of the members of the Liberal Association at the last annual meeting, this is to be a convention of delegates," a member of the executive told The Examiner this morning. "Its structure has been built from the bottom up, and not from the top down. Delegates have been appointed in each polling subdivision on the basis of two delegates for every fifty electors. This was decided upon as an effectually representative plan, and the response from all sections of the riding has been surprisingly prompt and enthusiastic."

It is expected that approximately 950 delegates will have credentials to attend the meeting, and no other persons will be admitted to the Opera House but the certified delegates up to 9.15 p.m. Credentials are to bear the signatures of the president and secretary of the Association, Everett L. Sackville and

RUMOR GERMANY BUILDING SUBS

FORBIDDEN BY TREATY.

LONDON, April 27 (A.P.).—The ghost of the German U-boat, thought laid by the Treaty of Versailles, stalked in Britain to-day with widely published reports the Reich is building forbidden undersea craft.

The reports were published on the basis of reputedly "excellent authority" in London.

The fact two leading newspapers representing different political factions carried the information as diplomatic news tended to strengthen the authenticity of the reports. Announcements in both the News-Chronicle and The Herald small submarines are being built by Germany came as no tremendous surprise, however.

It was recalled official spokesmen in Berlin recently said Germany must have a small fleet of

FELL INTO CANAL CARRIED DOWN INTO THE LAKE

Jackie McMillan Aged Six Missing Since Thursday Afternoon.

REPORTED IN TORONTO.

Report Said Child Being Held in a Toronto Police Station.

Recovery of the lifeless body of "Jackie" McMillan, 6-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Cyril H. McMillan, 261 Westcott street from Little Lake near the entrance to Lock 20 at eight-thirty this morning, ended one of the most extensive 40-hour searches ever conducted here.

Returning from Burleigh Falls on Thursday noon following a visit with his grandfather Mr. Jacob, the child accompanied his mother when she went to call on Mrs. M. W. Porter, 309 Rogers street Thursday afternoon.

The child was missing from the home of his grandmother, Mrs. Porter, when his mother went to seek him prior to returning home shortly after five o'clock, and a search was immediately instituted.

Members of Peterborough Fire Department directed to the east bank of the canal near Maria street bridge by the child's pet dog "Buddy", dragged the canal from ten o'clock until midnight without avail. At daybreak Friday morning the search was renewed with increased intensity, and a quarter-mile section of the canal was drained.

Swept Into Lake.

It is believed probable that the child did fall into the canal at the point indicated by the little pomeranian dog, and that it was swept through the lake when the boats were being taken out of the locks prior to draining the canal.

Dr. Herbert N. Young, coroner, stated he would record a finding that the child met his death by accidental drowning, and that no inquest would be held.

There was a sad development to the case last evening, when around eight o'clock Mr. Jacob reached the city from Burleigh Falls with news that Chief Draper had phoned long distance to Park Hotel to state that a child, who gave his name as Jack McMillan of Burleigh Falls was being cared for at one of the divisional stations in Toronto.

Overjoyed, the young parents of the child planned to motor to the Queen City to bring back the child, but subsequent inquiries made by Inspector James Reid of the City Police dashed the short-lived hopes of the parents to pieces.

Over long distance telephone Inspector Chisholm declared there was no truth to the rumor that the child had been found in Toronto, and he called Chief Draper to verify his own belief.

It is believed that the rumor emanated as the result of a misunderstanding between Mrs. Nita Doughty, proprietress of the Park Hotel, and Mr. Jacob.

Besides his parents, the child is survived by a sister Margaret, aged 3 years. The remains of the child were conveyed to Comstock's Funeral Home, pending completion of funeral arrangements.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Sensational jumps of the silver market, together with resultant talk of inflation, led to sharply higher prices yesterday for grains.

It was the first time in weeks that inflation chances have operated as a grain market major influence, and the effect was heightened by the fact that dollar quotations here for wheat reappeared following a sudden four-cent bulge at Minneapolis. Indications of enlarged demand for flour was reported as a good deal responsible for soaring of Minneapolis wheat values.

Wheat in Chicago closed buoyant at the day's topmost point, 2¼c to 2⅝c above Thursday's finish, May $1.00¼ to $1.00¾, corn ⅝c to 1⅝c up, May 89c to 89⅛c, oats 1c to 1⅝c advanced, and provisions varying from 2c decline to 7c gain.

Contributing to the upward impetus of wheat prices was knowledge that domestic mill and elevator stocks of wheat were officially estimated at materially below the total a year ago. Minneapolis reports yesterday said mills and elevators were active buyers of wheat, presumably against flour business.

Corn and oats moved up with wheat, despite ideal weather for corn planting.

Provisions were responsive to grain strength, notwithstanding that hog values ruled lower.

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

Butter was narrowly lower and egg prices slightly higher on the Montreal dairy and produce market yesterday, other lines holding unchanged. No. 1 regraded butter was quoted at 23½c to 23¾c a pound for carlots or less with No. 1 fresh at 23c to 23½c. Small lots to retailers brought 25c a pound for solids and 28c for prints. Receipts were 477 boxes.

The egg market had a firm undertone, with graded shipments in carlots or less being quoted at 19½c to 20c a dozen for A-large, 17½c to 18c for A-medium, 17c to 18c for 'B' and 16c to 16½c for 'C.' Arrivals totalled 1717 cases.

Cheese prices contributed at 11c to 11¼c a pound for current receipts of No. 1 Ontario 11½c to 11¾c for fall-make, and 12¼c to 12¾c for summers. There were no offerings.

Potato prices declined slightly. No. 1 Green Mountains in 80-pound bags bringing 45c for Quebecs, 50c for New Brunswicks, and 53c for Prince Edward Islands, down 5c.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, April 27. — Wheat prices were buoyant on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange yesterday scoring net gains of 1⅝c in sympathy with strong outside markets.

Futures closed at their best prices of the day, May at 89¼c and July at 90⅝c, with further export sales of Canada's wheat assisting the upward trend. Trading was fairly active.

Earlier, an unexpected 1½d advance at Liverpool had sent local values mounting from the opening.

Sale of 300,000 bushels of Canadian wheat for export, including a small quantity of No. 6 to the United States, supplied additional support to the market.

This week's exports from the Southern Hemisphere totalled only approximately 4,000,000 bushels, as compared to 6,500,000 bushels cleared last week.

Futures:

MONTH OF APRIL NEARING RECORD

Only 0.56 of an Inch of Rain Has Fallen in Past 27 Days.

ALL TIME LOW IN 1881.

TORONTO, April 1127. — While the month of April, 1935, has so far proved to be the driest for many years, recording only 0.56 of an inch of rain to date, it will not set a record, the Meteorological Bureau stated yesterday, but there is a possibility the month will be the second driest.

Driest April in Toronto's history was 1881, when rainfall totalled just 0.09 of an inch. The wettest was in 1929, with 6.09 inches. The average is 2.15 inches.

Showers are indicated for to-day.

Declining to assign an ypecific cause for the season's aridity, the Weatherman said: "We quite often have abnormal conditions for short periods."

Crushes Recluse Against Granary After He Had Slain Officer.

WOUNDED ANOTHER.

Battle With Posse Ensues After Bailiff is Driven Off at Gun Point.

CALGARY, April 27.—(CP)—A new chapter was written into the tactical manual of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police today following the action of Constable R. C. Fenn, who, braving the loaded rifle which killed one of his comrades and wounded another, drove his speeding automobile at David Knox, recluse farmer, and crushed him to death against a granary.

The farmer's victim was Corporal Michael Moriarity, felled as he sought to serve an eviction notice on Knox. The bullet that killed the veteran corporal inflicted a flesh wound on Constable Roy Allen.

For the famous force, it was the first time since the 1932 pursuit of Albert Johnson, "Mad Trapper" of Rat River, that they have counted one of their number "killed in action."

Inquests meantime, are pending into the two deaths. Whether a single inquest or separate inquiries will take place has not been determined. Although the shooting took place yesterday on Knox's farm near Drumheller, 75 miles northeast of here, the inquiry is expected to be held here, probably at the beginning of next week.

McGEER BITTER AS PERLEY RAPS HIS PROPOSALS

Brands Sir George's Statement "Work, Wages Plan Impossible" as Sheer Nonsense.

RESENTS MILITIA OFFER.

OTTAWA, April 27. (CP). — No official comment was forthcoming immediately to-day on a pronouncement in which Mayor G. G. McGreer last night described as "sheer nonsense" a statement by Sir George Perley the Dominion Government could not start a 'work and wages' program without incurring obligations it could not carry.

Sir George, acting prime minister in the absence of Premier R. B. Bennett, yesterday said it would be impossible to introduce the scheme in one province alone and impossible to restrict it to persons now in relief camps.

"Its introduction," Sir George said, "would result in the drawing in of many thousands of citizens who at present are not on relief. Once started, a policy of 'work and wages' under a Dominion Government program would grow into a task quite beyond the power of the people of Canada to support."

Mayor McGreer said in Vancouver last night he had not yet officially received Sir George's comments, but, basing his judgment on newspaper reports, said he did not agree with the statement.

Help to be Forthcoming

He called attention to Sir George's statement if British Columbia found itself unable to maintain order among its striking relief-camp men the Government would act on any call for assistance.

"In plain language," said Mayor McGreer, "that means if the Government of British Columbia will inform the National Government it cannot maintain order the National Government will take charge of the Province under the authority of martial law.

"In a word, Sir George Perley informs us that they can put the military in charge of British Columbia to make war against rebellious citizens but cannot co-operate with the provincial and civic administrations in financing a 'work and wages' program that would put people to work at decent wages."

Man's Opportunity

"O taste and see that the Lord is good; blessed is the man that trusteth in Him."—Ps. 34:8.

By REV. DR. A. J. BROWN.

WE are told the Psalmist David was a man after God's own heart. Few men have given to us such a clear conception of the goodness and greatness of God. God has placed His wisdom, His strength and power at our disposal. How tenderly, and yet how urgently, He invites us to come to Him! Ask and ye shall receive; seek and ye find; knock and it shall be opened to you. Of what avail would be all the beauty of His work if the eyes of all were closed. We might walk through the best flower gardens of the world, or we might stand in the presence of the most beautiful landscape, or be surrounded by the best productions of the most famous artist, but there would be no inspiration to us. Of what avail would it be to us if we were in the presence of the greatest orators or musicians or choirs of the world if our ears were closed? Their finest productions would not inspire nor enrich us. For some thousands of years the air has been filled with music and orations, but until recently man knew it not. By the invention of the radio man became aware of the music and important instruction and knowledge people were offering to us. If we would hear those splendid orations and be helped by their golden advice, we must place the radio at our disposal.

David appeals to us to place ourselves in the right attitude toward God. God's goodness is placed at our disposal. He is infinitely good.

There is a limit to the goodness of man, his patience, his generosity, his skill, his holy fervor, and good intentions have their limitations. We love and appreciate our many beautiful rivers and lakes, mountains and farms with all the modern machinery, but what are they to be compared to the goodness of God?

He Is Independently Good.

How much we are indebted to our teachers and ministers of the gospel and editors of papers! All their instructions have been helped and inspired by others. Not so with God. His goodness is all His own. No man can impart goodness or knowledge to God.

He is Absolutely Good.

His goodness cannot be enlarged nor improved. Man has been urged and exhorted to aspire after goodness and perfection, urged to excel, to grow in grace, in wisdom, and in the knowledge of God.

How often we realise our imperfections and are lead to seek divine help! God is universally good. Travellers and missionaries tell us of the sad conditions of men in some countries where the gospel has not been preached. God alone is our example of goodness.

His goodness must be sought. Before the pearl-seeker obtained the pearl of great price, he spent many weeks in diligent search, and when he found it, he sold all he had and bought it. Michael Angello obtained his extensive knowledge of art by years of laborious study. In order to obtain proficiency in any department of life there must be persistent effort. David appeals to us: "O taste and see that God is good!"

It will not come by chance or accident; it must be sought in faithful service.

When Moses returned from the holy mount, the days spent in God's immediate presence, it was said the brightness of his countenance was a manifestation to the people that he had been in sweet fellowship with God. Moses had partaken of God's goodness by faithful and obedient service. What precious knowledge the twelve disciples acquired during those three years with Christ on earth as they listened to His teachings and assisted Him in His work!

Diligent Study of God's Word.

In the dome of the state building at Washington you can see the picture of George Washington. The genial smile on his face attracts the eye of the visitor and makes him feel at home, and is welcome to visit any part of the building. No one can carefully and prayerfully study God's word without feeling the presence of the Divine encouraging and wooing one to a more intimate fellowship.

"I am the bread of life. Come and buy of me wine and milk and gospel grace."

God has become the author and finisher of our life. God has become our support and strength. Like Paul, we can say, "I can do all things through Christ which strengthens me."

How inspired the young merchant feels when his wealthy parent establishes him in business, and when he hears him say, "Son, if you are in need of more money I will cheerfully meet the request." He is blessed who lives in right relationship to God. David speaks of such a man in the first Psalm, "And he shall be like a tree planted by the rivers of water that bringeth forth his fruit in his season, his leaf shall not wither, and whatsoever he doeth shall prosper."

Let our relationship with God be such that we shall enjoy the experience as found in the words of the poet:

"A little talk with Jesus, how it smooths the rugged way!
How it cheers and helps me onward, when I faint beneath my load!
When my heart is crushed with sorrow, and my eyes with tears are dim,
There is naught can yield me comfort like a little talk with Him.

I often feel impatient and mourn His long delay,
I never can be settled while He remains away;
For we shall not long be parted, for I know He'll quickly come,
And we shall dwell together in that happy, happy home.

So I'll wait a little longer, till His appointed time,
And glory in the knowledge that such a hope is mine;
Then in my Father's dwelling, where many mansions be,
I'll sweetly talk with Jesus, and He shall talk with me."

Sabbath Message For The Shut-Ins

TOUCH ME NOT.

"Jesus saith unto her, 'Touch Me not.'"—St. John 20:17.

WHAT manner of saying is this that He saith, "Touch Me not"? A natural exclamation. After His resurrection our Lord shows Himself first of all to Mary Magdalene, for He keeps His own promise, "I will manifest Myself unto Him that loveth Me." He is the same Lord after His resurrection as before, for He is still full of compassion for those who weep and His voice is the same, for He calls her by name and she recognizes the intonation. It is enough. She falls at His feet to clasp them with the cry, "Rabboni! My Master! My Teacher!" He is still her teacher, for He says, "Touch Me not." She has still to learn the deeper lesson that He is more than a teacher, more than the Prophet of Nazareth. He has not returned to live again the old life and to die once more. He is now risen. Alive for ever more. He is the Lord Jesus, the Lord Christ, "the only begotten of the Father, full of grace and truth."

He would teach Mary the lesson of reverence. To hear some Christians utter the name of the Lord Jesus would not impress the hearer with a sense of His mysterious greatness. Why? They have not thought reverently about Him. They have no deep sense of the wonder of His character, the Man God. "His name shall be called Wonderful." One of the traditional sayings of our Lord not found in Holy Scripture is, "He that wonders shall reign." True wonder produces humility. Have you a deep sense of the wonder of His miraculous birth, life, death, resurrection and assension? Then your voice will be full of awe as you speak of Him.

"Touch Me not." St. Augustine says that our Lord was teaching her faith. She was to learn that He would be nearer to her after His ascension than in the days of His flesh. She is to learn the fulfilment of His promise, "Lo, I am with you all the days."

To-day the Lord Christ says to you and me, "Touch Me for I am ascended to My Father and your Father." A woman touched the hem of His garment and she discovered the virtue which flowed out of Him. She touched Him by faith. Perhaps sickness or bereavement has come to you. The heart of the Lord is full of compassion, and at such a time He Himself draws near and says, "Touch Me, for I am bone of your bone and flesh of your flesh, a man of sorrows and acquainted with grief, and therefore I can sympathize." This is His invitation and test of our religion. Touch Him with the finger of faith and discover the virtue which flows from Him. He is the living Christ and not the dead teacher of centuries ago. Because He is ascended He is near you. In the hours of your loneliness and pain He is by your side, and He wants to comfort you if you will let Him. Stretch out your hand and touch Him and discover the reality of His resurrection for yourself.

In the time of temptation, when the desire for your own particular sin surges over your soul, He Himself draws near to you. Listen to His voice as He says: "Touch Me, for I am a man like yourself. I have felt the stress and strain of temptation, and My heart goes out to you in such an hour. Touch Me, for My strength is made perfect in the hour of your weakness and My grace is sufficient for you." You touch Him with the finger of faith and you will receive the strength to overcome and you will testify that He hath done great things for you.

But this is not the only way to touch Him. Our Lord wishes you to touch Him through the Holy Scriptures, for these are they that testify of Him, for you must love Him with all your mind as well as your heart. Your knowledge of Him must increase with the years, and the inspired Scriptures must grow more and more precious to you, especially the four Gospels, for in them you will find four word pictures of Him. You must have a mental image of Him, the Lord Christ, for He saith, "He that hath seen Me hath seen the Father."

The Lord also wishes you to touch Him through His ministers, through human personality, through the spoken or written word of living men who have experienced something of His power to save from sin and to transform character. The writer of this page is a minister of Christ and a steward of the mysteries of God, and is being privileged to write to you week by week upon the deep things of God and of His Christ, and to reveal to you, through the medium of The Examiner, something of the wonders of the Kingdom of God, and that you may be fascinated thereby and be drawn to touch Him who saith, "Whosoever cometh unto Me I will in no wise cast out."

GOOD PERSONS HAVE LONG WONDERED why God has permitted so much wickedness on the earth—why God promised to establish a righteous government on earth, and when that promise will be fulfilled.

There is a reasonable and satisfactory answer to each of the foregoing questions. The Bible contains that answer. You are invited to hear these questions, and many more, answered by the foremost Bible scholar in the world to-day—

The Holy Scriptures — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By the Rev. Alvin E. Bell And Alfred J. Buescher

Scriptures—Deut. 6:6-9; Josh. 1:8, 9; II Kings 22:8-20; Neh. 8:1-8; Ps. 19:7-14; Luke 24:25-32; Acts 17:10-12; II Tim. 3:14-17; Heb. 1:1-4.

In Moses' farewell addresses in what we call Deuteronomy he urged the Israelites to teach God's commandments daily to their children in their homes. So the Bible is intended to be a book for the family circle.

The Bible also has its place in national life. In the days of Josiah the sacred scriptures had been lost, but were found and read to the king. It taught the king how far astray the nation had gone and how much they needed a reformation.

To two disciples on the road to Emmaus, Jesus appeared on the day of the resurrection and showed them many Old Testament prophecies fulfilled in his sufferings and death. They felt their hearts burn as he opened the Bible to them.

Paul wrote to Timothy reminding him of how from a babe he had known the holy scriptures. "Every scripture inspired of God is profitable for teaching, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness," he said.

NOT THE BEST WAY.

It is not to be imagined that the rest of the country will look with much favor upon the resolution recently passed by the Alberta Legislature asking the Dominion Government to co-operate in a plan of refunding provincial debts at a lower interest rate with the Federal Government guaranteeing a substantial portion.

Alberta is seeking the easy way out, of course; instead of attempting to improve her financial position by following the difficult path of rigid retrenchment to a balanced budget and bettering her standing in that way, the province is endeavoring to bring the credit of the Federal Government behind its financing.

As the Stratford Beacon-Herald says, getting Alberta's securities "on a better basis by having the wording 'Dominion Government' written over them is seeking to make a better showing, while leaving the basic cause of the trouble untouched."

There are too many attempts these days to take a short cut around liabilities, rather than to face them and yet the only satisfactory road in the final analysis is that which leads to an honest discharge of honest debts, where that course is possible, by strict economy and the elimination of non-essentials.

To ask the Federal Government to give provincial securities the same status as Dominion bonds when it is obvious that the financial condition of the province does not justify that rating may be a way out—but not, The Examiner submits, the most desirable one.

CHANGED VIEWPOINTS.

The situation in Vancouver and in Crowland Township in Ontario where in both cases strikers have caused trouble, has undoubtedly brought home to Mayor McGeer in the one instance and to Premier Hepburn and his associates on the other the conviction that the old adage, "Circumstances alter cases," is perfectly true.

Not very long ago Mayor McGeer was telling the world that if a sheriff entered Vancouver because that city repudiated its debts he would personally lead a riot and throw the sheriff into the bay.

Now, however, called upon to deal with a riot started by striking relief camp workers, Vancouver's doughty mayor has found it necessary to "crack down" upon the disturbers. Accordingly he had the riot act read, and has put a ban on all parades, demonstrations and public meetings, undoubtedly the right course, but a strange one for a man who has made so many radical speeches as has Mayor McGeer.

Something very similar has happened in Ontario as the result of recent developments. Mr. Roebuck's invitation to last year's hunger marchers to come back when they were strong enough to enforce their demands, and his policy of "hands-off" in regard to the timber workers' strike, had both been shoved into the limbs of forgotten things. The 1935 hunger marchers are received with a wire barricade across Queen's Park and the provincial police are massed for action against the Crowland relief strikers.

In their present stand both Mayor McGeer and Premier Hepburn are, of course, absolutely right; order must prevail and mob rule cannot be tolerated; and it is not surprising that the responsibilities of office have caused a change in viewpoint and a realization of the fact that it is possible to be too lenient with certain elements whose chief ambition is to stir up trouble.

WHERE THE PUNISHMENT DOES NOT FIT.

The Examiner must confess that the precedent established in the local police court this week by Magistrate Gee of Lindsay in suspending sentence in several convictions for drunken driving does not impress us as the most desirable method of dealing with such cases.

That the drunken driver is a menace to the general safety will be admitted by everybody; the American newspaper which said recently that an intoxicated man at the wheel of a car is about as dangerous as he would be waving about a loaded revolver on a crowded street was pretty close to hitting the centre of the target.

Hitherto in the local court jail sentences have followed convictions for this offence, and the new course of suspending sentence will appeal to most people as a poor substitute for the former policy, and as a decidedly ineffective way of deterring other drivers who might be inclined to mix gasoline and alcohol with dangerous results.

Certainly the accident record is grave enough to warrant our courts exerting every effort to protect the public, and as few driving offences are so serious as operating a car while under the influence of liquor allowing those convicted under this section to go on suspended sentence will be viewed by the majority of people as mistaken leniency.

There is reason to believe that this charge is only laid in the most flagrant cases, which makes it all the more essential that when convictions have been registered the punishment should be made to fit the crime.

Instead of waiving the jail sentence usually given, The Examiner believes that it is time such sentences were increased and, in addition, the driving licenses of all persons convicted of this charge were suspended for a lengthy period on the first conviction and cancelled permanently if the offence should be repeated.

There are enough irresponsible sober drivers on the highways without making the conditions more dangerous by permitting drunken persons to handle automobiles.

THE FIRST QUARTER.

That Canada's progress toward recovery has been hesitant since the beginning of the year is the opinion of the Financial Post, as expressed in the special first quarter survey of business conditions in the Dominion as published in the current issue.

On the credit side is the fact that business throughout the country was 10 per cent. higher than in the same period of last year; on the other side of the ledger is a recession in March that left business at the same level as during the last half of 1934.

While gains considerably exceeded losses during the first four months of the present year, they were made, the report shows, in a few major groups, such as automobiles, mining and construction.

Canada surged into 1935 on an exceptionally large year-end volume of business, the Post says, but this was not sustained throughout the first quarter. While a number of substantial increases was recorded in January and February, recession took place in March and this lowering of the tempo of the previous months tended to flatten out the curve of business activity for the period.

In other words, while the curve is still above that for the same quarter a year ago, it lies flat instead of pointing sharply upward, as was the case twelve months ago.

One of the brightest features of the survey is that it records the fact that the adjusted employment index for March 1 stood at 101.3, as compared with the record low in recent years of 78.7 for June 1, 1933. The gain in employment was above the average, and was, in fact, higher than that recorded for this month in any year since 1922.

Figures at March 1, in fact, showed an increase of 16,340 employees over the February total, with the greatest gain being in textiles and iron and steel.

THE FLOWERS THAT BLOOM IN THE SPRING.

Gardens will soon be a blaze of color, much of their finery brought in from other lands. Florist stock imports, including tulip and gladioli bulbs, ferns, dahlias, peonies, azaleas and rhododendrons, etc., are increasing, we find from the National Revenue Review. During the eleven months period, April 1, 1934, to February 28, 1935, these imports were valued at $583,106, compared with $473,471 for the twelve months of 1933-34, a difference of $59,635. Tulip bulb imports alone were valued at $140,528, of which amount $143,191 worth of bulbs came from the Netherlands. Florist stock is imported also from the United Kingdom, the United States, Belgium, France, Japan and Germany. Tree, plant and shrub exports for the eleven months period were valued at $18,214.

At this season when the prospective gardener is thumbing the attractive flower catalogues (were there ever such lovely flowers as those depicted?), it may be interesting to note where some favorite flowers originally came from. The scarlet June poppy, for instance, properly known as the Oriental poppy, is not a native of this country, but originated in Armenia and the Caucasus. The poppy associated with Flanders Fields is planted in rows with beets and carrots in peasant gardens, and in France and England the poppies in the corn fields are a familiar sight. The stately hollyhock is a native of India from whence it spread over Europe and finally crossed to America. Few of our flowers have such a diversified history as the hollyhock. The Indian dooryards of the East are seldom without the thick stalks of this tall biennial. The natives of India use it for more purposes than for mere decoration. Its tough fibres are spun into yarn, and the great ten-foot spires of delicate buds and the rich green leaves are utilized for cattle fodder. The dahlia, named after Dahl, a Swedish botanist, came to us from Mexico. Its extraordinary variability attracted the attention of florists, who brought to bear on it all the resources of selection and crossing, with so much success that by the middle of the 19th century no fewer than 2,000 varieties had been described. The dahlia was carried to Madrid by Spanish botanists in 1789, but not until 30 years later did they appear in English gardens. In Mexico the dahlia roots are used for food.

The beautiful iris, so familiar in most Canadian gardens, was probably named after Iris, the virgin goddess of the rainbow. These flowers are all natives of temperate climates and some of them are among the few choice garden flowers native to North America. The roots of the bearded German Iris when ground make the fragrant orris-root powder once so popular for scenting bureau drawers.

The familiar geranium on the kitchen windowsill is one of 500 varieties, mostly originating far down at the Cape of Good Hope. The gladiolus, also, comes from South Africa. The ancestors of this stately plant flourish to-day as little wildings fairly under the Victoria Falls far up the Zambezi River. The friendly aster derives its name from the Greek word for star. The New England aster and the Michaelmas daisy are both natives of North America, and are perhaps the most common varieties of asters. The most valued of all, however, is the China aster of which many varieties are in cultivation. Petunias, those little trumpets that seem to flourish in rich or poor soil, are related to the lowly tobacco which is a native of the Americas. The gay little clove pinks, in their native state, grow wild on rocks and old walls of southern Europe. Candytuft, Iberis, comes from the Mediterranean Sea, and its name is supposed to be derived from the island of Candia and from Iberia, meaning Spain. Our bachelor's button is the corn blue-bottle of Europe, a vigorous weed in continental corn fields. And finally, the rose, a native of the northern hemisphere, is found in its wild state in all temperate climes, as far south as Abyssinia, the India Peninsula and Mexico, and as far north as the Arctic zone. There are about forty varieties of the rose, including the blush, brier, cabbage, damask, moss, musk and tea.

NEWS OF OUR OWN VILLAGE

A bunch of our village teachers has been spending the week in Toronto, west of here, attending the O.E.A. meetings and getting new ideas on teaching the young idea how to shoot or words to that effect.

The Grits of these parts come together in the Opry House next Thurs. nite to name a candidate for the coming political fracas and a interesting evening should be the result of the same, what with 900 delegates and such.

Fred Marshall, our vigilant fish and game inspector, is busier than a Odette filling station on the day before a holiday these days, keeping miscreants from taking our muskies out of season. The skullduggery has got to cease, say we, if we want any fish round these parts.

Just to remind villagers that it won't be so long before they'll be putting back the storm windows they been taking down lately, the village hockey club held its annual meeting the other nite and is all set for another season. Nothing like a early start, lads, note we approvingly.

No May Day riots is expected here next week, we hasten to assert for the benefit of any of our readers who may be timid about the same. The only red flags round these parts is owned by the auctioneers, we add reassuringly.

Mart. Chenhall's players put on a Chinese piece called "San Toy" at the Grand Opry House Fri. nite, and all and sundry done well, the tunes and everything being served up in de luxe fashion. This place is just chuck full of talent, admit we.

D. Massey of Toronto, west of here, was in the village Sat. p.m. attending a meeting of the Tories of this neighborhood. Dent is the Ontario boss for Dick Bennett's Govt. and knows how to hand out a pep talk, note we.

Your Health

By DR LOGAN CLENDENING

When people talk about the advance of modern medicine, they are usually thinking in terms of the treatment or cure of disease. But the doctor knows that the greatest advances have been in the field of diagnosis, in the development of methods for ascertaining exactly what is wrong with the patient. This situation has both a hopeful and a somewhat discouraging side.

It is paralleled in ordinary experience with the situation today as regards economics and social security. All our politicians are good diagnosticians but few have any remedy, except the nostrum vendors. Everyone knows that the principal cause of the depression is decreased consumption. Production is ahead, so is distribution—consumption lags.

All right, this is the diagnosis, but what is the treatment? We have tried a good many treatments, and you may judge of ther effectiveness. It is so in medicine.

Our methods of diagnosis are so numerous and so varied that the physician and patient often feel that great progress is being made simply because of the pyrotechnics of the examination.

The high cost of medical care is partly due to the fact that many patients want a lot of examinations made, whether they are useful or not. I hear of patients who demand an X-ray of the abdomen in the case of, we will say, a fibroid tumor, when such an examination is not calculated to give any information whatever.

To overcome this unfortunate situation it is advisable that the patient should know something about the possibilities of diagnostic methods so that indiscriminate demands for all kinds of examinations, whether they are calculated to do any good or not, will not be made. We will, therefore, review this week the principal methods of diagnosis which are at hand for the modern physician.

They may be classed into six groups: (1) The patient's history; (2) the physical examination—what the doctor can find out with his unaided eyes, ears and fingers; (3) the laboratory examination—chemical, microscopical and bacteriological; (4) the X-ray examination; (5) physiological methods to test the capacity of an organ or of the whole body, and (6) special methods, consist largely of instrumental examination of different cavities of the body.

The most important of these is still the patient's history. The patient's recital of his own symptoms gives to the astute diagnostician the best hint as to what the general situation is and where the trouble lies. This is so for two reasons—one is that the history affords a sort of sheet anchor to keep the diagnostician from going astray. If the patient's story states that he fell down and hurt his ankle, it is not logical that the physician is going to treat him for an ulcer of the stomach. Second, the patient himself is a very delicate physiological machine, and if he records his symptoms accurately—and the diagnostician must become a judge of whether he is doing so or not—he will record phenomena that are characteristic of different diseases, and which are very valuable in coming to a conclusion.

What's in the Name of Canadian Cities and Towns?

By FRANK H. WILLIAMS

SHAWINIGAN FALLS, QUEBEC

The town of Shawinigan Falls was founded in 1899 and owes its birth to the construction of a power dam to harness the 150-foot falls in the Saint Maurice river. From this power beginning has sprung up a thriving town of 15,000, depending mainly for its living on a huge paper company and affiliated industries.

The word "Shawinian," according to M. H. Magnan, has occasioned a long controversy. The most likely version is that given by Abbe N Caron, in his history of the region. In the latter's opinion the word is derived from the Algonquin word "achaweneganne" meaning crest. The Indians so designated the falls formed at that place by the Saint Maurice river, because of the mountain crest they were obliged to cross in making the portage to avoid the falls.

A Thought

THE NEW HOPE

A sullen, grey sky hung low over a prairie farm cottage. A woman sat by the western window that looked out over a grey sweep of land. The quenchless fires of loneliness had pressed its scorching breath on the woman's brooding face. Low on a cot lay her invalid daughter.

"I hate this world, Laura. It has been so cruel to you. Life has been a cheating grief."

"Mother," replied the crippled girl. "This world has not been cruel to me. God gave me you. He gave us blue skies to teach us faith and hope. He gave up grey skies to cool our eyes from the passionate glare of the sun.

Our new hope will be realized when we throw away old grudges and hates. The new hope will come when we see men kneel and pray. 'Lord, love us back to life.' We found the new hope when we rolled the stone away. He is risen. We are saved.

Thank God for the new hope.

ALL OF US

DO WOMEN STAND PAIN BETTER THAN MEN?

I think they do.

Can I prove it? I think so. I can prove it to myself, anyway.

Little things indicate to me that women stand pain better than the men....A man picks up a hot plate—and drops it. His pain is more important to him than the plate. A woman picks up a plate that is just as hot—and hangs onto it. She does not feel the pain as much, a man retorts, but my own opinion is that a woman doesn't see why she should drop a good plate just because it is hot.

A man cuts his finger and rushes into the house to disinfect it and to imagine all sorts of terrible things from blood poisoning to lockjaw. A woman, more often than not, bandages her finger, too, but not until she has the children's dinner ready.

If a man doesn't feel well, nine out of ten times the entire family knows it. He tells them and demands attention. And if he doesn't get it, he feels abused. (I write this, even while I remember how bravely some men I knew endured suffering during the war.)

But if a woman wakes in the morning so sick that she doesn't see how she'll ever get out of bed, she gets up anyway. She drags herself about the house, insisting that she has better things to do than stay in bed. And sometimes it's days before the rest of the family realizes that mother was terribly sick one day last week. (I write this even though doctors' nurses and hospital nurses have told me women are more trouble than men..When a woman finally goes to a doctor or into a hospital she wants the attention she is paying for.)

When I say men fuss about pain, I do not mean all men; and when I say that most women endure pain without complaint, I do not mean all women. There are men who grit their teeth in silence; there are women who selfishly weep and whine. But men in general endure pain more noisily because they think about themselves more than women do. Men dread diseases that will kill THEM; women worry about diseases that are dangerous to CHILDREN....So they stand their own pain better than men do.

P.S. Well, mothers do!

ON THIS DATE

A DAY IN CANADIAN HISTORY

By Fred Williams

JOHN A'S MAIDEN SPEECH

On this date (April 27) in 1846 a maiden speech was made by a young man in the Legislative Assembly of the Province of Canada in session at Montreal which, though of no great importance at the time, has become historic, for the speaker was John Alexander Macdonald. He had been leceted for Kingston on October 14, 1844, but, he did not hasten to get into the public eye by splurging his ideas in public. Indeed, it is said by his biographer that some of the old timers at Kingston were grumbling because they had elected "a silent cuss."

But John A. was canny. He knew that if he was to make an impression which would live he must not talk about the parish pump but about something which would show that he had studied the subject and he devoted many of his hours to the legislative library in order to master his subject. The result was that he made an instant hit, and he was at once complimented by his seniors upon having "spoken with so much exudition."

That maiden speech made him "a coming man" and it was not surprising that within a year he was a member of the ministry and well on his way to becoming premier of the Province of Canada and, later, twice prime minister of that Dominion of Canada which he did so much to create and which he administered until his death in 1891.

Peterborough's Possibilities

By HOMER MOORE

It has been said that the reason for the slow development of our natural resources was because of the complex nature of the ore. To my mind, this is not a valid excuse. God gave men dominion over everything, complex ores included, which means that somewhere he has or is preparing the proper brains to handle anything on this earth. "When nature adds difficulties in human affairs—proper brains to get around or conquer the difficulties, are also given." So if these ores are complex in their nature, it is only a challenge to us to find the proper "Vulcan" to handle them—to utilize them as they were meant to be used. Once the proper brains are given "the development" of these different resources, the complex nature will be as easily handled as would higher mathematics by a real mathematician!

That some of these northern rock formations are very unusual and I believe very important, is evidenced by the fact that a group of internationally famous scientific men, were guided to that area, a few years ago, to examine some of those formations. I know where they went and material they examined and have read their opinion on it. It may be stated that the object of their trip was not to examine the iron ore or copper ore or gold ore of this fascinating territory—they could examine ore of that class anywhere. It must have been something else—some combination of deposits which to their intelligence indicated that nature had found there, the right conditions to start the creation of some of the rare deposits necessary to the onward march of our civilization. That nature should generate these rarities in districts not far from Peterborough should be indicative of what looms ahead in the matter of "Peterborough's Possibilities."

Those scientific men only examined the formations easily accessible! In my opinion, startling discoveries will some day be made in areas away from roads, and by some of our own citizens! And if some of our own people have more wealth than they need—surely they will spend it in making some additions to our city? The members of the International Geological Congress, who made that special trip said: "This portion of central Ontario probably presents a greater variety of rock types than has yet been described from any similar area of ancient crystalline rocks in North America."

Now read, pause a second or two and reflect on that important statement. It says—"in North America." So now we are sure the districts these articles, in this column, cover, are unusual because North America is quite a large area of the earth! Just as there are millions of men and women, in North America — some have very unusual ability. Often, they are not understood and given the "cold shoulder," until some intellectual recognizes the unusual type and helps them forward for the benefit, eventually, of everybody—even as an unusual rock type is passed by, until some intellectual recognizes its importance and puts it to the front!

When it is realized, the members of the International Geological Congress saw fit to pay special attention to the area north of Bannockburn, we are in good company when we add our comments to the information on those districts. While they undoubtedly had a large store of knowledge from which to draw conclusions—we have some of our own which may enable us to find the right "key" to unlock that great rocky treasure-chest, bringing to our view the hidden contents, the great geological professors said existed in that region!

It will be necessary to delay the description of that area until we have completed our mental survey of some of the others but it will be worth reading when it does appear.

It might be a good idea for any prospective trip, by those desiring to see for themselves, if those planning such would remember to go when the "black flies" do not bite so hard. If going when they do, take care to protect hands, face and eyes with suitable covering which at the same time does not interfere with vision.

Once I was invited by a contractor to spend a few days at his camp where he jocularily said: "There are a million black flies to the square inch." However, he kindly arranged the visit when these pests were some place else. He took me in his motorboat down a lake, showed me beaver on the one shore and summer cottages owned by Americans on the other shore—and in the middle of that lake he put his boat alongside a tiny point of rock popping just out of the water. That rocky point was silver ore. There it was, as if trying to tell it was there, but the Americans had not noticed it for what it was. The contractor said he was only one on that lake who knew and he spent his spare time trying to figure out a way he could get at it at depth but the lake was too deep. This story is told here to show that economic resources are simply waiting to be found.

In the Township of Monteagle, Hastings County—and in the Township of Anstruther, in Peterborough County, a very important resource is found. It is called "molybdenite." Search should be made for it in between those district and in Haliburton County. I believe it has been found in the latter county but should be looked for and found, because "molybdenite" is very necessary in war time. While we do not want war, still, if we are ever, as a country, into another war, are our guns going to be useless because not properly made? Molybdenite is useful to harden steel. This means much when it is realized guns and rifles treated with the molybdenite process, last twenty times as long as they would if not so hardened. Aside from war purposes, it is used in making chemicals and in dies for leather and rubber. It is used in some parts of electric lights and also for fireproofing.

"Molybdenite" occurs in plates or films in quartz veins along with iron and copper pyrites. Crystalline limestone areas are favorable localities for such deposits. In what other area in North America is there so much crystalline limestone as in the districts immediately north and north-east of Peterborough County?

Nature has rendered a service to the seeker after her treasurers by making it easier to see them, on the shore-lines of the many lakes in the districts where our citizens could easily go and find some and arrange to bring them to Peterborough city for benefit of humanity.

In these districts there are 525 lakes in an area of 4200 square miles, or an average of one lake for every eight miles of surface. The shore lines of these lakes offer a glimpse at the character of the rock and the canoe companies of Peterborough County can produce suitable craft to traverse any or all of those lakes and rivers.

Did you ever hear of any other city but our own Peterborough, having such a wonderful lakeland and such an area of undeveloped mineral starting so close at hand? I do not believe there is such a similar area so close to any city in the whole world.

So "Peterborough's Possibilities" will either be helped or hindered, depending on how soon her own people proceed to go out personally after some of those treasurers. There is, I believe, something for everyone of us who will go after it. I speak from over twenty years study and observation of those districts—and believe if anything is to be done by everybody — it must be done soon!

Spot Silver Drops Three Cents Ounce

MONTREAL, April 27. (CP). — Spot silver plunged three cents an ounce on the Canadian commodity exchange at the opening to-day as traders reached the conclusion the United States treasury was buying little of the metal. The market was irregular, the future months rising as much as 65 points.

April, the spot month, sold off to 77.50. Other sales were: July, 77.95 to 78.75; Sept., 79.60, and Nov., 80.00. The distant futures months were not sold, but opening bids were up.

PROVINCE BUYS RADIUM.

TORONTO, April 27.— (CP). — Purchase of three and one-half grams of radium by the Province of Ontario at a cost of $170,000, was announced to-day by Dr. J. M. Bell Deputy Minister of Health, who said it was the lowest price at which radium had ever been obtained in Canada.

The element is for use in Ontario cancer clinics.

WHITE METAL ISSUES DROP TORONTO LIST

HOLLINGER OFF 30.

TORONTO, April 27.—(CP). — Washington's failure to step up the domestic price for newly mined silver to at least equal the former price gave the market for the silver shares a nervous morning to-day. Holders were rather liberal with their offerings, breaking prices down all along the line.

Eldorado flopped 39 cents to 2.31, recovered to 2.56 but dropped down again at the close at 2.47fo ran a net loss of 25 cents. Castle touched 1.05 beefore stiffening and it closed at 1.15, off 5 cents net. Bear dropped about 7 cents, Nipissing 10 and Premier a few cents.

Hollinger at 16.80, off 30 cents had about the only adjustment in the senior gold group. Reno was a strong spot, moving up 10 cents.

INDUSTRIALS AT LOW LEVEL

Recessions Boarded in Distillers Seagrams, Walkers Common and Alcohol.

SMELTERS DOWN 1½.

TORONTO, April 27 (C.P.).—The flop in the silver price weakened the metal shares, smelters and nickel and the rest of the Toronto industrial board trailed along to a lower level in to-day's short session. Recessions of ¼ to ½ were boarded for Distillers Seagrams, Walkers Common and Industrial Alcohol A. Construction shares were unchanged except for a loss of ⅝ for Dominion Tar General Steel Wares and Page Hersey gained ¼ each and Steel of Canada ¼.

Other losses were 2% for Dominion Coal Pfd., Orange Crush A 1, Tip Top Pfd. ½ and Abitibi 5 cents. Ontario Silk Pfc. added a point.

nothing definite has been done. Naturally, the question of submarines plays a role in our considerations for the future."

The ministry spokesman said this point "as well as allied subjects at the moment are under discussion between our selves and other powers."

He declined to divulge with what power Germany was conducting parleys on naval questions, but from diplomatic circles it was learned Great Britain is in constant touch with Germany on this subject.

Ground for Protest

PARIS, April 27 (CP) — Reports from London that Germany had decided to build submarines opened up the possibility to-day of a new joint protest on the part of France, England and Italy.

Germany is rushing to completion a reconstructed submarine training base at Kiel, seat of her underseas fleet of U-boats during the Great War, The Echoe De Paris stated to-day.

Honoring Memory Of Lord Halifax

LONDON, April 27 (C.P.) — Memory of the late Lord Halifax, leader of the Anglo-Catholic movement in the Church of England will be perpetuated by a new high altar and reredos in York Minster.

A design on broader and more striking lines than that originally suggested has been submitted to the Dean and Chapter by Walter Tapper, consulting architect to the Minster. The work will be proceeded with as soon as the committee and the treasurers feel that it can be executed without danger of debt.

In a letter asking "churches and congregations and individual donors throughout the Empire and in the United States." to subscribe to the memorial, the Archbishop of Canterbury, the Archbishop of York, Sir Samuel Hoare, Sir Ian Malcolm and Dr. Scott Lidgett remind church people that the scheme offers an opportunity of paying their tribute of regard and of gratitude "to a true saint, a great Englishman and a fearless and devoted son of the church."

Canada's Atlantic port in Nova Scotia was named after an ancestor of Lord Halifax.

King George's Jubilee Cancer Fund Is Canada's Part In National Thanksgiving

Contributions to the King's silver jubilee cancer fund for Canada should be made next week. The fund is sanctioned by His Majesty and is sponsored in Canada by Lady Bessborough, wife of the Governor-General. The money will be expended in Canada for the training of doctors in combatting cancer, in augmented treatment facilities, education of the people, and generally in an effort to conquer this disease.

The fund was conceived as a national thanksgiving offering for Canada's participation in the silver jubilee of His Majesty's accession to the throne.

Contributions of one dollar and over will be acknowledged by Lady Bessborough. They will be received here by The Examiner, the local banks, heads of militia units and the Canadian Legion, and it is intended that offerings should be made in time to permit Lady Bessborough to announce by cable to the King the total amount of the Canadian fund.

"The executive has endeavored to carry out the wishes of the annual meeting," The Examiner was informed. "They have attended to all the details of organization, and letters have been sent out to the delegates reminding them that the nomination of their candidate is entirely in their own hands, that they should bring to the meeting and open mind, that they should not allow their judgment to be influenced in any way except by their desire to choose a candidate who will be a worthy representative of the party under the leadership of the Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King. The executive steps out of the picture next Thursday night, and with the president in the chair the business of nomination will be in the hands of the delegates.

The executive has tried to carry out the wishes of the annual meeting, and is hopeful that their efforts will result in a successful appeal to the electorate at the general elections.

New Monetary System Planned By Mexico

MEXICO, D.F., April 27 (A.P.).—With all exports of silver coins forbidden, the government to-day began the task of putting into effect a transformed monetary system to prevent Mexican silver currency from being sold abroad for commercial uses and to maintain a favorable international exchange rate.

The protective action was made necessary by the sharp rise in the world silver prices.

The price rise carried the value of the Mexican peso to the point where it would have been profitable to melt silver coins and market them for commercial purposes. President Cardenas ordered the surrender of all silver coins to the Bank of Mexico in exchange for paper certificates which will be issued against the reserve thus formed.

Released From Spy Charges

Accompanied by her lawyer, Marjorie Tilley Switz is laughing gaily as she is smuggled through a side door of the prison of La Petite, Roffuette, following the ruling that freed her in the great Paris spy trial. Both she and her husband, Robert Gordon Switz, of New Jersey, admitted their guilt when they were arrested late in 1933. Because they named names, they were freed. Feeling is running so high against them among the relatives of others who were imprisoned through their testimony, that the French government promised that they would leave France at an early date. Mrs. Switz is a Vassar graduate.

EGG PRICES KEEP AT REGULAR LEVEL

Sell For 13 to 15 Cents Despite Large Surplus—Butter Firm.

A big surplus of eggs was available at the Farmers' Market here this morning but the demand was sufficient to keep prices at the level which has prevailed for several weeks past—13 to 15 cents a dozen. The butter price was firm at 35 cents. Almost the entire indoor market was devoted to the egg and butter retailing.

A few chickens and turkeys brought from 16 to 20 cents a pound at the Market. The small quantity of maple syrup offered indicated the end of the syrup season. First run syrup sold at $1.50 a gallon but last run went at prices as low as $1.10. Plenty of white honey was to be had at 12 cents a pound the amber bringing 7 to 8 cents.

Potatoes sold throughout the Market at 50 cents a bag. Apples were plentiful, spy apples selling at 60 cents a peck, starks at 35 to 40, russets at 40 to 50 and Baldwins at 50 cents.

Greenhouse onions, radishes and leaf lettuce was displayed in small quantities in small bunches at 5 cents.

United States Banks Buy London Silver

LONDON, April 27 (A.P.)—United States banks were understood to-day to have been large buyers of silver in a boom here which assumed such proportions that conservative market quarters describe it as "wild speculation," since President Roosevelt's announcement of a price increase.

The Financial Times sees no immediate prospects of a halt in the upward trend, commenting those who think a reaction is imminent "little realize the strength of the silverites in the United States or the obstinacy of Roosevelt when he has lashed his helm on a set course."

TOO MANY PHEASANTS

ST. CATHARINES, April 27 (CP) Fruit growers are calling for an open season on pheasants next fall. The birds were never so plentiful, they say, and they fear the game may become as great a nuisance as last year when farmers trampled every nest they found to keep them in check.

25 YEARS COURT CLERK

Associates of the late George E. Sherry, who for a quarter of a century had been clerk in the county court and local registrar of the Supreme Court of Ontario, paid their last respects to his kindly and gentle spirit this afternoon in the funeral service at St. John's Church.

submarines for service in the Balkans. The Socialist Herald said, however, a second batch of submarines of a larger type for ocean service will be built next.

Coming closely upon the recent publication of information purporting to show Germany's air force is stronger than Britain's home force, the allegations are expected to provide new material for the arms debate in Parliament next Thursday.

Hundreds Seek Government Geological Positions

SURVEY PARTIES WILL GO NORTH DURING SUMMER

Many of Applicants Said to be University Graduates in Mining Lines.

EASILY FILL RANKS.

OTTAWA, April 27. — Any doubt that the Dominion Government will be able to organize and place in the field this summer a highly efficient corps of geologists to prosecute Canada's projected $1,000,000 special geological survey program, a part of the proposed public works undertakings, vanished yesterday as a flood of applications for positions continued to descend upon the Mines Department.

Interviewed in regard to progress of the plans, Hon. W. A. Gordon, Minister of Mines, stated many of the applicants are graduates and under-graduates in geology of the Canadian universities, and no better type could be desired to give a lead to prospecting for minerals. He emphasized that the work will be geological investigation and not actual prospecting.

Speed Mapping.

The program is planned to hurry on to completion the geological mapping of prospective mineral-bearing regions and as well to give employment to university students for whom opportunities are not being provided in other phases of the public works undertakings.

Unfortunately the impression seemed to have gained ground, stated Mr. Gordon, that in making provision for expansion of the geological survey work, the Government had in mind creating immediate employment for hundreds of men with no technical training. This is not so. Actually the non-technical help, such as cooks, will form a comparatively small part of the personnel which will take the field when Parliament gives its assent to the supplementary Public Works Construction Act, 1935.

serve an eviction warrant. The sheriff-bailiff notified police and Corporal Moriarity, accompanied by Constable Allen, went to the farm with the summons charging Knox with unlawful use of firearms.

As he walked up the farm driveway Corporal Moriarity fell mortally wounded. Constable Allen tried to reach the dead officer's body but was driven back by shots from Knox's rifle.

All the glass in the police car was fractured by shots when Constable Allen went for aid. Police were informed and a posse of constables and farmers located the farmer on a neighboring farm.

He opened fire as police approached. Several shots were exchanged without effect. Seeking to get in close, Constable Fenn drove the police car around a straw pile and towards the granary where Knox was trapped.

As Knox raised his rifle to fire at the already bullet-riddled car, Constable Fenn drove the automobile at the farmer and crushed him to death against the granary.

Magistrate's Court

AT CAMPBELLFORD.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 27 (Examiner Staff Correspondence). — Magistrate O. A. Langley presided at Campbellford Police Court on Friday afternoon and disposed of the following cases: Charge laid by Provincial Constable Gordon Campbell against a Campbellford citizen, selling pickerel out of season which the accused admitted, added $10.00 to the treasury. A Seymour Township man, charged with driving a motor vehicle without an operator's or chauffeur's license, was not present when the case was called, and will come up for hearing on Friday, May 3rd.

The next case called was a complicated one and appeared to be a question of who had the authority to grant Charles Blakely of Meyersburg the right to trap on the old Levisconte farm. The charge laid by Richard Cook, manager of the property, read "That on the 1st and 2nd of April, at the Township of Brighton, that he did enter upon and hunt upon the unenclosed land of Alexander Hall, in the Township of Brighton, after having had notice not to hunt and shoot thereon."

Giving evidence, Mr. Blakely stated that he had been given permission from William J. Hall to trap on this land. W. J. Hall claimed an interest as part owner of the land.

John Potts, in his evidence, stated that he had authority from Alexander Hall to hunt and trap on the property.

This case took up the greater part of the afternoon. Solicitor Robert Harris of Port Perry represented Richard Cook, while Alexander MacColl appeared for Mr. Blakely.

Magistrate Langley reserved judgment until Friday, May 10 stating that he would be in Campbellford on that date.

BEVERAGE FIRM IS AWARDED FULL AMOUNT

"TRUMPED UP STORY."

A sharp word of warning against perjury was uttered by Mr. Justice Hugh Kelly as he granted the full claim of the plaintiffs in the suit of Consolidated Beverages of Toronto against Roy Logan of this city in Surpeme Court here yesterday afternoon. The beverage firm was awarded judgment for $4,009.49 and costs while Logan's counterclaim for $7,000 was thrown out.

"There are too many cases of people telling stories they can't back up," Justice Kelly declared. "We've got to stop this thing of tampering with truthful evidence."

Revealing his decision in the case before him, the elderly jurist said, referring to Logan's venture as distributor in this district for the beverage company, "He made a mess of the business in some way. He tried to build up a business for himself, not for the plaintiff. He failed, owing the plaintiff a large sum. I think they were too kind to him.

"The character of the defense evidence of the defendant and his wife is not such as to appeal to any reasonable court as the truth. I cannot possibly believe this story which has apparently been trumped up that he was building up a business for the plaintiffs."

Counterclaim

The judge ruled out the principal defense contention that Logan was an employed agent of the firm rather than a purchasing distributor. He swept aside the counterclaim, asserting that he found no grounds whatsoever for it. The company had gained nothing in the way of "good will" in the business here through Logan, he ruled. The company owed Logan no back wages as he had been independant of the company's employ, and owed him nothing for advertising and promotion costs as they were his own affair, he said. He found that the company had terminated its connection with the defendant in a proper manner and thus owed him nothing for the alleged loss of expected future income.

Continuing his evidence earlier in the day under examination by his counsel, F. J. Arthur Fair, Logan said he was asking $2,000 by way of counterclaim for business good will allegedly usurped by Consolidated Beverages when they terminated their connection with him. He said he considered "good will" to mean an established business.

"Whose good will was it?" Justice Kelly asked.

"Mine."

"I thought you said you were working for the plaintiff. Were you selling for them or buying from them."

"Buying from them, I guess."

When G. H. Lovatt, acting for the defense commenced cross-examination Logan told a representative of the company coming to the city to take over the soft drink routes here. He said he revealed the list of his dealers to the company before any mention of a writ was made.

$25 A Week

"You say Mr. Forsythe told you to take out $25 a week for living expenses. Are you certain of that now?"

"Yes."

Mr. Lovatt referred to Logan's examination for discovery and pointed out Logan's answer that no amount for living expenses had been stated. He declared that in the statement of defense the amount was set at $40.

Logan admitted that his sales fell off in 1934, claiming, however, that the opening of beer and wine sales in hotels was responsible. He was asked about interests in regard to the sale of Electrolux. "Now you are attempting to charge the company $40 a week for the weeks you were selling Electrolux." Mr. Lovatt suggested. The witness did not answer.

Took Salary

At another point, Mr. Lovatt declared, "You had goods to the value of $4,000. The selling price would have totalled far above that. Where did the money go?"

"For salary."

"You said you were purchasing from the plaintiffs."

"I took out a salary."

Re-examined by Mr. Fair, Logan said he went into the business of selling Electrolux equipment to tide him over the winter of 1933-1934.

Mr. Lovatt called back Kennon Mott, production and sales manager of Consolidated Beverages, in his reply after Mr. Fair had concluded his defense. Asked for an opinion as to why Logan had failed to conduct the business profitably, Mott said the defendant did not work hard enough or conscientiously and that he did not think he had sufficient intelligence to conduct the business on a paying basis.

General Disregard of Traffic Laws Growing—Roller Skating on Streets

The apparent indifference of many parents to the danger of permitting children to roller skate on the streets of the city, and the growing habit of cyclists and motorists to disregard traffic by-laws, is the subject of comment and a warning from Chief Constable Samuel Newhall.

Believing that the home and not the police court is the proper place for the correction of children, the Chief is asking the co-operation of all parents in curbing the craze for roller skating on the streets which is now holding full sway. If he cannot get the co-operation he asks, he warns that there are by-laws empowering him to take other measures to put down the nuisance and to protect children from their own folly.

Another warning is issued by the Chief in regard to cyclists who are in the habit of making free use of the sidewalks. "It is a practice that must cease," he said.

Pointing out that children are not the only offenders, the Chief Constable, remarks upon the number of jay walkers who are not only a danger to themselves but who continue to place motorists in an unfair position, by walking across intersections with an utter disregard of stop lights.

It must not be inferred that Chief Newhall holds any brief for the motorists, on the contrary he realizes there are many automobile drivers who are also guilty of traffic offences.

"The new type of car," he remarks, "is more silent than its precursors and many of them are being driven too fast particularly from the north end of the city, and at the entrance to the city from Highway 28."

Jay walking and careless driving are a bad combination, and police promise that in the event of this warning failing to have a beneficial effect it is proposed to wage a ceaseless campaign against offenders.

In the words of Chief Newhall, "If this warning does not stop these various breaches of traffic by-laws, then the police cars will be set to trail careless drivers night and day."

"Offending motorists have got to learn that a "stop" sign means stop or the police court; and must be taught that it is preferable to lose a few seconds of time rather than end up in hospital or in the undertaker's morgue."

CATHEDRAL MUSINGS

ONE of the purposes of this life is growth. It is human to make mistakes, we cannot, as long as we are ignorant, do otherwise, and we should not be unduly discouraged if, despite our better selves, we do that which we should not, and fail to do that which we ought.

To give way to despair on account of one's mistakes is neither sensible nor wise. If despite our efforts we fail, we must again arise and press on. It is the effort that counts in the end, not the occasional failure. The failure is in a sense valuable, for it teaches us by experience what not to do, it shows us our vulnerable points, but the effort to do better developes character and true personality, and so leads us a step further on the Path. If we were perfect we very likely would not be here, there would be no need for us to undergo the struggle and discipline of life on this sorrowful planet. By experience only can we come to a true understanding and sympathy. The tendency of the self-righteous is to condemn the sinner, but he who has gone through the fires of bitter temptation, while condemning the sin, forgives and pities the sinner, for only such a one can really understand, and to understand is to forgive.

"Man-like is it to fall in sin,
Fiend-like is it to dwell therein,
Christ-like is it for sin to grieve,
God-like is it all sin to leave."

17th Century.

LIKELY SETTLE DAMAGE SUIT

SESSION CLOSED.

Settlement of the $4,500 damage action of John D. McIsaac against Bruce Parker for injuries to seven-year-old Michael McIsaac allegedly inflicted when he was struck by Parker's car on Reid street last October, was reported likely as the case was adjourned by Mr. Justice Hugh Kelly at the closing Supreme Court sitting yesterday. Damages amounting to $1,520 and costs will be paid the plaintiff, it was reported.

With the consent of both parties in the suit, the case was adjourned to the next sitting of the Supreme Court here. Emmett F. Sheehy is acting for the plaintiff and Fasken, Robertson, Aitchison, Pickup and Calvin of Toronto for the defendant.

Set down for trial at the sitting which closed yesterday, the suit of Frederick Golden Varty, Belmont farmer, against the Farmers' Central Fire Insurance Company was settled out of court. G. N. Gordon, K.C., acted for the plaintiff, and Campbell Grant of Walkerton for the defendant.

In the report of the disposition of the motion for an order dismissing the action of Cholmondley Strickland against Carl A. Case, J. W. Stevenson was referred to erroneously as solicitor for Strickland in the matter in Thursday's issue. Mr. Stevenson represented Case while Emmett F. Sheehy acted for Strickland.

Questions Answered By DR. WYLIE CLARK

I would like to ask you a question; it is this: Do you think Jesus would go to a hockey match if He were here on earth? —Boy Scout.

I am sure He would be where the boys were playing and would be delighted to see them playing their best and putting up a clean game.

Dr. Wylie Clark

We should remember that Jesus is really present where the people are. He is there among them, sorry when they are wasting their time, deeply concerned when they are doing wrong, and glad when they are doing the right and enjoying themselves.

Would you recommend me to get the "Short Bible" by Goodspeed and Smith.—Bible Student.

Yes, I would. You will be delighted with its suggestions and helpfulness. I have had one for over a year. Have shown it to many and all agreed it was a most useful book.

Who was Thomas Cooper, who preached in Ireland about the middle of the last century? — Armagh.

He was born in Lincester, England, 1805, died 1892. He was a poet, schoolmaster, lecturer and novelist. He joined the Chartists and became leader. He was arrested and sentenced to two years' imprisonment.

In religion he was a Methodist local preacher. His preaching in Ireland created a great revival.

Is not all the talk about peace just a show and all the time the nations are making ready for war?—P. W.

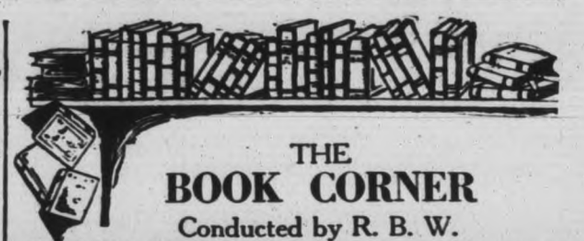
This war question will come up, and no wonder it does. Those of us who remember the last war think of another one with a great fear in our hearts.

The talk about peace is no sham. The people want peace. So do the leaders. When we go on an auto trip we take something with us (iodine, bandages, etc.), which would be useful in case of an accident; but we do not want an accident. We do our best to prevent one. The nations are something like that. They are prepared for the accident of a war, but they are doing their best to avoid it.

Do you think the season of Lent is of any help to the church and the people? Is it not just a lot of more meetings to attend?—Church Member.

It should be of great value. The minds of Christian people are turned to the great truths of the death and resurrection of our Lord. To seriously dwell upon the meaning of these must steady our thinking, make us more or less check upon our attitude to our methods of living and consider what we are worth in the plan of things.

A faithful observation of Lent by the members of the different churches makes a strong impression upon those who are careless in their living and have never been reached by the saving power of Christ.



THE BOOK CORNER

Conducted by R. B. W.

THE KING'S GRACE — John Buchan (Musson Toronto).

Mr. Buchan, who has recently been appointed Governor-General of Canada, is a versatile author. Before and during the war he published several biographies and novels and has continued to write frequent books since then. In the war he served a director of information on the staff and subsequently wrote a very fine history of the Great War. Within the last year have appeared "The Free Fishers"—a first-rate novel—and "Oliver Cromwell"—a notable bigraphy.

Although it states very distinctly in a preface to "The King's Grace" that "this book is not a biography of the King....but an attempt to provide a picture and some slight interpretation of his reign," nevertheless we were slightly disappointed on reading it to find it so very little a biography and so very much a history of the period since 1910. We feel the space and detail expended on the story of the Great War to be disproportionate in view of the purpose of the book.

The author points out how restless were the years immediately prior to and after the ascenion of George V. The twentieth century was in the throes of breaking the bonds of the nineteenth century. England was faced with such problems as the Reform of the House of Lords, the Irish question, the suffragist movement and labour troubles. In all of these the King took a keen interest and used his energies toward peaceful solutions.

The position of the throne has greatly changed during the centuries that England has been a kingdom. Without sacrificing any of its dignity it has won a greater respect and affection from the people and the title The King's Mapesty might now well revert to the older form, The King's Grace. In the new conception of the British Empire as a Commonwealth of Nations the throne is almost the sole bond which remains—a purely sentimental bond, it is true.

Such has been the graciousness of the present King and of the Royal Family that during this quarter century of unprecedented change when thrones fell one by one throughout Europe, the throne of Britain still stands firmly as the common bond of all her citizens.

THE SCARLET BEAST—Francis Gerard (Longmans, Green, Toronto).

"This was Carthage, the Golden city, in the year 237 B.C. The world was in fife to her. She was splendid with a splendour that was hardly of this earth. She was dark with all those monstrous riddles of Asia and the gloomy terrors which came out of Africa....She was cruel beyond the dreams of sadism. She was fair, and she was wanton and she was rich."

But Rome was a thorn in the side of Carthage. To pluck out that thorn and to appease their bestial gods Moloch and Tanit, the might of Carthage went forth against the might that was Rome's. Hamilcar was repulsed on the plains of Spain but his sons Hannibal, Hasdrubal and Mago were sworn to carry on and for sixteen years war with all its horrors, cruelties, pillage and breaking of homes strode around the shares of the Mediterranean.

In a Spanish outpost of Rome young Marcus Flaminius was very much in love with his wife Fabia. They with Allucius, a Spanish chieftain made a happy trio. Already the Carthaginian hosts were approaching and after the sack of Saguntum by Hannibal, Marcus and Fabia are taken separately to slavery in Carthage.

In Gaul the sons of a minor king quarrel for the succession. They too, fall into the toils of Hannibal. Seronic is carried away from his home nursing an intense hatred for Hannibal. All along the desolated trail which the invading army leaves on its way from Africa to Rome are new enemies of Hannibal. And it is these very three, Marcus, Allucius and Seronic who were the means whereby, years later, on the field of Zama, the blood-red banners of the Romans waved triumphant over the royal purple of Carthage.

Many a life was lost or ruined in those years of war but the Roman civilisation survived to hand down its traditions to later ages.

This book is not for the squeamish reader who wishes to avoid the gruesome details of an ancient war. It is a story plainly told with but little of that literary excellence which is the dividing line between a second rate adventure tale based on fact and a first rate biography with imaginative detail.

OTHER NEW BOOKS

Ships and How They Sailed the Seven Seas — Hendrik Van Loon (Musson)—a popularly written history of navigation from earliest times.

Few Minutes Eases Neuritis Pains Now!

DISCOVERY BRINGING QUICK RELIEF FROM PAIN TO MILLIONS

Millions have found that Aspirin eases even a bad headache, neuritis or rheumatic pain often in a few minutes!

In the stomach as in the glass here, an Aspirin tablet starts to dissolve, or disintegrate, almost the instant it touches moisture. It begins "taking hold" of your pain practically as soon as you swallow it.

Remember these two points: Aspirin Speed and Aspirin Safety. And, see that you get ASPIRIN. It is made in Canada, and all druggists have it. Look for the name Bayer in the form of a cross on every Aspirin tablet.

Get tin of 12 tablets or economical bottle of 24 or 100 at any druggist's.

Why Aspirin Works So Fast

IN 2 SECONDS BY STOP WATCH — An Aspirin tablet starts to disintegrate and go to work.

What happens in these glasses happens in your stomach—ASPIRIN tablets start "taking hold" of pain a few minutes after taking.

BEAUTIFUL BERMUDA.

"Oh, could you view the scenery dear,
That now beneath my window lies,
You'd think that nature lavish'd here
Her purest wave, her softest skies.
To make a heaven for love to sigh in
For lords to live and saints to die in!"

Thus wrote the Irish poet, Tom Moore, to his heart's dear friend, in description of beautiful Bermuda, a few days after his arrival in the Spring of 1804.

HISTORY

The Bermudas are named after Juan deBermudez, who discovered them prior to 1511. In 1609, Admiral Sir George Somers and a party of Virginia colonists were wrecked near the site of St. George, eventually continuing their voyage to Jamestown. After Somers returned to Bermuda and died here, the islands were colonized, in 1612, by the Virginia Company, succeeded by the Bermuda Company. In the Somers Gardens are two memorials to the Admiral.

THE PALATIAL NEW S.S. "QUEEN OF BERMUDA"

This magnificent new ship will carry The Examiner's Travel Club Winners from New York to That Land of Charm and Beauty, BERMUDA. Every state room on this ship has its private bath. The ship has talking pictures, telephone from ship to land, swimming pools and glass enclosed promenade. These are just a few of the modern features of this wonderful ship "Queen of Bermuda." The Queen of Bermuda is 580 feet long, breadth 77 feet, gross register 22,480 tons, displacement 28,060 tons—a floating palace, a magnificent revelation of the ingenuity of man. The "Queen of Bermuda," and its sister ship, "Monarch of Bermuda," are the wonder ships of the "British Furness-Bermuda Line."

ROYAL PALMS BERMUDA

BERMUDA . . . Paradise Itself

Bermuda is called The Land of Perpetual Spring or the Land of the Lily and the Rose. Bermuda is more charming than the lovely islands of the South Seas and forms America's most natural, most perfect and most accessible pleasure resort. In journeying to Bermuda from New York you come in contact with the Gulf Stream, which wraps the steamer in its genial warmth. Deck life becomes attractive, and when within forty hours the verdure-clad coral islands of Bermuda raise their green shores above the southeastern sky, the tourist prepares to step ashore in a land of perpetual springtime and flowers.

Once on shore the visitor finds that he has reached a land of matchless beauty and boundless hospitality. On all sides color: birds of brilliant plumage, bright red cardinal birds, blue birds of vivid hue unknown to our more sombre clime; fishes of equally bright shades, and flowers beyond all belief. Oleander hedges line every roadside, in bloom the year round. Stately palms of many species, the broad leaves of the banana and plantain, the great spikes of the Spanish bayonet, huge aloes, the spreading fans of the palmetta and many other tropical trees and shrubs abound on every side.

Every Bermudian hour holds a new charm. To lovers of nature, color and scenic beauty, Bermuda, enhanced by its perfect year-round weather, is Paradise itself.

The never-ending panoramas of a fairyland that can be found only in this land of enchantment are overwhelmingly interesting and beautiful. One need not be an artist to sense the many bits of beauty which dot Bermuda. Unobtrusive, yet compelling, these scenic gems beckon to refresh the jaded spirit with their charm.

To bask in a congenial atmosphere and fragrant surroundings which caressingly remind us that life is a joy — a priceless joy. This you will find in wholesome, lovely, genuinely sincere Bermuda, whose very heart throbs for the purpose to which it has seemingly dedicated itself — a haven of comfort for those who wish a complete change.

After forty golden hours at sea, your soul is awake to the romance and charm of Bermuda. Your lust for adventure is revived and your road to discovery begins.

To picture and list all the places of interest and the hundreds of things to do when visiting Bermuda would require much more space than we have at our disposal, and to visit and enjoy all of the wonderful things possible will be the privilege of the winners of The Examiner Travel Club

Bermuda cannot be overestimated, and as many travelers have said: "If you haven't been there you haven't lived."

WHO WALKS WITH BEAUTY

Who walks with beauty holds inviolate
The guarded secrets of the years to come,
Sees unborn Aprils crowding at the gate
Of living gardens white with petaled plum;
Sifts dust of rainbows through his finger tips
And kindles sunsets on the mountain range,
Holds shadows like pale jasmine to his lips;
Grows intimate with all that once was strange.

Who walks with beauty has a banquet spread
Of stars' white wine in crystal chalices,
Gold dawns and deep blue twilights for his bread,
For music, winds' deep rhythms in the trees;
His candle light the north, the south, the east,
And God for Host at earth's eternal feast!

—Daniel Whitehead Hicky.

BERMDUA'S CLIMATE

Bermuda's climate is one of the most equable in the world, and all seasons of the year yield delight to the visitor. The Gulf Stream, the broad belt of warm water flowing between Bermuda and the mainland, is a barrier to the cold north winds of winter, while the mid-ocean location prevents excessive heat in summer. There is no rainy season and no hay fever. During the cold winter months in the north, people journey to Bermuda to escape the ice and snow, in the summer they visit Bermuda mid-ocean location.

to escape the intense heat that Bermuda is free from, due to its Bathing and sailing are enjoyed throughout the year. The water is extremely clean, clear, salt and buoyant. To bask in the sunshine on the velvet sands of Bermuda's renowned beaches brings a new kind of joy to lovers of this sport.

WONDERS OF BERMUDA

Magical Caves

Magical caves electrically lighted, beneath the hills in the Walsingham district, display scintillating crystal pendants, columns, draperies, stalactites, stalagmites and quasi-human formations.

The Sea Gardens

THE SEA GARDENS are viewed through glass-bottomed boats over the coral reefs, many of which are covered with marine growth in gorgeous colors, anemones, stars and finger coral brain-stones, sea-fans, sea-eggs and puddings and many curious sea plants, waving like plants in a breeze. Darting in and out are brilliantly-colored fish. Visitors to the Bermuda Government Marine Aquarium may view the marine flora and fauna through a diver's helmet beneath the waters of Harrington Sound. The Bermuda Government Aquarium is second to none. Here are seen most of Bermuda's 415 highly colored species of fish: crustaceans of many hues and shapes, the giant lobster, crabs that disguise themselves by covering their backs with a sponge: the locust lobster, the trunk-back crab, etc. Hydroids, the plant-like animals, sea urchins, starfish, fish enclosed in solid armor: fish covered with spines, that have eaten their way out of a shark's stomach, fish that have their own fish'ng rod and angle for their food, fish that barricade the entrance to their dwelling before going to sleep, also the barracuda, trigger-fish, sea-horses, parrot fish, and the octopi which change their color and throw out their "smoke screen" as they dodge one another—these are but a few of the strange creatures of the sea that can be seen at the Bermuda Government Aquarium.

She suffered long with patience bore;
Physicians were in vain,
Till God above, in His great love,

REV. DR. McLEAN, GUEST SPEAKER

130 GATHER AT TABLE.

The Fathers and Sons of St. James' United Church gathered last night, about one hundred and thirty strong, for their annual banquet, under the auspices of the Brotherhood.

Flowering plants, flanked by tall pink tapers decorated the long tables and formed an attractive setting for the sumptuous banquet provided by the wives and mothers.

At the head table were seated the guest speaker, Rev. Dr. C. V. McLean; the class teacher, Rev. Mr. Moorhouse, and Mrs. Moorhouse; the entertainers of the evening, and the guests of the Brotherhood.

After the supper hour, a splendid program was enjoyed, with the class president, Ernest Lee, presiding as chairman.

The initial number on the toast list was to the King, proposed by H. F. Doig, to which all responded with the singing of the National Anthem.

The toast to the church was ably given by Edward Pavey, a veteran of the Brotherhood, who emphasized the vital place of the church in the community.

In the toast to the fathers, Jack Flynn paid high tribute to their leadership and comradeship, to which Mr. Church made fitting reply.

Gordon Adams stressed the importance of the relationship between father and son and called upon the fathers to drink the toast to the sons, which was responded to by Stan. Church.

Musical Program

Interspersing the toasts, was a splendid musical program including a group of cornet solos, "Willing to Take The Cross," and "Is Your All on the Altar," by Mr. Robinson.

Master Jimmie Sands sang a delightful Scottish selection, and violin solos were contributed by Max Warne including "Sun of My Soul," and "The Old Rugged Cross." In her usual charming voice Mrs. H. F. Doig sang a group of solos: (1) "Love's a Merchant," and (2) "Good Morning, Brother Sunshine." Acting as accompanists were Mrs. R. C. Sarles and Mrs. Sid Turner.

Splendid Address

In his inimitable manner, Rev. Dr. McLean addressed the fathers and sons, and congratulated them upon the fine relationship evidenced, which he declared to be an omen of good in this commercial age, when this tie is too often merely a financial one.

The speaker briefly outlined two or three essentials whereby the fathers might benefit the sons. First, he urged them to teach their children to exercise good judgment. The second function of fathers is that they transmit to their sons some form of acquired skill.

On the other hand, the reverend speaker pointed out some lessons which the boy might teach his father.

He commended, first, to the adults, the spirit of play, which he termed "the joy of feeling one's self in contact with grim reality. In the second place, adults would do well to emulate the elasticity of mind which is a characteristic of childhood. In conclusion, he advised fathers and sons "to go to school to one another."

A sincere vote of thanks to Dr. McLean, and to all who had contributed to the success of the evening was voiced by J. Spence and W. A. Wood. Rev. Mr. Moorhouse also added a word of appreciation to the guest speaker and expressed the hope that the Brotherhood might continue in their progress. This successful annual event was closed with prayer by the pastor.

Obituary

MISS MARY N. KIRKPATRICK.

The death occurred in Toronto this morning of Mary N. Kirkpatrick, in her 91st year. The late Miss Kirkpatrick was the daughter of the late Stafford F. Kirkpatrick, formerly of Peterborough and spent much of her long life here.

The funeral service will be held at two o'clock on Monday afternoon in the chapel at Little Lake Cemetery.

THOMAS HENRY HORNER

A prominent retired railroad man, Thomas Henry Horner, passed away recently at his residence in Allandale in his 79th year. He had been in ill health for practically a year, and had been confined to his bed for seven weeks.

The late Mr. Horner joined the service of the old Grand Trunk Railway at Peterborough on March 15, 1871, and retired on pension on October 31, 1934. At the time of his retirement he was supervisor of track with headquarters at Allandale, a position which heoccupied for twenty-eight years. He served as an Alderman in that community for a brief term.

Born in Hope Township, Durham County on October 24, 1856, the deceased was a son of a railroad man who had been employed in the construction of the old Port Hope, Lindsay and Beaverton Railway. When twelve yearsof age, he got his first taste of railroading when he secured employment at Garden Hill, between Port Hope and Millbrook. It was his particular job at that time to pile wood for the wood-burning locomotives.

The late Mr. Horner officially joined the G.T.R. service on March 15, 1871, as track man at Peterborough. Iron rail, fifty-six pounds to the yard, was in use being coupled together by iron chains spiked to the ties. The distance between the rails was then five feet six inches.

After six months here, Mr. Horner was transferred in the same capacity to Lakefield, where he remained until 1881. In that year he returned to Peterborough as foreman, when the famous "missing link" was constructed between Peterborough and Omemee. He stayed in Peterborough till 1895.

Funeral services were conducted at Allandale by the Reverend W. A. E. Doe of Burton avenue United Church and interment was made at Little Lake cemetery, Peterborough.

Many employees and pensioners from different departments all over the division were present at the funeral.

HAROLD MIDDLETON.

Harold James Middleton, 464 Park Street, passed away unexpectedly this morning in Nicholl Hopital following an operation. He was 27 years of age.

The young man was born in Smith Township, the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Middleton. He was educated in his home township and at the Collegiate in Peterborough and spent several years on his father's farm before coming to Peterborough to live. Here he served as an automobile mechanic. He attended St Paul's Presbyterian Church.

Surviving are his wife, formerly Lillian Mason, and two children, Marlene and Gerald. A sister, Mrs. Melville Deyell, and a brother, George, remain. Dr. J. E. Middleton of Peterborough is an uncle of the deceased.

The funeral will be held on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the home of the deceased's father, Concession 2, Smith, to Little Lake Cemetery, Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr conducting the services.

MRS. LIONEL LIPSETT

Laura Paulin Grace Lipsett, wife of Lionel Lipsett, died at Nicholls Hospital early this morning following a brief illness. She leaves a husband; two brothers, Claire and Roy Heard; and four sisters, Mrs. K. Whittaker, Mrs. Robert Kingdon, Mrs. R. Delahaye and Helen Heard.

The funeral will proceed from the home, 72 Hunter street east, to Little Lake Cemetery, at 2 p.m., Monday afternoon. Rev. J. E. J. Millyard of George Street United Church will conduct the services.

TWO YOUNG BOYS PERISH IN FIRE

INQUEST ORDERED.

DRUMMONDVILLE, Que., April 27. (CP).—Two young boys were burned to death last night as fire swept through their home at the little village of St. Pierre, near here. The victims who were trapped in their bedroom by the flames were Guy Poulin, nine, and Yvon Poulin, seven.

Georges Poulin, father of the children, caused the fire inadvertently, according to a report, when he attempted to light his pipe and the match flame ignited some clothing on the kitchen washline newly cleaned with benzine.

There was a puff of flame and the kitchen in a moment was ablaze. So rapidly did the fire spread Poulin and his wife were unable to reach the two boys trapped in another part of the house.

Bodies of the two victims were recovered from the ruins and an inquest will be held.

ASKS $12,000 DAMAGE.

MONTREAL, April 27.—(C P). — Emile Gadbois took action yesterday for $12,000 against the city of Longueuil because the fire department did not reach his home in time to save his five children from death in the flames. In his declaration Gadbois claims the firemen went to the wrong alarm box and so wasted precious time.

BELL OFFICIALS GIVEN BANQUET

Presentations Are Made to George Harper and Robert Lundy.

SAFETY AWARDS.

An interesting banquet was held last evening at Empress Hotel, when more than fifty employees of the Bell Telephone Company's plant department assembled from different points throughout Peterborough district.

Feature of the program was the presentation by George Jackson and David White of handsome dressing cases to George Harper, district plant superintendent, and Robert H. Lundy, wire chief, prior to their departure under transfer to Windsor and Oshawa respectively.

Edward D. Smith, who is to succeed Mr. Harper on May 1, was also present, and received a warm welcome to Peterborough from the members of the plant staff. W. Lloyd of Toronto who is the newly appointed wire chief, was unable to be present.

James A. Brown, division plant superintendent, Toronto, was among the officials who attended the function, and at the invitation of R. P. Seymour, who presided in the chair, he presented truck drivers of Peterborough with awards as provided by the Ontario Safety League, for drivers who during 1934 drove or operated any motor vehicle or truck without accident of any kind.

Out of a fleet of fifteen trucks, fourteen operators were able to qualify for safety awards. Only one driver was unable to qualify, and that because his vehicle had been slightly damaged while parked, due to a minor collision from the rear.

Such a splendid safety performance was a matter of great pride in so far as the company was concerned, Mr. Brown stated. He conveyed the appreciation of the company to the drivers for the earnest effort on the part of drivers to safeguard equipment and public life and property.

Entertainment was provided by Bert Lacey, Mr. Pooley and Ernest Watson, who delighted the gathering with a choice number of fine selections.

MAIN STREET TOPICS

A POOR JOKE

A young lady (judging by the sound of her voice), rang the editorial department of The Examiner this morning to enquire if there had been an accident overnight. Apparently the victim of a hoax, the young lady, who declined to give her name stated she had been telephoned late last night and informed that someone known to her had been admitted to St. Joseph's Hospital as a result of injuries received in a motor accident. A check-up revealed that no accident cases were admitted to the hospital overnight.

AGAIN STRIKING.

After having been on strike for over twelve months, the clock in the Market Hall Tower is again striking—paradoxical as that may sound.

Repaired under the supervision of Alderman Fred Tuggey, chairman of the Property committee of the City Council, the clock bell is again in working order, though just how long it and the post office clock will agree as to time, is another matter.

JUBILEE REHEARSAL.

Members of the various choirs in the city are reminded that following conclusion of the evening service, there is to be a rehearsal at St. Paul's Presbyterian church on Sunday, under direction of Martin B. Chenhall, A.R.C.O.

Upon the completion of a 150-mile round trip two youthful cyclists returned to their homes here yesterday afternoon, dusty and tired after their ride from Trenton.

The boys—Earl John Wood, 17, and his brother Donald Wood, 16, both of 174 Westcott street left home of their cycles at 8 a.m. Monday last arriving at Trenton at 1 p.m., the same day. They stopped en route for lunch at Port Hope, and made a similar halt on the return trip.

Yesterday morning the boys hopped on their machines and left Trenton at 8.30 a.m. reaching Peterborough at 3 p.m.

While in Trenton the youths visited their grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Johnson Brown (a retired C.P.R. conductor), and also their grandparents Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Wood of Frankfort.

Under the auspices of the King's Own Bible Class of St. James United Sunday school, a very successful Hostess Tea was held on Thursday night in the primary department. The guests were received by the class teacher, Mrs. A. E. Moorhouse, the president, Mrs. Alex. Rosborough and Miss M. Hanbidge. Preceding the tea hour an unusual and most interesting exhibition of quilts was displayed by Miss Hanbidge and Mrs. H. Doig. These quilts included not only new and beautifully intricate patterns, but one fine example of needlework which came from Ireland and dated back to 1812. Among the patterns were the familiar "Sunburst", a gay tulip design, and some charming mauve "ladies" carried out in applique on white ground. These were all duly admired before the guests were ushered into te tea room. Here, about thirty tables were cosily arranged in the hall, prettily decorated in spring colors and a profusion of daffodils and pussy-willows. Under the capable supervision of Mrs. Gordon Adams, as convenor, a delicious supper was served and each hostess efficiently cared for her guests. During the supper hour instrumental music was contributed in piano solos by the Misses Frances Wells and Laura Lee, and piano duets by Jean Meeks and Frances Wells. Later a short but entertaining program opened with a humorous reading, "After the Wedding", by Mrs. George Rowe. Master Jimmy Sands, as usual, delighted his audience with his vocal solos in strong Scotch accent, in "The Wee Hoose on the Hillside" and "Wearing the Kilts." Mrs. Earl Eakins acted as accompanist with brilliant technique. Miss Muriel Moorhouse rendered a group of piano numbers, "Falling Water" and "The Song of the Woodman". On behalf of the class, Mrs. Rosborough expressed appreciation to all who had contributed to the success of the tea, including Mrs. J. Spurway, who was in charge of the decorations, Mrs. L. T. Wood who arranged the splendid program, and Mrs. Alvin Davis and Mrs. Bert Pitchford, who were in charge of the tea-room. Mrs. Davis also acted as treasurer.

The choir of George Street United Church held a "Rendezvous" Tea in the Auditorium of the Sunday School on Thursday evening, which was attended by over two hundred guests. The hall was beautifully decorated with fluted crepe paper in Spring colors of pink, green, yellow and mauve, adorning the stage, pillars and chandeliers. The guests were received by the general convenor, Mrs. S. I. Puttenham, and conducted to small tables, decorated with silver bud vases of Spring flowers. Each choir member was responsible for a table. A central large table was beautifully arranged with a lace cloth, a mirror reflector, a silver basket of parrot tulips, and pussy willows and silver services. Tea and coffee was poured by Mrs. J. E. J. Millyard, Mrs. D. R. Howat, Mrs C. S. Thompson and Mrs. A. V. Lillow and lady members of the choir acted as assistants. The first part of the program, under the direction of Mr. Don Munro, opened the evening's entertainment. It represented a reunion of the old boys of Auburn school and the dialogue was very amusing. Miss Dorothy Sager sang a solo as a prologue, "Now I Want to Say Good Evening," followed by an opening chorus, "Spring Is Round the Corner"; a solo, "Strawberry Fair," by Garnet Dainard, with the school joining in the chorus; a duet, "Crooked Spectacles," by Lloyd Wells and Eric May; a solo, "O Dear, What Can the Matter Be," by Jack Renshaw, impersonating a school girl; a duet, "Billy Boy," by Gerald Perks and Ivison Walker; a solo, "Young Richard," by Mac Gordon; a solo, "Shenandoah," by Eddie Rowe; and a chorus, "School Days," by the choir. These songs were taken from the New Canadian Song Series recently published. Delicious refreshments were then served, and a jolly social hour enjoyed. The third part of the program was in charge of Mr. A. V. Lilow, and the stage was arranged as a luxurious furnished living room. A sing-song was being staged and many dropped in later to assist with the music. The opening number was a chorus by the boys, "The Bells of St. Mary's," followed by a solo, "The Tinker," by Mac Gordon; Male Quartette (Messrs. W. H. Cunningham, C. S. Thompson, A. V. Lillow, Eddie Rowe), singing a medley of old songs, "Our Boys Will Shine Tonight," "Down in the Corn Field," "Where Art Thou Pals of Ours"; solos by Miss Dorothy Sager, "Break of Day," and Brahm's Lullaby"; a chorus, "Home on the Range," and "Down by The Old Mill Stream"; a Mixed Quartet (Miss Dorothy Sager, Mrs. E. Rowe, Mr. E. Rowe, Mrs. A. V. Lillow), singing, "Come Where My Love Lies Dreaming"; a violin solo by Arnold Spencer, accompanied by Miss Musa Cox; Male Quartette numbers, "One, Two, Three, Four, Do It Now," and "There is a Beautiful Land"; and a closing chorus by full choir, "The Soldiers Chorus," from "Faust." Accompanists for the evening were Mr. D. R. Howat and Mrs. E. Rowe. The treasurer was Miss Merle Harvie.

Morrow, which attained its hundredth year of life in 1934. The late Miss Kirkpatrick lived for much of her time at "Castle Knock," George street, a building which has since been transformed into several dwellings, and which was at that time the residence of her sister, the late Mrs. James Dennistoun. Just Between Us Women

Now that we are into the after Lent social whirl, spring dances, dinners and other social functions follow one after another. These require new gowns and in turn our thoughts turn to adornment. Flowers are an all important item this year in costuming. French designers invariably model their latest creations with some type of flower trimming.

* * * * * *

What could be loveller than violets, a huge cluster of these rich purple blooms is stunning on any gown. A new way to wear them is centered on the bosom in what is known as a "chou chou". They are not tied with the usual ribbon but a trimming of straw hat braid completes this unusual effect.

* * * * * *

For the street ensemble it is smart to centre flowers on the bosom again. If the dinner dress has a high neckline wear your flowers in a jabot like effect, cascading from the throat.

* * * * * *

We saw a lovely bouquet the other night on a pretty lace frock and it was so poorly arranged that we had a mad desire to ask the wearer if we could not re-arrange it, just because we felt that it could be so much more attractive arranged a little differently.

* * * * * *

A new idea that dates back to the Regency period is that of wearing flowers in the hair. Orchids are gaining popularity in this respect. Two lavender and purple orchids, with stems wired and wrapped in matching ribbon can be molded to the curve of the head and fastened securely. How lovely this would be for blonde tresses.

* * * * * *

For the brunette a double bandeau of hyacinth blooms, strung on soft wire and fitted to the crown of the head, Grecian style, from ear to ear, would be charming. The blooms may be white or any color to match your gown.

* * * * * *

A delightful little summer evening gown was made of polka dotted organdie. The dots were of chenile. A taffeta girdle to match the color of the dots completed this charming, inexpensive little frock and the wearer told us it cost her less than ten dollars.

* * * * * *

This manner of cooking lamb chops is a slight variation from the usual. You will find them extra tasty so cooked.

Lamb Chops Viennese — Select chops cut from three-quarters to an inch thick. With a sharp knife cut a pocket in the center of each chop. In this pocket insert a thin slice of boiled ham or of pan-fried Canadian bacon. Broil chops in the usual manner and serve piping hot.

Grapefruit Salad — Four slices avocado pear, one and one-half cups diced grapefruit, one-third cup French dressing. Mix ingredients and chill 30 minutes or longer. Serve on crisp lettuce leaves and add two more tablespoons French dressing.

Apricot Whip—One cup thick fruit pulp, three-fourths cup sugar, two tablespoons lemon juice, two egg whites, few grains salt. Force apricots through a strainer, after draining off as much of the syrup as possible. Stir in sugar and lemon juice. Beat egg white stiff, add salt and fold in apricot pulp. THE WORLD looks pretty rosy to this little lady.

And that's very important! For if a youngster hates the taste of a laxative and struggles against taking it, her nerves are upset by the struggle. And her stomach, rebelling against the flavor, may be upset also!

So pleasant taste is one of the important reasons why Castoria is the right laxative for children . . .

Here's another:

Like the carefully chosen food you give your child—Castoria is designed just for a child's delicate system. It contains no strong, purging drugs such as some adult laxatives contain.

It is safe for delicately-balanced young systems. It will never, never cause griping pain. It clears away waste matter thoroughly but very gently. And it is not habit-forming.

Whenever your youngster needs a laxative—from babyhood to 11 years old—turn to Castoria. Look for the name Castoria. And save money—buy the family-size bottle.

FISH and GAME COLUMN

Clear evidence that fish poaching in this district is extensive was furnished yesterday in a local sporting goods store. The writer observed an extensive display of all the well known makes of artificial bass and maskinonge bait prominently exhibited on a show case. Upon inquiry it was learned that the bait was being featured now because there is "such a big demand for it." The merchant admitted that the season does not open until July 1, but he said, "They were asking for 'em and they are buying 'em and using them."

WANTS ASSISTANCE

Fred Marshall, county fish and game inspector, is working himself into a state of exhaustion these days in his determined efforts to protect the spawning muskies and bass. For the past five nights his head barely touched a pillow and he has been on the job 24 hours at a stretch. "The task is almost hopeless," he said, "unless I get the co-operation of citizens at large." No official of the Fish and Game Department gives his job the same sincere effort as does Fred Marshall. Citizens should see to it that his work is made worthwhile by aiding him with information.

NORWOOD CLUB'S PLANS

Residents down east should get right behind the newly-organized Norwood Fish and Game Club by joining the club and becoming actively interested in its work to improve fishing in that district. Membership in the club has been set low enough, 50 cents a year, to permit all to join. The club has already made application to the Department for trout fingerlings to be placed in streams about Norwood and an effort is also being made to secure pheasant eggs for hatching. The club has made a splendid start in undertaking an important task which will benefit the whole district.

FISHING IN RICE LAKE

The Durham Fish and Game Protective Association has also been active. Early opening of pickerel fishing in Rice Lake is one of the chief projects that this club annually endeavors to secure from the Government. Many of the club members are financially interested in tourist businesses about the lake and it means much to them if fishermen can fish the lake early.

The Department has seen fit to permit still fishing with natural bait for pickerel in Rice Lake and along the Otonabee and Trent rivers after May 15.

Members of the Peterborough Fish and Game Association have always differed with their Rice Lake friends on this point of early opening of the pickerel season. Local sportsmen have argued that this fishing, even though still, is bound to result in the taking of a certain percentage of bass and maskinonge. In May the bass and maskinonge, sportsmen here say, are in the shallows guarding their young and easily fall prey to the wiles of fishermen.

However, the Rice Lake group maintain that such fears are groundless, that the number of bass or maskinonge caught during the early still fishing is negligible.

It must be stated that the Durham club is vitally interested in the conservation of bass and maskinonge in Rice Lake and that, fully informed of the conditions prevailing in the lake as it's members must be, the club surely would not support any measure that would eventually tend to deplete the lake of its supply of muskies and bass.

GAFFING PROHIBITED

Rumors of illegal fishing of fish at the locks are current about the city. Gaffing for fish, even suckers, is illegal this year as it was last. Officers enforcing the fish and game laws were rather lenient with offenders under the gaffing rule last year because the law was new but a sterner attitude toward this offence is being adopted this season. Several special officers are patrolling the Otonabee River between the city and Rice Lake in an effort to catch poachers.

A POACHING LESSON

"Reformation of a poacher" might serve as the title of a little story a local sportsman, a dentist, told the writer this week. This poacher had the head of Chemong Lake as his stamping grounds and each Spring it was known that he took scores of spawning maskinonge from the shallows and peddled them about the city.

"In a friendly way I went to work on this fellow, one day," the dentist related. "I said, 'Listen, have you ever considered the effects of your taking these spawning fish. In the first place a spawning fish is not good to eat; in fact it should not properly be used as food. Another thing, you own cottages around here which you rent in the summer and then you depend on guiding to help your income. Why do the people come up here and rent your cottages? To fish! That's right. And when the fish are gone your investment in those cottages will have turned sour. Practically every cent you hope to make is tied up with the tourist business and yet you are doing the very thing that will kill that business deader than a do-do. Every fish you take out now means the loss of thousands later on.'

"Well," contined the dentist, "this chap scratched his head and said, 'Heck, I'd never thought about that. I think you're right. I'm telling you from now on I'm not taking any more fish out of season and by gosh I won't let anyone else take 'em either. It means too much to me.

"Do you know from that day to this I have never heard of that fellow poaching and I know him to be now one of the most ardent conservationists in the district," concluded our tooth-pulling friend. "All you have to do is talk to these chaps. Put it up to them in dollars and cents and then the message hits home."

THE SPECKLED TROUT

The speckled trout is the most beautiful of our game fishes. His graceful, stream-lined body is marvellously tinted. A deep marbelled green on his back blends with a shot golden bronze on his sides, shading to a salmon-pinkish bronze or white under surface. His sides are decorated by numerous vermillion spots encircled by purplish blue. This coloring varies greatly with the season, and the type of water he inhabits. During the mating season the coloring becomes more brilliant, with the fins changing to scarlet, fringed with pearly white.

The speckled trout spawns in late October or early November. The adults migrate into shallow waters known as spawning beds, where the female deposits her eggs. These are soon loosely covered with sand or gravel, where they remain until hatched in February or March. The young fry remain in the shallow for protection until able to fend for themselves.

Young trout feed on minute organisms. Later their food consists chiefly of aquatic insects, such as the larval, pupal or adult stages of the stonefly, mayfly, caddisfly, and midge family; terrestrial insects as bees, ants, flies and grasshoppers; crustaceans, as shrimps and crayfish, and finally minows or other fish.

The average trout is two to three inches long at one year, three to five inches long at two years, and six to eight inches long at three years of age. They seldom spawn before the third year, and it is for this reason the minimum legal limit in Ontario is placed at seven inches.

In small streams, where aquatic insects form the bulk of the food, trout seldom grow to more than twelve inches in length. In large streams and lakes they feed upon fish and larger aquatic animals, and attain much larger size. In Northern waters, specimens weighing three, four or five pounds are not uncommon. Some years ago Dr. Cook of Port Arthur took a speckled trout from the Nipigon River weighing fourteen and a half pounds, which is a world's record for speckled trout.

Wooded areas and swamps produce the clear, cold waters essential to speckled trout. He loves the waters abounding in falls, rapids and ripples. Here he lies, head upstream, cunningly hidden beneath a rock, always on the alert for food or enemy. A strange sound or a shadow upon the water and away he streaks, truly a golden speckled livarrow of the clear waters.

In summer he migrates into deep pools or into lakes, where he finds cold, deep holes and relief from the warm waters of the stream. Deforestation and pollution cause the rapid disappearance of the trout, as he cannot survive in warm or impure water.

In Ontario the speckled trout is widely distributed. In the southwestern section the Counties of Bruce, Grey and Dufferin produce conditions ideal for them, as do Haliburton, Muskoka and Parry Sound districts. The district to the east and north of Lake Superior, including the famous Nipigon district, along with Northern Quebec, is the finest speckled trout country known.

The opinion is held by many anglers that the speckled trout is the gamest and sportiest fish for his weight of all our game fish. Being a voracious eater, he takes bait, lures and flies with avidity. His strategy and cunning along with his excellent fighting qualities make him a much respected and coveted prize.

Are we going to stand idly by and see this fine fish disappear? I firmly believe that by thorough study of our waters, proper propagation and adequate protection much can be done to preserve this fish.

The farmer can do his part. If his stream is suitable he may obtain trout for planting from the Ontario Fish and Game Department, providing he does not exclude the public from his waters. He may produce as much or more revenue from his stream by charging the public a nominal sum for fishing privileges as he could by leasing to a private club. By restocking his own water the trout will spread beyond his property. He will be thus doing a service to the community as well as himself.

Are we not justified in trying to save our speckled trout?—The Toronto Globe.

STAMP CORNER

By M. A. BESSEY

This week I am going to devote our space to the grievances of a "disgusted collector," and I have no doubt but that the disgust is quite honest and justified.

The main bone of contention seems to be that stamp dealers in Canada are charging top prices for poorly centred copies of stamps; particularly mentioned are mint British Colonials issued during the past few years.

The story as outlined claims that a number of dealers in Canada have put out attractive price-lists, included in which may be found many mint British Colonials issued during the previous ten to fifteen years. The stamps are not of the real rare type, but those cataloguing up to fifty or sixty cents, and priced net at from sixty to seventy-five per cent of catalogue value. This, it is claimed, is a fair enough price for fine, well-centred copies, but not for badly off-centre copies. However, the lists state that perfectly centred copies are at a higher premium, but the amount is not stated. Having placed an order for stamps, the collector receives most of the lower values, in finely centred condition, but the higher values in nearly all cases are so bad that the design runs almost into the perforations. Well, it must be admitted that this is not so good for the collector, and undoubtedly will soon tend to lose much business for the dealer operating in this manner.

There are, however, one or two points that must be taken into consideration. It is fairly safe to assume that the quantity of higher-value stamps held in stock by the dealer is probably very small, indeed. In many cases it would run into only five or ten copies, and in this case, had the stamps all been brought at the one time, they might all be badly centred or well centred, if they came in a small block from one sheet.

Most important of all, we must consider the revision of catalogue prices by Scott in their 1935 edition catalogue. For instance, we find that the Cayman Island, 2sh. 1921, issue, Scott No. 57, is listed at only 75c. Obviously the dealer must secure almost four-fifths of catalogue value to make any profit at all. Next on the list is the 3sh, at only $1.15, this would have to bring at least 85c or 90c, so again we find a very high net price as compared to catalogue value. This same condition will be found to apply right through the entire catalogue among all of the recent issues, which have not been obsolete so long as to become really scarce.

I previously mentioned the small stock of higher values, and might add, that with the lower values the dealer probably buys a sheet of fifty or one hundred, and so has a far better chance of securing some decently centred copies.

As to dealers having been able to buy any quantity of stamps, such as remainders, etc., I do not know of any case among the British Colonials where they have been bought at under face value. A couple of years ago, it was possible to pick up odd lots of stamps in England, principally London, at under face value, usually five or ten per cent under face, but in these cases, one would buy the stamps from another dealer, and they usually comprised collections or parts of collections. In such cases as this one was liable to run across anything, but for the most part, fine copies were not predominant.

So far as I can see, there is only one way to avoid the disappointment of having to pay good money for poor stamps, and that is to change dealers. Eventually the collector is bound to come across some one who can supply the better copies.

Unfortunately, philatelists have not sufficient control to force all government printers to produce well-centred stamps throughout, although there is little reason why it should not be this way. Millions of poorly-centred stamps are in existence, and it is a safe bet, there are millions more to come. There is little chance of being able to avoid them, by having them destroyed. The governments wouldn't take the loss and the dealers can't afford to, so it looks like it's up to the collector to protect himself by being wary.

OPERA SAN TOY ABLY PRESENTED IN OPERA HOUSE

MUCH HARD WORK.

"San Toy" or "The Emperor's Own" a Chinese musical comedy in two acts, was presented with much acclaim on the stage of the Grand Opera House, last night, by the Men's Association and the choir of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, under direction of Martin B. Chenhall, A.R.C.O.

An appreciative audience watched with interest the unfolding of the story which centers about the romantic adventures of the pretty Chinese maiden, San Toy, daughter of the mighty Mandarin Yen How of Yamen, who has been commanded to send his young daughter to the Emperor's court at Pekin, but puts off the evil day by pretending she is a boy. In the meantime, she falls in love with an English youth, Bobbie Preston, son of Sir Bingo Preston, British Consul at Pynka Pong, while Fo Hop, a Chinese student, also wishes to marry her. She confides in Poppy, sister of Bobbie, who keeps her secret, but it is revealed by the treacherous Fo Hop, and San Toy is compelled to go to the Emperor's palace, where she at once wins the amorous regard of the ruler, who speaks of her as a "delushous" young thing, and, speaking from a height that pushes six feet, asks her to love her "little Emperor". The young lady and her lover extricate themselves from a somewhat perilous position by methods familiar to frequenters of musical dramas of this type, and Fo Hop is got out of the way by an invitation to strangle himself as a substitute for San Toy's father, the wily Mandarin, who is thus saved for further attentions to his six little wives.

And this half-dozen of pint-size ladies add a great deal to the colour of the affair, so dainty are they and so well do they put over their mild little parts, in the gayest of costumes and with the most glittering of head dresses.

The whole affair, of course, was colorful in the extreme and the costuming was really gorgeous and quite in keeping with the Oriental atmosphere of the piece.

Much Hard Work

"San Toy", which is sixth in line in a series of annual dramatic and musical productions under these combined auspices from St. Paul's Church, probably took even a greater amount of preparation than some of its successors, and the cast, with the supporting choruses, is to be congratulated on the manner in which they presented a lengthy and difficult comedy. It was tuneful music, picturesque in setting and had a charming libretto which occupied more attention, possibly, than the music, although there were some lovely duetts, solos, and choruses in the two acts.

George Coleman, Junior, scored a great hit with his superb singing of a solo all about "Just the One in the World" demonstrating just how well a baritone voice can render a real love song. And Miss Jessie Pattison's lovely contralto was heard to splendid advantage in several solo numbers, notable among them being "Rhoda and her Pagoda."

A most artistic rendition was that of the Emperor (John Fowler) singing in soft, clear tones, "I Mean to Introduce It into China", while Miss Emma Lou Chenhall's rendition of "The Whole Story" was very charming, and Miss Mary Sedgewick, in the title role, had especially dainty songs and duetts with George Coleman. Miss Pattison and Adam Sands, in a duett about marriage, absurdly effective, as were Li and chorus, in "Chinese Sojer Man".

The honors for the snappy fun of the piece go to Adam Sands, Senior, in the role of Li. This was an outstanding delineation of the crafty, good-natured gentleman who turns most events to his own advantage. Without Li, many episodes would have dragged considerably, but he pepped things up by working every minute with might and main, and extracting every last bit of fun out of each scene. As As a suitor for the hand of the good-looking lady's maid, Dudley (Miss Jessie Pattison) he was at his best, combining Oriental cunning and Occidental good humour to the best possible advantage. This was a splendidly enacted role that aded much to the whole presentation, and repeated Mr. Sands' successful role in last year's production.

The imposing figure of the Emperor of China, with his umbrella of state and his waving plume atop a glittering headdress and a colorful costume, was in the good hands of John Fowler; the Mandarin, Yen How, with a pipe-smoking complex that combined strangely with his Oriental attire and make-up, was well portrayed by Don MacKay; Miss Mary Sedgewick was the charming little heroine of the story, San Toy, singing and acting with real ability; and George Coleman, Jr., was Captain Bobbie Preston, her dashing lover. A good little bit of dialectic acting was done by John Sedgewick, as Sir Bingo Preston; Adam Sands, Senior, was admirable as Li, the character part of the piece; Miss Jessie Pattison was as good as always in the role of Dudley, the maid, and Miss Emma Lou Chenhall was Poppy, the charming daughter of Sir Bingo. George East had a role that suited him to perfection, and was well portrayed, in the part of Sing Hi, president of the Board of Ceremonies, and Dion Snelgrove was escort to the pretty Poppy, as Lieutenant Harvey Tucker. Horace Hope gave a very fine staccato rendition of the role of Fo Hop, the unfortunate Chinese student of the drama.

Other parts were as follows: Fraser Skinner and Miss Marion Irvine, as Hu Pi and his wife, and Howard Macdonald and Miss Isabel Duthie, as Wai Ho and his wife, the gentlemen being jewellers of Pynka Pong; while George Hall and Don Ross were Li Hi and Li Ho, the Tartar Guards, and Mrs. P. Board was the capable Wun Lung, Perpetual Corporal of the Emperor's Own, which, by the way, was a snappy corps of lady guards that resembled greatly the knaves of hearts in card decks, as far as their costumes were concerned. Miss Isobel MacKay was Ko Pan, also of the bodyguard, and C. M. Lawrence was Ah Wen, adviser to Yen How.

Six Little Wives

The pretty little wives of Yen How were the Misses Ivy James, Sara Sands, Grace Thompson, Isobel Hamilton, Sybil Jackson and Phyllis Coleman. Wives of the Emperor were Mrs. J. C. Smith, Mrs. Ada Strong, Mrs. George Coleman and Miss Eleanor Dodds. Amazon Guards of the Emperor's Own were: the corporal, Miss Isobel MacKay, with the Misses Marion Armstrong, Isobel Duthie, Mignon Mayneord, Isobel King, Elsie Board, Jean Fowler, Anne Young and Dorothy Morrow; Coolies, William Lyburn, A. Davidson, G. Matthews, S. Hall; Guards, Dr. J. J. Craig and John Gillespie; Mandarins, W. J. Armstrong, Dr. J. C. Smith of Lakefield, Robert Clyde, Howard Macdonald, J. C. Best, C. M. Lawrence, S. Hall, G. Matthews, William Young; Boy, Garth Cowan; Tartars, Walter Baptie and Don Jordan; Servants, William Lyburn and A. Davidson; English Party Guests, the Misses Marion Irvine and Lily Kay and Fraser Skinner.

In the second act, the English party calls on the Emperor and, in return for a cup of tea, illustrates an English dance. Those taking part in this pretty episode were the Misses Ema Lou Chenhall, Marion Irvine, Lily Kay, and Dion Snelgrove, Fraser Skinner and George Coleman.

Hurrell Dodds acted as business manager; E. J. Searight as secretary; J. W. Armstrong as treasurer; R. Thomson-Currie was in charge of costumes; Horace Hope was stage manager; Robert Haddow was in charge of programs; G. Wilson Craw of Publicity; Reg Turner was door director; Mrs. John Fowler and Mrs. D. Dodds were Wardrobe Mistresses, and make-up was looked after by H. H. Lush. George Nicholls and Eleanor Dodds. Ushers were G. W. Craw, Roy Taylor, Gordon Hill, Walter Perks, Don Loucks, J. W. Anderson, Jack Bennett and Art Hill.

Costumes were from Mallabar Toronto, and the dances were arranged by Miss Caroline Littlefield.

The music was splendid throughout, and the choruses were very interesting and well rendered, notable among them being the mandarins' chorus, "We're the Cream of the Courtly Creatures" and the chorus entitled "The Emperor's Own."

At the close of the performance, lovely bouquets of flowers were presented to Miss Mary Sedgewick, Miss Jessie Pattison and Miss Emma Lou Chenhall, with little Barbara Craig and Betty Jackson doing the honors, while Adam Sands gallantly presented her bouquet to his 'lady friend' of the drama.

His return to active work was hailed by his subjects everywhere. Despite the fact that his illness weakened him, he nevertheless pursued his work with the same endeavor as before.

Today is reproduced one of the finest informal camera snapshots of the King and Queen taken shortly after King George was able to get around again. It was taken at Wollaton, Nottingham, at an agricultural show—an affair the King always took keen delight in attending. He had a real knowledge of farming and stock raising and his interest was not merely perfunctory, but actuated by a desire to learn and to judge.

Ascending to the throne in 1910, the first major catastrophe was the world war, which was followed by the difficult period of readjustment.

No sooner did the world get itself properly settled when their came the economic crash late in 1929—an economic situation which has yet to be finally solved. During this period, the task of King George and the entire royal family was made even more difficult. Unemployment, threat of revolution, strikes, new war threats arose almost daily to render the task of the King an invidious one.

It is significant, however, that when statesmen were faced with critical decisions, it seemed they wore a path to Buckingham Palace for advice from their monarch. During these times, King George probably had more real influence over his parliament than any king in the past century or more—including Queen Victoria.

"Buck" Winch's Spectacles Are Missing But Where Could They Have Gone He Asks

"One tooth brush"—"Here we are"; "One tin of tooth powder"—"O.K."; "Two safety razors"—Yes"; "A pair of spectacles"—"They're not here."

A police officer and a lawyer were checking over the personal effects of one Reginald "Buck" Winch on remand on a charge of having unlawful possession of a revolver—or "hot rod" as "Buck" would probably prefer to term it. The check-up was being made in the police office, where one of the guardians of the law was turning out the little brown canvas bag in which the prisoner's personal belongings were stored at the time of his arrest.

"Have another look," the lawyer requested.

The bag was turned inside out to no purpose.

"Buck's" horn-rimmed spectacles are missing, and it is presumed that he left them in the lock-up prior to his removal to the county gaol, and that they have since found their way into other hands.

"Well. That's tough," counsel for the defence remarked. "Buck" particularly wanted his spectacles. Without them he can't read a thing and there is nothing else for him to do but twiddle his thumbs."

Our Common Birds

A Column Written for the Bird Lovers of Peterborough and District.

By FRANK PAMMETT.

HINTS TO OBSERVERS

When you begin to study birds in the field and woods, to guard against scaring the wary, you should make yourself as much as possible, a part of the landscape. Most birds are not afraid of man as a figure, but as an aggressive object.

The observnce of a few simple rules will help you to be unobtrusive:—

1.—Avoid light or bright-colored clothing. It is best to wear something dark in color which will serve the purpose of a protection as it will blend more effectively with the landscape.

2.—Walk slowly and noiselessly. Make a practise of stopping often, and stand perfectly still, and listening for birds' voices. Avoid all quick, jerky motions.

3.—Avoid all talking, but if necessary, speak only in an undertone—a most important rule for young observers.

4.—Conceal yourself by leaning against a tree, or pulling a branch down in front of you. A low stump in a raspberry patch, and a log in a swamp prove most profitable seats. Be sure in clear weather to get between the sun and your bird. In wrong light a scarlet tanager or a bluejay may look as black as a crow.

5—Beware of the besetting sin of many observers. Never jump at conclusion. Prove all your conjectures. It is advisable to have a pencil and pad handy, and to jot down notes on each bird in regard to colour, flight, habits, and any other things of interest.

In going to look for birds it is important to consider the time of day and the weather. Birds usually follow the sun. In Spring and Fall you will find them in the fields and orchards in the early morning, but when the sun has warmed the south side of the woods, they go there. And in the afternoon, they will follow it across to the north side. During heavy winds or storms you are most likely to find the birds well under cover of the woods, no matter at what time of day; and there, often on the side opposite that from which the wind blows.

If observers follow these simple instructions, they should have very little trouble in being abe to study any common bird, from the living specimen.

Watch for next week's column.

MONKS AND NUNS MADE VICTIMS OF NAZI DRIVE

Wholesale Purging of Catholic Orders Sees Members of 54 Orders Arrested.

VIOLATED EXHANGE LAW.

BERLIN, April, April 27 (A.P.)—Nuns and Monks. Some of whom were described as aged and feeble, from 54 different Catholic orders, were held to-day for foreign exchange violations as the cries of speakers in a great anti-Christian German faith movement echoed through the Reich.

The members of the religious orders were arrested during a wholesale purging of Catholic institutions for alleged violations of the exchange law.

Many of the Nuns arrested, Catholic sources said, have been in solitary retreat for more than five years. They scarcely know who Hitler is, it was said, and "most certainly never heard of the Devisen (foreign exchange) Law." Elderly and sickly Mothers Superior were among those arrested. Some were brought to Berlin and put in the Women's Prison.

This action was disclosed as catcalls and stamping feet greeted last night's anti-Christian meeting in the great Berlin Sports Palast when Jacob Wilhelm Hauer declared Christianity is not the true religion of Germans.

Vatican May Protest

At the same time the possibility arose the Vatican would protest against the new press law banning religious and other publications held inimical to the Third Reich.

While a report was being sent to the Vatican maintaining that Article IV. of the Concordat was broken by the new law, the church situation became further involved when the Nazis struck nearer to the heart of the Protestant opposition to the Nazi Church by arresting three more rebel pastors.

The pastors, Rev. Wilhelm Harnisch, the Rev. Mr. Prastrious and Superintendent Gotthold Bronisch, office manager of the Berlin organization of Confessional clergymen, were arrested at the close of an executive council meeting of the Confessional Synod. The arrests apparently were made with the intention of creating a salutory effect.

Hauer, addressing a huge crowd at the Nazi-sanctioned rally, said God had "revealed himself to us" through Adolf Hitler.

"Christianity says there is only one way to God and whoever does not believe in it is lost," Hauer said. "Such a claim leads to confessionalism from which sprung all evils that afflicted the religious history of the German people in the past. God has not revealed himself in the so-called chosen people alone, but also to us through our Fuehrer, to enable us to accomplish our great mission in the world."

Theological students attempted to break up the Pantheistic gathering, but after several interruptions they were dragged to the door by Nazi Brownshirts. Several were struck on the head.

KERVIN CONTINUES FIGHT.

OTTAWA.—Leo Kervin, of Callander, Ont., manager for Oliva Dionne, father of the Dionne quintuplets, left Ottawa last night for Toronto, where it is said he will continue to fight to obtain more "liberty" for the famous babies.

Kervin while here endeavored to enlist the support of the General Executive of La Federation des Femmes Canadiennes Francaises in convention here.

CHANCE SUN'S PRESENCE FAILS TO AWE RIVALS

Kentucky Derby This Year Will be Wide Open Affair, Turf Fans Say.

FIELD STILL CROWDED

ALTHOUGH Chance Sun remains the 5 to 1 "Winter Book" favorite for the Kentucky Derby, to be run at Churchill Downs on Saturday next, May 4, the impression seems to prevail that this year's race is going to be as wide open as the town of Louisville itself is prior to and immediately after the running of the big event. More and more the betting folks are in a quandry trying to pick out one particular 3-year-old and center their attention on him or her. In other years the rule has been to get a horse to beat the favorite. Not so this year, if the average run of conversation on the derby holds out. This writer has yet to talk to one person who thinks Chance Sun will win the race. These gents may all be wrong, but it sort of bears out the theory that the horse is far from being a popular favorite.

Another thing that makes picking this year's winner a bit more complicated than usual is the fact there have been no withdrawals from the list of nominees. Only one has been officially declared out thus far—Bluebeard—and few took the Mrs. S. H. Fairbanks recent purchase very seriously as a Derby threat. It is an old Derby custom along about this time of the year to have one of the more prominent eligibles come out of a trial with a bad leg, a cold in the head or an aggravated case of icterus. This, of course, made the task of picking the winner lots easier in past years. Eliminate a half dozen of the more prominent ones from this year's list and it would be much easier to name the likely winner.

THE SUREST way to bring about such a happening seems to be that of calling it to attention publicly, so an epidemic of broken legs or fallen arches may now be expected. Not that we want to see any horse deprived of the chance of starting, but it just doesn't seem natural the way things are going now.

In other years the arrival of one of the prominent contenders for the $40,000 prize was reason enough to put out a special edition of the Louisville papers. Yet Roman Soldier and Whiskolo arrived on the scene of battle yesterday with hardly a mention being made of it. They finished one-two in the Texas Derby Saturday and those who saw the race run even go so far as to say that is the way they will finish in the big scramble May 4. Omaha, one of the strong second choices, showed his fitness for the Derby by winning with ridiculous ease in his first start of the year this week at Jamaica. Off that race, he should be shipped to Louisville posthaste. Once there he may go so far as to take the play away from Chance Sun and it wouldn't be surprising if he wound up the prerace choice for Col. Matt Winn's famed and valuable stake.

Reds Pad Roster With List Of Strangers

OWNERS SPEND $125,000 FOR "BABY INFIELD"

Billy Myer, Late of the Columbus Club, Has All Earmarks of Great Shortstop.

MAY UPSET DOPE BUCKET

Take for example the following line-up: Bottomley, 1b; Kampouris, 2b; Riggs, 3b; Myers, ss; Goodman, rf; Byrd, cf; Hafey, lf; Campbell, c; Hollingsworth, p.

While that isn't the batting order it's a line-up that Manager Charley Dressen may hand to the umpire any day—and every man named is new to the Reds except Chick Hafey and Bottomley.

Baby Infield

The Reds spent $125,000 for a baby infield. How it will click under big league pressure over the season remains a guess. The youngsters may set the league afire, but the chances are against any such bonfire. There are experienced infielders, such as Sparky Adams, Tony Pietry, Gordon Slade and Joe Morrissey to help in case the infield blows.

There is at least one fine infielder among the rookies, Billy Myers, at short, who came up from Columbus with a $25,000 tag attached. He has all the marks of a great shortstop.

Rookie in Right

Goodman, whom Dressen plans to use regularly in right, hit .331 for Rochester last year, and looked fine in training camp. Reserve outfielders are Comorosky, from the Pirates, and Harlan Pool and Lincoln Blakely, the latter with Toronto last year.

The line-up, aside from the rookies, includes men from seven other major league teams. MacFadyen and Byrd are former Yanks; Keith Frazier is a White Sox alumnus; Derringer, Adams, Hafey are former Cards; Comorosky and Piet are from the Pirates. Slade and Catcher Lombardi used to wear Dodger uniforms. Herrmann, pitcher, and Campbell, a new catcher, are from the Cubs, and Tony Freitas is the same little southpaw who toiled for Connie Mack.

Seventh Place

With a lot of experimentation ahead, the Reds, on the dope, do not seem to be bound for any destination higher than seventh place, which makes it look bad for the Phils. In the opening games, however, they have shown a surprising ability to come through in the pinches and it is not impossible that the old dope bucket is again wrong.

The roster looks like a plot by General-Manager Larry MacPhail to sell more scorecards to the Rhineland rooters.

Inside Sportin' Dope—By A. Wise Cracker

Mister Sporting Editor:

Well, Mac, they ain't been much this week to cause much excitement in the sport world, especially locally. The softball boys is practically all recovered after the annual meeting, and the hockey club got organized for next season, with much the same set of officers but in different berths, and outside of that the week has been a blank, except Mister K. Lee's boys has been tossing the pill about a bit, getting ready for the long campaign.

In the major loops neither of my New York choices has climb to the top as yet, but the Giants seem to be on their way and the Yanks will get straightened out before long. So far 1 of the big features has been the slump of the Detroit Tigers. I told the customers a while ago I didn't look for the Cochrane gang to repeat, but I certainly didn't figger they was going to get off to such a rotten start, with everybody taking them for a ride. Up to to-day, Thurs., the Tigers had win just 2 games, which ain't no sort of a performance for a gang which said they was going to cop the pennant and make it 2 in a row. The Boston Red Sox has been the sparkplugs in the American loop up to now, Mac, getting great pitching with Mister Wes. Ferrell, already a double winner, and Mister J. Cronin's whole machine going along as swift as a nut.

Meanwhile in the National loop the Brooklyn Dodgers—yes, Brooklyn's still in the league—has been causing most of the sensation, and Mister Casey Stengel has his team nicely in hand and apparently going places. However, the Giants has been doing nicely, too, and it's a lot too early to concede the Brooklyn boys the flag. 1 feature so far is the National League is a mile out in front of the American circuit in home-run drives, which always has been the favorite dish in the jr. organization. The National sluggers seem to have the range of all the fences, and led by this here now Mister Rolph Camilli, which wasn't considered good enough for the Cubs, they been pouring the pine into the pet offerings of the loop's best pitchers. Mister Camilli has collected 6 himself up to the present writing, and unless the hurlers can sort out his weak spot this left-handed swatsmith is likely to give Mister Foxx, Mister Gehrig and other long-drivers plenty of high-class opposition.

A little bit of post-season hockey dope, Mac, is that the Lady Byng trophy is to become the personal property of Mister Frankie Boucher of the New York Rangers, who has win it 7 times in the last 8 years, and that Lady Byng is to replace it with another mug. That's good news, for the veteran Ranger centre ice star has been a shinning example to all young hockey players, going through season after season in the rough and tough pro circuit without hardly ever drawing a penalty, and at the same time being always up near the top among the play-makers and the scorers. Mister Boucher has shown that to star in the cash and carry circuit you don't halfta go round with a chip on your shoulder and taking a poke at every bozo that comes near you. A credit to the game is Mister Boucher, and it's nice to think he's going to be able to put that Byng trophy up on the mantelpiece and show it to his grandchildren.

Sportfully yours,

TORONTO WINS SLUGGING FEST FROM ORIOLES

Boone Boys Get Twenty Hits, Including Three Homers, to Defeat Baltimore.

FINAL SCORE 15 TO 12.

(By the Associated Press).

Toronto Maple Leafs and Newark Bears are running one-two in the International League race, but their latest conquests came by vastly different means.

While Cliff Melton was holding the Buffalo Bisons to two hits to give Newark a 4-2 victory yesterday, Toronto engaged in a knock-down drag-out battle with Baltimore's hefty-clouting Orioles and emerged on the long end of a 15-12 score only after two hours and 45 minutes of struggling.

The Bears made only five hits off Ken Ash and Hod Lisenbee, but Ernie Koy's home run with two on in the first and another circuit clout by George McQuinn in the third gave Newark its seventh victory in ten starts.

Sixth in 8 Games.

Toronto's triumph over Baltimore was the Leaf's sixth in eight games. Toronto rocked four Baltimore pitchers for 20 hits, including home runs by Frank McCormick, Wes Schulmerich and Jimmy Pattison, but it took a six-run rally in the eighth to clinch the verdict. Baltimore's 10 hits, including George Puccinelli's ninth homer and circuit clouts by Woody Abernathy and Vince Barton, thus bringing the Orioles' total home runs this season to 27 in 11 games. Frank McCormick, Leafs' first-sacker, who had made only two hits in 24 times at bat, collected four singles in addition to the homer in the Orioles' rout.

Third For Wings.

Jimmy McCloskey's wildness in the early innings and an error by Gordon Hinkle enabled the Rochester Red Wings to make it three in a row from Syracuse, 4-3. Driven from the box Thursday, Pete Appleton came back to pitch Montreal Royals to a 5-2 triumph over Albany Senators. Appleton allowed only four hits and blanked the Senators after the first inning.

OWENS IS STAR OF TWO EVENTS

Ohio State Athlete Close to Record in Broad Jump.

DRAKE RELAY CARNIVAL.

DES MOINES, Iowa, April 27. (AP).—Jesse Owens, Ohio State's human kangaroo, drove his brown body through space yesterday to miss breaking the world's broad jump record by just three-eighths of an inch.

This 21-year-old Cleveland lad achieved his amazing leap in the preliminaries of the twenty-sixth annual Drake relay carnival. He bounded off the take-off board and went sailing through the air to establish a new United States record of 26 feet 1⅝ inches.

Starting off with Owens' mark in the broad jump, three other Drake relay records went tumbling in the first assault of the two-day attack.

Mark Panther of Iowa, Western conference champion, smashed the record for the javelin throw, tossing the spear 210.74 feet to break the record of 209.21. The University of Iowa sprint quartet lowered the Drake record to 1.26 in the 880 yards relay. Iowa State Teachers' College of Cedar Falls, Iowa, smashed the Iowa Intercollegiate Athletic Association half-mile relay mark by hanging up a record of 1.29.9.

BRANDOCK MAY UPSET DOPE AGAINST BAER, SAYS RUNYAN

James J. Can Take Punches Without Fluttering--Maxie Might Tire More Quickly--Challenger Has Slow Ploddin g Style.

By DAMYON RUNYON
(Copyright, 1935, by Central Press Canadian)

MIAMI, April 27.—Do not laugh too heartily at the pretensions of James J. Braddock to the heavyweight title.

It is true that he is a veteran as fighters go, that he is slow, almost loggy, in his manner of fighting. But he can punch, and he can take a punch. These attributes are most important.

Max Baer, in his fight with Max Schmeling, seemed to be tiring when he nailed Schmeling on the chin with a long and powerful smash, the German foolishly trying to pull away from the blow instead of moving inside of it.

Schmeling never could take a punch like Braddock, as the number of knockouts by opponents in Schmeling's record shows. Had he been able to weather that one blow, it is conceivable Schmeling might have gone on to victory.

Primo Carnera, knocked down right off the reel by an unexpected thunderbolt from Baer's fist, and sustaining an injury to an ankle in the fall, nevertheless kept going against Baer, and was on his feet when the referee intervened, with Baer again apparently quite tired.

Baer May Tire

Now allowing that Braddock survives Baer's early attack, and Baer begins to weary as he did against Schmeling and Carnera, the New Jersey man is bound to have some kind of a chance.

He is dead game, and he is not afraid to peg away with his right hand, his best punch. Baer, of course, seems to have superability when it comes to taking a smash, but they all go if they are tagged right.

The odds are admittedly against Braddock, yet the writer thinks he is a tougher opponent for Baer than Schmeling. That other James J., Tunney, at 27, with seven long years of struggling behind him, was accorded no more chance against the mighty Dempsey than Braddock is conceded against Baer, but pugilistic history will tell you that Tunney made out all right.

Braddock has the luck of the James J.'s in his favor, anyway. James J. Corbett, James J. Jeffries, James J. Tunney—why not James J. Braddock?

Baer Free Agent

This writer is glad to see Braddock get his big chance, and insists that he must not be idly dismissed as an opponent for Baer, but it is generally agreed that the best thing that could happen to the boxing game in American would be a victory for Baer.

This would end the unsportsmanlike attempt of the Madison Square Garden Corp. to perpetuate the heavyweight title in its own name, as Baer becomes a free agent after one more fight for the Garden, while Braddock is said to have been forced into signing a contract to make his first defence of the title, if he wins it, under the auspices of the Garden.

The Garden had Jack Sharkey under contract when he was matched to fight Max Schmeling, and the boxing commission agreed to recognize the match as for the vacated heavyweight title. Then the commission of that day, which is not the same commission that is in office at this time, made a move that it afterwards deeply regretted.

It forced Schmeling, while he was in training, to sign a contract with the Garden to make his first defence of the title under the auspices of the Garden.

Backed by the authority of the commission, the Garden threatened to call off the fight unless Schmeling signed. Thereafter, the Garden insisted on the same clause with other contenders, a manoeuvre that did more than anything else to contribute to the bleak days of the boxing game by making a monopoly of the heavyweight championship.

It cost Schmeling, Sharkey and Carnera thousands of dollars as champions. It is costing Max Baer plenty. And the Garden by alienating friendships and support in that move, has cost itself a very large amount of money. There is such a thing as out-smarting yourself.

Braddock, at 28, is not as old by seven years as Bob Fitzsimmons, when "Ruby Robert" won the heavyweight title, though to be sure Fitz had no such puncher as Baer popping at him.

A fast, clever boxer could always made Braddock look futile, but Baer hardly rates as either fast or clever. He is more difficult to hit than many observers think, and has a style all his own that is somewhat deceiving. He keeps his chin pretty well tucked in, and for all he is a swinger he punches rapidly.

The dope says Baer ought to whip Braddock. Yet the dope has been wrong so often in these publistic cases that it can be wrong again without stretching a point. In any event, James J. Braddock furnishes us with a new illustration of the truth of an old adage:

"All things come to him who waits."

Or something like that.

"Babe" Didrikson Qualifies for Final

HOUSTON, Tex., April 27. (C.P.) — Still driving them a mile, Mildred "Babe" Didrikson swept into the finals of the Texas women's golf championship yesterday with a one-up victory over Mrs. R. E. Winger, Fort Worth.

The renowned girl athlete, who set the national title as her goal when she started taking golf seriously last year, dropped a 20-foot putt on the eighteenth for a birdie four and the win over Mrs. Winger.

The wiry Miss Mildred will meet Mrs. Dan Chandler of Houston, to-day for the title.

HARD-LUCK JOE CASCARELLI FALLS TO YANKEE SLUGGING

Tamulis Takes Place of Grove on Mound and New Yorkers Win 11-2—National League Leading Dodgers Cop Fifth Straight Victory.

By Hugh S. Fullerton, Jr.
(Associated Press Sports Writer).

If he can discover a little control to mix in with his otherwise potent pitches, Joe Cascarella may turn out to be one of the hurlers Connie Mack is looking for to help the Athletics into one of the upper places in the American League standing.

So far this season Cascarella had pitched two games, both against the Yankees, allowed seven hits in all and lost them both because of passes. Last week he dropped a four-hit game 3-1, walking all the runs to first. Yesterday Joe granted only three hits in seven innings, fanned seven rivals and saw the A's wind up on the short end of an 11-2 score.

One of the blows and two passes loaded the bases in the second inning and Frank Crosetti cleaned them with a homer. Two more walks led to another run in the seventh, and when Cascarella was taken out for a pinch hitter the Yanks did some serious hitting to pile up six more runs against a trio of successors in the eighth. Meanwhile Vito Tamulis, pitching for the Yanks because Lefty Gomez had a cold, came through with a neat eight-hit performance.

Deadlocked With Senators.

The triumph put New York above the .500 mark for the first time this season but failed to alter the standings. The Yanks remained deadlocked with Washington, which walloped the Red Sox 10-5 when Manager Joe Cronin failed to support his star southpaw flinger, Mose Grove.

Cronin made three of Boston's five errors.

Chicago's slugging White Sox slipped past Boston into second place, slamming out an 11-4 victory over St. Louis on the combination of Ted Lyons' six-hit flinging and five home runs, including Zeke Bonura's fifth of the year. Cleveland had no trouble retaining the lead, burying the Tigers under an 11-3 count. The Indians scored runs in big bunches, while Willis Hudlin improved after a bad start.

Furnish National Highlight.

The Giants and Phillies furnished the highlight of the National League program, ending with the score tied at 5-5 when darkness halted the battle in the 13th. John Moore belted two circuit blows, making it five for the season, and tied the score for keeps with his second in the eighth inning.

Brooklyn's League leaders had a narrow escape when Tom Zachary weakened toward the finish after Boston errors had given him an early lead, but Dutch Leonard came to the rescue and the Dodgers came out ahead 5-4. The Cubs and Cardinals, tied for third place, each won a 3-2 triumph.

Chicago beat Cincinnati despite Si Johnson's five-hit hurling, while the Cards went 11 innings against Pittsburgh before they got the odd run off Relief Hurler Bill Swift.

150 TRAINS BEAR 70,000 FANS TO ENGLAND'S SOCCER CAPITAL

Attendance This Year Expected to be More Representative of Empire Than Ever Before—Estimated $125,000 Gate Receipts Will be Divided Three Ways.

LONDON, April 27 (CP Cable).—The annual invasion of London for the English Cup final began before dawn to-day as special trains from all parts of the United Kingdom arrived disgorging thousands of fans.

Wembley Stadium, where West Bromwich Albion and Sheffield Wednesday, survivors of the long soccer competition, battle for the famous trophy was the destination of the gaily-bedecked and light-hearted crowds.

It was estimated 150 trains bearing about 70,000 visitors steamed into London during the morning, but many of these did not see the final of "t' Cup." They took advantage of cheap trips provided by the railways to see the Capital.

Pigeon fanciers from the North brought birds which were released with the news as each goal was scored in the great tussle.

The attendance was expected to be more representative of the Empire than ever before.

$125,000 Gate Receipts

Although the stadium accommodates 120,000, only about 93,000 were admitted under the Football Association's "all ticket" system. No money is paid at the turnstiles. The receipts it is estimated will amount to approximately $125,000, which is equally divided among the Football Association and the two clubs after deduction of expenses and entertainment tax.

With representatives of the Dominions and the Colonies was Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas, Secretary for the Dominions, and Lord Derby.

The teams:

West Bromwich Albion — Goal, Pearson; backs, Shaw, Trentham; half-backs, Murphy, W. Richardson, Edwards; forwards, Glidden, Carter, W. G. Rochardson, Sandford, Boyes.

The pitch was in splendid condition and firm enough to suggest a fast game. A bitterly cold wind made things uncomfortable for the spectators.

King Unable to Attend

On all sides disappointment was expressed that the King was unable to attend. Before Referee Fogg whistled for the start of the game the Prince of Wales shook hands with the players of both teams.

Starling won the toss for Sheffield but the wind made no difference to either team. Hooper and Surtees combined to carry the ball into the Thistles' arena. It was passed to Palethorpe who beat Pearson with a hard, low drive.

Aroused by this reverse the Albion forwards drove through determinedly and their attacks were ably supported by the half-backs. Carter, veteran of many battles, opened the way for several attractive moves. Glidden spoiled one grand opportunity to equalize by ballooning over the bar.

The Wednesday progressed with sweeping passes. Rapidly surtees took play to the other end and twice in succession Brown hurled himself at the feet of a crowd of players. Each time he emerged with the ball in his possession.

The Birmingham team was now on top. One of the forwards flashed past too quickly for W. G. Richardson who made a strenuous effort to reach the ball.

Pearson was penalized for carrying but nothing came of the ensuing free kick. Then the Wednesday was awarded a free kick a few feet outside the penalty area but Sharp shot wide. A little later Stirling was illegally charged and again Sheffield failed to capitalize on the kick. Half time:

Sheffield Wednesday 1, West Bromwich Albion 1.

Second Half

Receiving a fine pass from Boyes, Glidden rifled in a cunning shot which Brown just tipped round the upright. Sheffield carried the play to the other end. Pearson punched away a high centre and shaw managed to dispose of a lob by Palethorpe.

At this stage the exhibition was of a typical Cup Final type.

The Wednesday won a typical Cup game through the ability of its forwards to seize opportunities in front of goal. Both teams had their share of the play in a great struggle. Palethorpe scored the winners' opening goal a few minutes after the start of the game, but Boyes equalised before half time. After resumption, Hooper put the Wednesday ahead but again West Bromwich drew level through Sandford, Boyes.

The game was fought in cool weather and a strong breeze made things uncomfortable for the spectators, although owing to its direction it did not interfere with the play.

Considerable disappointment was expressed at the inability of the King to attend, his place being taken by the Prince of Wales. Representatives of the Dominions and Colonies were present, with Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas, Secretary to the Dominions, and Lord Derby. The South African cricketers, who will shortly open an English tour, were also in the stands.

STAR ROOKIE LEADS BATTERS IN INTERNATIONAL CIRCUIT

Montreal Veteran, Jimmy Ripple, Also Among Topnotchers in Slugging Circle—Dallesandro Clicks For 10 Safeties in 17 Trips to Plate.

NEW YORK, April 27. (AP).—Two amazing early bursts of hitting by the rookie Dominick Dallesandro of Syracuse and the Montreal veteran, Jimmy Ripple, put all the other efforts of the International League swatsmiths in the shade during the first week of the campaign.

Up through last Wednesday both had hit well above the .500 mark, Dallesandro smacking 10 hits in 17 trips to the plate for a .588 mark and Ripple connecting 16 times in 30 times up for a .533 average. The nearest approach to these marks, despite the fact that there were eight "regulars" hitting .400 or better, was the .300 average of Bil Herrehberger, young Newark catcher.

Cuccinelli Close Behind

Rivalling Dallesandro and Ripple for the early laurels was George ('Pooch') Puccinelli, the Baltimore clouter, who belted out seven home runs in the first nine games, drove in 13 counters, and scored 11 times while compiling a .324 average. Most of Puccinelli's opposition came from teammates as Barton and Woodley Abernathy collected four homers each; Abernathy and Fern Bell of Newark knocked in 12 runs each and another Oriole, Bill Sweeney, scored one more run than "Pooch" to take the league lead.

Dallesandro and Ripple also scored "doubles" in the slugging race, the former cracking five doubles and the latter connecting for 16 hits, two more than Sweeney's total.

Howard Myers of Buffalo led in triples with two and Ernie "Chief" Koy of Newark in base stealing with three thefts.

Only three pitchers managed to win two games without a loss in the first week. They were Ted Kleinhans, Newark; Bobby Combs, Syracuse, and Mayhood, Belcher, Rochester.

SPORTS DAY BY DAY

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two.

(By O. J. P.)

We are sitting around very blue indeed on account of we have a virulent case of spring fever when who should blow in but our pal Slim, gentleman of leisure de luxe since '27! He has been a great absentee from this office since winter. "I have been a great absentee from this joint," he announces, "and once the fishing season opens you will be missing me considerably again." It seems he has a new lady friend who keeps him tied up very late at nights so he sleeps very late in the daytime and fills in odd hours improving his snooker and studying the racing form. He is a great student indeed.

• • • • • • •

But he didn't come around just to be sociable. 'I am not here," says he, "just to pass the time of day. I am here on business. In fact, I am willing to cut you in as partner and you have practically no work at all to do." We pointed out we had no potatoes and even less ambition. "Very little of either is required," is the comeback. "All you are supposed to do is find out in advance from the newspaper syndicate how old Major Hoople's bangtail comes out against McNulty's nag and we can lay a little sugar with some very susceptible gees which I know, gees which will bet on anything at all if you quote 'em 5 to 3." Of course, we have to pass it up, but you've got to give him credit for trying to get along!

• • • • • • •

And before he leaves in disgust he has this to say of senior baseball: "I see by the papers that the Beer Barons of Oshawa have at least five flingers, the Radiomen of Belleville may sign up six, Kingston's Ponies have three or four and the Sea Fleas here are banking on half a dozen—three which chuck 'em from the south side. Why don't the clubs sign up a few more tossers and join the big leagues? And furthermore I am expecting any day now to hear of the dugouts being enlarged to take care of the overflow crowd of pitchers at the game, because it says right in the rule book that a team can only use one pitcher at a time." And with this sour-castic crack he hurries back to his continuous search for suckers.

Here's a letter from the Toronto Central 'Y': "Dear Sir—On May 3rd and 4th the Ontario Wrestling Championships will be held at Central Y.M.C.A., Toronto. We are anxious to have as many entrants from different towns and cities in Ontario as possible. Will you make some mention in your sports column about this event? We can assure you the object is a worthy one. We intend to build with the proceeds of this championship a cabin for boys in Pine Crest Camp, Muskoka. Naturally, the more entries we secure the better will be our chances for success. Central 'Y' has for years been known as eminently fair in their conducting of wrestling tournaments. Any mention you may make on your valuable sports pages will be greatly appreciated by the Central Y.M.C.A."

• • • • • • •

There are several local amateur rasslers who might like a crack at these championships. They start at 8.00 p.m. next Friday and Saturday in the Central 'Y' gym in Toronto. Entry fee of four bits to accompany entry form. We have a couple of the latter. Entries close next Wednesday. One of the rules is: "A fall shall terminate the bout and in no case shall the duration of a bout exceed ten minutes." Preliminary bouts are one fall, but final sessions are two out of three.

Closing of entries in the Southend Softball League takes place at a meeting Monday eve at eight in All Saints' Clubhouse. Anyone wanting in should be on hand. The schedule begins May 7th. Probably six teams will make up this circuit playing in the Exhibition Grounds this summer. With some of the players also in the Church League, the Southend Loop's schedule will be drawn up so as not to conflict with the other one if possible. A cup for annual competition has been donated to the southenders by Warne Bros., Jewellers, for which they say mucho gracias—only they say it in English. It's an old Spanish custom with us and "pronto" is the other word we know.

Lindsay, Millbrook and Auburns are all perspiring freely these Aprilly eves at lacrosse practise in preparation for high jinks this year in the Tri-County Lacrosse League. Dinty's Inn are busy wondering who will manage them this summer seeing as how Charlie Carson is in St. Thomas now—on business which, we understand, has nothing to do with taking over the championship rugby team there this autumn. The league holds an important soapbox session Tuesday at eight in the Chamber of Commerce here to get things started. Belleville? Oh, they're still raving about some sort of a Central Ontario league.

The ex-Dukes of Oshawa have abdicated in favor of a brewery this year but promise—in fact, threaten—to have a much better team than last season. They should have an excellent battery and a first-rate outfield. The infield looks to be fair so far, but they'll miss Red Hollingsworth at short. Tip Anderson, former local juvenile, is trying out for a hurling berth there while Hap Grose—remember him here?—is after a position in the outfield. He'll have a job against such opponents as Mathews, Hurst, Rowden, Peacock and Thurston. Lefty Wallace, classy first-sacker who was away part of last summer, will be on the job all season for the Brewers.

Yankee Fireballer

CHARLIE "RED" RUFFING

Except for the southpaw wizard "Lefty" Gomez, Red Ruffing, above, was the best of last year's Yankee pitchers. Joe McCarthy hopes he will repeat this season. Ruffing is a big fellow with a terrific speedball, and his won and lost percentage last season showed a mighty creditable performance. The rifle-armed Red thrives on work and should be a big help in the pennant race.

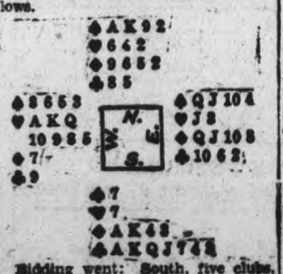
CONTRACT BRIDGE

By E. V. Shepard
"Teacher of Teachers"

IS THERE A SMALL SLAM AT CLUBS?

Mr. J. B. Brown of Denver, inquires whether a small slam can be made at clubs. The opening lead is the K of hearts, followed by the Q. Try it before reading what follows.



Bidding went: South, five clubs, counting upon game in case partner can furnish two tricks; West, five hearts, which would have been a splendid sacrifice for even a vulnerable pair; North, six clubs; East doubled.

The opening lead of the K of hearts held the trick and the Q was led. The declarer ruffed. South knew from East's last echo in hearts that West held only six other cards. The declarer took two rounds of trumps. When West showed out on the second lead of trumps he evidently held only five spades and diamonds combined. Provided West lets go all his useless hearts the declarer cannot tell from West's discards how spades and diamonds are held or who holds the Q, J, 10 of either suit. He should know, however, that unless East holds honors there cannot be a squeeze for a small slam, so South must play the hand in the only way which promises the contract fulfilled. When missing cards must lie in a particular way to enable you to accomplish your purpose, play as if you saw the cards held as you wish. Have South play that way. Have South lead out every one of his trumps, leaving only five cards to be played. The diagram below shows each player with just five cards left, except East, who has not yet played to the eighth trick.

East must play to the eighth trick. What shall he play? If he lets go a spade dummy's A, K, 9 will become good for three tricks, insuring the small slam. If East lets go one of his diamonds then South's diamonds become good for four tricks. The blind squeeze insures six odd.

From the very first a careful player should realize that a diamond must be lost unless a squeeze can be made. The Q, J, 10 cannot be so distributed as to fall in two leads of the suit, and South cannot discard more than a single diamond upon the two high honors in dummy's spades.

GYPSY GIRL

THE STORY OF AN IMPASSIONED ROMANCE

By McDONALD FEADER

FICTION

READ THIS FIRST:

Consuelo, a beautiful gypsy girl who longs to dance with all the world at her feet, is loved by the Dummy, a deaf mute, and Marcu. She despises her mother, Anica, but is fond of her father, Girtza. Marcu tempts Consuelo with a huge diamond and she agress to marry him. Just as Girtza notices Consuelo's ring, which she tells him she has stolen, the sheriff appears. He proceeds to haul the gypsies into court but Concuelo is no longer wearing the ring. When the pudge's wife and another woman search her, Consuelo fights them savagely. Meantime Marcu comes into the courtroom and announces he bought the ring. The town jeweler is summoned and admits selling Marcu the ring for $12.60. When the merchant declares it isn't worth a dollar, Consuelo is furious. The gypsies are dismissed from court and break camp hurriedly. Shortly afterwards the jeweler discovers he sold Marcu a $3,000 ring for $12.60. He had neglected to wear his glasses when he made the sale. Consuelo thinks Marcu tricked her about the ring's value and is bitter. She tempts the Dummy during a dance, he kisses her and Marcu appears. He tears Consuelo from the Dummy's arms and challenges him ot wrestle for the girl.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 12

Consuelo stood to the side. She did not urge on either one or the other. There was no exultation in her heart that they were fighting over her. Did they know that she would have neither of them? Did they not know that she would never marry, that she was going to dance; that men no long mattered; that only the palace on the top of the high hill counted; that life would never be complete until she had danced in the palace? Attainment That would not cheat her as men had done. Attainment! That was the only real thing.

"Petru," she called, her voice loud above the noise of the cheers and the fight, "Petru, play again on your flute. I will dance."

Petru put his flute to his lips and began to play.

Ah, what new thing was this? The gypsies looked at the girl. Why was she dancing as if she cared not at all that two men were fighting for her? At first they divided their attention and then slowly again the circle drew about her for what gypsy can resist a dancing girl or the sound of a flute? But yet again what gypsy can resist a good wrestling match? Yet it was true that men could wrestle any time and it was not true that anyone else could dance as this girl was dancing. Again they were clapping their hands and beating their feet in the dust and the circle closed about her and the two men were left on the outside of the circle. No one was watching them and it did not matter which one outwrestled the other.

The girl noticed the closed circle and she laughed and danced as she had never danced before. But the laugh faded and unknowingly she was a little sad that dancing had won this contest. When finally she had finished she ran away fast and went alone into the woods and flung herself upon the ground and buried her face in her hands and cried. It was hard to forget the Dummy's arms around her.

Hot summer days came in monotonous procession and it was still the talk of the camp how Consuelo had scorned the fighting men and had taken all honor away from their fight. Afterwards no one could understand why he had watched her dancing instead of a good matched contest between well muscled men.

And it made Marcu's blood boil and he wanted to lay his hands on her and beat her and make her say again, "Now is the time to tell you I love you."

But the Dummy laughed to himself. The first had been madness on his part, but it pleased him the way the men patted him on the back now and how Merla turned her saucy black eyes upon him admiringly. So he laughed and returned her look but did not take her seriously, but kept at his work. Into his painting crept a new boldness, a new sureness to the sweep of his brush that made more definite the beauty he knew so well how to create. Others of the gypsies would sit and pose for him and from the money he made selling pictures he was able to buy more oils and canvas.

Consuelo was like a mad one these days. First she was laughing and happy and then she was sullen and angry and cursed at the men and jeered at the married women and quarreled with other gypsy girls. She slapped Merla's face for turning her black eyes on the Dummy and it was Girtza's long whip that stopped their fighting. She turned the camp topsy-turvy with her temper and the women yelled at her and the young men followed her about.

She would not speak to Marcu. When he was about she flirted outrageously with the men and did not care whether they were married or not. Loud angry words followed her and she flung back words just as loud and angry.

There were no more times now when she could pour out her confidence to the Dummy as she had in the past. Friendship without passion as before could not be resumed between them. There was no one to whom the girl could turn and open the gates of her turbulent self and she as as restless as a caged lioness.

Girtza watched her and held back his whip when he might have beaten her. "Now is the time she must be married." And he turned his eyes upon Marcu for him to make his offer—but he did not.

This afternoon it was hot—hot, it seemed that the summer would never pass. Consuelo went to the Dummy.

"Come, you have money in your purse, let us go into the town and buy cold drinks. I could drink and drink and drink and not be satisfied."

Obediently he laid down his work and followed her. As they walked she did not talk and he could not.

They approached the railroad tracks on the outside of the town. On the siding stood a private car, the waves of heat rising above it, blurring the outline. A card table was set up on the ground in the shade of the car and three men were playing cards around it and drinking tall cool drinks.

Consuelo paused, then tapped the Dummy's arm and pointed.

"I'll make money there," and motioning the youth to wait for her, she walked toward the men.

As she came close her white teeth flashed in a smile. She stepped into the shade.

"You like your fortunes told?" she asked, eyes sparkling.

"Well, look what's here!"

"A gypsy!"

"What can you tell us?"

"I tell you the past, the future, your loves, your hates—I tell you all."

"Just like a woman. Never could keep a secret."

She stepped closer to the man who spoke.

"Cross my palm with silver, white man, and I shall tell you all that you want to know." Smiling up at him.

"Money first, always money first. That proves my point that women are all the same—"

"Go on, Doug, be a sport."

Doug took a dollar from his pocket and held it out to the gypsy.

"Now listen here, young lady," he said, "I want you to tell me a lot of good things, but don't you dare tell me that I'm going to fall in love—the last time cost me plenty—"

The slim fingers took the dollar eagerly and touched the outstretched hand.

"Whee! Don't do that!" Doug drew his hand away. "I'm frightfully afraid of women." he told her. "I can't tell your fortune unless I hold you hand."

Doug put his hands behind him.

"You know I don't think I'd be afraid of you if I had a little kiss first."

"This isn't New York," one of the other admonished.

"Well, I've never yet met a girl who refused to kiss me," Doug admitted blandly, "after I've given her money—not just a dollar, perhaps—but then a dollar is a dollar."

"Listen, girlie, don't pay a bit of attention to him. Why don't you tell my fortune? I won't ask for a kiss first—" the man stressed the last word.

"You forgetting your wife, Bill?" One of the trio, a tall, gray haired man, spoke.

"Go on, just because you're the only lucky one, don't rub it in," Bill retorted.

"Well, then, if I'm the lucky one, I ought to have mine told first. How about it, gypsy girl?"

"My name's Consuelo," she offered.

"All right, Consuelo, will you tell mine?"

POET LAUREATE PENS SONNETT

OVER AIR MAY 6.

LONDON, April 27.—(AP)—John Masefield, former New York saloon porter, and now the poet laureate of England, has penned a sonnet, a song of thanksgiving for the king's silver jubilee, which appeared in print for the first time today.

It follows:

"Scattered beneath the mansions of the sun
In distant continents, in every sea,
The many nations are that make us one
King, law and language, give us unity;
Our many peoples seldom speak together,
And yet, in stormy days we link and stand
In common purpose facing to the weather,
Swayed by one will and striving as one hand,
Being for freedom and for peace, our way
Is worth men's caring, we may still behold
The world's tomorrow spring from our today
With happier morning brighter than the old;
In hopeof such a morrow's dawn we sing
God prosper, bless, and save our precious king."

His verse was put to music by Sir Walford Davies, master of the king's music, whose office is parallel to that of Masefield in many ways.

"I expect it will be heard in public for the first time in the jubilee parade on May 6 at Aldershot," said Masefield. "On the same evening I shall recite the words over the wireless from London."

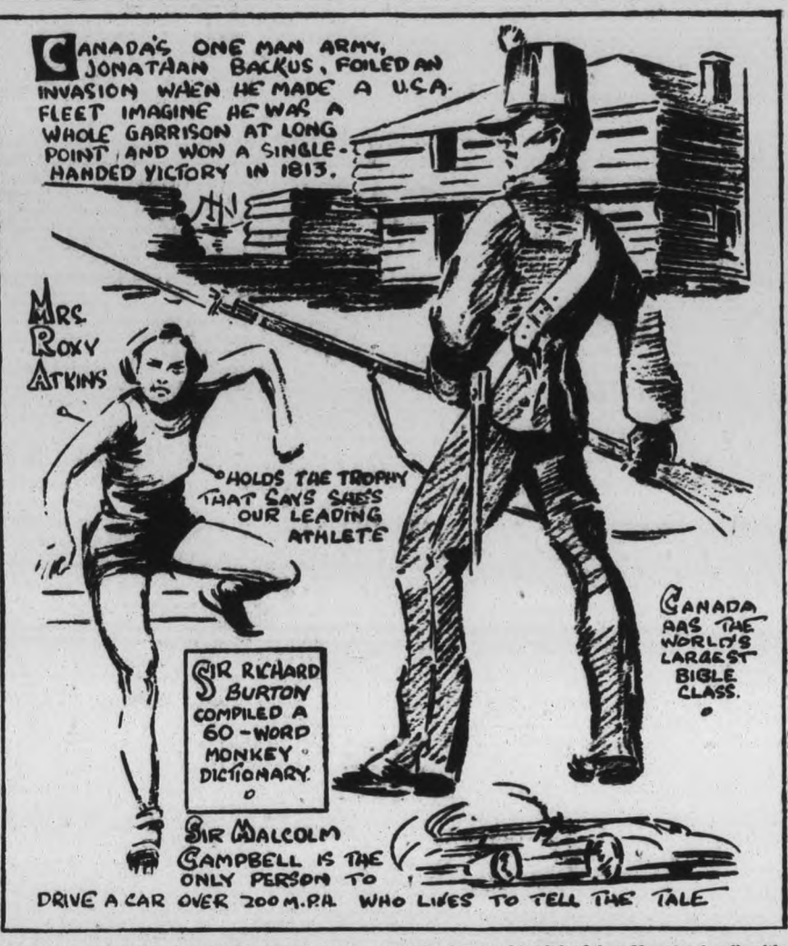
TELLING ON CANADA

and the British Empire

By HARRIS-STAPLETON



Old-time repertoire companies frequently were confronted by the problem of having half a dozen or more supernumerary actors represent an entire army, and solved it—to their own satisfaction at least—in a manner for which there is an amusing precedent in Canadian history. The theatrical solution was to have the same few "soldiers" continue passing a small aperture in the stage setting for so long a time as the action of the play required, and in this way the few seemed many to the audience.

The historical precedent was established in the troubled days of 1913 when a resourceful Yorkshire settler in the Long Point district of Norfolk county (Ont.) convinced an invading American fleet that he was an army. Descendants to-day recount how the intended attack was frustrated by his ingenious conduct, which caused the U.S. vessels to cancel their program.

Jonathan Backus, founder of the Ontario family of that name, was Canada's one-man army. He was an outstanding figure in the Long Point community and justified the confidence placed on him the eventful day that the invaders sailed into the bay. On hearing the news, he rushed home, quickly donned his captain's uniform and then for several hours covered as much ground as possible, appearing in one location for a few moments, then dodging out of sight to reappear in another. His ingenious attempt to be "here, there and everywhere" proved a successful ruse. The invaders received the impression that the little fort was well garrisoned, so weighed anchor and sailed away. Jonathan fooled the fleet and scored a single-handed victory.

The Women's Amateur Athletic Federation made a popular award when they decided that Mrs. Roxy Atkins merited the Craig trophy, as Canada's leading feminine athlete. The puresident of the Laurel Ladies' Athletic Club, Toronto, is versatile and consistent in her performances—and reached her present pinnacle only after a long, hard struggle that would have discouraged a less stout-hearted person. She is equally proficient at sprinting and hurdling. Just recently with three of her pupils, she added another trophy to her big collection when the Laurel girls' relay team won the 440-yard event from the all-American team in St. Louis. She was prepared to defend her 50-metre hurdle title at the same meet, but was unlucky enough to be disqualified for breaking.

Four dare-devils who have driven their powerful cars at 200 miles an hour or better across the sands at Daytona Beach, but only one survives. That was the gruesome percentage facing Sir Malcolm Campbell when he roared down the famous course recently to set up a new world's automobile speed record of over 276 miles an hour. Even then, the fatalistic Briton was greatly disappointed, for his highest speed of 281 miles was short of the 300 he was aiming at. But he and his famous Bluebird had done "the impossible" again.

Sir Richard Burton, famous translator of "Arabian Nights," sought and found relaxation in a zoo composed of 40 monkeys. He decided to learn the simian language and succeeded to the extent of compiling a dictionary of 60 words, which was lost to posterity when discovered in a warehouse fire.

Magistrate's Court

Five "hoboes" who formed the advance guard of transient unemployed visitors for the summer season were each fined ten dollars and costs or ten days' imprisonment, when they pleaded guilty to charges of drunkenness before Magistrate A. E. Gee of Lindsay to-day. They gave their names as follows: Joseph McAleer, Hugh Keenan, James Ross, John Carr and James Ryan.

The men who were arrested on Friday afternoon in the "jungle" they were alleged to have established near the C.P.R. tracks south of Maniece Avenue and east of Armour Road, were warned by the bench that Peterborough was going to be an undesirable place as a "hobo camping ground." The City Police, he said, are determined to prevent establishment of jungles here.

Each of the defendants pleaded they were on their way in search of work, and that they got drunk when one of their number purchased a gallon of wine. Ross and Ryan said they were old shipmates going to the head of the lakes in search of a ship.

Inspector James Reid told the court the men were "very noisy and quarrelsome," after being arrested, and that they used bad language.

TEAMS PLOWING COMMUNITY LOTS

Work is Well Under Way in Preparing Relief Gardens.

SEASON ADVANCED.

Planting of Peterborough's community gardens will be three weeks earlier than last year, A. B. Cunningham told The Examiner today.

"We have six teams plowing, and most of this work is already done, especially in the south ward below Charlotte Street," Mr. Cunningham said. "The weather has been so favorable, that many of the gardens have already been allotted and made ready for planting where we couldn't get started before May 24 a year ago.

The number of citizens who are taking advantage of the community garden plan may be as large as last year. This is already apparent in the south end, but there are evidences in the north and in Ashburnham of improvement in personal conditions, with possibly a dropping off in the demand for plots. We have been keeping a number of gardens for the men who will return from the road camps at the end of this month, and it is likely that quite a number of them will register at the Simcoe Street clothing depot.

Potatoes will be supplied at cost by the E. F. Mason grocerias, and seeds will be at cost from the Peterborough Floral Company. Tomato and cabbage plants will not be given out until May 25."

This is the third year of the community, an economy created by the depression, and their management has become so systematized that Mr. Cunningham has found little need for the publicity with which this venture was promoted last year and in 1933 when it was begun.

Jimmy Foxx, Philadelphia Athletics' erstwhile firstbaseman, who now performs behind the plate for the Mackmen, has ably demonstrated that the change of the big mitt has not hurt his batting ability at all. Here is Foxxy, in catching pose.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH SERVICES HELD IN PARIS BY BOLSHEVIKS

Declares Persecution of Religious Groups Aimed Only at Disturbers.

WHITE RUSSIANS OUT

By CORALIE VAN PAASSEN
Central Press Canadian Writer

PARIS, April 27. — This Sunday morning I attended a service of the Bolshevik - Christians. You may think the two terms exclude one another, but they don't. No more than communism and Christianity or even anarchism and Christianity. There are thousands of Christian-anarchist pastors in Europe and any number of Christian-Socialists; in England alone perhaps a million.

The rector of the Bolshevik-Christian church in Paris is Rev. Paul Schostakovsky. He holds services in a large basement, full of ikons and religious emblems and symbols.

"Do you know why they call us Bolshevik-Christians?" he said to me after the service, when I came to ask him if Mr. Alexander Kerensky was one of his parishioners, as I thought I had seen the former premier in the congregation. I was not mistaken either, by the way.

"They call us by that name," said the pastor, "because we will have nothing to do with the official orthodox church in Paris which is merely a gathering place of the nobles and boyars and grand dukes, who are forever plotting against the Soviet regime. To join in that would be highly dangerous, not for ourselves, but the repercussions in the U.S.S.R. would be serious."

Politics Injected

"The so-called religious persecution in Russia then is sometimes traceable to outside influences?" I asked.

"I will say one thing," replied Mr. Schostakovsky, "religious persecution in the U.S.S.R. has most times a political angle. Men and women are not persecuted for their religious beliefs. They may believe whatever they like. The churches in Russia are wide open; anybody can go in and out, but they must be careful not to use the church as a place to plot against the regime. Nor must they give the authorities the slightest suspicion that they entertain relations with the White Russians abroad, who, of course, are the most determined foes of the Soviet regime.

"The Russian orthodox bishop in Paris Mgr. Eulogius," he went on, "has never wanted to understand the danger in which he places Christians in the U.S.S.R. by his war-like declarations against the Moscow government. And this in spite of a solemn undertaking on his part to abstain from mixing in political questions. Whenever he thunders against the Soviets and threatens them that an army of White Russians is coming soon to chase them from power, the Bolshevik police takes a serious view of the matter and a search is instituted in the Russian cities for possible friends and partisans of Mgr. Eulogius, who might share his interventionist dreams.

"It got so bad here in Paris that the Metropolitan of the Othodox church in Moscow simply had to depose Mgr. Eulogius," went on the Russian priest. "It stands to reason," he said simply, "that the bishops in Moscow, who are living in peace with the Soviet government, were forced to repudiate one of their colleagues abroad who identified himself conspicuously with the plotters against the government."

Says Jews Untroubled

This view curiously coincides with an expression of a Russian Zionist, Mr. E. Jarblumsky whom I met this week. "Jews are never molested in Russia for the sake of race or religion in the Soviet state," he said. "There is no question of anti-Semitism. If Zionists have been imprisoned, as was recently the case in Leningrad, it was for an entirely different reason. Some spurious pamphlets against Stalin's collectivization policy were circulated recently in our city. These papers approved of the murder of Kiroff, one of Stalin's ablest lieutenants. The police investigation soon revealed that these documents had been printed on a press belonging to a well-known Zionist. This man has been arrested, obviously, but not because of his Jewish nationalist views."

Another visitor from Russia this week, a prominent architect, perhaps the most prominent architect in Europe at the present time, Mr. Eugene Levinsohn who is not a member of the Communist party, said he could not understand the fuss that was made in very distant lands about the religious question in Russia.

Pavlov a Christian

"It's always Canadians who are asking about it," he said. "Why don't they come and investigate the matter thoroughly instead of sending scare-rumors into the world? I will tell you something," he went on, "which befell the famous Professor Pavlov recently, I mean the great Pavlov, the biologist, one of the greatest living scientists in the world. Professor Pavlov retired last year and the Soviet government accorded him a pension of 18,000 rubles a year and also presented him with a fine car, a 1934 model six-passenger Lincoln and a chauffeur to drive him around.

"Now Professor Pavlov is a believer, an ardent Christian. The auto arrived on a Saturday afternoon and the first drive the professor took was to church next morning, not to a church in Leningrad, but out to some rural church in a country village, a real old-fashioned church of the Prava Slownie (orthodox). After attending the service he took a stroll around and sat down on a bench on the village mall as is the old custom. There was a young solder sitting on the bench.

"'Well, old fellow,' said the soldier rolling a cigarette, 'been to church, eh?'

"'Yes,' said Pavlov.

"'Such black ignorance, such black ignorance,' the solder shook his head. 'You should some day go to Leningrad,' he told the professor, 'and visit the biological clinic of Professor Pavlov and you'll see how life originates. You'll see that God has nothing to do with it.'

"'O, yes,' replied the great man, 'I think you are wrong, young fellow. Pavlov indeed believes in God. Pavlov believes in a supreme genius in the kosmos, who directs things. Pavlov recognizes a creative, thinking force behind the evolution of mankind and behind the marvelous evolution of the human body. He thinks that force will some day make man immortal with the collaboration of science, that is when science has learned to understand the human body.

"'Impossible,' said the soldier. 'A great man like Pavlov cannot believe such childish things. That's all nonsense, you are talking. How do you know about Pavlov anyway?'

Was Not Taught God

"'I am Alexander Ivanovitch Pavlov,' said the professor. And,' he added, 'listen young man, I am eighty years of age and there is nothing childish about my beliefs. When I was your age, I was like you, I had your beliefs.'

"'But I am a Communist,' said the soldier, 'I was taught biology at the university, my professors never mentioned God.'....

"'Your professors, my boy, I know them,' came back the old man. 'They were more concerned with political economy than with biology. Go and ask your tuition fees back and tell them Pavlov sent you!'"

"Dou you know Professor Pavlov?" I asked the Leningrad architect. "I just installed him in one of the new apartment blocks," he replied. "I had orders to prepare one suite of seven rooms for him and a huge sunny corner for library and laboratory. The professor told me of the incident himself."

When Lieutenant P. W. Collard reprimanded three men for driving a pony cart without lights at Fathergarth, India, the trio attacked him with spears, causing serious wounds.

Increasing Speed Cuts Flying Costs

LONDON, April 27 (C.P.) — Possibility of airplanes obtaining much higher speeds with reduction in cost of fuel is seen in the result of aero-dynamic experiments now being pursued by the Royal Air Force.

Tests are being made in a specially constructed wind-channel large enough for two planes. Cleanness of design of the entire centre portion of an aircraft, the effect on performance of detail alterations, the efficient cooling of motors, decrease in "drag" (head resistance), and the testing of radiator and condenser systems are some of the problems on which the new channel should provide direct information. In the words of Lord Londonberry, air secretary, the channel provides a new form of flight test, "the difference being that instead of sending our airplane up into the air we have brought the air down to the airplane."

NOTABLE WORK IS DISPLAYED IN DINING HALL

Variety of Hobby Interests Shown Has Never Been Surpassed.

AIR MODELS BIG HIT.

Miscellaneous Collections Offer Wide Range for Boys' Instinct.

Once again the handicraft of an industrious group of Peterborough's younger generation went on public display as the annual Boys' Hobby Show was opened at the Y.M.C.A. last night. Although the well-known show has been reduced somewhat in size this year, the variety of hobby interests indicated by the exhibition has never been surpassed.

Assembled in the dining hall of the institution, the exhibits are presented to view on tables completely encircling the room. Two walls are utilized for the display of the art section. Visitors from the general public moved through the room in a steady procession from the opening until a late hour in the evening.

A special non-competitive exhibit of oils by Kaj Dinesen who has contributed to a number of past Hobby Shows again features the art section. A group of more than twenty canvasses by the youthful artist is to be seen. A surprising mastery is revealed in the wide variety of landscape, woodland and other outdoor scenes portrayed. Sam McKinlay's pencil sketches catch the eye, particular the sketch of Dr. Dafoe holding in his arms one of the quintuplet babies and a sketch of the five babies in a group. Lyle Glover is responsible for a note of originality in the art department with a comic strip offering. The pencil work of Robert McKinlay and the cartoons of Bill Gibbons are notable.

Great Range

The miscellaneous collections section gives the visitor a glimpse at the amazing number of avenues a boy's collecting instincts will follow. The collections range in nature from an assemblage of "silks" by Tom Stanley to a curious collection of old keys of remarkable vintages by Frank Patterson. Charles Seal offers a colection of Ontario auto license plates as one of his contributions while another lad has on exhibit some snakes preserved in glass containers. Of particular interest are an old Bible printed in 1806 and a "Treatise Concerning the Lord's Supper" published in 1707, both belonging to Chalmer Gillespie.

The leathercraft exhibit is not up to other years in size but quality is apparent. Frank Patterson and Jim Gibbons are the most prominent contributors in a lay-out of tooled leather belts, book-markers, purses, sheaths and other leather goods.

Tom Stanley, Eric Edmondson and Reg. Yelland share the outstanding laurels in the stamp department. One of the finest collections is that of Stanley's. Included in it is an envelope bearing five special 3-cent stamps commemorating the second Byrd Anarctic expedition and cancelled at Antarctica during the expedition. The envelope bears the inscription, "This transportation." Eric Edmondson, Ed. Downing and Jack Estlick are responsible for good coin exhibits.

Air Models

Only one flying model was entered in the model airpane department this year—an entry by Bill Scott. Tom Hooper is the big ribbon winner in the section, however, with six out of the seven awards going to his finely-constructed models. James Gibbons and Mac Powell also figure well in the show of miniature craft.

With a model bobsled, a tie rack and a fine jardiniere stand entered, Ed. Downing is a prominent contributor to the manual training display. Two model ocean vessels, a battleship and a passenger liner, both made out of paper, won attention. They are the handicraft of Gord. Patterson.

The sculpture exhibit compares well with that of former shows. Bill Pearcy of this city, now visiting in Folkstone, England, sent back a number of soap sculptures of outstanding merit. A Dutch girl, two sculptures of beavers and a swan are outstanding in his entry. Jim Stillwell has an interesting totem pole in the group. Eldon Todd and Bob McKinlay are other exhibitors in the section.

Ken Brown

Art Pritchard and Jim Stillwell took the ribbons in the scoutcraft department. Pritchard sponsoring a display of knots and contributing a map and a scout staff. A model camp is the work of Stillwell. Two receiving sets, a home-made microphone, a telegrapher's practice key and a crystal set, all made by Bill McPherson, comprise the exhibit of the radio department. The electric power shovel constructed by Ken Brown is one of the centers of attention in the mechanical models display. Gord. Patterson has on view an intricate working model of airplane amusement rides familiar on midways.

In the department of photography, photos taken at the Vocational School during the recent annual exhibition stand out. They are the work of Grant Smedmore. Bill Scott has several good entries. Significant in the mechanical drawing show is the series of drawings representing a complete telephone system by Ed Ascott.

Last night's opening was preceded by a week of Hobby Show tournaments in the realms of basketball, billiards, bowling, ping pong, checkers and chess. The show was opened at 7.45 and an athletic meet in the gymnasium folowed at 8 p.m.

SEEK WATER, GET OIL.

TITUSVILLE, Pa., April 26 (C.P.)—Mr. and Mrs. James Lefford needed a new well for their household water supply, so they sank a 40-footer. Water was supplied for several days. Then the well began pumping oil and now yields three barrels a day.

TIMELY HINTS ON PRUNING

(By Frank Biddle.)

The time for pruning is now at hand, and a few notes on this very necessary, but often abused branch of horticulture may not be out of place. First let us deal with the shrubs. The early flowering kinds should be pruned right after flowering as they flower on the previous season's growth. Summer flowering shrubs may be pruned in the fall as they flower on the old wood or early in spring as soon as signs of growth appear. Spirea Van Houtti (Bridal Wreath Forsythias (Golden Bells) and Deutzias should never be cut to any regular shape. To do so spoils their beauty, which lies in their arching and drooping habit. Cut out any dead wood and weak or superfluous stems and leave the remainder to grow naturally. Flowering almonds, cherries, Barberries, Dogwoods, Lilacs, Viburnams, Symporicums (Snowberries), Mock Orange and Spirea Anthony Waterer may be cut back to any desired height or shape. The Buddleia or Butterfly bush is a lovely shrub and should be grown more than it is. This need no pruning as it dies down to the ground in winter but throws up new shoots each spring. Newly planted roses should be cut back severely to about 6 inches from the ground. Always cut just above a bud pointing outwards. Wherever two stems cross one should be cut away, also all weak and straggly stems and always aim to keep the centre of the bush open so that air may circulate freely. This helps to keep down mildew. Once they are established pruning need not be so drastic and they may be allowed to grow taller. Keep a strict lookout for suckers which originate below the graft on the wild stock. If left to grow they will kill out the real rose. They may be recognized by their leaves. Those of the suckers carry many leaflets and the stems are covered thickly with spines. Climbing roses need not be cut back as hard as the bush varieties when newly planted, but should be shortened about one third and all thin and twisted stems cut away at the base.

GIFT TO KING'S FUND PROPOSED

Contribution From City Suggested Instead of Tag Ray Appeal.

TO COMBAT CANCER.

A grant to the King's Jubilee Cancer Fund for Canada will be discussed at the meeting of the Finance Committee of the Council this week.

Mayor Denne said this morning that the members of the Council would probably prefer this contributor method instead of soliciting the public by authorizing a tag day.

"I think every citizen will desire to have Peterborough represented in this fund, which has been sanctioned by the King to commemorate his Jubilee," Mayor Denne said. "The money is to be spent in Canada to help in the world -wide fight against cancer. I think the people feel that this is something which should be supported because of its humanitarian objective, but especially because it is a splendid way of co-operating in the King's own idea of commemorating the Jubilee of his Coronation. Everybody appreciates the great success of King George V. as the leader of the British people, and a contribution by the city would be a gift from the citizens of Peterborough as a whole.

"We intended to give Bob away Saturday because he was always fighting, but I wouldn't trade him for anything now," declared the father.

Poet Laureate's Jubilee Prayer

Composed by John Masefield for Official Program of Thanksgiving

LONDON, April 29.—(AP)— John Masefield, poet laureate of England, has composed a special prayer "for the King's Majesty" as part of the official jubilee program. It follows:

"Oh God, whose mercy is our state, Whose realms are children in thy hands,

Who willed that in the years of fate

Thy servant, George, should rule this land,

We thank thee that the years of strife

Have changed to peace, and for this thing,

That thou hast given him length of life

Under thy hand, be our king.

Oh God, vouchsafe him many years

With all the world as England's friend

And England bright among her peers

With wisdom that can never end."

This is Masefield's third contribution to the jubilee, he having previously written a sonnet and prepared a "Hymn of Thanksgiving" for accession day, May 6.

With the date of polling day still undetermined the stalwarts of Peterborough West Liberal-Conservative Association rallied to the call in large numbers at an organization meeting in the Legion Hall here on Saturday afternoon preparatory to the opening of the forthcoming Federal campaign, and named Morley E. Smithson of Otonabee the new president.

Denton Massey, provincial organizer flew by plane from Toronto to address the meeting, and his message was as advanced and progressive as the means of transport which he chose to employ in coming here. Introduced by Gordon S. Matthews, retiring president, who occupied the chair, Denton Massey compelled the close attention of the gathering for the better part of an hour with his easy flow of eloquence and his obvious sincerity.

Plans of Action

Urging the need of organization, Mr. Massey stated: "We are going to the country on our record" and he added so far as the Conservative plan of action was concerned, "the campaign is to be fair and square."

"I do not like the sort of campaign that attacks the other fellow and anticipates to destroy him in the minds of the people. We are not out to destroy but to build. We are not going to throw stones and bricks and mud."

Denton Massey

Mr. Massey declaring himself as a champion of modern youth called attention to the fact there are 800,000 young people in the Province who have attained with their majority the right to a franchise since the last Federal election. Urging their importance, he appealed that the youth of the country be given fair opportunity of having a true presentment of facts on which to base their decision at the ballot.

Elect Officers

After Mr. Massey concluded his address, the chairman called for nominations for the election of the Knife-wielding Convict is Slain in Stony Mountain Prison Riot.

TWO OTHERS INJURED.

Dissatisfaction Over Meals and "Dry" Tobacco Given as Cause of Outbreak.

STONY MOUNTAIN, Man. April 29.—(CP)—Ready to take action against all persons involved, prison authorities today sought instigators of a riot in Stony Mountain penitentiary that ran rampant for two hours Saturday, left one convict dead, two injured and extensive damage to penitentiary property.

Howling of 350 convicts in the penitentiary was silenced and peace was restored but the search for leaders of the uprising and their objective was being probed, meanwhile an inquest was being held into the death of the fatally-wounded convict. As new facts came to light, Warden W. G. MacLeod said there was a suspicion Communist agitators were responsible and outside accomplices inspired the outbreak.

Charges To Be Laid

Charges of disorderly conduct, wilful damage, rioting and possibly more serious counts will be laid laid against several prisoners as result of the riot, said Warden MacLeod. He declined to divulge the name of the guard who shot and killed convict George Forsythe, and said there would be no suspensions unless warranted by inquiry of the coroner's jury.

HAVELOCK FIRE RAZES STABLE

W. Fraser Loses Valuable Horse, Wagon and Contents of Building.

SUSPECT TRANSIENTS.

HAVELOCK, April 29.—(Examiner Correspondence.)— Fire broke out in the early hours of Sunday morning and completely destroyed the large stable and driving shed in the rear of the residence of W. Fraser, Oak street.

A valuable horse, wagon and other contents were also lost in the flames. The fire was first noticed at about two forty-five and had apparently been smouldering for some time, as an attempt to rescue the horse proved futile. It is thought transients may have started the fire as the stable was situated not far from the town hall, where, during the winter the men have been sheltered, but which is now closed for the summer months.

For some time it looked as though the residence of Mr. Fraser, which is a frame building, would also fall prey to the flames, but heroic efforts of the volunteer fire brigade succeeded in saving it and the school which is close by. The fence between the two was completely destroyed and the back kitchen badly scorched, and some of the roofing shingles had to be removed to save the house.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK.

TORONTO, April 29 (C.P.) — Toronto livestock market held its irregular appearance after noon with sheep and calves the only classes steady. Cattle hogs and lambs remained unsettled. Bids on the cattle division were lower on all grades except fed calves.

Receipts as reported by the Dominion Livestock Branch were: Cattle, 4,160; calves, 770; hogs, 1,200; shaap and lambs, 1,310.

A few fed calves sold steady at $7 to $7.50 for choice with plain down to $6.50. A few loads of weighty steers went at $4 to $5.50 but not enough sales were made on other grades to establish a market.

Calves held steady at $7 to $7.50 for choice, with a few koshers up to $8. Common light kinds brought $3 to $4. Sheep were unchanged at $1 to $3.50 cwt.

Hogs and Western ambs remained unsettled with packers' bids on hogs at $8 f.o.b., and $8.75 off car for bacons. A few Spring lambs changed hands at $5 to $8 each.

Quotations:

ONTARIO GRAINS.

F.o.b. shipping point: Wheat, 83c to 90c; oats, 35c to 37c; buckwheat, 43c to 47c; malting barley, 60c to 62c; corn, 60c to 62c.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Dilemmas concerning the United States Government's policy hereafter in regard to silver led to setbacks of grain prices Saturday.

Pending a definite official announcement as to what new steps would be taken at Washington relative to silver, all grains developed weakness. Stop-loss selling broke out in the rye market, and tumbled that cereal down almost 3 cents a bushel.

Wheat closed nervous, ⅝c-1⅛c under Friday's finish, May 79½c-79⅝c; corn unchanged to ½c lower, May 88⅛c-89⅛c; oats ⅛c-⅝c off, and provisions unchanged to 10c decline.

Corn and oats sympathized with wheat weakness. Provisions eased with grains.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, April 29. — Notwithstanding further export sales of Canadian wheat, futures were weak in Saturday's session of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange. Values closed ⅝ to ¾ cent lower, May at 88⅝c and July at 89⅜c.

For the fourth straight day foreign buyers turned to Canada for supplies, purchasing 500,000 bushels. But little of this business was reflected in pit operations. A minimum of selling was sufficient to depress prices.

An indifferent Liverpool market, where values closed only ¼d higher to unchanged when local traders expected a broad advance, induced some early selling, and a late-session dip at Chicago left Winnipeg prices at their lowest levels.

Trading generally was quiet. Market news was uninteresting and when the early liquidation was cleared up futures went into a slow decline for the rest of the day. Continued dryness in the United States south-west brought little response here.

Cash and coarse grains continued quiet.

The butter market ended the week at 23½c a pound for carlots or less of No. 1 regraded grass butter and a half cent less than for No. 1 fresh, down about a cent from the previous week. Small lots to retailers brought 25c a pound for solids and 26c for prints. Receipts totalled 7,697 boxes against 5,599 boxes a week ago.

Cheese prices ended the week at 11c to 11¼c a pound for current make, 11¼c to 11⅝c for fall lines and 12⅛c to 12⅝c for summers. Receipts were 1,147 boxes against 233 the preceding weak. 12 SUBMARINES ARE BEING BUILT BY GERMAN NAVY

Germany Will Serve Formal Notice on Nations Signing Versailles Treaty.

CONSTRUCTION UNDER WAY

Britain, France and Italy Are Conducting Diplomatic Exchanges on Issue.

LONDON, April 29—(C.P.-Havas)—Germany will serve formal notice today that the Reich is building 12 submarines of 250 tons. All the Versailles treaty signatories will be notified through the German embassies and ministries this afternoon, it was learned on reliable authority.

Policy to Stand

Reichswehr Minister Gen. Werner von Blomberg declared Saturday German had no intention of changing the Reich naval program.

The formal note expected today at the German embassies here, Paris, Rome and Moscow is expected to state simply submarine construction is underway. Similar notice was served on the former allies last month that Germany was building a military air fleet and would begin military conscription.

The London Daily Express stated the cabinet would "examine the opportunity of drafting a protest note to Berlin on submarine construction."

The Manchester Guardian states the German note already has been delivered in Downing street.

The Times said Germany's new violation of the Versailles Treaty has provoked consternation within the cabinet.

"Nevertheless it was known in London about two weeks ago," the newspaper states, "that orders were given (by Berlin) for the assembly of parts of submarines which had been made during the winter in accordance with designs drawn up last year.

"Herr Hitler does not accept part V of the Versailles Treaty as being still binding. Therefore his announcement of intention to build

POLITICS IN OTTAWA.

American Strategists Fear Canada be Forced Into Hostile Coalition.

OTTAWA, April 29 (C.P.). — Vancouver's strike situation, Mayor G. G. McGeer's denunciation of the Government and his suggestion the West might find secession from the Dominion advisable to-day continued to engage the administration's attention.

Added to these questions were others, among them possible consequences of the United States silver policy and a Bill in preparation for the United States Congress asking in "camouflaged" terms establishment of an air-defence base in the Great Lakes area to cover Ontario in the event of an enemy occupying Canadian territory and building air stations from which the United States could be attacked.

A week-end riot at Stony Mountain Penitentiary in Manitoba brought no official comment last night as Minister of Justice Hugh Guthrie was out of town. Authorities at Stony Mountain were instructed to issue details of the disturbance in which one convict was wounded fatally and several others lightly hurt.

No Reply Made to McGeer.

It was not learned immediately if Acting Prime Minister Sir George Perley would issue any statement on Mayor McGeer's claim the "existing situation in Western Canada is intolerable" and his expressed fear "secession will be inevitable if the Government persist in its present policy which offers no adequate means of financing progress in the West."

The Daily Telegraph advises the government to respond to expected Reich notification by strengthening British defences.

Scrap Another Clause

Diplomatic exchanges are being conducted with France and Italy to determine what steps might be taken to rebuke Germany for her latest move to scrap another clause of the Versailles Treaty by building the dreaded U-boats. While the former Allies may send another protest to Berlin, it is understood the British cabinet is ready to cease diplomatic argument and go to work building up her home defences as a more realistic reply to Reichsfuehrer Hitler.

So far as home defence measures are concerned, the British cabinet considers aviation needs must have priority over the submarine problem. The air ministry has drafted a scheme for rapid expansion of the bombing and combat machine strength of the Royal Air Force. Various versions of what the secret proposals envisage have been given the press, including the prediction the home air force of 500 planes will be doubled within a year.

Obituary

CHARLES H. LUCAS

DOWNEYVILLE, April 29 (Examiner Correspondence).—The funeral of the late Charles H. Lucas was held from his late residence just west of Downeyville Monday morning, when Requiem High Mass was celebrated by Rev. Father McFadden at 10 o'clock. Father McFadden also preached the funeral sermon. The church was crowded and many came from a long distance to pay their respects to one whom they knew and highly respected to offer their sympathy to the bereaved relatives in their hour of sorrow.

The pall-bearers were Messrs. John Duffy, John Scully, Vincent O'Connell, Henry Carroll, Dennis and John O'Leary, all neighbors of deceased.

He was born in the village 68 years ago. He was employed as rural mail carrier, having run this mail route for 22 years, every day until last winter, when ill health made him retire.

Surviving him are his wife; two sons, James C. and Charles C., at home, and three daughters, Mrs. Lachner and Mrs. Kathleen, R.N., of Rochester, N.Y., and Mrs. William Tracey of Ops; also one brother, John C., and two sisters, Mrs. Henry Carroll and Miss Mary Lucas, all of Downeyville.

TEAR GAS BOMBS SUBDUE REVOLT

had been shown by the convicts previously. There were rumors a wholesale delivery of convicts was contemplated but they could not be confirmed.

Indication the riot had been planned was seen in a telephone call to a Winnipeg newspaper office shortly before the rioting started. An anonymous call told the editor to "watch Stony Mountain penitentiary." Communication was made with Warden MacLeod immediately but all was quiet. Within half an hour the riot was in full swing.

Tear gas bombs halted the convicts as they damaged furniture, machinery and the buildings. Forsythe, serving a sentence of 12 years and 10 lashes for attempted murder arising out of robbery with violence in Winnipeg, was shot down as he attacked a guard with a foot-long knife. Tear gas and the death of Forsythe cowed the convicts and they were marched back to their cells.

Three Shots Fired.

Three shots were fired by guards during the outbreak. Two of them went wild, but the other felled Forsythe. He died an hour later in the prison hospital. The names of the wounded convicts were not divulged but both may be called as witnesses before the inquiry into the death of Forsythe is concluded. Damage to machinery in the tailor shop, kitchen utensils and windows was estimated in excess of $3,000.

The disturbance broke out early in the afternoon when the crew at the gravel pit refused to work. The riot spread quickly to the tailor shop and the kitchen, where extensive damage was done. Joining the gang at the stone shed, the gravel pit crew marched into the "dome" a prison courtyard visible from inside shop windows. Shouting began.

Guards raced to restore order, but their commands were ignored. Tear gas bombs were hurled as the convicts kept damaging whatever property they could lay their hands. Most of the 350 convicts in the penitentiary were said to have been involved. While the melee was at its height, Forsythe was seen with the knife going to attack a guard. A shot from another guard in the tower dropped him.

Those who spoke included Mr. Peck, Mr. Bradburn, Mr. Strickland and Mr. Lancaster. The remaining three were unavoidably absent, although Colonel Birdsall was present earlier during the proceedings.

Election in August?

Mr. Peck noted with extreme pleasure that the Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett was recovering his normal health, and suggested that it was probable the general election would be held in August.

Detained at a newspaper convention at Ottawa, Mr. Lancaster arrived in the city on the afternoon C.P.R. train and reached the hall towards the close of the meeting. Mrs. Howard Fallis was addressing the meeting when Mr. Lancaster arrived and her remarks were interrupted momentarily by his entrance.

Following Mrs. Fallis to the platform, Mr. Lancaster who looked remarkably fit in view of the illness from which he has recently recovered, apologized for his late arrival, and extended his sincere thanks to the Conservative electors for their support in the provincial campaign.

"We have another tussle on our hands," Mr. Lancaster said. "And I want to appeal to you and have you appeal to your friends that you recognize the need of organizing every poll in the riding. From past experience I know that no one factor in an election is more important than thorough organization."

Denton Massey

After expressing appreciation of the introduction given to him by the chairman, Denton Massey remarked on the fact that his voice was beginning to "wear a little" after speaking continuously at political meetings over a period of several weeks.

Describing the present conditions in Canada as being a "period of reconstruction," the speaker reviewed national events leading up to the economic crash in 1929, and charged that when the Right Honorable McKenzie King was Prime Minister he had failed in his duty in so much as he neglected the repeated warnings of the leader of the opposition —the present Prime Minister of Canada. The shock might have been lessened, had precautions been taken, but as it was "Canada found itself caught in a "maelstrom." The election followed in 1930, but the electors realized too late that such leaders as McKenzie King, Ralston, Lapointe and others of the Liberal party had failed in the discharge of their duty.

Change Evident

With the affairs of state under the control of the Conservative party, Mr. Massey declared, a change was immediately noticeable. At first the change was for the worse because of the "foundling that had been left on the doorstep." Unemployment was on the increase and the Right Honorable R. B. Bennett faced a "gargantuan" task.

Mr. Bennett's policy of reform and change, which he had long since been advocating, could not be introduced at once. There was "some mopping up to be done."

In 1933, Mr. Massey proceeded the deepest depths of the depression were reached. The momentum of what had gone before was enough to carry it on to that point. But since that time, the speaker maintained, Canada has entered upon a period of reconstruction and improvement —a fact hard for many people to realize when their pocket books have been touched and their comforts destroyed."

"To-day we face a most interesting state of affair not merely because we have come from the depths; not merely because of the proud record of achievement under the Conservative government; not merely because of what one party has done and the other party has failed to do; but because the calendar tells us there must be a general election this year, and that the government will either be returned or rejected and another set up in its place," he said.

Work to be Done

Urging that there is a "a job of work to be done," Mr. Massey said, "We might conduct a campaign of high pressure or tackle it in a negative way—which is a bad way; but we are not going to do either. We are going to conduct this campaign in a way that will be entirely justified under present circumstances. The very nation is at stake. We have no apology to make and do not have to go to the people and explain why. We have a magnificent story of achievement to tell and the more you think about it the more you must realize how magnificent that record has been."

"We are going to the country on the basis of our record," Mr. Massey declared.

All in Viewpoint

While there were some people who would like to see a campaign conducted by attack on the other side, the speaker stated, he did not agree with such tactics. He realized, he said, that the other fellow had an equal chance to think and "if he does not agree with me I can only say that his point of view is wrong" (laughter). "There is a lot to point of view!"

"I don't like the sort of campaign that attacks the other fellow and anticipates to destroy him in the minds of the people. We are not out to destroy, but to build. We are not going to throw stones and bricks and mud, but with every ounce of energy I possess I am determined that the coming campaign in Ontario is going to be a clean campaign. I have too high a regard for the Right Honorable R. B. Bennett to drag his campaign through the dirt," Mr. Massey emphasized.

"This ladies and gentlemen is a Federal and not a Provincial election that we face—and Federal and Provincial politics seem to be as far removed, thank God, as the poles."

Co-Worker Hepburn

"I am quite prepared as campaign director in this province to let Mitchell Hepburn make all the speeches he likes. He is doing more to-day in twenty-four hours than I could do in twelve months on behalf of the Conservative cause—provided we let him alone. We can ignore anything he might say. There are some things that are too low for tall men to reach down and touch—and we feel we are tall men," he said.

Mr. Massey urged that Federal and Provincial issues must not be confused in the coming campaign, and reminded his audience, "there is a day of reckoning for the present provincial government, which must wait until the next provincial election."

"We will let Hepburn and his boys at Queen's Park aid our cause, but they can only do so if we let them alone."

"Last night I was in St. Thomas, which is noted for several by-products (laughter) and a Conservative convention in the Masonic Hall there was absolutely packed with supporters," the speaker declared in remarking upon the success of his efforts as campaign director for the province.

Laying particular stress on the need for organization, Mr. Massey referred to the fact that 800,000 youngsters have attained with their majority the right to vote at the next election for the first time, and he urged that the youth be given their rightful place in the various organizations.

There Are Exceptions

"I have dealt with several thousands of youths over a period of ten years (as leader of York Bible Class), and I tell you this younger generation are a fine lot. They think more than you or I do. Your grandfather was a Tory; your father was a Tory; you're a Tory; but that doesn't say that your boy or girl is going to be a Tory," Mr. Massey said.

"I am a Conservative to-day," he added. "But that doesn't mean that my father was or that my grandfather was either! or that the rest of the family are Tories" (laughter).

"This generation is not swallowing any capsules whole without sending them first to the chemist for analysis. That is a fine thing and I say all power to them."

Speaking of the growth of Young Canada Conservative Clubs the speaker stated there are to-day 97 such groups in the province with a paid up membership of 30,000 young people, and he remarked, "if you want a thrill go to one of their meetings."

Need Independent Thought

"As times change we must change and advance; we must go on up as this country of ours continues to go up," he said in urging the need of independent thought and not blind allegiance to any one political party from mere prejudice and narrowness.

"Political meetings," he declared, "have their place only in so far as they are carried on honestly and fairly and not made barrages of abuse."

In conclusion Mr. Massey denounced the "whispering campaign" that has been conducted against the Honorable R. B. Bennett, and said that contrary to malignent rumors, Mr. Bennett had almost fully recovered from his recent illness and that he would be back at the helm again on May 20 as "Prime Minister of this country." He expressed himself as being a "personal friend and sincere admirer of the Right Honorable R. B. Bennett" and described him as, "The greatest statesman in this modern world of ours."

AIR CORPS BASE BEING PLANNED

comment on a Washington despatch saying a "camouflaged" provision for a powerful United States air base near the Canadian border had been written into the Wilcox Air-base Bill as redrarted by the War Department.

It was recalled Canada has spent little money on defence, and the appropriation for the Royal Canadian Air Force, $2,630,000 this year, is considered hardly enough to maintain the force in modern equipment. The force spends most of its effort on aerial surveys of the Far North.

Discourage Armament.

Some commentators drew attention to the fact the Rush-Bagot Treaty, signed more than a century ago by Great Britain and the United States, discourages armaments along the international boundary between Canada and the Republic.

Experts, pleased to see the United States silver-price hoist reflected in the Canadian market, nevertheless would have to pay more for the 1,670,000 ounces of the white metal it has agreed to buy annually for a four-year period. The agreement came at the 1933 World Economic Conference.

REMOVE BAKE SHOP.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 29.—(Examiner Correspondence.) — A. J. Meyers is removing his bake shop from Front street north to more central quarters, adjoining his warehouse opposite the post office. Already portable ovens have been installed and the plant, known as the 'Bonnie Bakeries," will be up-to-date in every particular.

Nature Builds Your Body—

but you supply the materials.

Health suffers if you run short of iron

Your food and drink are the only materials Nature gets to maintain your bodily strength and well-being. But the tragedy of modern foods is their shortage of iron. Sooner or later this has an effect upon the health. It causes, at first, a run-down condition and simple anaemia; then develops into serious ailments, if not checked.

40 out of 45 people in a recent test were short of Iron One month's treatment helped them back to health and vigour

A tiny drop of blood from each individual in the above group was examined under a powerful microscope. In every instance the blood was thinner and paler than it should have been, due to the shortage of iron. The authority who conducted the tests recorded the exact amount of the shortage for each person, then put every one of them on a 30-day treatment. The preparation he gave them was Dr. Williams' Pink Pills (called pink because they have a pink sugar coating). Then in one month they returned and their blood was examined again.

Rich supplies of Iron for 30 days had greatly improved their health. Blood tests proved value of the treatment

When an authority counts the number of red corpuscles and tells the exact amount of iron in the blood . . . nobody can deny it because the microscope proves it! And the gains made by the 40 persons during their 30-day treatment were all recorded! By definitely increasing both the red corpuscles and the iron, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills proved a most reliable tonic and blood builder. This test is a demonstration of what this fine old remedy can do for you, if . . . as is likely . . . you need iron.

Wouldn't you like to feel really strong and vigorous again? Wouldn't you like to eat well, sleep soundly, take a keen interest in life around you? . . . Then put yourself on a 30-day treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Directly you begin taking this reliable old preparation, the reconstructive process will start. The blood will grow richer . . . will carry more vitality . . . and your own feelings will react pleasantly. Old aches and off days will give way to new vigor and brighter outlook on life. You will know once again the joy of possessing that golden treasure . . . health! Full size box 50c. 364

THOSE FOOLISH CHAIN LETTERS.

The old-time chain letter nuisance and a new form that calls for the circulation of dimes have made their appearance in Canada after raging for some time in the United States.

Intelligent people who may happen to receive a copy of either of these letters in their mail will help to bring the thing to a speedy end by breaking the chain.

Under one scheme the recipient of a chain letter is instructed to send copies to nine of his friends with the promise that prosperity will come in nine days if the orders are faithfully carried out. On the other hand he is threatened with bad luck if he refuses to follow the instructions.

The other half-baked plan calls for each recipient to send a copy with ten cents to three other people who in turn are asked to forward dimes to another trio, the idea being to circulate money and bring about prosperity in this way. Dire consequences are predicted in this case, too, for those who decline to fall in line.

The quickest way to put an end to this kind of foolishness is for every person who receives one of these silly letters to toss it into the wastepaper basket and promptly forget it.

The first of these chain letter campaigns is merely nonsense; the second is a violation of the Canadian postal regulations, which forbids the circulation of chain letters with the object of obtaining money.

The postal authorities will probably take a hand in the game, and they should have the co-operation of everybody in the country, save the Morons.

A NEW DEAL IN CAMPAIGNING.

In an evangelistic address to local Conservatives on Saturday afternoon, Denton Massey, well-known leader of the York Bible Class and provincial organizer for the Conservative party in Ontario, laid down a new and, it is to be imagined, a welcome campaign program for the coming federal election.

Mr. Massey believes that the time has passed when the electors were influenced by violent attacks upon political opponents, and when personalities and mud-slinging were the favorite weapons of political warfare.

So far as he was concerned, the Conservative party "would be out not to destroy but to build."

"We are not going to throw stones and bricks and mud," said Mr. Massey. "With every ounce of energy I possess I am determined that the coming campaign in Ontario is going to be a clean campaign."

Regardless of their political affiliations, The Examiner is inclined to think that the majority of the electors will wish Mr. Massey well in his endeavor to improve the level of political battling, and to make the federal election an appeal to the reason of the voters rather than an attempt to stir up animosity and ill-feeling toward those who differ from them politically.

There will be big issues to the fore in the campaign that is at hand, bigger by far than the fate of politicians, and it is certainly to be hoped that these issues will be presented to the electors in a manner that will give them a fair opportunity to decide which course is the best for Canada in the present troublesome period.

RELIEF TROUBLES.

The strike of relief workers of Crowland Township following a personal visit to the scene of the trouble by Premier Hepburn, Hon. A. W. Roebuck and Hon David Croll is over for the time being, the strikers agreeing to return to work for the current week, pending a revision of relief allowances.

If their demands are not met, the strikers declare, the strike will be resumed, but it is anticipated that the concessions likely to be arranged will be accepted.

At least the situation has been taken care of for the time being, and upon that result of their efforts the Premier and his lieutenants are to be commended.

However, it is manifestly impossible that Mr. Hepburn should be expected to personally investigate all complaints arising out of relief operations, and there is no reason why he should have to do so.

The Welfare Department has in its service a large staff of investigators who have had considerable experience in their work, and can be assumed to be qualified to size up conditions in any particular locality and to decide whether relief efforts are being satisfactorily carried out.

If the services of these investigators are to be disregarded when trouble arises, and if the Premier considers it necessary to make a first-hand examination of conditions for himself, then it would seem that there is little need of keeping the inspectors on the pay-roll.

There is the further danger that agitators everywhere, encouraged by the fact that violent methods cause Mr. Hepburn to deal with the situation himself and result in concessions being made, will consider it good tactics to organize similar demonstrations all over the province; the fact that relief riots are increasing makes it obvious that those who capitalize upon the suffering depression victims are already taking advantage of the opportunity to stir up trouble.

AN ENCOURAGING OUTLOOK.

According to the Financial Post's quarterly survey a substantial gain in rural buying may be anticipated if the present prices for most farm products are continued through the next six months and if crops are fair.

There has been a price improvement for some time, it is noted, but this has come at a time when farm marketing is at its lowest ebb, and therefore would have a minimum effect on purchasing power.

Agricultural authorities estimate that beef cattle prices have risen from 35 to 40 per cent. above the levels of a year ago. The advance followed a similar movement in United States where drought and the Agricultural Adjustment Act combined to reduce holdings far below normal. As soon as the United States advance equalled the present American cattle duty of 2 cents per pound, exports from Canada recommenced after a lapse of nearly five years. This movement, while increasing prices throughout the Dominion, was of direct benefit to the ranch areas of Western Canada and to that part of rural Ontario at some distance from the larger cities.

Because farmers in every province of Canada are producing hogs, the price of this animal is one of the best barometers of farm conditions. In the last year that price has been on a very firm level. Cheese, another barometer, though confined to dairy districts, has been low. Special crops like fruit, tobacco and beans have been much higher though production in most cases was lower. Milk, for use in the large cities, has held firm and there is little change reported in the average level of most of the other less important farm products.

Much will depend on weather conditions of the next six weeks. Eastern Canada reports the driest spring in 25 years. Conditions in the Prairie Provinces are understood to be slightly better from a moisture standpoint, though one significant duststorm is reported from southern Saskatchewan. Crop estimates at this time, however, are admittedly but wild guesses. The next three months may make or unmake them.

Without fair yields present better prices or even much higher ones will be of little real benefit because of lack of volume. Conversely, good crops at present or even slightly lower prices would soon be translated into greater farm buying of motor cars, implements, building materials, household equipment and even bonds. All of these purchases have been at an abnormally low level since 1930.

RELIEF AND YOUTHS' MORALE.

(From the Farmers' Advocate.)

In times like these with so few jobs offering, one would expect to find thousands of young single men seeking employment on the farm. That, however, is not the case. In fact, young single men willing to accept farm jobs for the summer are surprisingly few. Farmers are offering up to $20 per month with board and washing for eight months and meeting with a disappointing response.

One would expect that in every community there would be young men not needed at home who would be willing to engage with neighbor farmers for the summer; and it is reasonable to conclude that on the unemployed lists of towns and cities there can be found the names of young men with previous farm experience. If such men do exist they are certainly not coming forward and asking for employment that provides a good living in addition to a fair wage.

The alarming feature of this situation is the scarcity of farm help in a time when so many men are unemployed and relief expenditures have grown to such staggering figures. There are grounds for the suspicion that relief policies are destroying the morale of young men and ruining them for life. It is bad enough to burden the people with a load of debt and impair the nation's credit; but if relief expenditures go further and break down the morale of the country's young men, then some measure of economic reform cannot be introduced a day too soon.

The authorities who administer the social and welfare legislation of the provinces and the Dominion would be well advised to consider this problem very carefully and gather some data in regard to farm employment which will have a direct bearing on welfare and relief policies.

IT SHOULD WORRY US.

There was a young fellow in here the other day; dropped in, he explained, because he was in need of a meal and wanted to know if there was any place where he might secure some clothing. Truth is he needed it. This transient, for he came within that classification, was almost semi-apologetic in his method of asking for something. It suggested that he was just learning the business; he spoke as though he were asking for something which might possibly be rightfully refused.

That was the case. He was 19 years of age, and his home is in Toronto. Had he ever worked? Yes, he had a place in a shoe store, but it "ran out" about Christmas. He had a few dollars saved, but his money had gone. Was his father not able to look after him until he got something else? His father has been on relief for some time and the young fellow thought he would "hit out" and see what the road was like. He knew some others who had done the same thing. So far he had not missed three meals a day; sometimes he slept on police station floors and sometimes he had a bed. He explained that one got along better after being "at it" for a few months; experience taught him what to do and what not to do, and it helped too to know the "right places" to go in any town or city.

"Did he like it?" Perhaps he answer was the feeling of a youth of 19, for it was just this: "Well, it's better than hanging around home with nothing to do." Would he work if he found something? Yes, he said he would be glad to. He had liked working in the shoe store and was sorry when the job "ran out on him." Had he ever tried farm work? Perhaps that was a poor question, but it was asked. He had tried it and the first day he was asked to go out and help with the milking. This youth from Toronto said he had seen cows before, mostly at the Exhibition, but he had no idea how one should be milked, so the next day he was told to quit.

To be candid, we could not tell that young fellow what to do, but there he is, at 19, starting out "on the road," wandering around seeking meals and a place to sleep at night. He's just at the age where young fellows used to be getting a fair start at what they were going to do.

There have been a great many speeches delivered in our Legislature and in the Federal House—probably too many of them. As we recall it there were dozens and scores of them which dealt with nothing which would be of interest to that youth of 19 who has just started wandering. It may be the thing has not gripped us sufficiently; it is becoming so common and it has been so common for so long that we may be taking it for granted as part of our newly-created social system. Actually it ought to worry us and haunt us; it ought to keep our public men awake at nights thinking about it; it should banish and eliminate smaller political considerations. We have not only to think of the transients who have been on the road for some years—but of the unpleasant truth that young fellows are continually joining their ranks.—Stratford Beacon-Herald.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

There are indications that the political pot is beginning to come to a boil in this section of the province.

Chief Newhall's warning to careless cyclists, roller-skaters and motor vehicle drivers was needed, and it is to be hoped will be followed by an improvement in conditions.

The statement that April has been one of the driest months on record refers, of course, only to the rainfall.

TRY AN EXPERIMENT

Do this on a cold day....Look around the garden and find a place where the ants have their nest.... Notice the speed with which the ants are running around, carrying their eggs here and there as you disturb them. If the day is quite cold you will see that they do not move very rapidly.

Now take the stub of a candle and place it in the midst of the ants. Light it. Wait a few moments....Observe how the speed of the ants is increased. They are running the same errands, doing the same chores, but with how much more speed! Let the candle burn to its end, gutter, and go out. ....Notice now how the speed of the ants' lives goes back at once to what it was before you tried your small experiment.

Those ants, those silly creatures, are the slaves of temperature. When the temperature is low they move slowly, but when it is high they move so fast you can hardly follow one of them in the crowd,...And you, playing at nature, can compel them to run at any speed you wish. They MUST obey the temperature you set for them.

But try a similar experiment on yourself....See how much you, too, are affected by your environment.

When you have a cold, are you peevish?

When you are sleepy, are you dull?

If you have been flattered, are you happy?

If you have been criticized, do you go to pieces?

Are you careless when you are tired?

Are you torn by despair when one little thing goes wrong?

Does your happiness depend on accidents?

Is your optimism the creature of the weather or fortune or some other man's decision?

Are we merely complicated ants, simple structures whose speed, power joy, faith and achievement are dependent entirely on the temperature of fate? Or are we more, much more?

Every man must make this experiment on himself, and on the answer he receives depends the measure of his self-respect.

A Thought

A hearty laugh will save a situation,
A kindly smile may drive away a tear,
Strong words of hope will save a soul despairing
And trusting words of faith for those who fear.

A helping hand may help some one grow stronger,
A step toward right will make the way more clear.
An open mind receives a tho't of wisdom.
An understanding heart is sure to cheer.

A tender message for a time of sorrow,
Of careful hope for those who do and dare;
A time of rest and waiting for the weary,
A song of love to all for whom we care.

Surprise and joy may follow disappointment.
Let us be brave and glad whene'er we can;
Unselfish giving of the best that's in us,
Will make us rich to help our fellow men.

Your Health

By Dr LOGAN CLENDENING

We said yesterday that the patient's recital of the history of his illness is the most important item in diagnosis. In many cases the diagnosis can be made from that alone.

The second most important is the old-fashioned method of physical examination — of seeing, feeling, percussing, and listening to various parts of the body. In fact, these two procedures alone will serve to make a complete diagnosis in almost 80 per cent of the cases that the physician handles. People often forget this and say, in effect, "Why the doctor didn't do anything for me. He listened to my story and then felt of my arm. He didn't take an x-ray or make a blood examination, or anything, and yet he charged me a good amount."

Attitude Unfair

This is an unfair attitude to take, because the physician who is able to make his diagnosis with his fingers and eyes and ears is practicing the greatest refinement of his art, and the older he gets, the more he learns to depend upon these rather than upon chemical or instrumental methods of examination.

There is a story of the great physician Corvisart, who was Napoleon's attendant, that he walked into a drawing room and saw a picture hanging on the wall and exclaimed suddenly, "That man has heart disease!" and so it turned out. The skill of Sherlock Holmes was due to his uncanny powers of observation. Diagnosis is a kind of detective work by these methods of using the eyes, the fingers, the ears and the wits.

Inspection has been practiced since the earliest times. In the books of the Father of Medicine, Hippocrates, he gives many descriptions of the appearance of patients and what disease was signified by this or that appearnce.

Palpation was also urged in very early days, especially to determine whether or not a bone was broken from the grating or "crepitus" as it is called, of the two broken ends rubbing over each other.

Other Methods

The other methods which depend upon hearing are relatively late developments. It was a young Austrian who learned that when the chest is struck with the finger a certain sort of a musical note is produced, and when consolidation of the lungs occurs, as in pneumonia, the note changes; also if there is an accumulation of fluid in the chest, there is a changed note. The physician who described these things was named Auebkruegger, who published them in a book in the middle of the eighteenth century—1761.

Another great advance was made in the early part of the nineteenth century, a little over 100 years ago, when a Frenchman, Laennec, introduced the stethoscope which is now so familiar a part of every physician's equipment. He discovered by using it that the heart makes certains signs of health, and that these sounds are changed when diseases occur; that the sounds produced by breathing, by the air passing over the bronchial tubes and into the lung cells, have a certain quality in health, which is also changed when disease conditions supervene.

The accomplished physician is distinguished from the second-rater, not by his use of instruments, but by fact that he has developed his touch and his sense of sight and his sense of hearing to the point that he can distinguish all the many changes that occur both in health and in disease.

Peterborough's Possibilities

By HOMER MOORE

ARTICLE 24

The president of the Polytechnic Institute, located in the U.S.A. about forty years ago, said: "There are but three external conditions for securing a competence, i.e., a temperate climate, a just government, and a country which has fair natural resources." That observation was made for the United States. It can be applied to Canada and our own county. We have more than "fair natural resources." We have "great" natural resources, and with the right mental and physical attitude about their development—we in Peterborough city and county, should have all been millionaires! There we had the natural resources but in the past failed to develop them — do you think it is too late now to start that development?

In my opinion, it will be necessary to hurry! If not developed for personal wealth, they should be developed for national wealth and national safety. We have an immense amount of natural resources, but what good are they, in time of need, if undeveloped? They are like the person who might have been a great scientist, able perhaps to discover ways and means to help save his country from disaster, but didn't know he had right kind of brain-cells to be a scientist, or if known, his friends failed to have that mental treasure-house developed! Here we have the right kind of raw material. We know it for sure and if we are wise we will strive to have them developed.

It has been stated in our government reports, that in Canada are large amounts of iron ore which could be used if "beneficated." But right on the edge of Peterborough County, is a township in which there is such a vast deposit of iron ore, and so pure, as to stop a compass from working! One of the owners of a large "timber limit" in that township told me of the occurrence twenty years ago! To-day that deposit is just twenty years stronger in power because it is that much older and has never, to my knowledge, been removed. A year ago I was talking to one of the owners of that same property and he was anxious to develop something but non-development now as "no money!" Why wasn't it developed twenty years ago when there was plenty of money. Because everything in that day was "timber."

We all should have a long vision because there are times when we must go through defeat to victory. Surely money can be issued for the express purpose of having our natural resources developed. As long as such money circulated only in our own country, it should be perfectly good as a medium of exchange, regardless of how much gold in our own and adjacent counties, but it is in the rocks. What a ludicrous situation that is!

We have to have gold in the government vaults "before" money can be issued, and yet we have to have money to get the gold out of the rocks so it can be put in the government vaults—and we haven't got the money to do it. When the government is in such need for gold, wouldn't it be good business to get the gold out of our rocks so as to get it into government vaults?

It has often been said, that "European countries couldn't wage a war because they had no gold therefore couldn't pay for equipment and labor." What a childish view that was! Those countries of Europe have been preparing and making equipment. They didn't need to buy anything for which gold was necessary! They just had to use their inventive ability and use anything that served as money to pay their workmen—as long as such "money" remained within their own country.

It has been said that "once upon a time," sea-shells were used as "money" or as a medium of exchange and where used everybody was satisfied and work done and paid for. Now we are considerably advanced from the era of sea-shells as money—but here we are needing our natural resources developed for almost immediate use and not enough paper money to pay for the work or labor necessary.

I heard an economist say over the radio, that after each war there was always a boom and lots of money. That may have been true, in the past, but his inference that such would also be so in event of another war, I believe was a mistaken idea!

After the "kind of a war" which appears to be shaping up, there will not be the same financial structure as has been in action in past years! Therefore the "booms" which Wall Street could, in the past, so correctly gauge, will not be possible on that system which the end of this depression, will also end? So, if we want to actually see our Peterborough County resources put into some usable form, we have got to—get at the work of doing it NOW.

There is an abundance of lead in an adjacent county. What good is it undeveloped? Is it necessary if developed?

There is mica—"miles of it," in an adjacent county! What good is it in the rocks? Would it be of use to Canada or the "British Commonwealth of Nations" if developed?

In my opinion, those men who financed the railway running zig-zaggy east through Haliburton County and into Hastings County were aware of the immensely valuable natural resources and hoped they would be developed as a result, not merely for private gain but also for Empire gain! Had those same builders had time, they might have built a branch through the area where immense natural wealth is located but to-day too far from a railway! How then are we to get that natural wealth out to be processed or used? Peterborough city is the nearest city to it, therefore when that natural wealth up there does start to move south, it will not stop until Peterborough city artisans turn it into commercial use.

In following articles we will look into the character of that natural wealth to see what kind of transporting agency could take the place of a railway.

In that northern area is marble of the finest texture. Have we a second Michael Angelo who could see the value of that material and carve with skill, out of blocks of it, the head and shoulders of our outstanding public men and heroes? We have statuary marble equal to that imported from Italy. Have we the sculptors in Peterborough County? I think so—those who could become skilled in that line!

When Michael Angelo was driving along a road he saw a rock nearby. Asking his assistant to wait, he exclaimed: "There is an angel in that rock!" But only Michael Angelo's mind could visualize it. In time, however, the angel was carved out of that rock and is now in a famous art gallery to inspire those who see it.

We, here, need inspiration—we need to view beauty of line—and to realize the idea behind the artist's production. Why not bring this marble from north to Peterborough city for artistic creations to benefit our children in the finer things of life!

THE DISCOVERER OF KEROSENE

On this date (April 29) in 1864 there died at Halifax, N.S. Abraham Gesner, the man who discovered (or invented if you will) kerosense. Born at Cornwallis, May 2, 1797, he went to London to study medicine and graduated with honors, but upon returning to Halifax decided to devote his life to geology and mineralogy. He then took up the question of artificial illumination, a pressing need for most shops and houses at that time were lit only by candles. In 1850 he experimented with Trinidad asphalt and obtained from it an illuminating oil. One experiment led another. In course of time he distilled an oil suitable for burning in lamps from cannel coal and bituminous shale. He named his product Keroselain from the Greek, but later shortened it to kerosense.

In 1853, but he did not derive much pecuniary benefit from his discovery which revolutionized the lighting of houses and shops all over the world. He sold his patents to a New York company but his royalties did not last long. The discovery of petroleum in Pennsylvania and in southwestern Ontario lessened the value of his products, but could not take from him the honor of his discovery.

His later years were devoted to literary work at Halifax. He was buried in Camp Hill cemetery. For nearly 70 years his grave was neglected but in 1933 the Imperial Oil Company voted a sum of money to erect an obelisk of Nova Scotia granite over his grave. The inscription, after giving dates of birth and death concludes with "Erected by the Imperial Oil Company as a tribute to his important contribution to the oil industry."

CHILLIWACK, B.C.

Here is a town that has a natural agricultural heritage in that it is situated in the richest farming district in British Columbia. It has a second advantage in that it is within easy motoring distance of Vancouver.

Chilliwack has been a settlement ever since the early 60's, but its expansion really dates from 1910, with the coming of railway transportation. It was incorporated as a town in 1908.

The name is the Anglicized spelling of the name of a local tribe of Indians, who were known as "Chil-whey-uk" Indians.

OAKVILLE CHIEF PAINTED FIRST RIGHT-OF-WAY LINE

CAMPBELLFORD, April 29.—(Examiner Correspondence).—William H. Sweet, former chief of police at Oakville, Trenton and Smith's Falls, now retired and living in Campbellford, has the distinction of being the originator of one of the greatest safety devices on the continent, used to protect the lives and property of motorists.

Mr. Sweet was quite modest about it, but did admit that he was always greatly interested in traffic problems, even 20 years ago when there were not many cars on the roads, but Oakville was on a great highway, and as the present chief, David Kerr, says: "Mr. Sweet had the town foreman, George McLaren, paint a black line down the centre of the highway, not primarily as a safety measure, but to aid in settling disputes between motorists regarding the right-of-way. The black line extended from Navy street to Dundas street and parts of it still show on the pavement.

Market Closing On All Exchanges

WALL STREET

NEW YORK, April 29 (AP) — Mixed price movements gave the stock market a spotty appearance in to-day's session. Some of the metals firmed despite another reduction in silver rates at New York and other world centres. The oils improved, but the rails were soft.

Cerro De Pesco advanced 2 points and Amerada, Seaboard Oil and National Biscuit were up about 1 each. American Bank note gained nearly 2, Union Pacific, Santa Fe Southern Pacific and Illinois Central yielded a point or so. Eastman Kodak dropped 5 points and Postal Telegraph Preferred declined more than 1. The late toen was irregular. Transfers approximated 800,000 shares.

GOOD FISHING PROSPECTS

HASTINGS, April 29. (Examiner Correspondence)—Prospects are for the best fishing season in the history of Hastings. The water level below the bridge is the lowest in years. Under the local bridge veteran fishermen state they have never seen as many pickerel as this spring. Inspectors are too plentiful for the boys to take any chances.

LIST NERVOUS MINING TRADE

BASE METALS WEAK.

TORONTO, April 29 (C.P.).—Silver shares continued to hold the chief interest in the Toronto Mining Market to-day with selling just about balancing the volume of buying orders. Prices swung up and down nervously through the sessions and closed not far off the previous closing level. Base metals were mildly weak on a much reduced volume of trading and the golds displayed more weakness than strength. Over the board recessions outnumbered gains at the close.

In two periods of weakness, Eldorado slipped back to 2.30 and each time recovered. The close around 2.52 was up about 6 cents. Castle, Bear, Premier and Nipissing all had minor gains.

McIntyre, Lake Shore, Teck Hughes and Wright Hargreaves gold had losses of a few cents to 50. Dome closed on the up side.

Macassa h the 2.35 mark and closed just under that level for a gain of several cents. Buffalo-Ankerite, Little Long Lac, Reno and Siscoe all recorded narrow gains against minor recessions for Central Patricia, God's Lake, Ventures and Gunnar. Wayside was up 5 cents to 19½, but was trimmed narrowly.

5 BATTLESHIPS

France and Italy as new secrets of the German naval program were learned.

Reports reaching informed quarters here from Berlin said Germany was planning the immediate expansion of her fleet with the initial construction of:

Five to eight battleships of 35,000 tons; six battle cruisers; twenty-five to 40 large and small cruisers; 50 to 75 destroyers; 40 to 50 small submarines, and several aircraft-carriers.

The entire situation will be thoroughly aired at meetings today and tomorrow of the various ministers concerned with foreign affairs and defence and their observations will be communicated to France and Italy.

One group within the Conservative party to-day urged that the Government make use of the "escalator clause" of the London naval treaty (Article 21 of the treaty). Such action, it was said, would permit Great Britain to build more submarines and other small craft. This treaty automatically expires at the end of 1936, at the same time that Japan's denunciation of the Washington treaty of 1922 takes effect.

Sir John Simon said the Government was considering the "legality" of the German submarine disclosures but had not yet determined whether it should protest to the League of Nations.

Continue Conversations.

He did not reply to a question as to whether "it was proposed to go on with the naval conversations between Great Britain and Germany."

One of the questions was whether the Government would "take immediate steps to bring notice of this further violation of the Versailles treaty to the League of Nations."

Sir John revealed the Government's information regarding the 12 submarines was dated April 25. He said the information contained no official intimation regarding the reopening of the submarine school at Kiel, as reported in some political quarters here.

David Lloyd George was to enter into further conference with Cabinet leaders to-day and to-morrow to discuss his "new deal" program, an important phase of which involves foreign policy.

In view of Lloyd George's wartime experience as head of the Coalition Government and the fact that the nation's attention is focused this week upon defence, it is likely his talks will centre upon this subject.

Amid the excitement generated in the British public by purported disclosures in the press the past week concerning Germany's armaments, Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald in an article published to-day, vigorously attacked the "scaremonger" tactics of what he described as the "popular press" of Great Britain.

"The selling headline must provide a daily thrill," the Prime Minister wrote. "Rumor is made to rank with fact and necessary hysteria is supplied by invention which has not even the value of rumor. The danger to peace is of the gravest kind. War scares have become the stock-in-trade of partisan fighting."

BERLIN, April 29.—That orders for "a number of submarine keels" have been placed with various German shipbuilding firms at Hamburg, Stettin, and possibly Danzig was admitted to-day by a man in a position to know.

It was an open question, however, as far as could be ascertained, whether actual construction of submarines already had begun or whether orders had gone forth to delay the beginning of their construction until the Anglo-German naval parleys now in progress come to a close.

Hitler apparently is deeply hurt by Great Britain's attitude in voting with the other powers against Germany at Geneva. It was indicated the German Government thought it useless to continue negotiations concerning naval strength and began her naval building program forthwith.

In view of an emphatic assertion by the defence ministry construction of submarines had not yet been begun, it is possible that calmer counsels prevailed and the order for beginning U-boat building has been stayed.

Pioneers In Canadian Industry

Mr. John Gray and Mrs. "Arch" Hutchison with experience, determination and courage inherited from the land of their birth—Scotland—started the St. Lawrence Starch Co. Limited, back in 1889.

Today the St. Lawrence Starch Company at Port Credit, Ontario is a striking tribute to the vision and faith thes two Scotsmen had in Canada. Mr. John Gray at the age of ninety-three is Chairman of the Board and Mr. "Arch" Hutchison at seventy-nine is President. W. T. Gray, son of the chairman is Vice-President and General Manager.

For over forty-five years this all Canadian company now reported to be the largest independently owned company manufacturing corn starch and syrup products in the British Empire, have marketed their well known products, Bee Hive Golden Corn Syrup, Durham, St. Lawrence and Ivory Gloss Starches, and St. Lawrence Maize Oil in Canada, in addition to meeting the exacting and varying requirements of Canadian industry for commercial glucose, starch and corn oil.

The St. Lawrence Starch Co., is a personification of personal initiative. During a period in which Canada's population grew from four million to over ten million and in which business tended toward mergers, stock flotations, affiliations and consolidations, the St. Lawrence Starch Co. Limited maintained its original independent status and today is still owned and operated by the original founders and their immediate families.

22 Divorce Actions Listed at London

LONDON, Ont., April 29.—The great number of divorce cases listed to be heard at the present sittings of the non-jury supreme court is nothing of which London and Middlesex can be proud, said Mr. Justice Kelly when the court opened to-day. There are 35 cases listed and 25 of them are divorce actions, a record number for a local court.

The judge pointed out most of the divorce actions are undefended. The courts have found it necessary to exercise extreme vigilance to prevent connivance by parties to divorce actions, His Honor said.

Mayor Denne to Issue Proclamation to This Effect.

We have been advised by His Worship Mayor Denne that Monday next, May 6, will be proclaimed a legal holiday fo rthe city of Peterborough. It was thought this was understood following the declaration of the Dominion Government, but to a number of citizens it appeared indefinite to them. However, the Mayor's proclamation clears the matter so far as the city is concerned.

Police Foil Attempt To Slay Ambassador

BOSTON, April 29. (AP).—What police interpreted as an attempt to assassinate Augusto Rosso, Italian ambassador, was frustrated in the Hall of Flags at the State House to-day with the arrest of a suspect who carried a dirk in his hand. The arrest was made just as the ambassador was entering the hall after visiting Governor James M. Curley.

MAN INJURED RESCUING WIFE

TERRIFIC EXPLOSION.

EAST WINDSOR, Ont., April 29.—(CP.)—One man was injured and lives of nine other persons endangered following a fire and explosion in an East Windsor home to-day. The house was burned to the ground by the fire, believed to have been deliberately started by an unidentified man.

Oscar Daneshenko suffered injuries to his hands and ribs as he went to the rescue of his wife and seven year old daughter. The ladder which he was using broke and hurled him to the ground.

The Daneshenko family with two roomers were trapped in an upstairs flat by the rapidly-spreading flames and were forced to leap from a verandah roof to safety.

Five person downstairs escaped without incident. Mr. and Mrs. Steve Hnedei, tenants of the lower part of the house, told police of seeing a stranger spreading gasoline over the stairs leading to the flat above and then light it. A terrific explosion followed and the building was soon a mass of flames, they said.

Mrs. Hnedei, convalescing after an operation, grabbed her four-year-old daughter and rushed out into the rain. She was taken to the home of friends, put to bed and given medical attention.

The man, said to have been sprinkling the gasoline, was described as tall, wearing a cap and windbreaker.

It was fumes of fluid that awakened Mrs. Hnedei, who aroused her husband.

Church Remains Hostile Communistic Practices

LOURDES, France, April 29 (AP) The colorful three-day prayers for peace had come to an end to-day on a note of warning widely interpreted as the Vatican's admonition to Reichsfuehrer Hitler and exponents of Communism that the Catholic Church will remain hostile to them so long as they "persist in philosophies contrary to the Christian Faith."

The warning was contained in the final prayer of Eugenio, Cardinal Pacelli, as he celebrated the mass which brought the Eucharistic Tridiuum to a close.

Poultry And Bacon Exports On Increase

OTTAWA, April 29 (C.P.).—Canadian exports of poultry more than doubled in value during the fiscal year ended March when they totalled 1,164,790 pounds at $596,365, against 1,688,913 pounds at $285,962 the previous year the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported Saturday.

Poultry exports during March amounted to 641,601 pounds at $127,450, compared with 189,504 pounds at $39,423. Of the total export for the month 589,493 pounds at $127,412 went to the United Kingdom.

Bacon Exports Gain.

A substantial increase was shown in the exports of meat during the fiscal year ended March when they totalled in value $24,115,000, compared with $15,504,000 the previous year, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported Saturday.

Bacon and hams formed the bulk of the meat export when 127,606,100 pounds valued at $19,999,000 were exported, against 96,017,000 pounds at $12,683,000 in the previous fiscal year. Practically all of the ham and bacon export went to the United Kingdom.

NEW YORK, April 29.—(CP)—Writing for fun won't be fun any more—if the league of American writers has anything to say about it.

The league, composed of left-wing authors committed to work and write against war and Fascism and to elucidate the problems of the working class, was founded Sunday at the closing session of the American Writers' Congress.

OFFICIALS SEIZE MAGAZINE ISSUE

Customs Officials Seize "Health and Vigour" From Local Store.

ISSUE IS BANNED.

Acting on orders from Ottawa Peterborough Customs officials seized a number of issues of a magazine entitled "Health and Vigour," on sale at Cowan's Cigar Store, George street, Saturday. The magazine, published in England, devotes itself to extremely frank verbal and photographic reports of the doings in nudist circles.

W. M. Lang, in charge of the local Customs, explained to-day that the Department of National Revenue had jurisdiction in the matter through the fact that the magazine was an import. The local office has a list of banned publications and books, issued from Ottawa, by which it must abide. In the case of a doubtful magazine whose name does not appear on the banned list passing through the local Customs, it is the duty of the local officials to seek advice from Ottawa, he stated.

The shipment of "Health and Vigour" issues was released to the local importer before a regulation prohibiting the magazine came to the attention of the Peterborough officials. The issues now rest at the Customs House here awaiting either shipment to Ottawa or destruction.

Only the one dealer in the city had stocked the magazines. They had been on the store's shelves two weeks previous to the seizure. A half-dozen photographs of nude women in various settings and postures appeared to be the most prominent feature in the magazine's content.

confronting the Securities Exchange Commission.

Telephone Sales.

American authorities, he said, looked with favor upon his action in banning stock sale by telephone to private residences.

While he had no intention of introducing any new regulations in respect to securities selling in the province, Mr. Godfrey said one of the things he studied was the regulation regarding short selling. Under this rule it was forbidden to sell a share below the last quoted long sale.

Belleville Man Hurt In Fall From Pole

BELLEVILLE, Ont., April 29 (CP) —Falling 30 feet from a telephone pole on the Third Concession of Thurlow Township to-day, W. A. Campbell, Belleville, suffered severe internal and head injuries.

He was rushed to the General Hospital.

Workmen said Campbell apparently missed his footing near the top of the pole as he was fitting a cross-arm. He landed on a rock, severely injuring his back and chest.

Scheme To Regulate Marketing Of Cheese

OTTAWA, April 29 (C.P.).—The scheme to regulate the marketing of cheese produced in Ontario has been reviewed and redrafted by the Dominion marketing board but is still subject to amendment, it was announced Saturday night.

Representations relative to the plan and requests for appointments with the board on the proposal will be received up to May 11. In the event of protests being received, a date for hearing will be fixed by the board, it was stated.

The proposal involved the establishment of a local board to be known as the Ontario Cheese Patrons' Marketing Board, with headquarters at Belleville. With a personnel of five, the board would consist of a representative from each of the five important cheese districts of the province.

The provisional board would consist of R. H. Marberry, Ingersoll; E. J. Pyear, Stirling; George Gardiner, Seeley's Bay; A. W. McIntyre, Finch and F. Bertrand Hammond.

INDUSTRIALS UP IN GOOD DEMAND

DISTILLERIES GAIN.

TORONTO, April 29. — (CP) — Despite a slump in the price of silver, the metal stocks pressed higher on the industrial board of the Toronto Exchange today. In the afternoon buying also speeded up in the distillery issues and these closed higher while over the rest of the board losses narrowly exceeded gains. The days turnover was down from last week's average.

After touching 155 Consolidated Smelters firmed to close above the 160 mark for a gain of several points. Nickel finished even with Saturday's close and Brazilian, C. P. R. and Ford A were unchanged to slightly lower.

Distillers Seagrams and Industrial Alcohol A had gains of ¼ to ½ point.

Bell Telephone held to the up side against recessions in B.C Power A and Consumers Gas.

Losses in the construction and steel groups appeared for Canada Dredge, Cement Pfd, Gypsum and Page Hersey, the latter losing 2½ points. United Steel and Dominion Tar did better.

SCOUT NEWS

Over the week-end Lord and Lady Baden-Powell attended rallies in Edmonton. During the week they will visit Saskatoon, Regina, Brandon and Winnipeg, where "B.P." will light a "beacon" which will mark the celebration of His Majesty's Silver Jubilee.

History records that the start of the Scout movement embracing all races and creeds, was the outcome of a system of boy helpers employed by Baden-Powell during the siege of Mafeking in the Boer War. The same system was used when he formed the South African Constabularly in 1901 and in 1907, he started the first experimental boy camp along the lines of teaching boys manliness, self-reliance and reliability. The following year the movement was actually founded, as the result of his book, "Scouting For Boys," published in six fortnightly instalments. Troops were started in various parts of the United Kingdom before the series were half completed.

He made a strong appeal to men and women to offer themselves for service as Rover Scout leaders, Scout and Cub masters.

The 4th (Sacred Heart) Troop presented their first annual Scout concert in the church hall, last Thursday and Friday evenings. The concert, a success in every way, featured a one-act Scout play, "Where There is a Will."

The concert featured guitar and mouth organ selections as well as songs sung by all the Scouts. Three ex-Scouts kindly assisted by guitar-trio selections; a reading of "Kelly's Dream," and a group of Hungarian songs, both by L. Dominik were highly applauded.

Rev. J. J. O'Brien on Thursday evening and J. C. Molony as well as A. Hope, assistant district commissioner, on Friday evening, gave short addresses.

The mothers favored those taking part in the concert with a lunch. The appearance of Scouts in uniform added much to the success of the concert. It was arranged and prepared by S.M. M. Crough and A.S.M. L. Dominik, and is is said that it was the best presented in Peterborough by Scouts.

Plans are now ready for the trip to Toronto to the Scout and Guide Rally on May 11, when the Chief Scout will be in Toronto.

The annual local Scout jamboree will be held again this year on May 24th (Victoria May), at Nassau on the Lakefield highway. It is expected that this jamboree will exceed all those held during the past years, and that Scouts will gather together from the district as far as Cobourg and Oshawa. A very interesting program is now under discussion by the jamboree committee and Scouts should start to get ready for the different events. Further plans will be announced later.

REV. E. R. JAMES HONORED UPON HIS RETIREMENT

AT ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.

The Rev. E. R. James last evening severed his official connection as assistant to the rector of St. John's Church, the occasion being marked by the presentation to him of a beautifully illuminated address and a purse of money by D. B Falkner on behalf of the congregation.

Archdeacon Dr. R. C. Blagrave presiding at a meeting of the congregation held in the Parish Hall immediately following evening service, called Mr. James forward and requested Mr. Falkner as chairman of the special committee to make the presentation.

Text of Address

The address illuminated and framed, and representing a fine work of art, was as follows:

"St. John's Church Peterborough —The Rev. E. R. James, L.Th.

"Dear Mr. James.—On the occasion of your official separation from the Parish of St. John's Church, the congregation of St. —John's wish to express to you in a tangible way the high esteem in which you are held among us, and the cordial feeling of good will we esteem towards you. By your friendly and affable manner you have endeared yourself to us, and we have profited by your direct and helpful sermons."

"We ask you to accept this purse; and we trust that the remaining years of your life may be blessed with health and happiness, and with much usefulness in the Master's Kingdom.

"We also extend our good wishes to Mrs. James and the other members of your family: may each and all be spared to you throughout the coming years.

"On behalf of the congregation— R. C. Blagrave, rector; T. Hicks-Lyne and C. G. Graham, churchwardens; D. B. Falkner, chairman of the committee—April 25, 1935."

A Nice Tribute

A footnote was inscribed as follows: "Designed, drawn and illuminated by Everett Walter Glover—a member of the Parish as a voluntary tribute to a noble gentleman, a worthy priest, and an honest friend, who to know is to love, honour and respect."

Mr. James entered upon his ministry almost thirty-five years ago, having been ordained deacon at St. Alban's on June 10, 1900. Incidentally he was ordained at the same time as Archbishop Derwyn Trevor Owen, Primate of the Church of England in Canada.

Charges he has occupied during his ministry have been at Hastings, Alliston, Craighurst, Omemee, and for the past five years as assistant at St. John's.

Taken by complete surprise, Mr. James in responding to the presentation, stated: "Every time I look upon this beautiful address it will make me more humble and thankful for the many blessings which God has seen fit to bestow upon me." He briefly reviewed his thirty-five years in the ministry and remarked that he had recognized the guiding hand of God in everything that he had ever undertaken.

road, in Scarboro, when he was struck from behind by the car driven by the accused man.

"The Crown will establish that the accused was driving in a careless manner, that his speed was excessive and his brakes in a defective condition," the Crown stated.

Mrs. Mary Pilch, wife of the deceased, told the court her husband had left their home at Castleton, 20 miles north of Cobourg, Feb. 9, and had started to hitch-hike to Toronto to find work. He was penniless and carried his lunch with him. He was a war veteran.

P. C. Gordon Lennox, of Scarboro, said there was no odor of liquor detected on the breath of Coones.

This evidence was contradicted by Motorcycle Officer William F. Thompson of the Provincial Police, who swore he found Liquor Control Board seals and a label in the car. In the dash board compartment, which he forced open, were four metal cups in a leather container. All cups showed traces of having contained liquor.

Some distance from the car was found a bottle with liquid in it and this was produced as an exhibit.

"There was an odor of liquor detected off Coones on the night of the accident," the constable swore.

Thompson said the skid marks of the car totalled 119 feet 6 inches.

Two Burglars Agree To Divide The Spoils

NEW YORK, April 29. (CP)—Two burglars, meeting by coincidence in the same apartment, agreed to go ahead with their ransacking and split the spoils, police said one of them admitted after he was captured in flight. They arrested Max Gastmann, 22, and charged him with burglary and felonious assault.

LEGION PARADES TO MARK STREET

Rev. C. D. Daniel Addresses Annual Church Parade of Legion.

CHALLENGE TO WORLD.

A challenge to the world to follow out the ideals of peace, brotherhood and service toward which the soldiers looked as they came out of the trenches in 1918, was delivered by Rev. C. D. Daniel as the local branch of the Canadian Legion held its annual church parade to Mark Street United Church yesterday morning. The men fought for these ideals but have, so far, found their labors to have been in vain, he declared.

Two hundred Legion men, with representatives of the Red Patch Club, the 21st Battalion and the Peterborough Fire Department among other local organizations in their midst, joined in the parade. Under the direction of Parade Marshal H. K. Clifton, M.C., the veterans first formed up before the Cenotaph while a wreath was laid at its foot by Alderman Max Sloan, their president, assisted by Sergeant-at-Arms Gash. Then marching to the stirring music of the Rangers Band, they proceeded through the streets to the church. Medals pinned to their breasts, sometimes five and six in number, and Legionary berets distinguished them.

Memorable in the service at the church was a tribute paid by the capacity gathering to those Peterborough Legion members who have passed away in the last year. Comrades Carr, Anderson, Foster, Lauton, Brien, Sturgeon, Gadd, Howard and Bleasdell. Rev. Daniel solemnly read the list from the pulpit. The gathering then observed a silence which was concluded with the sounding of the Last Post by a Rangers bugler out in the corridor of the church. God Save the King was sung.

No More War

Rev. Daniel preached from the text, "Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace whose mind is stayed on thee."

"When I get my city clothes on, there'll be no more war for me." It was in that spirit we entered on the days of peace," he declared. "We felt nothing could ever induce us to go to war again. And we went out very proud—we had a right to be proud—our lives dedicated to carrying the torch for those we left behind in Flanders. But what actually happened? I think the torch was left in our have sacks. It was forgotten in the midst of the post-war turmoil and the re-adjustments in our lives we had to face on our returns."

In place of the ideals which the soldiers in France believed would be realized as a result of their labors, unexpected public attitudes have appeared since the war, he continued. He pointed to a modern disinclination to go seriously into things. People to-day want the world to make them laugh; too many are seeking forgetfulness in the lighter things of life, he said.

One of the post-war ideals was to carry the torch of brotherhood in during the days when millions of men were "buddies" together at the front, into civil life, Rev. Daniel said. But something has happened to that ideal. It flares up on Armistice Day and on a few other occasions during the year but is at other times forgotten. If that spirit could be re-enlivened many of the difficulties of the great present-day depression could be met, he declared.

Disillusioned

The men returned with a spirit of service but were disillusioned to find shortly that there were many who had not gone to the front who did not "see things that way," he continued. While the soldiers fought for a few cents a day, they had busied themselves with piling up fortunes at home. They failed even to loosen up the strings on their purses to aid the returning men, he said.

"I believe we are on the verge of the formation of a new social order, however. I don't know exactly what that order will be but I believe it will be founded on the visions of those who came out of the trenches in 1918. It will be based on the ideals of service and sacrifice."

Rev. Daniel predicted that the order can be brought about without resort to Russian proceedure; in a regular British manner through the weight of the public will. He said the Legion men can do their part toward the evolution of this new order by aiding in the creation of a nation-wide influence.

ARMY AIR BASE AT THE BORDER

was eliminated from the measure.

'I should be very glad to put in the bill the Great Lakes area but I could not put it in because of the Canadian situation," said the officer's testimony, published to-day.

'You will notice No. 7 in my bill is camouflaged. It is called intermediate stations for transcontinental flights, but it means the same things."

Century Old Principle

At another point, Kilbourne said: "We do not want to accentuate anything that would look as though we contemplated passing away from the century-old principle that our Canadian border needs no defence. I think it would be very unfortunate if we did.

Kilbourne's testimony emphasized the proposed aviation centres would be purely for defensibe purposes and peace-time training.

"We can not go out in the military line along the Canadian border," he said, "but we can legitimately extend the advantages of landing fields and commercial fields to the people who are on the border. I think we could do that without attracting any attention."

Testimony of war department officials at the house committee's secret meeting reflected fear an enemy some day might establish air bases in Canada for operations against the population and industrial centres in the northeast quarter of the United States.

Canadian Base 70 Miles Inland.

OTTAWA, April 29.—(CP)—Canada already has an air base near the United States' border and another 70 miles inland it was pointed out to-day by officials discussing the Wilcox airbase bill approved by the American House Military committee. Neither base, the first at Trenton, Ont., and the other at Vancouver, was designed for military purposes.

Brig. Gen. C. E. Kilbourne, Assistant Chief of Staff in charge of war plans, told the American committee one clause of the bill was a camouflaged provision for a powerful defensive airbase near the Canadian border.

The Trenton, Ont., field was started two or three years ago when the base at Camp Borden was abandoned. It was selected because it combined land and water facilities and not with any idea of war or defence in mind. It fronts on the protected waters of the Bay of Quinte, off Lake Ontario.

High officials of the Government would not comment to-day on the Kilbourne disclosures. The Canadian Minister to Washington, Major W. H. Herridge has been in Ottawa for the past week.

Little Reason For Fuss

TORONTO, April 29. (CP)—Capt. Earl Hand, D.F.C., who established a reputation as a war-time aviator and who has been flying ever since, said today he could see little reason for "all the fuss" caused by revelation of plans of the United States for air bases in the great lakes area.

"Location of air bases doesn't mean a thing," said Capt. Hand. "With long range machines the United States could have her bases on the Gulf of Mexico and still reach Canada without difficulty. As a matter of fact, in war time the farther from enemy guns an air base is established the better."

Capt. Hand pointed to Selfridge Field at Detroit and said "Here is a United States army base fully equipped, one of the finest on the continent, within one hour by air from Toronto. Air ports at Albany Buffalo, Cleveland and Detroit could be transformed into military flying fields overnight. So why all this fuss because another air base is suggested?"

Walkinshaw Ordered To Answer Questions

TORONTO, April 29. (CP). — An Appeal of George A. Drew, former Ontario Securities Commissioner, for an order requiring Donald H. Walkinshaw, Toronto, to answer certain questions following Walkinshaw's action for $50,000 damages against Drew alleging libel, was granted to-day by Mr. Justice A. C. Kingstone in a Judgement delivered at Osgoode Hall. Walkinshaw must re-attend for examination and discovery.

When he appeared before a special examiner, Walkinshaw, on advice of counsel, refused to reply to a number of questions, among them inquiries as to his start in the insurance business, his business activities in New Liskeard Haileybury, Yorkton, Sask. and Melville, Sask., and queries whether or not judgments had been given against him and in favor of some other persons.

STANDARD STYLES.

MOSCOW, April 29.—(CP).—The Soviet Clothing Trust has decided to "standardize" women's wear. It has designed dresses in 450 styles, a variety which it is claimed is enough to satisfy nearly every whim in the Soviet Union.

I.O.O.F. LODGES ATTEND CHURCH

Oddfellows of City Present at Evening Service in Army Temple.

COL. SIMS SPEAKS.

Parading through the downtown streets in step with the spirited music of the Salvation Army Band, one hundred and fifty Oddfellows and Rebekahs went to the Salvation Army Temple for their annual evening of worship as a body last evening. Members of Otonabee Lodge, No. 13, Peterborough Lodge, No. 111, comprised the greater part of the body.

The men and women distinguished by their Oddfellow badges and jewels, assembled for the occasion at the corner of Hunter and George Streets shortly before 7 o'clock. Led by the band, they marched in double file down George Street to Simcoe and thence to the Temple. With the regular Temple congregation in attendance, the auditorium was filled to capacity.

Colonel Sims Preaches.

An address centred on the significance of the three links of the Oddfellows Order delivered by Col. Ernest Sims of Toronto featured the service. Col. Sims is known to local residents, having served in the Salvation Army command here some years ago. He is now in charge of the Army's men's social work for Canada, Alaska, Bermuda, and Newfoundland.

He reminded the gathering of what the three links stand for — frindship, love, and truth. With references to the many and varied contacts with life of the Salvation Army, he endeavored to illustrate the true meaning of friendship and love. And the human being in his dealings with his fellow-men can embrace no greater virtue than truth, he declared.

Adjutant Neil Warrander, in command of the Army here, addressed a few words of welcome to the Oddfellows. Major Arthur Smith of Toronto, formerly in charge here and now in charge of the Toronto men's hostel of the Army, was presetnt and led the song service.

Special Music.

Special music during the service included the rendering of "The Lord is My Shepherd" by the Army Songster Brigade, and two vocal solos by Mrs. Melvin Shadgett. Mrs. Shadgett sang "I Found a Friend" and "The Love of Jesus." The band contributed special selections.

The Oddfellows and Rebekahs marched back to the Otonabee Lodge headquarers by way of Aylmer, Charlotte, and George Streets before disbanding.

Maxville Village Fire Does $70,000 Damage

Fire which broke out at night completely gutted the business section of the village of Maxville, 53 miles from Ottawa, Ont., causing property loss estimated at $70,000 and entire business block including three stores, among the largest in the village, were razed, and churches and other establishments damaged by smoke and flames. One volunteer fireman received painful burns in a stiff fight to control the fire hampered by lack of fire-fighting equipment and water. Layout shows views of the debris. TO FINANCE EXPORTS

BERLIN, April 29 (A.P.)—Funds equivalent to about $650,000,000 will be raised in the course of the year to help finance German exports in accordance with a decision of the Hitler Government under which the so-called turnover tax will be doubled.

The turnover tax demands contributions from each individual handling an article in the process of manufacture.

LONDON PRINTERS' STRIKE SETTLED AFTER 14 MONTHS

LONDON, Ont., April 29.—(CP).—The London newspaper printers' strike, which went into effect 14 months ago, ended to-day when several of the striking printers returned to work.

Publishers of the London Advertiser and the London Free Press said other men would be given positions as soon as circumstances warrant.

The arrangement was confirmed by a vote at a meeting of the Typographical Union Saturday after conference with Headquarters at Indianapolis.

Magistrate's Court

A local youth appeared before Magistrate C. A. Langley, K.C., today and pleaded guilty to charges of common assault and drunkenness. On each of the two counts he was fined $10.00, and costs, or in default an aggregate of twenty days' imprisonment. The youth was represented by A. L. Elliott, who pleaded extenuation in view of the fact that his client was so drunk that he did not know what he was doing when he struck an elderly woman on Saturday night.

It was related in court that the youth entered a laneway on Barnardo Avenue, and when the woman looked out of the window of the car in which she was seated, defendant struck her in the face. The blow was of such severity that the woman was to-day forbiddetn to leave the house by her doctor.

William Armstrong of Patterson Street, who was stated by Chief Constable Samuel Newhall to be on the "blacklist," was fined $10.00, and costs, or ten days, on pleading guilty to a "drunk" charge.

"I'm guilty, but I took the liquor for medicinal purposes. If you will deal leniently with me, I promise I will not touch it again," the defendant urged.

NEW DIRECTORS ARE SELECTED BY ROTARIANS

Annual Election of Board Features Luncheon of Local Service Club.

BRITAIN'S PROGRESS.

Ed. A. Simmons Tells How United Kingdom Has Made Greatest Gain Toward Recovery.

Directors for the year beginning July 1 were elected by the Peterborough Rotary Club at its weekly luncheon to-day, the following being chosen from a field of ten members named last week by the nominating committee: James Dutton, Jack Gillespie, Roy Goring, Chris. Graham and Art Rumions.

To-day's luncheon was featured by a most interesting address by Ed. A. Simmons of the Trenton club and candidate for the Governorship of the 27th Rotary District.

Rotarian Simmons, who was introduced by Rotarian Roy Goring, dealt with the splendid progress toward recovery made by Great Britain.

The speaker drew a picture of the United Kingdom at the low of the depression in mid-Summer, 1931, with free trade gone, unemployment increasing from two million to three million persons, the gold standard about to be abandoned and conditions so bad that many wondered if the word's worship, shipper and banker of the pre-war days was experiencing its twilight. He contrasted this situation with the present status of Great Britain as revealed in the recent budget speech of Neville Chamberlain, with a splendid surplus, lower taxation, less unemployment and many other evidences that John Bull had made greater progress toward recovery than any other nation.

Rotarian Simmons referred to the fact that Great Britain had long enjoyed the benefits of many of the reforms including unemployment insurance that other countries were now trying out, and that she also had had a brain trust in her trained parliamentarians, highly efficient civil service and royal commission.

President Reed expressed the thanks of the club to the speaker.

A most enjoyable musica interlude was provided by Roy Rome, violinist, who with Miss Margaret Rome as his accompanist, delighted the Rotarians with two finely-played numbers, "Liebeslied," by Fritz Kreisler and "Valse Bluette" by Richard Brigs.

BARON GLADSTONE DIES 3RD SON OF GREAT LEADER

HAWARDEN, Flintshire, England, April 29. — Baron Gladstone, third son of the great Victorian Prime Minister, William Gladstone, died yesterday, aged 83. He was taken suddenly ill after attending church.

Henry Neville Gladstone was made a baron in 1932. Despite the distinguished career of his father, he spent most of his life in business rather than in public affairs. When a young man he acted for some time as a private secretary to his father.

He is survived by Lady Gladstone who was the third daughter of the late Baron Rendel.

SCHOOL TEACHERS ADMITTED.

NEW YORK, April 29.—(CP). — A large part of school teachers returning from an Easter cruise to the West Indies couldn't be late for school to-day, so—

A special customs permit was issued for the Liner Statendam and the teachers disembarked shortly after midnight instead of in the morning.

No, It's Not Election Time

No, it's not election time for Premier Mitchell Hepburn. The head of Ontario's legislature took several members of his cabinet on a personal tour to see how relief was being administered in Toronto suburbs. The cabinet ministers found particular enjoyment in making friends with the kiddies. They also found that relief supplies are not adequate and promise to do something about it. Mr. Hepburn is shown here with an armful. All three seem to be enjoying the situation.

King George's Famous Windsor Greys Bolt While Rehearsing Their Part For Jubilee

LONDON, April 29 (A.P.).—England's gala jubilee season was unofficially opened to-day with a good, old-fashioned runaway.

King George's famous Windsor greys, bolting down Park Lane, smacked the royal coach into a bus and then into a coster's barrow.

The ancient and honorable vehicle scored a clean victory in each instance, emerging with only one slight scratch on its gilt frame.

The royal equipage was rehearsing its part in the May 6 procession when a double-decker bus clipped one of the Windsor greys on the flank. Then things started to happen not as rehearsed.

With the coachman clinging on for his life, the King's horses bolted. Before they could be brought under control by the outriders, the heavy coach took a parting swipe at the bus and slugged the coster's fruit-laden pushcart into complete submission.

Beyond the severe shaking-up, the King's coachman received, there were no casualties and the coach was trundled back into the Buckingham Palace stables under its own horsepower.

Separate Monetary Action for West Is Urged by Vancouver's Mayor

VANCOUVER, April 29. (CP).—Admitting secession might be involved, Mayor G. G. McGreer today was urging separate monetary action by Western Canada's four provinces to pave the way for a public works program to combat unemployment.

A statement outlining the proposal was issued by Mayor McGreer after he had noted a statement from Sir George Perley acting Prime Minister, that the people of Canada could not support a work-and-wages program demanded by striking relief camp workers of British Columbia.

Declaring the situation in Western Canada was intolerable, Mayor McGreer urged the separate monetary action by Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia. It would not necessarily mean secession of the West from the Dominion, he said, but it could become secession if the Dominion Government did not change its policy. He described the policy as lacking in means of financing progress in the west.

IN MEMORIAM

JAMES—In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Mrs. J. C. James who departed this life, 4 years today.

Gone dear mother, gone forever,
How we miss your smiling face,
But you left us to remember,
None on earth can take your place.
A Happy home we once enjoyed,
How sweet the memory still
But death has left a loneliness
The world can never fill.

Sadly missed by Husband, Daughters, Sons and Grandchildren.

IN MEMORIAM

McCAULY—In loving memory of Mrs. Robert McCauly who died, April 30th, 1933.

What is home without you, mother?
What are all the joys we meet
When your loving smile no longer
Greets the coming of our feet?
You were very true and patient
Through the years you struggled on,
And those dear hands now resting,
Made a home that now is gone.
No length of time, no lapse of years
Can dim our mother's past,
For treasured memories hold her dear
And will while memory lasts.

ONTARIO NEEDS GOOD HEAVY RAIN

Ninety-five Per Cent. of Wheat Crop Been Killed in Northumberland County.

SEEDING WELL AWAY.

TORONTO, April 29 (C.P.)—Fall wheat held the spotlight in the weekly crop report issued to-day by the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

Seeding was general throughout the province and in many cases operations had been completed. Need for rain was emphasized in many reports.

Prospects for Fall wheat in Lambton County were viewed as satisfactory, and it was estimated not one per cent. of the crop would have to be re-seeded. Most other Western Ontario counties expected a promising crop of Fall wheat.

In the central part of the province, Northumberland estimated 95 per cent. of the wheat crop had been killed in the southern section of the country.

Eastern Ontario needed a warm rain to stimulate growth. Frontenac reported a loss from 25 to 35 per cent in new seeding of Alfalfa and clovers. Three new cheese factories are under construction in Leeds.

In the North, Algoma noted satisfactory growth of Fall wheat. Seeding was general on Manitoulin Island. Sudbury expected satisfactory crops providing they had the benefit of a warm rain.

Examiner Advertisement Wins in Contest

ONTARIO ASSOCIATED DAILIES WON TWO AWARDS IN CONTEST FOR BEST 1934 ADVERTISEMENT

Examiner is Member of Group Carrying Off Two Prizes.

IN EDITOR AND PULISHER.

T. L. Ashton Who Prepared Advertisement Now Member of Examiner Staff.

Ontario Associated Dailies, of which the Peterborough Examiner is a member, won two awards in the contest conducted last week in New York by Editor & Publisher for the best advertising done in 1934 by newspaper on the North American continent.

The awards were made from an exhibit that for volume and sustained excellence surpassed a field considerably superior to that of three previous contests. The jury of judges was composed of four prominent advertising agency executives, the executive manager of a large New York department store, two advertising managers of national manufacturing companies which are large users of newspaper space and two advertising consultants with wide experience in all branches of advertising.

Simplicity of concept and execution, direct statements, straight presentation of facts concerning the newspaper, the market and their interrelation—these were the factors that the majority of the judges sought in judging the entries. Numerous advertisements, well typed and beautifully phrased lost out because the judges found in them little or nothing that would appeal to the advertiser seeking a market for his goods. Elementary discourses on the worth or the nature of the advertising process were passed over as a waste of the advertiser's time.

For the best promotion done by a group of newspapers, First Award was given to the Scripps-Howard newspapers, publishers of the New York Telegram. Second Award was made to the Ontario Associated Dailies, who submitted a well-organized campaign selling their markets.

For the Most Valuable Single Advertisement appearing in trade papers, First Award went to the New York Daily News. Second Award was made to Ontario Associated Dailies, whose advertisement appears on this page, was told in quick tempo and marched into the general theme of the value of the smaller daily in covering the Ontario market.

The advertising for Ontario Associated Dailies was prepared by T. L. Ashton, who has joined the advertising staff of The Examiner and is now a resident of Peterborough.

OUR MAIL

Anne Wilcox,
Examiner.

Dear Anne.—I have just finished reading Quid Est's letter and it seems it has given me the incentive I needed for I seemed to have come to a standstill. Sometimes, dear Anne, as I look out over the land I feel helpless and sometimes I find myself praying, Lord, what wilt Thou have me to do? Oh, that peace might come to this troubled earth—but peace can only come to men of good will and it seems that so very many do not will good, but prefer to live in the lowest story of their mind and not aspiring for better things.

I have in my possession a little book entitled "From Passion to Peace." This little book is full of gems of wisdom, I will quote an extract from the last chapter entitled "Peace' here follows the extract:

Where passion is, peace is not; where peace is passion is not. To know this is to master the first letter in the divine language of perfect deeds; for to know that passion and peace cannot dwell together is to be well prepared to renounce the lesser and embrace the greater.

Men pray for peace, yet cling to passion; they foster strife, yet pray for heavenly rest. This is profound spiritual ignorance, it is not to know the first letter in the alphabet of things divine. He who despises another will be despised by others; He who opposes his fellow-man will himself be resisted. He should not be surprised and mourn, that men are divided. He should know that he himself is propogating strife. He should understand his lack of peace.

Peace does not fight; is not a partizan; has no blatant voice. The triumph of peace is an unassailable silence." (End of quotation).

Many times, dear Anne I have read this little book and wished to arrive in that beautiful city of "Peace" but the road has been rough and thorny and beset with snares, but I still plod on—that is my goal—both for myself and others and I seek to walk this path, as a little hymn puts it—"Walking With Thee My God. Like as a child leans on his Father's arm, Crossing the Wild. And by the way is taught lessons of holy thought, Faith undefiled.

Best wishes for your anticipated page, Anne, I am afraid to make promises, but will try to contribute sometimes if I may.

Yours sincerely
Water Lily.

Dear Water Lily—

It is so nice to hear from you again. Your thoughts on Peace are very wonderful and constructive indeed. It is indeed the one thing the world needs most at this troubled time. And to attain this man must certainly have holy peace in his heart.

I do hope we may have our page very soon, there seem to be so many things to be considered that it seems almost impossible sometimes to get things going. But however we shall hope very soon to get away to a good start. We shall look forward to your contributions. I wish all the neighbors would write oftener. Quid Est is lovely, isn't she. She is such a faithful soul she does not neglect us for very long.

Sincerely yours,
Anne Wilcox

MISSED CHURCH 5 TIMES DURING PAST 55 YEARS

COLUMBUS, O., April 29 (C.P.).—Fifty-five years ago Charles H. Wilkins, critically ill of typhoid fever, vowed he would attend church regularly if he recovered.

Last night he was honored at the New Avenue M. E. Church for keeping that vow. Wilkins has missed church only five Sundays in 55 years, and then only because of death and sickness in his family. He celebrated his 73rd birthday to-day.

WARKWORTH, April 29.—(Examiner Correspondence). — A very pleasant social time was enjoyed at the Presbyterian Church Thursday evening, April 24, when members of the Young People's Societies of the Presbyterian Church and St. Paul's United Church were guests of the Anglican Young People's Society.

MADRIGAL CONCERT NEXT WEDNESDAY

Concert Will be Given in the Auditorium of the Collegiate.

The concert to be given by "The Madrigal Singers," conducted by Dorothy Allan Park, in the Collegiate Auditorium next Wednesday evening promises to be one of the most brilliant ever given by this noted group of singers. The comments of leading musicians and music critics have already accorded this women's choir superlative praise. The program has been arranged with much thought, and comprises every type of beautiful music, ranging from madrigals of the sixteenth century, English and Scottish folk-songs, an exquisite trio of Brahms part-songs, to the lilting, delightful strains of the "Blue Danube Waltz." The choir will sing the most dramatic composition it has ever attempted when the old Scottish air, "Hame, Hame, Hame," is presented to the local audience. Peterborough will hear a new and more versatile choir on Wednesday night, when the "Singers" demonstrate that they have kept all the tonal beauty for which they are famous, and have also achieved an ability to create real drama. The trio of delicately poetic Brahms love-songs will please those who admire the more restrained type of choral work, and the first group by early English composers will display the impeccable technique of these disciplined and experienced singers. The assisting artists are Muriel Donnellan, harpist of Toronto Symphony Orchestra, and Harvey Doney, baritone, both widely known through their concert and radio appearances.

The following are some recent press notices:—

Raymond Mullens in "Saturday Night": "Saturday afternoon the Madrigal Singers from Peterborough performed for us, and a strikingly beautiful performance it was. The conductor of this chorus, Dorothy Allan Park is lucky to have so many really lovely voices at her disposal. Her sopranos never strain at high notes, and her contraltos provide a foundation that is firm and sure. This choir sings without nots—no small feat when no less than twenty choruses are sung on one program. In consequence, they are able to give rapt attention to their director. As she hapens to be a very good one, the effect is almost indescribably impressive. The voices seem, at times, to be floating in the air; the attacks are magnetically unanimous; the many subtleties of shading enchanting. The work of the Peterborough choir was superlative."

Lawrence Mason in "The Globe": "This excellent choir proceeded to sing a first-class program in first-class style, as is its custom. The performance showed admirably finished workmanship throughout, and Mrs. Park drew some remarkably beautiful effects from her singers."

Augustus Bridle in "Toronto Star": "Organizing, training and concertizing these singers in one of the feats of Canadian music. No other Canadian city has such a group of singers. The choir showed more than ever the splendid musical culture of Dorothy Allan Park, their director."

NEW STYLE ART EXHIBITION.

TORONTO, April 29.—(CP). — Toronto's first no-jury art exhibition on a large scale will open Wednesday, for a run of two weeks. It has been prepared hurriedly by the artists, who have done their own "hanging" and arranging. One of the features of the show will be that some of the pictures may be bought on deferred payment.

MARK ST. MEN HEAR REV. TYLER

Men's Club and Their Wives Hold Annual Banquet.

SPORT CHRISTIANITY.

An address on Christian sportsmanship by the Rev. G. K. Tyler was a highlight of the annual banquet of the Mark Street Church Men's Club over the week-end. Under the chairmanship of President Rufus Payne, a good representation of the men and their wives took part in the program.

Opening his address, Rev. Tyler said that, although the Bible does not reveal that Jesus took any part in the sports of the day or sang or laughed, he believed Jesus did all these things.

"We all love a good sport, one who can play the game well and who, if necessary, can take a defeat with a smile," the speaker continued. Those who refuse to accept his way of salvation are showing poor sportsmanship, he said. Jesus left a great contest for all to join in when he said, "Go ye into all the world and preach the Gospel to every creature," the speaker asserted.

"Many people when picking up The Examiner turn first to the sport pages, an indication of their great enthusiasm for sport. I am not criticising them at all. They are good sportsmen and we admire them. But what about this sport Christianity? Should we not show some enthusiasm for it?" Fans will go to a ball game in the sweltering heat of summer and freeze their feet at a hockey game in winter without complaining of the physical hardships, he pointed out. He claimed that it is time that the same enthusiasm were shown for the sport of Christianity. In the first Christian centuries the enthusiasm was so great that even death could not extinguish the fire, he said.

A brief program including a sing song led by E. V. Morphet was enjoyed. Rev. C. D. Daniel, pastor of Mark Street Church, welcomed Rev. Mr. Poulter of Wooler, a visitor to the banquet. During the evening, Alderman James Ellis, the past president, spoke briefly on the club's activities.

Tiflis' new shoe plant is expected to produce 7,000,000 pairs a year.

Forest Fire Raging In Haliburton County

LINDSAY, April 29.—A forest fire between Cranberry Lake and Eagle Lake in Haliburton county, has been ranging for the past five days, according to Samuel Lambert of the Lambert Lumber Company, Eagle Lake. Twenty-five men have been engaged battling the flames, which started at the Cranberry Lake end of the ridge. Thursday the firefighters thought they had extinguished the flames, only to have them break out again Friday morning. Fanned by a strong wind, the fire is said to be rapidly nearing Eagle Lake. Heavy rains Saturday afternoon considerably helped the fire fighters.

Dr. Dafoe took an American Journey

. . . and when he came to New York he won hard-boiled Broadway. He exchanged "gags" with Sally Rand and captivated Walter Winchell. He was the guest of the "Happy Warrior," the toast of the city, the news of the week!

But when he returned to his native Ontario his first request was for the North Hastings Review, published in his own home town of Madoc. He wanted to see what "the greatest newspaper in the world," as he calls it, had to say about him. The lavish laurels on the front pages of the big city press were interesting, but the North Hastings Review was something he knew about—something he had heard of before—something he was sure of.

To each of the hundred thousand readers of key city dailies, "the greatest newspaper in the world" is the one published in his own home city. And why not? It tells him about Dr. Dafoe being received by President Roosevelt and the daily progress of his beloved "quints," about assassinations in the Balkans and the sputterings in the Saar. It also tells him about what is going on at home and about neighbors and friends and about people he has known for a long time. It tells who held a successful tea, who is ill, who has had a "blessed event," who won the badminton tournament, who is coming home for the holiday, who is selling this and who is selling that. It is the only paper that brings him all the news he wants!

Manufacturers, advertising and sales departments who get this idea fixed and work for it in "the greatest newspapers in the world" will be away out front when some of the other fellows who are devoting all their time and attention to "only the larger centers" will be wondering why they got lost in the recovery shuffle. The cost need be no worry. Here are thirteen keys to thirteen responsive key markets—you can use all of them for less than two head office city dailies and for about a quarter the cost of one magazine.

LIFFORD LINE.

Lifford community hall was filled to capacity on Wednesday evening, April 24th, when the A.Y.P.A. held a jolly crokinole party. The Janetville Y.P.S., who had been guests of the Bethany Y.P.S. for their final meeting of the season, dropped in on the homeward trip, and enjoyed the later hours with the Lifford people. Many of the Bethany Y.P.S. were also in attendance.

Rev. Holden, rector of the parish, expressed appreciation of the large attendance and announced a short entertaining program. A three-piece orchestra with Miss Marjorie Page at the piano and Clarence Page and George Tims with violins rendered delightful music. Miss Vera Strahan recited "Where The Old Hen Scratches There She 'spects a Find a Bug."

A refreshing lunch wa served by th hostess society. With Robert Sisson, president of the A.Y.P.A., at the piano, dancing was enjoyed by the young people during the latter part of the evening. Messrs. Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

When you are planning the wardrobe for a journey there are some things which you can see to that will relieve you of work in the care of articles, and some others that will make it possible to have fresh looking frocks without extra work.

* * * * * * *

One can imagine such things quite feasible if extra money were expended, but fortunately the things about which I shall tell you mean practically no added outlay, nothing but careful selections of materials and accessories, plus the price of two equipments which will last many a trip.

* * * * * * *

Silk crepe, not the flat crepe but that resembling seersucker should be selected for night gowns or pyjamas. There are satisfactory in silky appearance, in soft texture, and in being crushable without detriment. The material washes beautifully, and requires no ironing. Moreover it dries in a minimum time, and this is a trait every traveller likes. Be sure to hang top garments up by shoulders and trousers by waist band. If possible put them in a draught. Garments so hung will keep their correct lines.

* * * * * * *

It is a good idea to have a slip of this same textile in with others of soft silk or satin. You will find it a great convenience when there has been no chance to get laundry done. Silk lingerie is scarcely more expensive than a good grade of cotton, and silk folds into very small space. Consequently it is a wise choice and will minimise laundry work as it washes well and may even be worn without ironing if the garments are hung up by the shoulder straps or from under arm seams.

* * * * * * *

Be sure to take a small electric iron, but be sure also to ascertain the system in the place in which you wish to use the iron as electric fittings must suit systems. Tourist's small clothesline sets cost but a trifle. They consist of line and have clothespins. Such a set is a great convenience. Have laundry soap too. With such equipments cost of laundry is minimized without incurring too much work for the traveller.

* * * * * * *

A lace dress will be ready to don without the bother of pressing, and will grace any occasion especially if the bodice is cut low and is sleeveless. Have a jacket to match with long sleeves and high back for afternoon wear.

* * * * * * *

A frock of crinkly crepe made in good style will prove just the thing for many travelling days. Choose one that is dark enough not to show the dust and dirt.

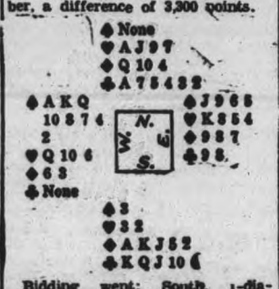
KNOCKING OUT A GRAND SLAM

Both sides were vulnerable when this hand appeared. Until the hand had been played out nobody knew just how admirable West's pre-emptive strategy had been. He went down a single trick doubled, costing only 100 points because he had 100 in honors, then he won a 400 point rubber. Had South been allowed to bid freely he would have made a grand slam at diamonds, winning a 2,900 point rubber, a difference of 3,300 points.

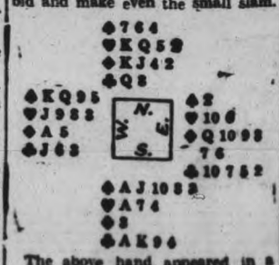


Bidding went: South, 1-diamond; West, 4-spades, which North doubled on his two aces and the fact that his partner had opened the bidding. South felt satisfied. He dared not overcall the double with a diamond rebid or with 5-clubs. It would have been fool-hardy.

The opening lead was the Q of diamonds and the defenders won 2 tricks in that suit. West ruffed the third diamond led. He ran off several spades, then he lost 2 heart tricks.

Suppose that West had made a lowcall of his spades, the hand certainly would have been played for not less than a small slam, either at diamonds or clubs. If played at diamonds a grand slam is assured. Dummy will ruff the opening spade lead. Three rounds of trumps will pull all opposing diamonds. Six clubs will be run next. On the long club in dummy South will discard one of his hearts, while dummy's ace will give him the thirteenth trick.

Whether North or South played the hand at clubs only a small slam can be made, as South cannot discard a heart upon anything held in the North hand, but West saved 1,800 points over allowing opponents to bid and make even the small slam.



The above hand appeared in a recent duplicate match at the Knickerbocker Whist Club, giving trouble to South players who tried to go game. Can 4-spades be made? The opening lead was 3 of hearts. The question will be answered tomorrow.

BELL TELEPHONE CO. 55TH ANNIVERSARY

Equipment in Public Service in Ontario and Quebec Cost $190,000,000.

When the Bell Telephone Company began its corporate existence in Canada 55 years ago to-day, its total assets amounted to slightly more than $400,000.

To-day the Bell Telephone plant and equipment in the public service in Ontario and Quebec has cost over $190,000,000. The comparison is roughy indicative of the immense progress that the telephone has made in this country whose citizens ure it more extensively than any other country of the world.

The Bell Telephone Company here and throughout the two provinces, is commemorating the 55th anniversary of its incorporation, April 29, 1880, by flying the familiar Blue Bell ensign from the flagstaffs on its buildings to-day.

Be Beautiful

By GLADYS GLAD

"Dear Miss Glad: I am a fair-skinned individual, and have found that a soft peach shade of powder blends excellently with my coloring during the daytime. However, this same powder seems to give my skin a yellowish appearance at night. Can you tell me how I can make my skin look fair and white in the evening? LONA."

It is not the powder that you use, but the artificial lights of evening that give your face an unnatural yellowish appearance. A violet shade of powder is generally suggested to dissipate this effect. Mix about one-fourth of a violet shade of powder in with the peach powder that you generally use, and employ the mixture for evening wear. Just be sure that you do not use too much of the violet powder. If properly blended, this powder mixture will make your skin look delicately fair and well-groomed under the artificial lights of evening.

"Dear Miss Glad: I want to thank you for the assistance I have received from your 'Beauty Culture' booklet. Thanks to you, my scalp is now entirely clear of dandruff, and my hair doesn't fall out as it formerly did. In addition, my hair has become much thicker and glossier, too. However, I'm quite overweight, and have heard that I could lose weight by abstaining from water and all other liquids. Would you advise this procedure? "MARCHE."

It is true that abstinence from water and all fluids will bring about a reduction in weight. But in my opinion, this is anything but an advisable procedure, for the consumption of water is most important to health. Water aids in the functioning of the entire body. It flushes the system, and sweeps the alimentary canal free from poisons. What's more, the loss of weight occasioned by this procedure would only be temporary. Just as soon as you resumed the consumption of water and other liquids, your tissues would avidly absorb the water, and the lost weight would be quickly regained.

"Dear Miss Glad: I am fair-skinned redheaded, and rather pretty. My friends tell me, however, that I'd be much more attractive if I only use a little taste in colors. Can you tell me just what shades are best for me to wear? FLOSSIE."

There are a variety of hues that may be worn by an individual of your coloring. They are, however, almost wholly among the more subdued, the pastel and medium shades. You must be sure to avoid vivid, blatant hues, as they will clash with you own bright coloring. All reds and all purples that have reddish tones particularly will prove most inharmonious. Black and smoke gray are flattering to an individual with your particular coloring. Also, rust that matches the color of your hair, capucine, pinkish beige, cool, bluish greens, dull blues such as navy and midnight, tannish browns and mat white should prove becoming to you.

DOG SHOW IS BIG SUCCESS

Don Welch Wins Blue Ribbon for Best Dog at Hobby Show.

21 ENTRIES

Dogs! Little white dogs, big brown dogs and in-between spotted dogs—all making their individual contributions to the ear-splitting cacophony. That was the scene which prevailed as the youngsters taking part in the Boys' Hobby Show at the Y.M.C.A. gathered for the annual dog show in the gymnasium Saturday.

As a small amateur show, the event was quite a success. Twenty-one animals were entered. Some were obviously aristocrats of the dog world with lineages traceable many generations back. Others of shabbier appearances and mien were quite as obviously members of the proletariat of dogdom. It was questionable whether their lineages could even be traced back as far as their fathers; yet the youngsters who exhibited them had the same pride as the custodians of the blue bloods. And a gallery full of onlookers enjoyed the spectacle.

Dog Convention

"Wouldn't it be fun if we let all the dogs loose in the center of the gym?" somebody shouted above the din. And it would have been fun. Straining at their leashes, the big fellows looked as if they would have welcomed a free-for-all. The little dogs were more prudent than to strain at their leashes. Thy snuggled in close, enjoying the protection of their masters lined around the four walls of the gym. All were excited for it is not often that dogs get together at such a social gathering.

German police dog—Won by Al. Bowen.

English bull dog—Won by Griffin Young.

Collie—Third ribbon won by Arthur Pritchard.

Best large dog—Won by Griffin Young.

Cocker spaniel—1, Doug. Grant; 2, Harold Matthews; 3, Arthur Turner.

Wire-haired fox terrier—1, Don Welch; 2, Sonny Boy.

Pomeranian—1, Don Hume; 2, Ken Gash.

French poodle puppy—Won by Gordon Pink.

Pekinese—Won by Bob Dyer.

Best trick dog—Won by Tom Stanley.

Best of small dogs—1, Wire-haired terrier owned by Don Welch; 2, Cocker spaniel owned by Doug. Grant; 3, Wire-haired fox terrier puppy owned by Don Welch.

RED SOX—Here's a string of Boston Red Sox, picked by many as contenders for the American league pennant.

Last Chance For White Hose

WEAK IN PITCHING

LOU COMISKEY says he will give those Komical Kids, the White Sox, one more chance. If they don't come out from behind the eight ball this year the son who inherited the team from the Old Roman is ready to sell out. Unless the owner can be satisfied with seventh place it appears that the Sox, already launched another season with no great improvements, are about to go to the market.

The pitching was poor last year and with the same cast of characters not much better work can be expected. The fact that Luke Sewell, former Indian and Senator catcher, will be behind the bat ought to help steady the young pitchers. But Veterans Ted Lyons, Sam Jones and George Earnshaw, the backbone of the mound staff, cannot be counted upon for suddenly sensational years. Les Tietje is the pitching hope of the club. He won only five games last year, but showed such improvement it is not rash to expect 15 from him this year. Vernon Kennery, former Mackman; Ray Phelps, former Dodger, and Whitey Wyatt, former Tiger, are making comebacks after minor league chastening. Lee Stine, Lefty Michaels and Johnny Whitehead are the rooks. Whitehead, winner of 19 games for Dallas, appears promising.

IT'S THE same infield—and not a very hot group of boys. Zeke Bonura is on first, Minter Hayes at second, Luke Appling at short and Manager Jimmy Dykes is depending upon picking a couple of reserves from the other clubs' culls before he goes far.

Because of his healthy .367 hitting average at Indianapolis, Vernon Washington's outfield chances are respected. He started the season in right, with Mule Haas in centre again and Al Simmons in left, Ray Radcliff is a reserve outfielder, but weak with the willow. Dan Hafey, nephew of Chick of the Reds, probably will occupy the next pew to Radcliff in the dugout. The club has more punch than the Browns and, barring a repitition of unfortunate injuries which helped to keep the club down, ought to club at least one notch in the standings.

Chance Sun Beaten In Kentucky Derby Test

English Vaulter Lands Hard When Pole Breaks

Despite appearances, R. N. Bond, Harrow athlete, is not trying to hide by burying his head in the sand, ostrich fashion. His pole broke during the vault competition and he landed in this manner. Sand softened the fall and he was not badly hurt. The accident occurred during the London (England) public schools challenge cup meeting. The trophy was won by Salem school of Germany, runner-up in 1933 and 1934.

TODAY WINS WOOD STAKES ON SATURRAY

Calumet Farm's Nellie Flag Scores Brilliant Triumph at Church Downs.

CHANCE SUN BAD THIRD

NEW YORK, April 29.—Today's victory in the Wood Memorial Stakes at Jamaica, Nellie Flagg's brilliant triumph at Churchill Downs and Chance Sun's unexpected defeat in the same race, coupled with recent impressive performances by other candidates, has seriously complicated the Kentucky Derby situation.

With the sixty-first running of the Churchill Downs classic only one week away, the question of who is the best horse still remains unanswered. Who is the best horse?

Today, C. V. Whitney's candidate, won the Wood in excellent fashion. He triumphed over Plat Eye, the Greentree candidate, and Belair Stud's route-running Omaha, by two lengths. But—the Wood Memorial was only at a mile and seventy yards, and Today was carrying only 112 pounds. Can Today go a mile and a quarter at top speed with 126 pounds on his back?

Plat Eye, a fast-closing second, remains a dangerous contender for Derby honors. The son of Chicle carried top weight of 120 pounds in the Wood.

Closed Fast

Omaha, son of mighty Gallant Fox, ran a true Gallant Fox race. Bumped and shuffled in the early running, he closed a tremendous gap to finish only a nose behind Plat Eye.

At the Downs course, setting for the Derby, Nellie Flag, Calumet Farm's filly, established herself as a serious threat. At the same time, Chance Sun, one of the winter book favorites, lost much of the prestige he gained in winning the Belmont Futurity, by faltering in the seven furlong dash to finish a badly outrun third behind Nellie Flagg.

Added to these top-notch contenders are Elwood Sachsenmaier's Roman Soldier, winner of the mile and an eighth Texas Derby, and Mrs. W. M. Jeffords' Commonwealth, third behind Plat Eye in the Chesapeake Stakes at Havre De Grace, and Col. E. R. Bradley's Boxthorn, a nonstarter this year.

Many Good Horses

There are also "dark horses" lurking in the background. There is Jouett Shouse's Weston, also a nonstarter this year, which is burning up the Churchill Downs track in workouts. There is Mrs. Charley Hainsworth's Blackbirder, second behind Beaver Dam in the mile and a sixteenth Clark Handicap at Churchill Downs Saturday. There is also J. J. Flanigan's Chance View, another comparative unknown but highly touted.

This Derby appears to be the widest open race in the history of the classic and with speed and stamia represented, Twenty Grand's record of 2:01 4-5 for the mile and a quarter may go by the boards if the track is fast next Saturday.

GIANTS BLANK PHILLIES 3-0

DODGERS BEATEN 5-3.

The Giants, who took the National League lead Saturday, pulled further ahead of Brooklyn when they blanked the Phillies 3-0 on Hal Schumachers one-hit pitching. A doubtful single by Orville Jorgens, which might easily have been scored as an error, and a ninth inning walk spoiled a perfect game.

The Dodgers, meanwhile took a 5-3 licking from the reviving Braves when they failed to hit Bob Smith in the pinches while Boston made its 11 blows off Van Mungo count. The National League mound sensation, Rookie Cy Blanton of Pittsburgh, rang up his third straight victory, 3-2 at the expense of the Cardinals and Dizzy Dean. Blanton allowed eight hits while Arky Vaughan nicked Dean for a homer, double and single.

NEWARK GAINS TWIN VICTORY OVE RTORONTO

Bears Boost Season's Record to 10 Victories and Three Defeats.

ORIOLES WALLOP BISONS.

(By the Associated Press).

Newark Bears still are winning the close ones and that's reason enough for their present exalted position at the top of tre International League standings.

The Bears tripped up Toronto Maple Leafs in both ends of a Sunday double-header, 8-7 and 10-2, to boost their season's record to 10 victories and three defeats. Seven of these victories have come by a one-run margin. The Bears had to travel 10 innings before Merrill May's single drove in the winning run in the first game. A four-run outburst by Newark in the last half of the eighth had sent the game into extra innings. The second game was a breeze for Ted Kleinhans, who allowed only five hits and was given home-run support by George McQuinn Ernie Koy and Bill Baker. McQuinn's homer with the bases loaded in the second really decided the battle. The double defeat dropped Toronto into fourth place, behind Baltimore's Orioles and Montreal Royals.

Bisons Drop Two.

Baltimore, walloping Buffalo twice, 12-4 and 6-2, clouted six more homers to bring its total for the season to 35 in 14 games. Eddie Mayo hit three on successive times at bat in the first game; Roy Gibson contributed another, and Woody Abernathy hit one in each game. George Darrow and Harry Gumbert took care of the Oriole pitching and had no troubles.

Montreal took two falls out of the Syracuse Stars, winning the opener 8-6 as Jimmy Ripple connected for a home run, double and single, and the nightcap 3-0 behind Harry Smythe's six-hit pitching.

Divide Double Bill.

Albany punched out 14 hits to outpoint Rochester 9-7 in a free-swinging first game, but the Red Wings came back to snare the second duel 4-1 as Tony Kaufmann allowed only six hits. Johnny Mize of Rochester was the hitting star of the day with a home run, a double and three singles.

'BABE' DIDRIKSON WINS GOLF HONORS

Texas Girl Athlete Covers First Lap in Race for National Title.

HOUSTON, Texas, April 29. (CP). Mildred "Babe" Didrikson bore down the trail leading to the women's United States golf championship in determined stride to-day, the Texas state crown perched upon her head.

The lean, muscular girl sensation of the last Olympics won the Texas title here Saturday with a show of steel-nerved golf and announced plans for polishing her game to national lustre.

Meantime it became known she was sent in pursuit of supremacy in this latest sports field by the scorn of others—the "When I sat down to play they all began to laugh" sort of thing.

After she had lifted the Texas title by shooting an eagle and a birdie on the 34th and 35th holes to win two and one over Mrs. Dan Chandler, prominent Texas golfer, Miss Didrikson explained "the big reason I am glad I won the championship."

"After I had won those Olympic events and told sports writers that someday I would be national golf champion" she said, "people laughed and that hurt me."

A crowd of 29,514 paid customers turned out at Cincinnati to see the aspiring Reds lose to the Cubs 4-1 on a three-run ninth inning rally and the five hit hurling of Bill Lee. The attendance was 2,000 better than that of the opening day.

TIGERS START ON CAMPAIGN TO REACH TOP

Detroit's Champion Club Defeats Indians 5-3 for Their Third Victory.

26,000 SEE TUSSLE.

(By Hugh S. Fullerton, Jr.)
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)

The uncertainties of baseball—which go a long way toward making it a great game—seldom have been better illustrated than in the current American League race.

In less than two weeks of campaigning Cleveland Indians and St. Louis Browns have run true to form, the Indians by racing to the top of the standing and the Browns by sliding to seventh place, but all the rest have been taking part in a round of upsets.

Their Third Victory.

The slump of Detroit's champion Tigers, who tumbled to the cellar only to climb to sixth place yesterday by defeating Cleveland 5-3 for their third victory and the Indians' second defeat, is just one example. For six straight games last week the Tigers just couldn't do anything right. Then they bestirred themselves to do some real hitting behind young Joe Sullivan, who made his first Major League start before a crowd of 26,000.

Detroit collected 12 blows, including Greenberg's homer, while Sullivan not only hurled effectively but drove in two runs.

The Red Sox, who sailed into first place at the start, continued their tumble into the second division as they fade three more errors for a total of 16 in four games, waived a lot of hits and took a 5-3 beating from the Senators.

Chicago's White Sox, another big surprise, continued their heavy slugging to challenge Cleveland's lead when they made seven hits and five errors by their opponents good for a 6-4 victory over the Browns. One of the blows was Zeke Bonura's sixth circuit swat and the club's 14th within a week. John Whitehead, rookie hurler, pitched steadily for his third straight triumph.

Yanks Maintain Tie.

The Yankees maintained their third-place tie with Washington by downing the Athletics 7-5, largely because of Earl Combs' homer with the bases full.

TORONTO GAINS HOLD ON TITLE

DOMINION FINALS.

SAINT JOHN, N.B., April 29 (CP) —Toronto Broadview Y.M.C.A. today held high hopes of carrying the Canadian intermediate basketball title back to the Queen City after taking a 24-10 victory from Saint John Basketball Association intermediates Saturday night in the first of a two-game total-points series for the Dominion championship. The second match is to be played here to-night.

Mayor J. W. Brittain made the opening face-off of the dull but clean game, featured by poor marksmanship on both sides. No score was produced until 11 minutes after the first ball was tossed up.

Breadon Is Outstanding.

Bill Breadon, tall Toronto centreman, by his stellar work in the last few minutes of the match as he led play after play into Saint John territory and counted eight points, proved to be the outstanding player on the floor.

Little George Turner shone for Saint John. The cagey forward scored six points after squirming through Broadview defence, and was a constant threat while in Toronto area.

Saint John dominated the greater part of the first half, showing cool combination work which kept the ball in centre court, but gave the forwards few shots on the basket.

Assumption Cagers Lose To Victoria

Blue Ribbons Capture Third Game of Basketball

VICTORIA, April 29.—(CP). — Victoria Blue Ribbons, seeking the men's senior basketball title of Canada, handed another jolt Saturday night to the confident Assumption College of Windsor crew by taking the third game of the five-game championship series 36-20.

Ribbons won the first game, but Assumption came back to win the second fixture in such handy style the Victoria quintet was just a little more than apprehensive over their titular chances.

Saturday night's game was a fairly close affair for the first half, which ended with the Victorias leading 16-10, but in the second half the Ribbons forged ahead to pile up a good lead.

In the third quarter Ribbons bowed to 10 points—twice as many as their opponents—then outscored the visitors 12 t o5 in the final period.

NUMBER 598.

I've noticed a great many players gripping the club while holding it off the ground. By so doing they have about one chance in a million of placing their hands in the proper position in relation to the clubface.

The angle of the clubface in relation to the position of the left hand is important. It has a lot to do with both distance and direction. The rest of your swing can be perfect, but if your hands are at the wrong angle the shot can't be successful.

The best thing to do is to make a habit of letting the club head rest on the ground in a natural position and then placing your hands. Don't lift the club off the ground as you go to place your right hand.

Have the clubhead resting on the ground and undisturbed until you've placed both hands. Then lift the club and waggle it a bit to loosen up your wrists.

CHAMPIONS LOSE IN EIGHT RELAYS

Peacock of Temple Wins Two Events — Columbia and Michigan State Also.

PHILADELPHIA, April 29 (A.P.). —Columbia University's flashy speed kings and Michigan State's sturdy distance runners achieved twin-victory goals, while Louisiana State fell short of a similar objective, to bring the 41st Pennsylvania relay carnival to a smashing conclusion Saturday before a crowd of 30,000 spectators and under perfect weather conditions at historic Franklin Field.

With the benefit of a day's rest between events, Columbia's sprinters added the 880-yard relay championships to the quarter-mile crown, dethroning Cornell in each race, thanks to the brilliant work of Sam Maniaci and Ben Johnson, Negro holder of the national indoor dash title.

Similarly, Michigan State's quartet of milers, starring Tom Ottey and Wesley Hurd, made a runaway of the four-mile championship in Saturday's final race after capturing the distance medley trophy the day before.

Facing a stiffer task by doubling up in two of Saturday's feature relays, Louisiana State's gallant runners were stopped by Manhattan College in the classic one-mile race, after winning the two-mile championship. The Tigers, with Black, O'Neil and "Slats" Hardin carrying the baton in both events, whipped Army and Columbia in the two-mile but Hardin's closing quarter in 47.4 seconds was only good enough to cut in half the starting margin of Manhattan's runner, John Wolfe, who drose the tape 12 yards in front of Hardin.

No records were broken in the major relays, where a complete new crop of eight champion teams was crowned, but five carnival marks were tumbled in an outburst of speedy competition among secondary schools and three other meet records were knocked off in the individual events.

American talkies now lead in popularity in Italy.

BIRD BATTERS LEAD IN RACE

Orioles Have Clicked For 80 Hits, 70 Runs and 18 Homers in 8 Games.

AN IMPRESSIVE RECORD.

NEW YORK, April 29. (AP)—Newark Bears and Baltimore Orioles furnished a study in the sharpest kind of contracts as they paraded through the second week of the International ball league season almost without serious opposition.

The Orioles continued to belt the ball to all corners of the lot and out of it as they piled up 80 hits, 70 runs and 18 homers in eight games. They hit so hard and so often that it didn't make much difference that their opponents put over 48 tallies, Baltimore still managed to win six of the eight games, connecting for anything from one to five circuit swats in each one.

Wins by Narrow Margins

On the other hand the Bears touched the low marks, scoring only 24 runs on 53 hits, but they managed to win every close game and finished at the top of the standing after winning six times and losing only once, only one of the victories was scored by more than a run and that by two while the one loss was a 16-2 shellacking by Buffalo.

Toronto Leafs, who furnished much of Baltimores opposition, led in fielding with only two errors in six games, one below Newark's figure, and were second in scoring with 47 runs and in circuit swatting with eight homers.

Montreal Royals furnished a great example of ups and downs as they hit safely 73 times, held their opponents to 25 runs in seven games, scored 36 tallies yet won only three games and lost four.

CUNNINGHAM WINS AT DRAKE RELAYS

Jesse Owens Wins Final in 100 Yards For Second Victory of Meet.

DES MOINES, Ia., April 29. —(AP).—Glenn Cunningham, America's peerless middle distance runner conquered Glen Dawson of Tulsa, Okla., his conquerer of a week ago, in a special three-quarter mile race that climaxed competition in the Drake Relays here Saturday.

The sturdy Kansan reversed the decision Dawson scored over him in a special mile event in the Kansas Relays a week ago by beating him by four yards in 3.50.3. Bill Daly, brilliant little University of Detroit miler, who is in his first season of varsity competition, was with the leaders all the way and finished just a step behind Dawson.

While Cuningham demonstrated his superiority in the mile event, a younger athlete, Jesse Owens, Ohio State's flying kangaroo, took rank along with other great negro sprinters of other years — Eddie Tolan, Ralph Metcalfe and Howard Drew.

After esablishing a new American record in the broad jump with a leap of 26.1¾ inches Saturday, Owens came back yesterday afternoon to thrill a crowd of 18,000 spectators in winning the 100-yard dash in record time.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two.

(By C. J. P.)

Down at Duffus' at eight this evening, the E.P.L.-ers go into solemn session. To be or not to be, as Bacon—or was it Shakespeare?—once jovially remarked, that is the question. They'll sit and decide whether or not to resurrect this once-popular intermediate ball loop this summer, or let it go the way of all flesh for a year or two. In case there are several entries, officers will be elected and all will be hunky-dory, which is practically the same thing as hide-ho only with more reserve as it were. And wouldn't it be embarrassing to the local prospective entrants into the Lakeshore League if the E.P.L. did decide to go ahead and demanded that these other teams stay in their own territory?

• • • • • • •

We see, according to the International Baseball League rules this year, that pitchers are not permitted to use the split-sleeve delivery or the quick return pitch. This is a pity and, while we sympathize with nervous batters who fear a clank on the conk, still we always like seeing a snappy return pitch—it keeps players on their toes. And the split-sleeve stunt—a smart invention by Dazzy Vance—deserves a better fate. True, it has never been used extensively but was a mighty effective bit of camouflage for a few speedball hurlers. You simply shredded your throwing-arm sleeve in long thin strips that flapped and crackled with the motion and distracted the eye of the batter till the pellet was almost on him. A bit of strategy.

• • • • • • •

Quite a few railbirds drifted over the bridge Saturday to see a good gang of players have a snappy workout. Spotted on the diamond going through batting, fielding and pitching practice were: Whitehouse, Lepper, Murphy, Kearns, Kitchen, Calladine, Scriver, Whatley, Ash, Hollingsworth, Foley, Burton, Cadd and a few others. Fred Ash directed the practice in Knotty Lee's absence. The weather was fine and the boys had an excellent drilling, especially in hitting. With Whatley catching, Kitchen, Lepper and Whitehouse put plenty of hop on the ball and the batters had no cinch getting their eyes on it at first.

• • • • • • •

Later in the afternoon, Lornie Rose had the outfielders chasing fungoes while Russ Kitchen hit to the infield. Ash was on first, Hollingsworth on second, Murphy on short and Calladine at third. While the ground is pretty rough yet, the infielders were making some neat pickups. Hitting and judging fly balls was what had some of them down for awhile. After a long layoff, the old judgement is nearly as forgotten as Mae West's hubby. But it comes back. Foley, Petes' leading hitter the last two years, couldn't hit one to save his life his first time at bat and fanned about six times in a row. Before the practice ended though, he was starting to smear them in his oldtime form.

• • • • • • •

Frank Whitehouse gave us the idea that he can still club that old apple. He might prove an asset in the outfield—where he played often in pro games—and only fling in a relief role. With Kearns and Foley almost cinches for berths in the garden, it looks like quite a scramble for the other berth—or two, if a utility outfielder is carried. Players like Burton, Whitehouse, Cadd, Jack Hope, Len Hollingsworth and others will be hard to overlook. There'll be a battle, too, for infield positions aside from Ash on first. Murphy, Konopka, Owen, Red Hollingsworth, Calladine and maybe others. The battery is pretty well set. They practice again tonight at 5.30 in Riverside, and nightly from now on. Anyone wanting a tryout is welcome.

• • • • • • •

Max Swanston reports a lengthy session of the O.B.A.A. executive in Toronto Saturday. Permission was granted to Frank Whitehouse to play ball here this summer, but Red Hollingsworth's transfer from Oshawa here was held up for the time being as the executive wanted to be sure where he'd be settled for the summer. They granted a transfer to Lefty Innis from Toronto to Oshawa, held up Mays' once more till July 1st in Oshawa, gave a G. E. Thurston permission to transfer from Aurora to Oshawa, but held up Frank McCallum's change from Ottawa to Oshawa for the present. Those are the only transfers affecting the C.O.B.I.

• • • • • • •

The Western Ontario Sports Writers' Association was formed in Galt Saturday, the first of its kind in Canada. Membership is limited to sports editors and sports writers, and we suppose the idea is to have uniform rules for scoring ball games, boosting various sports in that section and, possibly, to blacklist organizations not on the up and up with the scribes. Anyway, they'll draw up a constitution. Papers interested in the Quill-pushers' Union include Kitchener, Galt, Guelph, Stratford, Woodstock, St. Thomas and maybe a few more. Entry fee? Dunt esk. Pass-word? Probably: "Put it on the cuff!"

• • • • • • •

Dinty's Inn lacrossers hold a practise at six tomorrow eve in the Exhibition Grounds. These players, and others interested, are asked to attend: J. Dundas, H. McDougall, O. Sloan, F. Meagher, M. Collins, H. Jones, A. McGregor, B. Hatton, J. Olaveson, J. Hope, G. Creighton, C. Cadd, N. Vitarelli, F. Hill, J. Corbett, T. Tice, F. Bowen, T. Staunt and V. Reynolds. A local squad will play Millbrook in Lindsay May 6th, these players representing Peterborough: Lefebvre, Weir, LeBarr, Dundas, Gardner, Ellis, Magee, King, Olaveson and McGregor. BROCKVILLE, Ont., April 29. (CP).—"Mike" McMahon, centre of Brockville's junior hockey team, has received a letter from Lester Patrick, manager of New York Rangers, asking him to attend that National Hockey League team's Fall training sessions at Winnipeg, he said Saturday.

McMahon, who graduated from the junior ranks last season via the age-limit route, said he would likely go and attend the school carried on by the management of the Rangers previous to the start of the N.H.L. season.

FRENCH PLAYERS TROPHY WINNERS AT BIG FESTIVAL

Toronto Group Placed Second in Dominion's Drama Festival.

INDIVIDUAL WINNERS.

OTTAWA, April 29 (C.P.)—Dominion Drama Festival teams went home to-day leaving in Ottawa the Bessborough Trophy to be hung for the first in its three-years' history on the wall of a French-Canadian dramatic group's headquarters.

The University of Ottawa Elocution and Music School set a precedent last week in the festival by winning the contest's highest award with a play in French, H. R. Lenormand's "L'Innocente," the story of a half-witted girl. The players gained enthusiastic praise from Adjudicator Allan Wade for their acting and the audience was keenly appreciative of the natural "business" included in the action by Mme. Laurette Larocque-Auger, who directed the piece.

Toronto Club Second

Runner-up for the Bessborough Trophy was the Arts and Letters Club of Toronto, which presented "The Poacher," by J. O. Francis, a Welsh dialect play which gained for its actors the award for the best presentation in English.

To La Section Dramatique Du Conservatoire National de Music de Quebec went the award for the best play, other than the trophy winner, in French. The Quebec team played the third act from Rostand's "L'Aiglon."

Mr. Wade said he thought the performance by the Toronto group of "The Poacher" was almost perfect, but that the Ottawa University's production of "L' Innocente" was better than that, because it brought out of the play something he had not known was in it. "The result of the performance," he said, "was sheer memorable beauty."

Marjorie Price's "God Caesar" won for the Toronto playwright the $100 cash prize for the best play by a Canadian author and for the Playmakers' Club of Toronto, which performed it, the Sir Barry Jackson Trophy for the best presentation of a Canadian play.

Best Individual Players

Individual memontoes given by the Countess of Bessborough, wife of the Governor General, founder and patron of the festival, went to a Winnipeg man and a Vancouver woman.

Moray Sinclair, the Smirnov of Anton Tchehov's "The Bear," won the award as the best male performer in the festival. Mr. Sinclair is a member of the Winnipeg Masquers' Club and was a member of that organization's group that won the Bessborough Trophy in 1933.

A 3,500-mile motor coach trip to Ottawa brought the woman's award to Miss Brinda Ferguson for her performance as Jeanne d'Arc in the Vancouver Ambassy Players' presentation of the trial scene from George Bernard Shaw's "St. Joan."

Mr. Wade named Vincent G. Perry of London, runner-up for the man's memento and Thora Adamis of Halifax runner-up in the women's division. Mr. Perry was St. Simeon in the London Community Drama Guild's performance of "St. Simeon Stylites." Miss Adamis was Ada Stylites." Miss Adamis was Ada horror play performed by the Halifax Theatre Arts Guild.

Chance To Make Dream Come True

When Babe Ruth, the King of Swat, was ill in New York in 1925, the boy in the above picture, Johnnie Howe, then aged 10, resolved to be a big leaguer when he grew up. And that's what he is now, a performer deemed of such promise by the Cincinnati Reds as to be farmed out this year for seasoning.

GYPSY GIRL

THE STORY OF AN IMPASSIONED ROMANCE

By McDONALD FEADER

FICTION

READ THIS FIRST:

Consuelo, a beautiful gypsy girl who longs to dance with all the world at her feet, is loved by the Dummy, a deaf mute, and Marcu. She despises her mother, Anica, but is fond of her father, Girtza. Marcu tempts Consuelo with a huge diamond and she agrees to marry him. Just as Girtza notices Consuelo's ring, which she tells him she has stolen, the sheriff appears. He proceeds to haul the gypsies into court but Consuelo is no longer wearing the ring. When the judge's wife and another woman search her, Consuelo fights them savagely. Meantime Marcu comes into the courtroom and announce he bought the ring. The town jeweler is summoned and admits selling Marcu the ring for $12.60. When the merchant declares it isn't worth a dollar, Consuelo is furious. The gypsies are dismissed from court and break camp hurriedly. Shortly afterwards the jeweler discovers he sold Marcu a $3,000 ring for $12.60. He had neglected to wear his glasses when he made the sale. Consuelo thinks Marcu tricked her about the ring's value and is bitter. She tempts the Dummy during a dance, he kisses her and Marcu appears. Walking into town with the Dummy, Consuelo sees three men playing cards near a private car on a railroad siding. She asks to tell their fortunes.

Consuelo sat down on the chair next to the gray-hair man. She took the offered dollar, crossed his palms and hers and slipped the money into her pocket. For an instant she studied his face. Clear blue eyes, iron gray mustache, deep lines around a firm mouth, arched eyebrows, a handsome face. He was different from the men she had known or seen. You didn't find this type or man in a small country town or at a carnival. Finally she took her eyes from him and gazed at his open hand.

"You are coming from the east and going to the west. You will make much money in the west. You are tired of money. It does not interest you. There is going—"

Apparently the man was not listening to her words. He was looking at the bent head, dark hair caressing the bare neck, graceful tan arms resting on the table, warm ochre skin of her shoulder where the blouse had slipped away. His eyes traveled down past the gay skirt, took in the tanned legs and dusty feet crossed lightly. A perfect foot, slim, not too long, rounded toes. Cheap anklets, twelve on one leg, eight on the other. He noted the rim of dirt below the lowest one, melting of sweat and dust. His glance traveled up again. The face, flushed cheeks, long lashes curling over the half closed eyes, lips barely moving. Extraordinary beauty!

He became unconscious of her hands upon his. Unkept finger nails. Ringless fingers. He looked up. His eyes met hers. Unconsciously he started back from her. He became aware that she had finished his fortune, that she expected him to say something. He recovered himself.

"Very good—" although he had no idea of what she had told him.

"But I didn't tell you good things, white man, not all good things. Aren't you afraid about the woman with the golden hair and eyes like a cat? Don't you care if you lose her?"

He sat forward in his chair. A woman with golden hair and eyes like a cat. Lose her?

"It is not probable." The words revealed nothing. "Tell me more."

"I've told you all. You no longer love this golden haired woman. There is another—a woman with hair as black as the night and lips as red as ripe strawberries—"

"Now you are wrong," he interrupted. "But that's a small matter. I like to hear your voice. Your English has a prettier sound than we Americans can give it. Tell me, how you, a gypsy, speak so well?"

"Papa's mother was a white woman, a gorgio of high class. Somewhere, sometime she must have been a gypsy, for the blood ran hot in her veins. When she saw my grandfather she went with him. Gypsies still talk of their love, for it was a wonderful thing. She taught him English, to speak and write it. Her children she taught, too. My father forgot the writing, most of it, but he knew the value of talking with the Americans. A gypsy who can speak to a gorgio in his own tongue will not be cheated. We all learned it. I can read some, but I can't write very well. It is good to know—" she paused. She had not taken her eyes from the man's face. Now what was all this she was saying? She laughed and started up from the chair. "I'll tell your fortunes now," she said to the other men.

The gray haired man caught her arm and pulled her down to the chair again.

"They don't count. Talk to me some more. I want to know more about you."

She laughed. The white man liked her. She shook her head.

"If I danced for you—then you would know me."

"Then dance for me."

"Your boy friend's coming," interrupted one of the men.

Consuelo did not hear him.

The Dummy approached the group. He was impatient, and besides gorgios were always too familiar with gypsy girls. He stood and scowled at the men.

The silence grew uncomfortable.

"Say, Stewart, someone wants her." Doug tapped Stewart's shoulder, then he said to the Dummy. "Nice little wife you got here."

His lips were not clear enough for the Dummy to read, so he only scowled the deeper.

The one they had called Stewart drew his attention from the girl and looked up. He saw the tall gypsy, dark-skinned arms crossed, black hair half hidden by a striped scarf.

"Your husband?" he asked Consuelo.

She shook her head.

The man reached in his pocket and drew out a bill.

"Here, give it to him and tell him to go."

Consuelo took the money and slipped it into her own pocket. She frowned up at the Dummy.

"Go wait for me. Can't you understand that I'm making money out of the white dogs? Do you not see they are rich and fools with their money?" She spoke in Romany.

Still the Dummy paused. His eyes begged her to come with him.

She stamped her foot.

"Go away and leave me, dumb fool! Can't you see these men think money is less than water?"

For a moment his eyes held hers, then he turned and walked away. Outwardly he was arrogant, scornful, but the gesture only hid his humiliation and the pain within his heart. Voiceless!

The three men watched him leave.

Finally Doug exploded.

"I've heard of the silent he-men of the great open spaces, but the boy friend takes the prize of them all!"

The girl's face colored. It was not clear to her what the man meant.

"You leave him alone, white man! He could twist you around his littlest finger and crush your bones—" The tone lost its anger. "He is a great one. He can paint pictures and you stare at them and say, how is it my friend is here when I saw him walking in the town—that is how real his pictures are. He has made them of me dancing and it is true that when I look at them I do not desire the long mirrors they have in the store windows. He has fought for me," she added proudly.

"You will marry him, then?" the gray-haired man asked.

"No, I shall not marry him. I shall marry no man. There is not enough money in the whole gypsy camp to buy me. But that is not the only reason. Men! I hate them! They are dogs! How can I marry and become a slave of a man when the soul within me is crying out to dance? I'd give my life to dance—to dance on a high hill on top of the world—" eyes closed, again the potent power of the dream— "and all the people in the world would be at my feet and I would dance to them and the applause would close about me in a deafening cloud and proclaim I was the greatest dancer who had ever lived." She paused. And then because she had spoken of her dream to these men she changed her tone and added in a lighter vein. "I would dance to them in slippers that had high heels, real slippers.

"You're a sweet kid. I'll get you some slippers with real high heels. Some of the prettiest you've ever dreamed of."

"Really?"

"Yes."

"Oh!"

"Say, why don't you dance for us?" Doug said. Neither of them paid the least attention to him. He nudged Bill's ribs. "Gosh, I haven't seen Stewart so intent over a woman for the Lord knows when. I'll bet it's the first gypsy he ever met up with—"

"Gypsy or not, I never saw such a swell looking mama. Let's get her to dance. Give her a break with Stewart—" And Doug understood what he meant.

"Hey, gypsy, dance for us?"

"You really want me to?" But she was not asking him, for her eyes were upon Stewart.

He nodded.

"For you I will dance."

"You haven't any music."

Her body was already poised.

"Listen hard then and you will hear the music my heart is singing—" As she spoke she closed her eyes and every part of her body seemed to come to attention and truly it seemed that she was listening to the music in her heart. She forgot the heat, forgot the three men who watched her. Through the marble columns of the palace echoed a melody. Slowly her body caught up the rhythm. Her small feet began to dance in the thick dust. The anklets clinked, the gay skirt flew wide about her lithe legs, and all the tinkling ornaments swung together in harmony as if they too heard the music of the marble palace. She was a flame that danced in sheer ecstasy.

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Tuesday, April 30

A day of fair advancement and activity is forecast by the prevailing lunar aspects, although there is a menace of defeating such propitious prospects by an indulgence in enmity, quarrels, impetuosity or violence. Likewise a rash or indulgent use of funds may militate against the fulfillment of such favorable auspices.

Those whose birthday it is may encounter a year of fair prospects for advancement and enhanced fortunes if they will put a curb on tendencies toward reckless actions, which hold a menace in both their private and business lives.

A child born on this day may be hasty, reckless and temperamental, inclined to take long chances in attaining its ends and utilizing its funds.

LORD HYDE KILLED BY GUN ACCIDENT

Shot Fatally in Fall During African Hunting Trip.

CAPETOWN, South Africa, April 29.—(C.P. via Reuter's)—The Earl and Countess of Clarendon arrived here today by express train from Johannesburg, bringing with them the body of Lord Hyde, their elder son, accidentally killed while hunting yesterday. Their younger son, Hon. Nicholas Villiers, 18, accompanied them.

The Earl, Governor-General of South Africa, broke the news to Lady Hyde, who is in a delicate state of health.

Lord Hyde, who was 28, was one of a party hunting African gazelles on the de Beers estate near Kimberley. He was walking across the veldt when he was seen to stumble. An explosion followed. Other members of the party found a bullet had entered his abdomen close to the heart, and had come out between the shoulders. First aid was given and he was rushed to hospital, but died as he was admitted.

Rush-Bagot Treaty Is Commemorated in U.S

WASHINGTON, April 29 (A.P.).—Officials of Canada and the United States met to-day to commemorate a naval disarmament treaty which has been in effect for 118 years.

Kiwanis International dedicated a tablet at the site where the Rush-Bagot agreement strictly limiting naval forces of Canada and the United States on the Great Lakes was signed 118 years ago.

William Phillips, under-secretary of State, was chosen to speak on the lives of the signers of the agreement—Sir Charles Bagot, British Minister to the United States, and Richard Rush, acting Secretary of State.

Hume Wrong, counselor of the Canadian Legation, extended greetings from his country. Dr. William J. Carrington of Atlantic City, N.J., president of Kiwanis International, came here to dedicate the tablet.

It was placed at Columbia Hospital for Women, where the British Legation formerly stood. In the Legation, the treaty was negotiated.

Weakened after his long illness, King George, who on May 6 this year celebrates the 25th anniversary of his ascension to the throne of the greatest empire in history, was forced to turn over many official duties to his four popular sons.

In particular, the Prince of Wales took a more active part in affairs of state and seldom left the home fires for long, after his record-breaking dash from the interior Africa during the crisis of his father's illness.

But King George was not giving up altogether and retiring; he is a strong man with a strong mind and he insisted upon appearing at as many functions as possible.

Illness and the trials of being monarch of a troubled empire aged King George and more and more it was noticed that he was forced to take long periods of rest. For the past few weeks both the King and the Queen retired for a vacation to store up strength for the arduous Silver Jubilee celebrations, which commence on May 6, with a huge thanksgiving ceremony to be held at St. Paul's Cathedral. All during May, June and July, there will be ceremonies galore for the royal family to attend and they will need all the stamina they are famous for to retain their health.

To-morrow: The King takes to the air

1934 Bantam Finalists Open Softball Season

Mark St. and St. Paul's, bantam finalists last year, open the Church Softball League schedule to-night at six at Queen Mary School, weather permitting. St. John's were to have opened this evening but, owing to a mix-up in ages, will be playing junior this season instead. The league will be formally opened by Dr. A. T. Barr, president of the Ministerial Association, President Fred Scates and Secretary Dave Leether of the City Softball League, other members of the Ministerial Association and Harold Rehill of the Boys' Work Board.

An exhibition game—probably the first of the year—was held Saturday in the Exhibition Grounds between Knox Seniors of the Church League and Nationals of the Southend League. The score was 12-all when rain broke up the contest in the seventh inning.

DISTRICT HOLSTEIN BREEDERS ATTEND ANNUAL TORONTO SALE

BLUE BLOODED LIVESTOCK

BURNBRAE, April 29.—(Examiner Correspondence).—On Wednesday, April 24, two local Holstein fanciers, Messrs. C. Nelson and L. Anderson, were privileged to attend the greatest event in 1935 Holstein history, the national sale in Toronto. Better times for the dairyman were reflected in a great increase in the prices paid for cattle, but the offering reserved generous bids, as seldom has one auction brought together so many top-notch cattle as were brought into the ring on Wednesday.

The top price for males was realized on a five-months-old son of "Springbank Snow Countess," world's champion long distance producer, sired by the highest record son of the famous "Johanna Reg Apple Pabst." He was sold for one thousand and fifty dollars to the Woodstock Proven Sire Club. T. R. Dent, of Woodstock, was the breeder of this famous young bull.

The second highest bull realized $925 on the bid of Mr. McKinnon, of Maple, Ont. He was consigned by Mount Victoria Farms, Hudson Heights, Que., and was a five-months-old son of "Bonheur," the "All American" four-year-old in 1934.

The highlight of the females was the world's record "twice-a-day milking cow," "Pontiac Dutchland Devries," consigned by Byson Rath, Mossley, Ont. She reached the nice figure of $725 but entered the ring protected by a reserve bid of $995, which figure was not raised.

The actual female top was therefore a senior yearling from Mount Victoria, selling to Raymondale Farms at $425. Her full sister, a senior calf, went to the bid of Hon George S. Henry, Todmorden, at $195.

Elmwood Farms, Deerfield, Ill., were the only U. S. consignors, their yearling bull selling for $450, their five-year-old sire for $280 and a pair of heifer calves, nine and six months old, for $200 and $170 each.

Several of the better bulls reached the $300 mark, with only two selling below $100 each. The general average for males was almost $300.

A number of good cows from four to nine years of age with records of good record-backing realized from $165 to $275 each.

Cows of more commercial type sold from $115 to $150 each. Several very fine heifers under milking age were in demand, with prices running from $100 to nearly $200 each.

The only Northumberland County purchaser was E. O. Butler, of Brighton, who secured a fine junior yearling heifer from the McCarthy herd, of Sussex, N. B., at $125. She is a daughter of the great show bull, "Abbekirk Sylvius Lad," and out of a gold medal dam with a two-year-old record of 12,267 lbs of 4.26 per cent. milk.

Incidentally, Mr. McKinnon, the purchaser of the $925 bull, recently bought four herd of exceptionally fine cows from Honey Bros., Dartford, to form the nucleus of a breeding herd of Holsteins.

Simon's Disclosure Likely to Force Berlin to Reveal Whole Naval Plan.

12 SUBS SCHEDULED.

Publicity Will Prevent Hitler Assembling Fleet, Springing It As Accomplished Fact.

LONDON, April 30 (C.P. Cable). — An authoritative source said to-day the proposed naval conversations between Great Britain and Germany have been "postponed" pending an expected announcement by Reichsfuehrer Hitler on Germany's foreign policy.

It was said the British Government was complying with Hitler's desire for the postponement of the conversations and it had agreed on the basis that until the atmosphere was further cleared with a more definite and more full statement of policy on Hitler's part that it would be unsatisfactory to proceed with the conversations at this time.

Few Days' Delay.

The postponement, however, is expected to delay the talks only a few days. The conversations, originally planned to begin during the second week of May, now probably will start during the following week since Hitler is expected to tell the world of his latest stand in the international field in a speech on May 15.

FIRED ROAD MEN ARE SETTLERS

Released in Northern Camps to Work Their Land Hepburn Announces.

LET FARMS GO LAST YEAR.

TORONTO, April 30.—(CP). — Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn said to-day the majority of the 800 men to be released from unemployment camps at Sudbury and Sault Ste. Marie were settlers and the camps were being closed to permit them to work their land.

Last year the camps were open all season and as the result of the men not cultivating the land there were no supplies in the fall, said the Premier.

"It is a fallacy to keep these men in unemployed camps when their land is standing idle," Mr Hepburn said. He added expenditures were being curtailed in other camps, "because of the lack of Federal cooperation in these undertakings."

ARCTIC FLOES PLAYING HAVOC AMONG SHIPPING

2 OTHERS DAMAGED.

(By The Canadian Press)

Arctic drift ice offered its seasonal challenge to shipping in real earnest to-day after dealing the death blow to two ships with 33 men, damaging two others seriously and striking—though vainly—at two more along the North Atlantic seaboard.

The Halifax steamship Delia and the Norwegian Pollux had tried to buck the pack just north of the Strait and failed. The ice shoved the Pollux onto a ledge and held her ashore until the rising tide floated her and loosened the pack. She stayed in the perilous position four hours while the government steamer Arleux waged a futile battle to reach her and the Delia, gripped a few miles away. Both ships escaped to clear water finally.

The British freighter Titanian was creeping to-day to St. John's, Nfld, in the wake of an icebreaker, leaking after a bout with the ice.

Less lucky were two schooners, which vanished off the south coast of Newfoundland, where the ice is thickest. The Newfoundland schooner Alsatian, a fisherman, had 25 men aboard. The Goucester craft Arthur D. Story, carried eight on the last voyage towards her home port from Belloram, Nfld. Hope for both had been abandoned.

PRISON GUARD UPHELD IN DEATH CONVICT RIOTER

Shot Leader of Gang, Attempting Escape, as He Attacked Officer.

AT STONEY MOUNTAIN.

Unarmed Guards Get Warning as Prisoners Drop Forks Intended as Weapons.

STONY MOUNTAIN, Ma., April 30 (C.P.).—Vindication of prison authorities in the slaying of George Bailey Forsythe a convict, was given early to-day by a coroner's jury investigating the fatal shooting in the turbulent riot in Stony Mountain Penitentiary.

For seven hours last night and early to-day the jury of farmers and Stony Mountain townsmen heard of the details of the violence, led by Forsythe and other convicts, one of them a Florida chain gang fugitive, slightly wounded by a bullet that ricocheted from a barrier.

Dropping of long-pronged kitchen forks concealed in coats being passed out signalized danger to unarmed guards among the convicts. It led to J. J. Drysdale, a guard opening fire from a rampart when he saw Forsythe attempt to attack E. J. Hill, an unarmed guard, with a foot-long knife.

"We, the jury," said the verdict quickly returned, "find that George B. Forsythe, No. 3537, came to his death in Stony Mountain Penitentiary on Saturday, April 27, 1935, being shot by an officer in the discharge of his duty while protecting the life of another officer from an attack with a knife in the hand of the said George B. Forsythe."

Witness said they believed Forsythe, serving a term of 12 years and 10 lashes for attempted murder growing out of robbery with violence, and John Ercheeson, fugitive from a Florida chain gang serving a five-year term with 10 lashes for bank robbery, were the leaders of the riot.

Pass Out the Knives

When the night staff arrived, Drysdale said, coats were being passed out of the kitchen window, where long-pronged forks concealed in them dropped to the ground with a clatter. Drysdale said he heard Ercheeson say, "Pass out your knives."

Drysdale said he fired his first shot to cripple a convict taking a knife from an arm projecting from the window. The bullet ricochetted from a wall and wounded Ercheeson in the leg. Watching the whole melee, Drysdale saw a convict attempt to attack Hill with a knife. He fired at the convict's legs but the bullet entered his groin. Forsythe the convict died an hour later. Gas bombs were hurled and Drysdale quit shooting.

ALBANY, N.Y., April 30 (AP) — The conviction of Mrs. Eva Coo, keeper of an Oswego county roadhouse for the automobile slaying of Harry Wright, crippled handy man, was upheld to-day by the Court of Appeals, the State's highest tribunal. Mrs. Coo is a native of Haliburton, Ont. The State charged the 40-year-old buxom blonde committed the crime to collect about $10,000 on an insurance policy on Wright's life in which she was named beneficiary.

"Life for me began at 40," he said. "The youth of to-day are neither better nor worse than they have been."

KINGSTON, Ont., April 30 (C.P.). —The condition of Leslie Judge of Godfrey, 17-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Judge of that village, about 30 miles north of here, was reported to-day at Kingston General Hospital to be encouraging.

Leslie Judge suffered injuries on Sunday when he was caught by a cave-in of a steep embankment a short distance from Godfrey Station and was hurled down 60 feet to a disused spur line of the Canadian Pacific Railway. His left leg was broken in two places, his right leg was broken just above the ankle, his right hand and arm were broken in two places and his right hip was badly lacerated and bruised.

JUBILEE PLANS ARE COMPLETED BY COMMITTEE

Program Will Commence at Eleven O'clock in Victoria Park.

MASSED CHORUSES.

Three Short Addresses Are Scheduled — Present Jubilee Medals.

With exception of a few minor details which still remain to be worked out, the program for Peterborough's observance of the Silver Jubilee Anniversary of Their Majesties King George V and Queen Mary, as drawn up by the executive was approved at a general meeting of the Jubilee Committee which met under chairmanship of James Dutton last evening.

The program which is to be held on the forenoon of May 6 in Victoria Park, would appear to be of such a nature that all that now remains for the complete success of the occasion, is the assurance of fine weather. The possibility of unfavorable weather conditions has not been overlooked however, and arrangements have been made for the use of the Armouries if the need presents itself.

The Program

As approved by the committee, the program timed to commence at eleven o'clock E.S.T. is as follows:

FRANCE SEEKS AIR ALLIANCES

Nation Also Recruits Trained Plane Machine Gunners, Radio Operators.

WHEAT BEING STORED.

PARIS, April 30.—(AP).—France, with an eye on Germany's re-armament in the air, to-day sought to keep her own air force at full strength by calling for the recruiting of trained aviation machine-gunners, radio operators, and mechanics to fill vacancies at the Dugny military air base attached to famous Le Bourget Field.

At the same time France moved for aviation alliances with other nations and toward the completion of the Franco-Russian Mutual Assistance Treaty.

Minister of Agriculture Cassex indicated the French army was storing wheat when he reported to the Cabinet that purchases by the quartermaster's department was absorbing some of France's wheat surplus and helping increase the price of wheat to 10 francs for 220.46 pounds.

The French cabinet approved counter-proposals for the Franco-Russian Treaty which are to be submitted to Soviet Russia in final negotiations.

Ready To Merge Labor, Welfare Posts

TORONTO, April 30 (C.P.). — Whenever Attorney-General A. W. Roebuck wants to relinquish the Labor portfolio he holds along with that of Attorney-General, the Ontario Government would consider merging the Labor and Welfare Departments, under David Croll, present Minister of Welfare Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn said to-day.

"Mr. Roebuck is overworked," said Mr. Hepburn. "He is to remain on the Hydro Commission, and that alone is a big job."

Too Public

DENVER, April 30. (CP).—Mrs. W. P. Mellen told to-day of seeing a fox terrier unwittingly prevented a suicide. She said the dog followed a man into Berekeley Park lake Sunday as he was wading to deeper water. He tossed stones at the terrier which retrieved them playfully. A gathering crowd caused the man to wade out and flee.

MAY DAY RIOTS SEEN BREWING ACROSS EUROPE

Trouble Threatens Most Seriously Through Spain and Austria.

MILLION NAZI TO PARADE.

(Copyright, 1935 by the Associated Press).

LONDON, April 30. — Police throughout Europe were alert to-day to quell any incipient disorders heralding to-morrow's celebrations of May Day—the day originally designated for peaceful festivities of working men.

Trouble threatened most seriously in Spain and Austria.

A brief exchange of shots, during which a young woman was gravely wounded, developed from a Communist demonstration in Madrid. Ten Communists were arrested in Seville after authorities found subversive literature in their possession.

In Austria, Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg's Government offered free goulash and movies as a counter attraction to disorder. Leftists, planning "lightning strategy" manifestations against Fascists, clashed with police on the outskirts of Vienna.

General Demonstrations.

More or less orderly displays of labor organizations were planned elsewhere, especially in England, Holland, Belgium and the Scandinavian countries where Communists were preparing to indulge in soap box pyrotechnics.

More than 1,000,000 Nazis were expected to assemble at Tempelhof Airdrome to hear Dr. Robert Ley, Hitler's commissioner for trade unions, administer to several thousand newly elected shop delegates the oath of allegiance to Der Fuehrer.

A distinctly military flavor will dominate Moscow's celebrations as Joseph Stalin, Soviet Dictator, reviews the vast Red army, grown from 600,000 to nearly 1,000,000 men since last May. Hundreds of combat planes will swarm above Moscow's famous Red square to symbolize the Soviet's air power, reputedly the greatest in the world.

New police cars in Japan have peculiar poles sticking out, to be used in radio transmission and reception.

WASHINGTON, April 30. —(AP)—Testimony by army officials the United States in an "emergency" "must be prepared to seize" British and French islands near American shores was repudiated today by President Roosevelt in a sharply-worded message to the House of Representatives military committee.

In action believed unprecedented, the president told Chairman John J. McSwain, the committee must cease printing evidence given in executive session or he, as commander-in-chief of the army and navy, will require that none be given hereafter unless he had previously approved it."

The president referred to testimony before the committee by Brigadier-general Charles E. Kilbourne, until recently assistant

CONDEMNED MAN AWAITS VERDICT

Gaoler and Spiritual Adviser Will Break News to Harold Vermilyea.

ERECTING SCAFFOLD.

BELLEVILLE, Ont., April 30. — (CP).—The announcement from Ottawa there would be no interference with the execution next Thursday of Harold W. Vermilyea, convicted slayer of his mother, Mrs. Aurelia Vermilyea, will be conveyed to the condemned man to-day by Gaoler G. H. French and his spiritual adviser, Adjutant A. W. Martin of the Salvation Army.

Although the scaffold is being erected and tested just outside his cell window, Vermilyea does not seem perturbed by the pounding and fitting of bolts and sometimes cracks a joke with his special guards. No one is allowed to see him excepting members of the family and only his sister, Mrs. J. A. Faulkner, has been to visit him, the two brothers, Clarence and Arthur Vermilyea, not taking advantage of the jail orders.

$15,000,000 to be Raised in New Taxes For Relief

HEPBURN'S PLAN TO HIT ONTARIO IN FEW MONTHS

Income Tax, a Turnover Tax or Direct Levy on Salaries is Expected.

BE NO BORROWING.

Premier Promises Jail For Crowland Strikers if Damage Done.

TORONTO, April 30.—(CP) — A $15,000,000 tax scheme to obviate the necessity of the Ontario government borrowing to meet relief expenses will be carried out in the near future, with residents of the province probably paying either through additional income tax, a turnover tax or a direct levy on salaries.

In making the announcement last night, Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn said exact source of the new impost had not yet been decided on. He was emphatic, however, in declaring the Ontario government intends to depart from the practice of paying for relief with borrowed money.

The premier's statement was prompted by the relief strike in Crowland township. He had just returned from conducting negotiations with the strikers and promised jail for leaders of any future strike of a serious nature in which damage is done.

"It is an impossible situation at the present time," he said. "Municipalities provide work and outside agitators go in and stir up strikes. We will not condone this 'won't work' attitude when work is provided.

The Ontario government, the premier explained will make a determined effort to balance its budget. "It would have been balanced had it not been for relief expenditures," he declared. "But we propose to levy new taxes within the year. They will be imposed in such a way the public will know they are tagged definitely as a relief tax. We do not proposed to continue to pay for relief with borrowed money. We propose to raise at least $15,000,000."

Hollywood Shooting Claims Third Life

LOS ANGELES, April 30 (AP)—The third name was added to-day to the triangle of death in Hollywood's fantastic shooting case.

Henry E. Bolte, 37-year-old sociology and law instructor, was the third man to die in the apparent double murder and suicide.

His death last night was caused by two bullet wounds in the back—bullets which sheriff's officers said were fired from the same pistol that brought death to Paul Ivar, young dress designer, and suicide to the stylist's unpaid chauffeur, William M. Howard.

The instructor was the one man from whom officers hoped to obtain a full explanation of the puzzling crime.

Noted Child Physician Believes Extra Hour Sunlight Benefits Youngsters.

MERCHANTS IN FAVOR.

TORONTO, April 30 (C.P.).—Two days after virtually everyone had put his clock and watch ahead an hour with the change to daylight-saving time, leaders in business and professional life in Toronto to-day had many a boost and a few knocks for the new system.

In past years some mothers complained children would not sleep at nigh: when it was still bright outdoors, but this year he heard no complaints, Dr. E. A. Morgan, noted chile physician, said. No doubt youngster found it hard to adjust themselves, but the difficulty seldom lasted more than a week. In general he fel. the extra sunshine was beneficial to children in cities.

Retail merchants personally welcomed daylight-saving time, although most of them had given little thought to the matter from a business standpoint No change in busines volume was observed. Employees liked the added hours of daylight after work.

VERMILYEA WILL HANG ON MAY 2

No Commutation of Death Sentence Cabinet Council Decides.

PRIVATE EXECUTION.

OTTAWA, April 30.—(CP)—A report adverse to commutation was made by cabinet council which reviewed the death sentence passed at Belleville upon Harold Vermilyea, Ontario, Cal., fruit farmer, who was convicted for the murder of his mother. The case was reviewed by the Governor-in-Council some time ago and decision was made public yesterday that there would be no interference with execution of the sentence. Vermilyea is scheduled to be hanged May 2.

Roebuck's Ruling.

While reiterating his declaration reporters would not be allowed to witness the hanging of Harold W. Vermilyea at Belleville next Thursday, Attorney-General A. W. Roebuck last night would make no definite declaration as to future policy in the matter of hangings. "Future occasions will be considered on their own merits," said the attorney-general, when asked whether the ban against reporters at the Vermilyea hanging would be extended to future executions in the province. Presence of reporters "would serve no useful purpose in the present instance," Mr. Roebuck said.

800 ROAD MEN ARE LAID OFF NORTHERN JOBS

Sudbury Unable to Care For 500 Workers Let Out There, Mayor States.

300 NEAR SAULT.

Failure of Federal Gov't to Pay Half Costs Blamed for Camp Closing.

TORONTO, April 30.—CP.)—With Labor's great day of celebration, May Day, only 24 hours distant, some 800 men swelled the total of unemployed in Northern Ontario to-day.

They are highway workers, released from camps near Sudbury and Sault Ste. Marie by the Department of Northern Development of the Ontario Government.

To-day 800 men who have been doing road work and staying at Markstay and Wahnapitel camps near Sudbury were permanently released. Yesterday two camps in the Saulte Ste. Marie district were closed down, throwing some 300 men out of employment.

A. M. Mills, district engineer for the Department of Northern Development at Sudbury, would make no comment on the layoff in his district but at Sault Ste. Marie Dr. A. D. Roberts, M.L.A., said failure of the Dominion Government to pay half the road costs made necessary the closing of the two Sault camps.

Mayor W. J. Cullen of Sudbury last night announced the town was unable to look after the additional unemployed. He claimed most of those who have been cared for in the camps were transients, and thus were not any responsibility of the city of Sudbury.

Large Duck Egg

TRENT RIVER, April 30 (Examiner Correspondence) — Raymond Finch of the tenth concession of Rawdon Township has on exhibit an egg of rather large proportions, the product of a young white Pekin duck. The egg measured 9 inches by 7 inches and tipped the scales at five ounces. Not bad for a first-year duckling.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Jumps of nearly three cents a bushel in wheat prices at Minneapolis did much to make grain markets here average higher yesterday. Indications were that Minneapolis mills needed wheat, and would require deliveries on May contracts. All Chicago wheat futures rose to above $1, but increased selling then developed here, much of it on the part of spread traders who simultaneously were buying at Minneapolis.

The result was an irregular close in the Chicago wheat market, ⅜ lower to 1¼ higher, compared with Saturday's finish. May, 99½c to 99⅝c. Corn closed unchanged to 1¼ up. May, 89¼c to 89⅝c; oats, ⅛ to 1¼ off, and provisions unchanged to 12 cents down.

Wheat prices here showed a downward trend at the opening, influenced by weakness of the Liverpool market and by rains over large sections of domestic wheat territory.

Oats displayed independent weakness owing largely to liquidation of May delivery contracts.

Provisions averaged lower with hog values.

MONTREAL PRODUCE

Butter prices declined slightly on the Montreal Dairy and Produce Market yesterday while other lines held steady. The butter market was generally quoted at 22¾c to 23c a pound for carlots or less of No. 1. Small lots to retailers brought 24c a pound for solids and 25c for prints. Receipts were 248 boxes.

The egg market had a firm undertone with graded shipments in carlots or less being quoted at 19½c to 20c a dozen for A-large, 17½c to 18c for A-medium, 17c to 17½c for B and 16c to 16½c for C. Offerings totalled 1,159 cases.

On the cheese market No. 1 Ontario brought 11c to 11¼c a pound for current receipts, 11½c to 11¾c for fall and 12½c to 12¾c for summers. Arrivals were eight boxes.

No. 1 Green Mountain potatoes continued at 45c per 80-pound bag of Quebecs, 50c for New Brunswicks and 53c for Prince Edward Islands.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIVEG, April 30. — Smaller world shipments of wheat and sharp declines at Liverpool did much to cool enthusiasm on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange yesterday. After a quiet session futures prices closed ⅛c lower to ⅜c higher.

A halt in the export of Canada's wheat, with sales negligible after several days of brisk business, also added to the market's lethargy. After fluctuating sluggishly within a narrow price range, May closed at 88¼c and July 90c.

Small gains at Chicago counteracted a 1d loss at Liverpool, and after an opening half-cent setback had been recovered local futures held steady in quiet trading for the rest of the session. Buenos Aires also was off ⅛c at noon.

Only 8,376,000 bushels of wheat were shipped from all sources last week, compared with 10,720,000 bushels the previous week. North America's share of the exports, 2,671,000 bushels, was almost 500,000 bushels less than the week previous.

Interest in cash grains continues slow. Early liquidation sent oarley and rye more than a cent lower but those coarse grains futures recovered most of the decline later. Flax was strong, recovering Saturday's sharp declines.

Montreal Official Castigates Proposals of Mass Buying Commission.

WASHINGTON, April 30. (CP) "Remove the fear of state dictation and eliminate the uncertainty of governmental mandates in the economic world of finance, business and commerce and I believe we shall witness a restoration of prosperity unequalled to any advances which have formerly occurred in our histories," A. O. Dawson, of Montreal, president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce told the annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States to-day in an address on the relation of Government to business in Canada.

"While we are obliged to continue the campaign against disruptive economic forces we have on our hands an additional campaign against the mastery of business by governments." he said. "just when our whole business world should be devoting itself to a concentrated furtherance of trade and commerce our efforts must be divided lest state interference and regulation by means of a general staff of bureaucrats impair business itself."

A Fire Cure

HAMILTON, April 30. (CP). "What's good for an automobile on fire?" is the latest query at Hamilton drug stores. When E. Mills' car caught fire he rushed to the nearest druggist. The prescription clerk mixed up something in a hurry that quenched the flames before the fire department arrived.

Invited to address the annual convention of the Sunny Southern Ontario Welfare Association, Mr. Picobac said in part: "I was born and raised in this country. Canada has made me what I am. Canadian products are the best in the world — in my opinion.

"Take tobacco. Take Picobac. I don't say that every Canadian should smoke Picobac merely because it's Canadian. But I do say that every Canadian pipe-smoker who has never tried Picobac has missed a real pleasure!

"Why? Because Picobac is the pick of Canada's Burley Crop, cured and matured by nature and time. Because Picobac has a quality all its own. Where else can you get such flavour, such fragrance — such a mild . . . cool . . . sweet smoke?"

— "And you can roll good cigarettes with it, too."

:: :: :: ::

Next time you buy Picobac, ask for it in the seal-tight pocket pouch — which is being favoured by more and more smokers because it keeps the tobacco fresh to the last fragrant shred. Sealed tight when you buy it, you reseal the pouch after filling your pipe simply by running your thumb-nail across the flap.

FACTORIES RE-OPEN.

For the highest score by Peterborough County cheesemakers last year, Andrew Wilson of Young's Point factory was presented Saturday night with the silver cup of the Lakefield Branch of the Royal Bank.

The meeting of the Cheese Makers' Association congratulated Mr. Wilson on his 1934 work which earned the highest cheese score ever made in this district. The Royal Bank's cup was held last year by J. J. Brethour of Warsaw.

Makers in several of the district factories began their summer's work this morning, and it is expected that operations will be under way in five or six of the factories before the end of the week.

"Prospects for a supply of milk are better than last year," W. J. Moore, dairy instructor, told The Examiner to-day. "More patrons have reported that they intend to send their milk to the cheese factories this season, and I feel that the industry will have a good year."

SOUTH AFRICAN GOLFER IN BROCK HOTEL TOURNEY

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., April 30. —Further international flavor is to be given the General Brock Hotel open golf tournament, to be played at the Lookout Point Golf Club at Fonthill, Ont., on July 11, 12 and 13, by the entry of Sid Brews, the South African professional, who finished second to Henry Cotton in the 1934 British open. In South Africa Brews is attached to the Durban Golf Club in Natal, and has won the South African open five times and the native professional title three times. Brews plans during his stay in America to compete in both the United States open and the General Brock tournament.

It is also expected that Gene Sarazen and Macdonald Smith, both of whom gave evidence of returning to the top of their game by winning major winter events, will also compete in this event, for now that the tournament has been moved on from June to July, it will give them and Henry Pickard, of Hershey, Pa., ample opportunity to play in the British open championship and return in time for the $4,000 Canadian competition. Unless plans go astray, they will be among the starters.

CAMPBELLFORD PAIR OBSERVES GOLDEN WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Sweet Honored by Family and Friends at Special Gathering.

PRESENTATIONS MADE.

CAMPBELLFORD, Ont, April 30 (Examiner Correspondence). — Mr. and Mrs. John Wesley Sweet, of Maple street, celebrated their golden wedding on Monday, April 29. They were married in Grace Church, Trenton, on April 29, 1885 by the Rev. Charles Fish; and the best man, Marshall Sweet of Springbrook, brother of the groom of fifty years ago, was present at the celebration in honor of the event.

All day long, Mr. and Mrs. Sweet, who are both enjoying excellent health were receiving congratulations; in fact it was a wedding party all over again; dozens of letters and telegrams were received and also some wonderful presents among which were two substantial purses filled with money; one for Mother and one for Father, from the family. There were also golden spoons, golden candlesticks and a massive wedding cake; to say nothing of baskets of beautiful Spring flowers which fairly filled the reception room.

After the presentations, about thirty guests sat down to a gorgeous banquet with the long table prettily decorated with daffodils and golden trimmings; speeches were made and the bride and groom of fifty years ago, again received congratulations.

Among the members of the family who were present were Mr. Wilson Sweet of Battle Creek, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. George Sweet, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Sweet, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Sweet, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Sweet, all of Detroit, Mich. Other guests included, Rev. Harold B. and Mrs. Neal; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Patterson, Mr. and Mrs. James McKibbon with Miss Bessie McKibbon of Trenton; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Keller; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Palliser; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Montgomery and many others.

Mr. and Mrs. Sweet were residents of Rawdon Township for 24 years, coming to Campbellford 26 years ago.

Wore Stockings In Greek Dance

BOSTON, April 30 (C.P.) — This is a note taken from a newspaper of this city in March, 1915:

"Young society women taking part in the dance carnival last night for the benefit of the woman suffrage campaign fund wore stockings. It has been customary not to wear them in Greek interpretative dances, but Mayor Curley ruled that stockings must be worn."

lic pressure, quite against the considered judgment of business itself. . . . What governments sometimes fail to realize and to make clear to democracy is that the real interest of the honest worker in any undertaking is that business should prosper and that private enterprise should be preserved and every inducement held out for its facilitation, because upon it he must live.

"Now where does Canadian business stand in its relation to Government? I sometimes think that our neighborliness with you has latterly had one disadvantage for Canada. We have been inclined in our country these last few months to launch out on a reform program which has many characteristics of your recovery menu. Just when you are showing signs of changing your diet for one calories with more business vitamins, we are to be treated to courses overloaded with Government indigestibles. Up till now we have had only one alphabet item, the N.P.M.A. or Natural Products Marketing Act, which became law a year ago. It is significant to note our middle west so largely filled with farmers for whose benefit this act was primarily designed, has by overwhelming vote, refused to come under the act."

Cut as Probe Remedies

Mr. Dawson referred to the "Grandiose scheme" of the Royal Commission on Price Spreads and Mass Buying in their report brought down at Ottawa a few weeks ago, suggesting control and regulation of Canadian business.

"If the recommendations of the majority report are implemented" said the speaker, "Canadian business will be controlled by an algebraical formula which will make the most erudite professor of astronomy scratch his head."

The proposed Dominion Trade and Industry Commission with its 13 new boards, bureaux or commissions will, if made operative result in an additional heavy burden on the backs of the taxpayer," said Mr Dawson.

TIME EXTENDED TAX COLLECTOR

Arrears Up to April 29th Amounted $68,000 According to Campbellford Report.

STREET DANCE, MAY 6TH.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 30 (Examiner Correspondence).—A special meeting of the town council was held in the clerk's office on Monday evening for the purpose of accepting the tax collector's roll. Mayor Frank Long occupied the chair; Reeve Alex. MacColl, Deputy-reeve Ernest McKeel, with Councillors James Dorie, Richard Cole, Percy Locke, John O'Sullivan, and Tax Collector John D. McEachern, present.

After reading his statement of arrears which up to April 29 amounted to $68,000, Mr. McEachern stated that he was sorry to have to ask council to take in such a large amount, but that he felt sure that by the end of May he would have the roll in better shape; also stating that collections had been hard to make, but that numerous ratepayers had promised payment in full during the coming month. On motion of Councillor John O'Sullivan, seconded by Reeve McColl, which carried, it was decided "that the collector of taxes be allowed until the end of the month of May to finish the 1934 tax collections. It being understood that his offer to do so without remuneration be accepted."

Council also granted a request from William Blake, who had asked to be permitted to hold a square dance at the foot of Front street on the evening of Jubilee Day, May 6th; Mr. Blake to supply the orchestra and assume all responsibilities.

After considerable discussion and on motion of Reeve A. N. McColl and Deputy-reeve Ernest McKeel, and owing to the fact that Tuesday was "Open Night" and Wednesday a half holiday, decided to hold the regular meeting at the Public Library on the evening of Jubilee Day, Monday, May 6th, at 8 o'clock.

BRITAIN WAITS FOREIGN POLICY

Hitler to disclose his entire naval program.

They also pointed out that the Brtish Foreign Secretary's move in Parliament would tend to prevent Hitler from assembling a fleet of submarines and then springing it on the world as an accomplished fact as he did in the case of his air force.

Ribbentrop In Charge

LONDON, April 30.—(CP)—Joachim von Ribbentrop, Chancellor Adolf Hitler's arms expert, will head the German delegation of naval experts expected here next month for conversations with British technicians, the Manchester Guardian's Berlin correspondent stated today.

The Manchester Guardian's correspondent added the German Chancellor would make a declaration of naval policy the middle of next month.

The British naval attache at Berlin was officially informed last autumn, the newspaper adds, the Reich had completed plans for 12 submarines of small tonnage. Construction orders were issued two weeks ago, the Liberal organ states.

The doubling of Great Britain's air armaments program for the current year will probably have considerable backing tomorrow at the cabinet session called to formulate the government's declaration of policy. This will be given in the House of Commons Thursday.

Government supporters also have revived the long-shelved scheme for a League of Nations air police force.

SUMMER TIME PETITION OUT

Petition Seeking Daylight Saving is Being Circulated.

BE PRESENTED TO COUNCIL

The perennial daylight saving time question is again a live topic throughout the city.

This week a petition is in circulation here and already it is said there are a large number of signatories who have declared themselves in favor of putting the clocks forward one hour from June 15 to September 1.

While it has been stated by those seeking support for the petition that it is ultimately to be sent forward to the City Council, The Examiner has been unable to determine from what source the petition originated or by whom it is being sponsored.

The local Chamber of Commerce, and also the Retail Merchants Section of that organization declare the petition was not sponsored by them, while officials of the Canadian General Electric Company emphatically deny rumors that it originated at their plant.

The petition is being circulated around factories, stores, offices and other places of business.

When a plebiscite was last taken on the matter here, it will be recalled that daylight saving time proposals were turned down, and that there was a tacit agreement that Peterborough should abide by wishes of the people for two years.

There was nothing binding upon the council about such an agreement, The Examiner is officially informed and accordingly the City Fathers will be at liberty to vote on the question if the petition is sufficiently large enough to warrant such a course being taken.

Do you HATE TO MEET PEOPLE?

SOME of us are so bashful that whenever a new face appears before us we mentally duck away! Maybe it isn't shyness so much as simply not realizing how very interesting new acquaintances can be.

Some people are shy about new foods too. One family we know has had pork and beans every Saturday night for ten years, and they see no reason for changing!

How much more interesting life—and dinner!—would be for that family with a new kind of meat, a vegetable prepared some other way, a new style in dessert. New foods—new faces—brighten our days and help make living an exciting game.

Look through the advertisements in this newspaper to-day for new ideas in foods. They're here, in abundance. . . recipes, tried and tested. . . favorite platters of favorite people. . . exotic dishes from exotic lands.

The advertisements bring you up-to-the-minute news of many things. Read them regularly. Form the habit of getting the most out of life—and the most for your money.

THOSE OUTSIDE AGITATORS.

Premier Hepburn is reported as being decidedly resentful of outside interference in the Crowland relief strike and other similar demcnstrations elsewhere, and he has nof hesitated to give expression to his views on the question.

The Examiner is in thorough accord with the Premier in his opinion that outside agitators are responsible for much of the trouble.

We have been making that contention for the last year or so, having not the slightest doubt that these Red organizers who bob up wherever an outbreak occurs were the main cause of the majority of industrial strikes and other disturbances, and that in most cases they needlessly prolonged the strikes and prevented a settlement, not because they had any concern for the welfare of the workers, but because their main object was to take advantage of the conditions to foment strife.

No matter where a riot has taken place, outside leadership has always been in evidence, and it seems to have been established beyond a shadow of a doubt that there has been going on for some time a movement aimed at creating as much trouble as possible.

Premier Heyburn is on firm ground in his desire to deal directly with the unemployed rather than to talk to these professional agitators, who are using the workless for their own fell purposes.

The sooner those who are on relief recognize the danger of following false leadership the better it will be for them and for the whole country.

CLEAN-UP WEEK.

Next week has been named as "Clean-up, Paint-up, Give-a-man-a-job Week" in Peterborough, and it is confidently expected that there will be the same widespread co-operation on the part of the citizens that was in evidence on the occasion of similar campaigns in the past.

Peterborough prides itself upon being an attractive and a clean city, and in the main this claim is amply justified.

We cannot, however, afford to rest upon our laurels, to rely upon our reputation for cleanliness and charm, for only by consistent efforts can the standard be maintained.

There is much that can be done to clean-up yards, lanes, back gardens and lawns, and at the same time our homes, business places and factories can be rid of accumulations of rubbish and of other fire hazards that should be taken into consideration.

These are the main objects of the annual clean-up campaign, and they should engage the attention, if they have not already done so, of the whole community.

This drive, too, should afford an opportunity of giving temporary employment to some of those on the relief lists who will welcome this chance to earn a little money.

Every man that can thus be put to work is helped in more ways than one, and at the same time the whole appearance of the city is improved and conditions harmful to health or dangerous from the viewpoint of fire hazards are eliminated.

It is a thoroughly worth-while campaign, and should have enthusiastic support on all sides.

COMPULSORY EXAMINATIONS.

One of the most important suggestions that came to the front at the Dominion-provincial health conference last week was the proposal that all Canadians should be compelled to undergo a physical examination every year.

Early diagnosis is, of course, necessary in many complaints, if proper treatment is to be given, and the proponents of this compulsory annual medical examination had this in mind when they brought forward their plan.

It is doubtful, however, whether the suggestion will meet with anything like general approval from the public.

Weaknesses in the plan are obvious.

In the first place, there is the cost, for the total would run into many millions of dollars each year.

Then there is the very natural question as to the value of this annual examination, supposing that many of those who have been inspected and found in bad condition decline to take any steps to have their weaknesses treated.

Not much would be gained by bringing ailments to light if there is no assurance afterward that the steps necessary to cure them will be taken.

Again there would undoubtedly be strenuous objections from many Canadians at having to submit to this inspection every year, and even if the objectors were forced to yield it is doubtful whether anything in the nature of a complete or satisfactory examination could be made without the full co-operation of the subject.

We are inclined to believe that much water will run under the bridges before this compulsory medical examination idea is incorporated into a law and placed on the statute books.

WHERE ONTARIO LEADS

Ontario's dominant position in Canadian manufacturing is clearly revealed by the annual census of industry for the province for 1933, as compiled by the Bureau of Statistics.

This report shows that of the capital employed in the manufacturing industries of Canada Ontario contributed 44.5 per cent. of the total, and that it also accounted for 48.2 per cent. of the products made, and furnished employment to 47.7 per cent. of all Canadians engaged in manufacturing.

For the year reports were received from 9,844 manufacturing establishments in Ontario. The value of merchandise produced by these establishments amounted to $1,006,233,502, a decrease of $23,164,192 or 2.2 per cent. from the value for 1932. The amount of capital invested also declined, having fallen to $2,087,072,413, this represents a decline of $36,936,444 or 1.6 per cent. as compared with the previous year. The number of employees and the salaries and wages paid them were also lower. In 1932, 239,231 persons were given employment, and in 1933 this number fell to 235,810, a decline of 3,421. Salaries and wages paid in 1932 amounted to $256,207,232, while in 1933 this had decreased by $21,815,332 to $234,391,900. The value added by manufacture also declined from $563,486,656 in 1932 to $540,126,918 in 1933, while the cost of materials used was the only item in the principal statistics to show an increase, the value being $465,106,584, or an increase of $5,195,585 over the 1932 figures.

Peterborough, the report shows, stood eleventh in the list of manufacturing centres in the province, its production being exceeded by Toronto, Hamilton, London, Kitchener, Port Colborne, Sarnia, Oshawa, Ottawa, Walkerville and East Windsor in that order.

With 78 establishments in Peterborough reporting the capital invested was given as $21,356,373, with 38.2 employees, a pay-roll of $3,265,162, and an output of $16,051,702.

THAT PROPOSED TORONTO TUNNEL.

We dislike saying it, and for obvious reasons. Yet Easter being a time when even a newspaper should be in a state of grace, we're compelled to confess that in the matter of that million dollar vote for a tunnel from Toronto to Hanlan's Island, which is in Toronto's harbor, we stand with the Opposition. Granted that every opportunity should be afforded Torontonians to escape from themselves and their environment, we still think that a million dollars is too much to spend for this commendable purpose, that it would be better to have more outgoing trains, or even a fleet of motor busses.

Conservative M.P.'s argue—and the Liberal Toronto Star supports them—that the Dominion is obligated to connect this island with the mainland by a bridge or tunnel because of some agreement or order-in-council in 1913. A fairly reasonable answer to that, we suggest, is that if this agreement has been let stand for 22 years it won't harm anybody much to let it stand a little longer.

We are told, too, that if this tunnel be built then a seaport base will follow which will become "the aerial hub of the continent." It sounds most enchanting, but we seem to remember a lot of other enchanting dreams of past spacious days which somehow didn't come true or which, if they did come true, turned out to be terribly costly. This "hub of the continent" or "hub of the universe" business has come pretty near to ruining us.

A million dollars, in these days, is a lot of money. If it has to be spent, then by all means let it be spent in some way or for something that will give people work. Later on, when we get out of these woods, we can consider that world's hub in Toronto.—Ottawa Journal.

CANADA'S WHEAT EXPORT PROBLEM.

Recent reports would indicate that Canadian wheat exporters are likely to be placed in a more favorable position as a result of advances in the price of the grain at Liverpool. For some time they have been at a considerable disadvantage in spite of the fact that British millers are usually ready to pay a premium of three to four cents a bushel for Manitoba wheat over Argentine grain on account of the superior milling qualities of the former. In addition to this, Argentine wheat has to pay a six cents a bushel import duty owing to the fact that this impost has to be paid by non-Empire wheat entering Great Britain. This was a difference of 9 to 10 cents a bushel, yet Canadian wheat has been selling so high in relation to world prices that our wheat in consequence has been moving very slowly. The result has been that exports for the crop year to date are far below what they were a year ago, which itself was not a year of heavy imports. Rising prices at Liverpool have stimulated prices at Buenos Aires, and if the Canadian quotations can be held at a reasonable level it is not improbable that there will be a heavier movement of our wheat across the Atlantic in the last weeks of the crop year, than that which has prevailed in recent months.

It is stated that during the past week Argentine Roasafe wheat was quoted at 75¼ cents in Liverpool, while No. 3 Northern was calculated on the basis of No. 2 at Liverpool as being worth about 96⅝ cents per bushel, making a total spread between comparable grades of 21⅜ cents. Allowing for the preference which millers are willing to give Manitobas and for the import duty exacted on Argentine wheat, it is evident that Canadian wheat was still 10 to 11 cents a bushel out of line with Argentine. If this spread can be narrowed or wiped out it will undoubtedly result in a much heavier demand for Canadian wheat. At the present time it is estimated that there is in this country an unexported surplus of 152,000,000 bushels as at March 31. With about seventeen weeks of the crop year left it is evident that if this is to be cleared there will have to be exports of about 9,000,000 bushels from Canada a week, which is about three times the rate at which Canadian wheat has been going out of the country.

Lake navigation opened on April 15 and it is possible that this, owing to the lower freight rates available, will do something towards stimulating the movement.

With the crop situation in the United States poor and supplies there limited from last year's poor crop, not much competition may be looked for from that quarter. Argentina is the main quarter from which competition will come and price is the main factor in meeting the sales from that quarter.—Monetary Times.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

A special relief camp for agitators who supply doubtful leadership for organizations of unemployed might serve a useful purpose and avert a lot of trouble.

One industry that is apparently going ahead at top speed in Canada this year is the repairing of political fences in readiness for the federal election.

The Dionne quintuplets have already amassed an estate of over $150,000 in a year, showing once more that Ontario is really the land of opportunity.

Crowland relief strikers carried a banner reading, "Willing to Work But Forced to Beg," yet when work is offered they refuse to accept unless they can name their own terms.

The McGeer-Perley long distance argument may furnish material for a few headlines, but it does not make much of a contribution to the settlement of the Vancouver trouble.

With the cup tie out of the way, Britishers will be able to give their undivided attention to the royal jubilee.

DAYLIGHT SAVING

Editor of The Examiner,

Dear Sir,—The daylight saving time muddle is with us again and many good people are wondering if nothing can be done to unify the time in the city.

Last summer some factories started work one hour earlier and stopped one hour earlier while stores and entertainments remained about the same and the result was decidedly Gilbertian. The housewife had a hard time preparing meals and many a good fellow had to be very humble at his own table.

It is to be hoped the city council will take the matter up with the idea of setting one time for the city. Decisions are not always correct and the city council have opened up questions before in the city's interest and surely this matter calls for attention.

Thanking you,

A. D. Clark.

WHAT ARE THEIR INTENTIONS?

To the Editor of The Examiner,

Dear Sir,—Replying to the letter of J. Bowers, R.R. No. 4, Lakefield and printed in The Examiner issue of April 20, 1935, let me point out that we have not heard Mr. Holland's reaction to Mr. Bower's letter. Would you suggest that Mr. Holland has fallen down on his claim of answering all just criticism, or is the time not ripe, since there is a suggestion of a link up with Holland and Childs? Let me add my welcome to that of J. Bowers or possibly it would be advisable to ask these two ex-leaders what they intend to do. As they seem to be perfectly satisfied with their lot at the present. I would suggest that they must have practiced for themselves what they advocated during their regime as leaders. I am wondering would the unemployed too have been satisfied if they had stayed with Holland and Childs. Surely if two can accomplish the inevitable, what then would the unemployed with a united front have accomplished. It is now up to C. W. Holland to enlighten us, as to his statement to the City Council on April 1, 1935.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, I remain,

James Belles,
Dublin Street.

Your Health

By DR LOGAN CLENDENING

We have described in this series of articles on diagnosis the two indispensable methods of approach to any diagnosis—the patient's story of the illness, and the physician's examination of the body with his own senses—especially sight.

These two sets of data will be used in every case. In a good proportion of all instances, nothing else will be necessary. The physician knows what a case of measles looks like. He will not require any chemical or instrumental tests to help him. And cases of measles make up a good share of the individual patients the general practitioner sees.

In most chronic conditions, however, some laboratory or mechanical method of examination will be of value in clearing the diagnosis or making the measurement exact. It will seldom be necessary to invoke every resource of modern diagnosis—it would take a week for a patient to submit to every method known; although I understand in some clinics that is what is done as a preliminary measure. It is a false show of thoroughness. The patient should learn to appreciate the physician who is wise enough and considerate enough (both to the patient's person and to his pocketbook) to select only the test which is calculated to be of value in his particular case.

The tests most frequently useful are those made in the laboratory. The laboratory of clinical pathology' it usually is called.

A great variety of tests are made here—chemical, miscroscopical, bacteriological. The chemical tests include the examination of the urine, the stomach contents, and, of recent years, the blood.

Blood Chemistry Important

Blood chemistry is coming to have an increasingly important role in diagnosis. It is amusing nowadays for a biologic chemist to hear people prate about what such and such a thing does to the blood — how it makes acid, for instance. Because the degree of acidity of the blood—and it is almost always nearly neutral, ever so slightly alkaline—can be measured down to the finest decimal point, and the things that "they" say make it acid, seldom do.

We can measure also the amount of calcium, fat, protein, and the retention substances that accumulate when the kidney function is impaired.

For the examination of the blood as a tissue—the cellular elements—to see whether anemia is present, or whether the white cells are increasing in the face of infection, the laboratory consultant uses the microscope and a set of delicate little measuring instruments. Such methods were introduced about 1851 and made a great change in the study of diseases of the blood.

When expectoration is copious and the sputum must be examined, bacteriologic methods are used. As they are when in sore throat a membrane forms, because diphtheria must be excluded or determined at once.

A most useful field which the pathologist has opened up is that of tissue examination. Here is a spot on the skin that may or may not be cancer. Well, a small piece of it can be cut out and sectioned and put under the miscroscope; the conclusion reached then is much more reliable. The procedure takes about five minutes.

Yes, the clinical pathologist is a busy, a versatile and a very useful citizen.

What's in the Name of Canadian Cities and Towns?

By FRANK H. WILLIAMS

AMHERST, NOVA SCOTIA

Situated in a region of outstanding historic importance, Amherst has the further distinction of being the geographical centre of the maritime provinces.

Previous to 1759 it was called "Les Planches" by the French and "Nemcheboogwek", by the Micmacs, the latter meaning, "going up rising ground."

In 1759, however, the name of the place was changed to Amherst, in honor of Jeffrey, Lord Amherst, who, in co-operation with Admiral Boscawen, captured Louisburg in 1758.

A Thought

WISHES

My friend could do such lovely deeds
To show the love he had;
I would that I could do one deed
To make another glad.

My friend could sing such lovely songs
To help the strong, the sad;
I would that I knew when and how
To sing a song more glad.

My friend could think such lovely thoughts,
Gentle, unselfish, kind;
I would that I could make my thoughts
Help even someone's mind.

ON THIS DATE

A DAY IN CANADIAN HISTORY

By Fred Williams

"C.O.D." SAID COUNT FRONTENAC

On this date (April 30) in 1689 Count Frontenac wrote from Quebec to the French minister of state pointing out "a great abuse which the merchants of La Rochelle have introduced in their prepayment of freight on liquors and merchandise," because "the captains and the officers of the ships do not take the rightful care of their cargoes and very often the barrels and boxes arrive, in some cases broken, in others quite empty, while on the voyage the seamen are permitted to indulge in debauches from the stolen liquors. This practice is also to be condemned since it makes the captains careless of their cargoes. If the freight is paid in advance they do not care whether their ships are captured by pirates and the contents cast to the bottom of the sea. They have nothing to lose. All the loss falls upon the traders here. We will guarantee the payment of all bills for goods delivered here in good condition."

The "pirates" mentioned were seemingly adventurers from Boston, who lay in wait for the French ships in and around the gulf of St. Lawrence, drove the ships ashore and made off to Massachusetts with the wines and other rich cargoes. There are suspicions that some of the captains from Rochelle and St. Malo were not amiss to having their palms greased by the "pirates" for in many cases, while the cargoes were all looted, the ships cast ashore in the gulf were not damaged beyond repair.

Of course, the "C.O.D." policy affected the price of goods to the consumers at Quebec, for two years later the council of state at Paris received complaints from Canada about the high cost of living. Thereupon Frontenac created a precedent which later administrators of Canada have profitted by. He advised the Canadian settlers to grow more food and make the things they needed and imposed duties to "conserve our own industry" (the first National policy) and ordered the creation of a commission to control and fix prices at Quebec, both for producer and consumer.

THE BROWSER

The Browser had the pleasant experience, this week, of meeting Lloyd Douglas, who wrote "Green Light" and "The Magnificent Obsession," which are selling almost as well as they deserve.... The sheriff brought Mr. Douglas in. (The sheriff is Harrison Leusler, who presents Houghton-Mifflin in the Browser's town. He is very tall and he wears a six-or-seven-gallon-hat, an dhe looks like a sheriff but he used to sing alto in a Boston boys' chor.)

No nonsense, no author-mannerisms about Mr. Douglas, no reticence about discussing the ideas he uses in his novels. A gentleman, too. When he finished a cigaret he looked around for a place to put the butt and had to be told to put it on the floor and step on it. Not used to newspaper office ways.

The Browser had a friend of his, Episcopalian minister, there to meet Mr. Douglas, and the two fell immediately into celestial shop-talk. The Browser had trouble getting into the conversation; had to sharpen the edges of his words and wait for an opening....But he picked up a few facts.

After Mr. Douglas finished "The Magnificent Obsession," about six years ago, he submitted it here and there and received polite rejections here and there. Then a little house specializing in religious books took a chance and printed 2,500 copies. When those were all gone, it printed 1,500 more, and then the tide turned; since, more than 100,000 copies have been sold....Houghton-Mifflin printed 65,000 copies of "Green Light" without hesitating. ...Mr. Douglas had to quit preaching from a pulpit to answer his heavy mail.

If the Chautauqua circuits were still booming, Thomas W. Duncan would be receiving angry letters because of his "O, Chautauqua." It muckrakes the cultural tentshows.. A good book if you are interested in people and in New Mexico: Mabel Dodge Luhans "Winter in Taos"....Tom Kromer's advice to wanderers in his "Waiting for Nothing": You can always get a handout in a yellow house. But a woman who lives in a green house may not even open the door.... Edna Ferber wants to live in the country some day "in a country house so peaceful and quiet that she can hear the mortgage lifting through the velvet night"....Tom Duncan of that Chautauqua book used to be a Chautauqua performer himself. Then he went to Harvard and now he lives in Des Moines.

Coward-McCann want you to know that when an author has a successful novel and then comes out with a book of poems, it's usually because the publisher has to bring them out or offend their novelist. But they insist that they had to bully MacKinlay ("Long Remember") Kantor into letting them publish his poems "Turkey in the Straw"....George H. Doran says that when Rebecca West used to dine with him some years ago she'd talk brilliantly till 2 or 3 o'clock in the morning; now, as Mrs. Henry Andrews of Mayfair, she gets sleepy at 10 o'clock and sends you home....Mabel Luhan says an Indian never points at a rainbow....The Browser got tired of seeing some of his books last week and cleaned them out. An odd book on contract bridge brought nothing; a complete set of Theodore Roosevelt's works was worth only $2....Enough for today from THE BROWSER.

MADOC PROGRAM IS MUCH ENJOYED

Garden Hints Dealt With at Meeting of Madoc Women's Institute.

MADOC, April 30 (Examiner Correspondence). — Madoc Women's Institute held its April meeting at the home of Mrs. W. A. Hunter, with an attendance of 35, Mrs. R. Bristol presiding. The play from Belleville was laid over for the present. Thanks for flowers received during illness were sent by members. Roll-call was answered by garden hints and was well responded to. Owing to the unavoidable absence of the convenor of Canadian Industries a substitute program was used and much enjoyed.

Mrs. Gavin Wallbridge gave a well-prepared and interesting paper on "Etiquette in the Sick Room." Besides a lengthy list of "don'ts" and "nevers" to be remembered, she stressed many qualities necessary to those who wait on the sick ones. She stressed among others: Conscientiousness, good memory, orderliness, observation, tact, courtesy, sympathy, self-control, unselfishness, good judgment, and cleanliness.

Mrs. George White gave a very able review of the current events of the month.

Home Economics.

Mrs. R. Wickham, convenor of Home Economics, was called on and introduced the subject Economy in the Home, and gave an interesting demonstration and talk on fancy articles made from scraps of ribbon, silk, wool, chintz, and flour bags. Mrs. E Howell followed this up by a talk on "Fancy Dishes for Tea-time from Left-overs."

It was announced that the district annual convention in Marmora is to be held on June 4, with Miss E. Silcter as guest speaker.

A nomination committee of Mesdames C. N. Whytock, W. E. Connor and W. Rupert was appointed to present a complete slate for executive, directors and chairmen of committees for consideration at the annual meeting in May.

The National Anthem closed the meeting, and tea was served by the hostess, assisted by Mesdames Rutherford, Connor, Caskey, Bronson and Aylesworth, and a social half-hour was much enjoyed. The next meeting will be held on Friday, May 17, on account of the early date of the district annual.

said. "You cannot be closely connected with a man for six months and not find in him something that appeals. Strict attention has been paid to the prisoner but he has borne the disciplianry measure at least with an outward calm."

Jail officials would not state when the execution would take place, but it is believed the entire affair will be over shortly after midnight. The court house and adjacent buildings will be closely guarded by a large detachemtn of provincial and city police and no one will be permitted to enter excepting those on official business.

Early to-day it is understood Vermilyea enquired if it would be known to-day the action of authorities at Ottawa and he appeared to be quite concerned. His voice, however, was firm and his step springy as he took his customary exercise in the cell corridor.

Nothing has been said to the guards or jail officials by Vermilyea about the crime for which he stands convicted. If at any time the subject was broached the prisoner would turn the conversation into other chanfels.

GENERAL LIST IN INDUSTRIALS SLIGHTLY WEAK

FORD A SELLS HEAVY.

TORONTO, April 30 (A.P.) — Oil and steel shares were up moderately at the close to-day while other groups of the Toronto Exchange list displayed slightly more weakness than strength giving the board a downward tilt at the close. Ford "A" was sold in heavy volume ,the Monday dividend declaration of 50 cents having evidently inspired some unloading and a loss of more than a point for the day was recorded. Distillery issues were off a little, and the nickel and smelters closed just about where they closed Monday.

Oils maintained a firm level and steels' closing quotations were up for Canadian Car. Preferred, Dominion Steel, General Electric Pfd., and Steel of Canada. United Steel and Steel of Canada Preferred sold off.

With exception of Consumers Gas the whole utility group sold off. C.P.R. lost ¼ and in the construction group recessions for Cement Common, Gypsum and Dominion Tar were boarded against a small gain for Cement Pfd.

GAINS FEATURE TORONTO MINES

Silver Issues Make Conservative Advance on Lighter Volume of Trading.

GOLDS MAINLY FIRM.

TORONTO, April 30 (C.P.). — The mining section of the Toronto Stock Exchange approached the end of the month with a show of confidence to-day, gains predominating over the Board at the close. The silvers made a conservative demonstration on the up side on a lighter volume of trading, the golds were mainly firm to strong on spotty turnover and the base metals displayed firming tendencies.

Eldorado closed much lower around 2.38. Bear closed around 47, off 2. Castle weakened slightly and Nipissing was down a few cents and Premier off about 3 cents.

Strong spots in the gold group were Hollinger, Lakeshore, Pioneer, Wright-Hargreaves, while Braylorne slumped to 7.05. Teck-Hughes held steady.

Falconbridge had a small loss to offset a gain of about 25 cents for Base Metals Corporation. Pend-Oreille and Sherritt were mainly unchanged.

Market Closing On All Exchanges

WALL STREET.

NEW YORK, April 30 (A.P.). — Profit-taking tended to restrain the stock market optimists to-day and the list milled about nervously during most of the session. While various issues were pushed up on selective demand, the metals and rails were inclined to point downward.

Coca-Cola got up 5 points on a moderate turnover, and Inland Steel, U.S. Gypsum, Johns-Manville, Sears Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, and Chrysler were steady to firm. U.S. Smelting lost 2, American Smelting and Cerro de Pasco about 1 each, and Union Pacific, Northern Pacific and Pullman yielded a point or so. Eastman Kodak was down nearly 2. The late tone was irregular. Transfers approximated 900,000 shares.

MONTREAL EXCHANGE

MONTREAL April 30 (CP)—Listings on Montreal Stock Exchange showed only narrow price changes in to-day's dull trading as uncertainty gripped traders and held them from an active interest.

Consolidated Smelters closed with a loss of 1½ at 159. Hollinger rose 55 cents at 16.80 and International Nickel lost ⅛ early in the day but recovered to close unchanged. Penman's last 2 points at 55 and small losses were shown by Canadian Pacific and Canadian Car Preferred.

Steel of Canada was the strong leader with a rise of a point at 44½ and Bruck Silk rose ¼ at 16⅝. Canadian Celanese Preferred was up ½ at 107 while small advances were registered by Shawinigan and Industrial Alcohol "A".

MILITARY GROUP IS CHECKED UP

chief of staff in charge of war plans, and Brigadier-general F. M. Andrews, head of the new general headquarters air force.

The printed transcript of a secret session of the military committee disclosed the testimony was given in supporting the Wilcox Air Base Bill to create half a dozen strategic army aviation centres.

Andrews testified "even with Canada neutral, the enemy has the following bases available": Newfoundland, St. Pierre and Miquelon (French island near Newfoundland), Bermuda; The Bahamas; Jamaica, Trinidad, British Honduras, and the Lesser Antilles.

Seize The Bases

"If the situation is sufficiently vital to require it, we must be prepared to seize these outlying bases to prevent their development by the enemy as bases of operation against us," Andrews said.

Kilbourne testified a "camouflaged" provision for a powerful air base near the Canadian border had been written into the bill.

He said he would be glad to include the Great Lakes area in the measure, which designates six other strategic areas for consideration in creating defensive aviation centres.

"But," he added, "I could not put it in the bill because of the Canadian situation.

"You will notice No. 7 in my bill is camouflaged. It is called 'intermediate' stations for transcontinental flights, but it means the same thing."

The Wilcox Bill originally proposed a base in the Great Lakes region, but it was eliminated after the officer said:

"We would like to put one close to the Great Lakes, but we must avoid going too far in establishing new military stations close to the northern border and limit ourselves to those essential in peace-time training operations.

"We do not want to accentuate anything that would look as though we contemplated passing away from the century-od principle that our Canadian border needs no defence. I think it would be very unfortunate if we did."

Kilbourne, since he gave his testimony, has been transferred to duty in Manila.

Not Washington's Views.

"I desire," Mr. Roosevelt said in his letter, "to inform your committee certain portions of the testimony of General Kilbourne, especially those relating to the Canadian border, do not represent either the policy of this Administration or that of the Commander-in-Chief.

"In the statement of General F. M. Andrews, many portions of said statement, especially those relating to the territory of friendly nations in Canada, in the Atlantic and in the West Indies, do not represent the policy of the Administration or of the Commander-in-Chief.

"It is necessary for me most respectfully to call to your attention and that of your committee the fact if the testimony in executive session is printed in public documents in the same way as testimony in open session, I shall find it necessary as Commander-in-Chief of the Army and Navy to require that in future such testimony be given only after approval by me."

Canada yesterday asked the State Department for any public data on army plans of the United States. That action resulted from testimony by Brigadier General Charles E. Kilbourne, Assistant Chief of Staff in Charge of War Plans.

The President addressed his letter to Chairman McSwain of the Military Committee.

In another letter to Secretary of War George Dern, the President remarked:

"It is a matter of regret to me that I have been compelled to send a letter to Chairman McSwain of the Military Affairs Committee, copy of which I enclose."

Roosevelt's Letter.

The text of the President's letter to McSwain follows:

"My dear Mr. Chairman,

"My attention has been called to hearings before Committee on Military Affairs, House of Representatives, on H.R. 6621 and H.R. 6139. This public document includes apparently a full report of an executive session of the committee of which you are chairman.

"It is necessary for me most respectfully to call to your attention and that of your committee the fact if the testimony in executive session is printed in public documents in the same way as testimony in open session, I shall find it necessary as Commander-in-Chief of the Army and Navy to require that in the future such testimony be given only after approval by me.

"Referring to page 16 of this printed document, I desire to inform your committee that certain portions of the testimony of General Kilbourne, especially those relating to the Canadian border, do not represent either the policy of this Administration or that of the Commander-in-Chief.

"In the statement of General F. M. Andrews, many portions of said statement, especially those relating to the territory of friendly nations, in Canada, in the Atlantic and in the West Indies, do not represent the policy of the Administration or of the Commander-in-Chief.

No Change in Relations.

"I can go further and state they do not reflect the views, purposes or motives of the United States' government. This government does not in any of its plans or policies envisage a posibility of a change in the friendly relations between the United States and any foreign country.

"I call your special attention to the fact this government not only accepts as an accomplished fact the permanent peace conditions cemented by many generations of friendship between the Canadian and American people but expects to live up to not only the letter but the spirit of our treaties relating to the permanent disarmament of our 3,000 miles of common boundary.

"Very Sincerely,

"Franklin D. Roosevelt."

FINANCIAL NEWS BRIEFS

CANADIAN AIRWAYS REPORT

The annual statement of Canadian Airways, Ltd. for 1934 reveals that the year's operations resuted in a profit of $43,668, after providing for all expenses except depreciation, and this compares to a loss of $226,318 for the previous year. The reserve of $214,197 for depreciation, or retirement expense, however, reduced the profit figures to a net loss of $167,655. The net loss for 1933 was $431,376, so the improvement in 1934 was $263,721.

The rates of depreciation used in the past have proved excessive in the light of the company's experience, reports James A. Richardson, president, with the result that the company's assets were found to be of considerably greater value than the net figures shown in last year's statement. After a thorough investigation, the reserve account was adjusted and the net figures now shown are more indicative of the value of the assets owned.

Working capital has increased $84,856 during the year, and now stands at $341,857.

The Express pounds carried during the year more than doubled. Mail increased 43 per cent, miles flown increased 36 per cent, and revenue increased 40 per cent. The increase in revenue was handled without any increase in operating expenses, which actually shows a reduction of $3,917.

INTERNATIONAL NICKEL

It is generally agreed that International Nickel of Canada Limited stands to benefit this year very materially from the far-sighted policy of the management during the last six years. New additions to property have totalled $39,000,000 since 1929. No new financing was necessary to bring this about. Proven ore reserves are enormous as 204,389,463 tons were reported at the close of last year. During this expansion campaign the management were able to increase its working position to $40 millions odd, besides the debenture debt was greatly reduced. Financial Service brings the above mentioned accomplishments to the attention of their readers to show that the time is rapidly approaching when the shareholders can expect a higher dividend payment. The ticker is apparently conveying such information at the present time.

WORLD WHEAT SITUATION

Prices of wheat moving into world trade have strengthened appreciably during the past month, largely as a result of the slackened month, largely as a result of the slackened pressure of Southern Hemisphere exports and also as an indication of the severe crop damage in the U.S. Wheat shipments from Argentina and Australia since Jan. 1 have been over 16 million bushels or nearly 20 per cent greater than in the same period of 1934 despite the lower carryovers at January 1 this year and the reduction in production of 88 million bushels in 1934-35 as compared with 1933-34.

World shipments of wheat and wheat flour in the first 37 weeks of the crop year have amounted to 372.2 million bushels, compared with 379.5 million bushels in the same weeks of 1933-1934. To fulfil Mr. Broomhall's estimate of 552 million bushels for this crop year, shipments in the remaining 15 weeks must total 180 million bushels and average 12 million bushels per week. During the same 15 weeks of 1934, shipments totalled about 147 million bushels or less than 10 million bushels per week. The disappointment regarding demand in 1934-35 arises entirely from the poor European takings. The higher prices of recent weeks are bringing out more wheat from the Balkans and France; yet it is doubtful whether the movement of the next three months will entirely measure up to Mr. Broomhall's estimate.

BRAZILIAN TRACTION

The large army of investors who own the shares of Brazilian Traction Light, Heat & Power Company in Canada will be encouraged by the progress the company is making so far as earnings are concerned. The report of March earnings showed an advance of 18.7 per cent over the same period in 1934. That brought the first quarter earnings to 16.9 per cent above the first period of a year ago. Such headway is satisfactory. Particularly, when it is recalled that net for 1934 will probably be 51 cents a share. Should the above mentioned gain be continuous, Financial Service calculates that Brazilian Traction should be able to show 59 cents a share this year. Under ordinary circumstances, a dividend might be expected, but the exchange situation is a great handicap in this connection. Should conditions in Brazil continue to improve, the Gvernment might permit the export of capital. Brussels have been a buyer of the shares in a moderate way of late.

LENGTHY LIST TO GET MEDALS

Constable Samuel Newhall, who is included in the awards, possesses the Queen Victoria Jubilee Medal, with a clasp commemorating the coronation of the late King Edward VII. as a member of the Metropolitan Police Force, the Chief stated; he was detailed for duty at Her late Majestys' Jubilee garden party at Buckingham Palace, and along with other officers received the medal from the hand of the Queen herself. The clasp to the medal is in recognition of Chief Newhall's services at the Coronation of King Edward, which he recalls was postponed on account of an injury which the King sustained prior to the date originally set for the ceremony.

OTTAWA, April 30. (CP).—Art and science, religion and philanthropy, professional and industrial endeavor as well as public service in all its phases will be recognized in the distribution of the King's silver jubilee medal to several thousand Canadians next week, the list approved by His Majesty personally, is a most representative one, it was learned to-day.

All Members of Parliament and Senators and their wives and members of the legislature of the provinces as well as members of the Canadian Privy Council will receive medals. The ministers and the chief consular representatives of foreign powers in Canada will be in the list of recipients.

So far as possible the list has been compiled on the same basis as the list for the distributions of medals in the United Kingdom.

Educational endeavor will be recognized by the bestowal of medals on the chancellors and presidents of universities and a liberal selecting of the teachers in primary and secondary schools in all the provinces.

Heads of Hospitals

Representatives of the medical profession throughout Canada and of those interested in hospital and charitable work, including probably the women superintendents or matrons of public hospitals will receive the medal.

Some of those who have taken an active part in organizing the campaign for the King George V jubilee cancer fund will be among the recipients.

It is also understood the list will include representative citizens of the Northwest Territories and the Yukon and some representation of the Indian population. The Eskimo dwellers on the rim of the Arctic Ocean will all be represented in the list.

Many branches of public service will be recognized by including in the list the names of the president or other chief officer of professional and business organizations throughout the country.

While a substantial number of war veterans will be honored it was considered desirable to recognize those who had performed services in the rehabilitation and assistance of veterans as to appraise and select from the large number who performed services in the field during the Great War on the basis of war service world have been obviously impossible.

Rhode Island Mansion Is Believed Crime Factory

CHARRED BONES, BURIED MONEY ARE DISCOVERED

Expensive Lawns, Cellars, Walls on Estate to be Torn Up.

$28,000 LOOT RECOVERED.

Suspected Mail Robber Gang Leader is Nabbed—Small Arsenal Seized.

PROVIDENCE, R.I., April 30.—Belief that a hilltop mansion in Warwick, converted into a literal "crime factory," hides not only additional loot and arms, but the corpse of at least one murder victim seemed confirmed last night.

Toward evening, a dozen relief workers who had probed the old Wendelschaefer estate all day without avail, unearthed additional currency—and charred bones.

The new discovries followed closely the surrender of Carl Reittich, alleged ringleader of the $130,000 Fall River mail robbery of last January, who with his family and relatives occupies the estate.

Guns and Cash.

The workers found the bones beneath the porch of the big dwelling, where machine guns and other weapons and $8,000 in currency were recovered on Saturday. If analysis shows them to be human, authorities will seek to prove that the missing Daniel (Danny) Walsh, Rhode Island rum king, was murdered and buried there. Walsh, once the partner of Reittich, was kidnapped, and a few months later his relatives made a futile $40,000 ransom payment at a Boston hotel. Police believe that even then Walsh was dead.

Beneath a flagstone in a walk leading from the mansion to the garage, the workers made their other find.

A metal box, 12 inches long, 8 inches wide and 4 inches tall, was unearthed and it was packed solid with currency. Federal agents began count of the loot. Alongside the box was found a sugar bag full of nickels.

The finds increased to approximately $28,000 the loot recovered on the Wendelschafer estate. Authorities said the hunt will continue and that every bit of the property—cellar and sub-cellar floors and walls, walks, and all the expansive lawns—will be ripped up. Exploring the garage, the workers found an empty vault, believed used as a still in prohibition days.

The estate was the scene of one of six swift raids in this state and Massachustetts on Saturday, resulting in the round-up of 30 mail robbery suspects or witnesses. On Friday another suspect, Andino (Andy) Merola, was found murdered in an automobile near Lake Pearl, Wrenthem, Mass. He was believed silenced as a suspected police informant.

MILLBROOK

CAVAN COUPLE ARE HONORED

Pleasant Social Gathering is Held at the Kennedy Home.

PRESENTATION MADE

MILLBROOK, April 30. (Examiner Correspondence)—A pleasant socila gathering, attended by over one hundred and fifty guests, took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Vertil Kennedy, Carmel, on Friday evening when neighbors and friends from Oshawa, Oak Hill, Canton, Millbrook, and the surrounding countryside, met to do honor to the bride and groom of a few weeks' standing.

The special feature of the evening, when all guests had arrived and been warmly welcomed, was the presentation of a miscellaneous shower to Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy, Will Lunn reading the address, and two large containers, nicely-trimmed and full of parcels, being placed near the central position occupied by the bride and groom. The address which occompanied the gifts was as follows:

"Dear Friends.—I am sure you will be surprised to have so many uninvited guests assemble in honor of you to-night; but we, your friends of the community, feel that we cannot allow this happy time to pass without showing in some way our high regard for you both, and expressing our best wishes for your future happiness and welfare.

"We have always found you ready and willing to help in any way possible, and we appreciate this assistance you have given in so many ways in our community life; we trust you may be spared to a long life of prosperity, and may good fortune be your companion through all your days.

"Friendship is a chain of gold shaped in God's own perfect mould; each leaf a smile, a laugh, a tear, a grip of hand, a word of cheer, as steadfast as the ages roll, binding closer soul to soul; no matter how far or heavy the road, sweet is the journey with friends and God." And it is in the spirit of this verse that we ask you to accept these tokens of our esteem.

"Signed on behalf of your neighbors and your friends—May Challice, Vera Olan.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy made suitable reply, thanking the many guests for the kind expressions of appreciation, and for the lovely gifts presented, the pleasant task of opening the parcels and reading the enclosed card occcpying a considerable length of time, those assisting the bride and groom in the happy 'chore' including some of the bride's girl friends.

After the singing of "For They are Jolly Good Fellows" the remainder of the evening was spent in cards and dancing; those providing the music for the latter being Mr. and Mrs. John Lunn, May and Walter Challice, Robert Carr, Benjamin Olan and Robert Todd.

The service of a dainty lunch, by the committee in charge, Misses May Challice and Vera Olan, with other assistants, was a concluding feature of a most enjoyable occasion. Fine linens, china, kitchen ware, silver and many other articles were included in the lovely gifts that made up the shower, giving tangible evidence of the esteem in which Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy are held by a wide circle of friends.

"What a joy Pearl White Naptha is on the farm. It is so quick and easy that it takes all the drudgery out of washday."

There is no question why Pearl White Naptha Soap beats the clock on washdays. Actual tests by housewives have proved that the rich Pearl suds start to work quicker and stand up longer. Active and brisk, these plentiful suds seek out and loosen even ingrained grease and grime, without hard rubbing and scrubbing. Pearl washes clothes whiter—makes them cleaner and more fragrant. It is more economical, too. These facts are proven. Why not test them yourself next washday?

"Pearl White Naptha Soap certainly helps out the cost of living for me. I do all my own washing now, and so many things can be washed safely and easily with Pearl that I wouldn't think of using any other."

WHAT DO PEARL SUDS DO?

COAX THE DIRT LOOSE FOR YOU!

There are many reasons why you will prefer Pearl White Naptha. It costs so little for a laundry soap of quality and its pure whiteness and clean, fresh smell will delight you. There's nothing like it to ensure a cleaner, sweeter wash in a shorter time.

"I wondered how I could spare the time for the Club. I'm glad a member told me about Pearl White Naptha. It brought me just the leisure time I needed."

FOUR HARVEY MEN ARRESTED ON ILLEGAL FISHING CHARGE

Said at Nogie's Creek Follows Deputy Warden's Seizure of 10 Muskies.

MARIPOSA WHEAT POOR.

LINDSAY, April 30.—As a result of the seizure of eighty pounds of maskinonge by Deputy Warden Laidlaw, superintendent of the Silver Lake road camp, during the week-end, four residents of Harvey Township, Peterborough County, will appear in the local court this week to answer to the charge of illegal fishing. When the officer swooped down upon the four men, one of them was carrying a bag. In their hurry to get away they dropped the bag. While the officer was chasing two of the men, a member of the party started back to recover the bag of fish. The deputy abandoned the chase and seized the fish—ten in all. He turned them over to Overseer Windsor, who, with Corporal T. J. Woods, R.C.M.P., journeyed to Big Marsh Dam on Nogie's Creek. The four men were identified, and the officers also found three fresh lunge heads buried behind a barn near the property.

Farmers in this section are prosecuting the spring work with vigor. Sowing has practically been completed in some quarters. In Mariposa Township seventy-five per cent. of the sowing is completed, and the farmers are very optimistic. Wheat did not winter so well in certain areas, one farmer in West Ops tearing up thirty-five acres.

As a result of the copious rainfall on Saturday, all danger resulting from the bush fires in Haliburton has been averted. The fire broke out in a ridge between Cranberry Lake and Eagle Lake, and, fanned by a stiff wind, assumed menacing proportions. Everything was as dry as tinder, and the fire eat up the scrub with avidity. Some twenty men from the settlements prevented the blaze from spreading to the timber areas. It is claimed that the fire started as a result of carelessness on the part of an old resident of the district.

It was announced here yesterday that the temperance forces had planned to have a vote on the by-law calling for the abolition of local beverage rooms on June 28. The vote in Bexley Township takes place in a month's time.

At a session of the Police Court yesterday a farm hand from Long Point Balsam Lake, named P. Coppins, appeared before Magistrate Gee on the charge of assaulting a neighbor. The assault took place in a barnyard, and was allegedly preceded by an outburst of bad language. The accused was bound over to keep the peace for one year.

Making Utensils From Waste Stuff

BROOKLYN, N.Y., April 30 (C.P.)—A local store the other day opened an exhibition of boon doggles, objects made from waste materials by children in settlement houses under the supervision of teachers of home-crafts of the recreation department of the works division, Emergency Relief Bureau. The exhibition, which continued all week, included such articles as screens, skis, letter openers, fruit dishers, belts and wall plaques.

CHILD RESCUED FROM CAR AFIRE

Belleville Man Loses Control and Machine Upsets on Hitting Truck.

HYDRANT BROKEN OFF.

BELLEVILLE, April 30.— Little Margaret Vanner, aged 6 Years, was admitted to hospital here last night suffering from serious body burns and severe lacerations to her face and hands, received when her father's car went out of control, struck a parked truck, turned over in the roadway of West Bridge street, and burst into flames.

It is alleged that Margaret caught the steering wheel of the car, causing it to swerve sharply to the right, and sideswipe the truck. Her father, G. W. Vanner, 121 Station street, the driver and the only other occupant, escaped unhurt.

Both were pinned beneath the car when it burst into flames, but by some means unknown to investigating police the father freed himself.

Margaret was rescued from the blazing car when Guy Bradshaw, a service station attendant, rushed to the scene with a fire extinguisher and fought the flames, while other witnesses managed to right the car. She was taken immediately to hospital, where she was attended by Dr. W. C. Morgan.

As a sequel to the accident the residential district in the neighborhood was last night under water. The truck which was in gear, was put in motion by the impact, and crashed into a hydrant at the foot of West Bridge street, breaking it off.

Special invitations are to be sent out by the committee to the Mayor and Corporation; E. A. Peck, K.C., M.P., T. P. Lancaster, M.L.A., Hon. G. N. Gordon, P.C., K.C., His Honor Judge Sheldon L. Smoke, His Worship Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., Warden Russell Hales, Reeves Allan B. Mann, Smith Township, W. A. Anderson, Otonabee Township, Hy Wood, North Monaghan Township, and Frank D. Leahy, Douro Township; Dr. A. Moir, chairman Board of Education; Dr. M. J. Roche, chairman Separate School Board; Gordon S. Matthews, chairman Peterborough Utilities Commission; Fred J. Overend, president Peterborough Chamber of Commerce; Major M. R. Sloan, president Canadian Legion; the presidents of the various Women's organizations; the officers of Peterborough Militia Garrison; Mrs. Joseph Mills, president Ladies' Auxiliary of the Legion; Mrs. R. Harstone, president Red Cross Society; John T. Hornsby, district commissioner Boy Scout Association; Mrs. C. M. Scott, president Local Council of Women; J. F. Reed, president Rotary Club; Ivan T. It is planned that the school children will assemble at their respective schools and march to the park under the supervision of their teachers. The massed choir will include all the church choirs and the Madrigal Singers, while the bands participating will be the Peterborough Rangers, under Lieut. W. Perrier, and the Salvation Army under Bandmaster Routley. The musical program as a whole is in charge of Martin B. Chenhall, A.R.C.O., organist at St. Paul's Church.

Veterans to Parade.

Ex-servicemen will probably parade to the Park, according to Major Sloan, president of the Legion, but definite announcement in this regard will be made upon completion of details.

Seats are to be provided for elderly people, and the co-operation of Boy Scouts is to be sought in helping to assure that the seats are reserved for the purpose intended.

Parts of the Empire broadcast will be picked up and amplified through equipment provided through courtesy of the Canadian General Electric Company, and by special permission of the Northern Electric and Baldwin Companies who hold the exclusive rights.

The Cancer Fund.

Canvas receptacles are to be placed at vantage points in the park for voluntary donations to the King's Jubilee Cancer Fund, and the committee wish it to be clearly understood that no one must feel obligated to give a donation in this manner, as various other channels exist for this admirable and practical thankoffering.

Donations of any amount will be gratefully received for the purpose of turning into The Examiner's appeal for the Cancer Fund, and those making donation of upwards of one dollar will be entitled to a receipt, in order to qualify them for the certificates countersigned by Their Excellencies Lord and Lady Bessborough.

A special platform will be erected in the park for the accommodation of the official guests and speakers, and it will be decorated with flags and bunting. In this regard the committee is making a special appeal to manufacturers, merchants, and the public generally to be lavish in their display of flags in honor of the great occasion to be observed.

Fireworks Display.

Celebrations are to conclude with a beacon fire and also a firework display, in the evening, but as where this part of the program is to be held has not been decided upon. It has been found impracticable to use the McBain property adjacent to Armour Hill, as had been originally hoped.

The firework display is to be contracted for by the committee from the T. W. Hand Fireworks Company, Limited of Toronto at a cost of $50, and will include an opening number, ground display, aerial display, ground display, and finale.

Winnipeg Club Marks 25 Years

WINNIPEG, April 30 (C.P.)—The University's Club has a history of culture and study behind it stretching back 26 years to May 5, 1909, when the Winnipeg club came into existence. The new club will mark its 26th birthday shortly.

The club's first year, 1909-10, with Dr. Mary Crawford as president, had but 12 members; to-day there are, under Dr. Olive Cole, 220. The women represent 35 universities—12 Canadian, 12 American, four English, two Scotch and one each of these—Irish, Welsh, New Zealand, Hungary and France. Statistics compiled for the 25th milestone showed that 625 women had belonged in those years, 396 of whom were still in Winnipeg; 183 took their first degree in Canada, 133 at the University of Manitoba; 34 held two degrees; seven held three and one four.

The proportion of married and singe women is about half and half.

CHEQUE ARTIST IS UNDER ARREST

14 CONVICTIONS.

The city police force is taking credit for having pulled off a neat little coup recently which resulted in the arrest of William Ross Jones, an alleged cheque artist, who is said by police to have fourteen convictions against him for fraud and forgery. Jones is wanted by Toronto city police.

Run to earth in the C.N.R. freight yards last Wednesday afternoon, Jones was arrested while he was in the act of forging a cheque. A box car served him as an improvised writing desk.

Additional to the half completed cheque which he was in the act of "doctoring" when approached, the prisoner had several blank cheques in his possession and also a cheque made out for the sum of $60.35 drawn on the account of the Northern Development, according to Chief Constable Samuel Newhall.

The latter cheque, alleged to be a forgery, was complete even to the Department's rubber stamp on its face.

Held on remand on a vagrancy charge, it is expected that the accused will be handed over to Toronto police when he appears in court here Thursday.

Magistrate's Court

Appearing on remand charged with illegal possession of a revolver, Reginald "Buck" Winch was further remanded for another week on the application of his counsel, the Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., and with consent of the Crown.

Fergus Mongraw, 129 James street, who has entered a plea of "not guilty" to a charge of car theft was committed for trial on the evidence of one witness for the Crown.

Accused was represented by W. J. Arthur Pair.

It was stated by counsel to The Examiner that the accused had formerly been committed to Mimico Industrial School, and that he was transferred from there to a mental hospital. He was stated to have been a victim earlier in life of sleeping sickness.

Medical And Dental Attention Required

A canvas of members attending a recent meeting of United Workers' Front showed that 27 of the 48 persons present needed medical and dental attention. One of the executive suggested that this ratio probably represented the entire body of people who are on relief, including members of their families. A great deal of work could be done by dentists, it was said, if the people had the means to pay for it, and the medical cases were mostly for minor ailments that would normally be attended to.

Finds Architect Is Retiring Man

TORONTO, April 30 (C.P.)—"In spite of his modern opportunities for publicity the architect is a peculiarly retiring animal. He could if he wished inscribe his name in bronze or bronze or stone on his buildings, but he rarely does," said Professor Eric R. Arthur of the University of Toronto in an address.

"In the only case I know a name is engraved on a building devoted to the sale of ladies' corsets," he said. "He supplies the silver trowel and should be on the platform when a foundation stone is laid, but while the contractor will rightly be there and the top hats, the architect, if he is there at all will be on the fringe of the audience.

"It may surprise some of you to know that architects have married into royal houses; that they have been the friends of princes and of popes and that kings and cities have vied to do them honor.

"What strikes one about the great architects of the past, especially of the 17th century was their amazing versatility. Sir Christopher Wren, for example, was professor of astronomy at Oxford when quite unaccountably he became an architect at 40 years of age.

"Claude Perrault, in France, was by training a mathematician and physician and burst into architecture at the age of 52 with a grand design for the Louvre."

CHICAGO BOASTS FEWER MURDERS

Figures Slump 46.2 Per Cent Since 1933—50 Homicdes Since January.

LESS CAR STEALING.

CHICAGO, April 30 (U.P.).—Chicago murder, which once set the pace for the nation's major cities, has slumped 46.2 per cent. since 1933, it appeared last night on the basis of figures prepared by the office of Mayor Edward Kelly.

In the first three months of 1935 Chicago has had but 50 homicides. The quarterly statement for early 1934 showed 73 slayings and murder was at a peak of 93 during the same period in 1933.

Similar declines were registered in such lesser crimes as robbery, burglary and automobile theft. Robbery decreased from a total of 4,780 offences during the first three months of 1934 to 2,885 until March 31 this year. Burglary decreased 18.6 per cent. under 1933 and 15.5 per cent. under 1934. There were 71 per cent. fewer automobiles stolen in the first three months of 1935 than in 1933.

The decline in automobile theft, and of crime in general, was attributed to the relentless activity of State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney, whose campaign against car thieves has been his particular pride.

He also has waged war against gambling through Police Captain Daniel Gilbert, until recently attached to the State's attorney's office. Gilbert has acted with such thoroughness in recent weeks that it is extremely difficult nowadays to find even a "bookie" who will take your bet on the races.

Commanding Officer Honored At Lindsay

LINDSAY, Ont., April 30 (Examiner Correspondent).—Lt.-Col. R. I. Moore, V.D., was guest of honor at a dinner in the Armouries Monday night held by the officers of the Victoria and Haliburton Regiment and members of the Garrison Club to mark the completion of his tenure of office as commanding officer of the regiment.

On behalf of the officers of the regiment and members of the club, Major H. H. Brown V.D., presented Col. Moore with a set of old English silverware, consisting of a tray, cocktail shaker, six goblets, ice tub, drainer and tongs suitably engraved.

Short addresses by several officers and musical selections by the Regimental Band added much to the evening's enjoyment.

BIBLE SOCIETY'S ANNUAL APPEAL IS ON THIS WEEK

Organization Supper is Held in Y.M.C.A. By Society's Canvassers.

POTENT POWER FOR GOOD.

The announcement by the Peterborough branch of the Bible Society that the annual canvass is to begin this week recalls something of the universality of the work which is usually referred to as that of the Bible Society. In 1804 the British and Foreign Bible Society began its labors with the publication of a gospel in the language of the Mohawk Indians. Since then it has circulated the Scriptures in 678 languages and last year distributed eleven million copies. It is had to overestimate the portentious power of such an undertaking. Its activities reach literally to the ends of the earth and for the last ten years it has added to its list of translations one new language every week. In these days when it is becoming increasingly plain that our difficulties do not lie in lack of material wealth but in the relationships between the members of the human family perhaps no greater service could be rendered a somewhat distracted world than to turn the thought of men to the "Book of Books." Certainly no organization could appeal with more justification nor with more confidence to all people of good will. The Bible is the common property of all Christian people and the Bible Society takes no cognizance of difference of creed, but welds together in one organization all who value the Scriptures and desire to share them with all mankind. The existence of a strong and virile branch should be a valuable asset in the spiritual life of the city.

In connection with the annual collection made for the British and Foreign Bible Society a supper for the collectors was held last night at the Y.M.C.A. when some one hundred ladies were present.

The president, R. N. Stuart, presided and gave a digest of the society's work. Reports of the activities of the Peterborough branch were given by G. H. Roper, secretary, who stated that in 1935 over $600.00 was contributed in Peterborough towards the work of the society.

The Rev. J. S. Harrington, secretary of the Bible Society in Toronto addressed the meeting. He referred to the large place the Peterborough branch of the society had occupied in the religious life of the community since the early days of its settlement and gave an extract from an annual report of 1858 when some £64 had been contributed for the society's work and its annual meeting was too large to be conveniently accommodated in any building in the community.

The difficulties of the times constituted the great challenge to the society. The economic and social ills which beset humanity are but the symtoms of a disease which has its roots in the moral and spiritual natures of men. In the face of such conditions the Bible Society seeks to make more readily available than ever the Book which contains the eternal verities of God.

Mr. Harrington thanked the officers of the branch and the collectors for their generous and successful effort and called on all to see in the Bible Society the instrument which Christendom has formed to provide every man the Bible in his language. Never, said the speaker, were men more conscious of their own limitations and more aware of the need of Divine guidance. Such conditions provided for the Bible Society a priceless opportunity for Christian service. During 1935 the parent organization, the British and Foreign Bible Society, circulated eleven million copies of the Scripture in 678 languages. It has become an essential part of all Christian missionary effort and by confining itself to the translation and distribution of the Scriptures only and "without note or comment" it has been enabled to serve every Christian Communion. The annual canvass is to begin at onec and the society would bespeak for the collectors a friendly and generous response.

The official representatives of the society will carry the official canvasser's book in which to record contributions. This will be an assurance to contributors that their contributions are for the work of the organization for which they desire them to go. Contributors of $2 and upwards are made members of the society, and the monthly magazine "the Bible in the World" is sent to them.

IN MEMORIAM
McCAULEY—In loving memory of a dear mother, Mrs. Robt. McCauley, who died two years ago today, April 30, 1933.

A precious one from us is gone,
Her pain and suffering past
And all her work on earth is done,
She is numbered with the blest.
Dear mother she is gone to rest
We miss her from our home,
She is gone to dwell where angels dwell
Where sickness ne'er can come.
Her relations far and near may meet
To spend a social hour
But mother's face will not be there
To meet us any more.

WHAT CAN YOU DO TO HELP--

Make Peterborough More Beautiful?

AS WE take pride in our personal appearances so we should consider our factories, homes and properties. Each year, this week is set aside as a time for concerted action in this regard. The City Council, Chamber of Commerce and Merchants are wholeheartedly behind this and every endeavor to make Peterborough a more beautiful city. Property owners and tenants and citizens generally are asked to co-operate by making any improvements necessary to their homes and adjacent gardens and lawns. Much repainting and alterations have already been noted and others are underway, so let's make next week a week of general activity along this line (not forgetting of course the King's Jubilee Celebration on Monday next).

GIVE SOME MAN A JOB!

LET US hope that the week of May 6th to 11th will see a community-wide effort to give hundreds of self-respecting unemployed men jobs—around the house, cleaning cellars and windows,preparing and planting gardens, etc.

Oh, what a timely opportunity this week should afford us to come to the aid of our less fortunate fellow citizens by giving them much-needed assistance in the shape of a day or two's, or a week's work.

And how fitting to observe in a practical way His Majesty's Silver Jubilee by exercising that spirit of philanthrophy he is ever to the fore in practising himself.

So, why not get together, so to speak—we who are in assured positions—and give a few days' employment here and there, this Clean-up Week, to those fellow citizens for whom these days are "dark days" indeed, with very little, if any silver lining in evidence.

IF YOU HAVE WORK TO GIVE A MAN
PHONE CITY RELIEF OFFICE 933W

MAY WE suggest that a little paint here and there, a well groomed lawn, a few flowers, a tidy back yard or vacant lot, trees and bushes trimmed, etc., etc., will all enter into the scheme of things, and you'll be delighted with the results. Possibly the best advertisers of any community are its visitors. The Park's Board of your City Council has in other years certainly made the various parks throughout the city things of beauty and this year they promise to be better than ever.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

Table cookery has grown in popularity in the servantless house. A whole new set of utensils is required, but if bought one at a time the cost is so divided that little if any strain comes on the purse strings. Also many utensils are inexpensive such as the ordinary toaster, the sandwich toaster, waffle irons, etc., for solid foods; and coffee percolators and pots of similar ilk for beverages.

• • • • • • •

There are small grills, or flat toasters, on which it is possible to boil water and cook a rasher or so of bacon, boil eggs and even pan boil a chop or two, or do a bit of cookery which reminds one of play days, however practical it is. There is an element of interest about table cookery done in the company of others which is partly responsible for its vogue.

• • • • • • •

The success of table cookery depends on attention to time as well as to proper ingredients. While this is true of range cookery also, the heat of a range can be regulated more easily than that of table cooking equipments. The advantage of rapid cooking is appreciated when the family or guests are seated in readiness to partake of the food just as soon as it is done. The person doing the cooking finds quick heating and sustaining of temperature of the appliance is of great advantage.

• • • • • • •

Slow cookery is not for table cooked edibles. It is often wise to start cooking before the persons are called to the table in order to prevent restlessness. It is hampering to feel hungry folk are too eagerly watching and waiting for food to quell the appetites stimulated by the delicious odors from the steaming hot dish.

• • • • • • •

The homemaker does well to serve something while the food is being cooked on the table. Soup for a first course; a hors d'oeuvres dish replete with a variety of appetizing delicacies from which each person makes a selection; canapes at each person's place; crisp celery, olives and radishes, on the table ready to be enjoyed before the hearty food. All these make good first courses.

• • • • • • •

And while whatever is to be eaten first, is being consumed, there should be conversation, light and yet interesting and interspersed with wit. This is important especially when there are guests. When the family is alone and the cooking takes many minutes, not assembling the group until the food is partially ready, as mentioned, is often a good idea. And don't forget to have a first course.

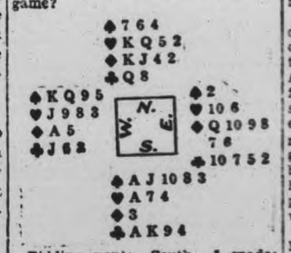
ONLY ONE WENT GAME

Out of eight players sitting South in a recent duplicate game, only one went game at 4 spades doubled by West. In each case the opening lead was the 3 of hearts. Should all have gone game, or did the defence favor the one who went game?



Bidding went: South, 1 spade; North, 2 hearts; South, 3 clubs; North, 3 spades; South, 4 spades; West doubled.

The opening lead of the 3 of hearts was won with dummy's Q. There is no way the declarer can avoid giving West the ace of diamonds and 2 spade tricks. If South can avoid giving West an added trump trick he can go game, but not otherwise. The fortunate player who went game did so by playing as described below.

Dummy's 7 of spades was led. Declarer's 10 lost to the Q, giving the doubler his first trick. Rather than open a new suit West led his 8 of hearts, losing to declarer's ace.

The 4 of clubs was led. Dummy's Q won. The 8 of clubs was led back and South was in with his K. He led his only diamond. West's ace won his second defensive trick. He led the 9 of hearts, losing to dummy's K. The K of diamonds was led. South discarded his 9 of clubs. Dummy's last heart was led and was ruffed by South, removing West's last heart, and making the ninth trick played.

There South had to do a little guessing, and upon the correctness of his surmise depended whether or not he could fulfill his contract. South guessed that West held another club and the K-9-5 of trumps. The ace of clubs was led and held the trick. South still needed two of the three remaining tricks to fulfill his contract.

South led his J of spades and West was in with his K, giving him the third defensive trick, and leaving him in a hole, as he had to lead from the 9-5 of spades, up to South's A-8, giving the declarer his doubled contract of 4-odd.

South played the hand with great skill. He extracted every side exit card from West's hand before leading trumps the second time, so that West could not escape giving South the last two tricks required for game. To execute this end play South had to once shorten his trumps, to reduce them to the same length as West's.

Be Beautiful

By GLADYS GLAD

A famous Hollywood hair stylist, who arranges the tresses of a good many of our cinema luminaries, claims that the beautiful Astrid Allwyn has hair that is really "camera proof." By that expression he means that Astrid's locks are the sort that can be photographed from any angle. And he believes that it's because she is always careful to see that her hair is perfectly arranged. This talented Swedish star has a penchant for trying out new coiffures, and she firmly believes that there's nothing that contributes more to a change in character than a change in coiffure.

Follow Good Example

If you've grown tired of the sameness of your appearance (and what woman doesn't at some time or another?) why not follow Astrid's example and do a bit of experimenting with your hair? Try a new coiffure, and see if it doesn't make you feel like a new woman. You can step out in practically any hair arrangement today, you know, and still be in style. The only thing you must remember is that the hair style you select must be suited to your type. Never select a coiffure style because it looks well on your favorite movie star or your best friend. Select only a style that become you yourself, that provides an attractive frame for your face.

The secret of evolving a becoming hair style lies mostly in playing up your good points, and in hiding your defects. If, for example, you have pretty ears, show them, but if they resemble the handles of a loving cup, keep them well concealed. The whole trick is merely to conceal what isn't pleasing and to reveal what is. Of course every woman may not be able to judge impartially of her own good and bad points, and therefore, if it is possible, it is wise to have a professional's unbiased assistance in experimenting with coiffures. A girl really can do her own experimenting, however. I shall therefore describe, in my next two columns, a number of the new spring hair styles that are not only youthfully attractive, but also easy for the average lass to arrange.

Household Hints

MENU HINT

Cold Roast Beef — Creamed Potatoes
Cabbage Salad — Buttered Carrots
Apple Pie — Tea

This salad is very good to serve with cold meat, as in the menu suggested.

Today's Recipes

Cabbage Salad.—One small head cabbage, chopped fine; one small red pepper, one small green pepper, one large onion, one small bunch celery, one teaspoon mustard seed, one teaspoon celery seed, one cup granulated sugar, one-half teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon pepper. Chop all vegetables fine and mix well with a fork, then cover with a solution of one cup vinegar to one cup water. This is a very delightful and refreshing salad to serve with cold meats.

Apple Pie.—Five apples, one-half cup brown sugar, one-fourth cup butter, one-half cup white sugar, two tablespoons flour, pinch salt, one-half cup water. Peel, core and slice the apples into an unbaked pie shell. Cream the brown sugar and butter together in a skillet and brown evenly on a slow heat. Mix the white sugar, flour and salt together in a small bowl and slowly add the water. Stir this slowly into the hot butterscotch, stirring constantly until the brown sugar lumps are all dissolved. Pour this over the apples, add the top crust. Bake in hot oven 10 minutes at 450 degrees. Reduce the temperature to slow oven, 325, for about 40 to 45 minutes longer.

FACTS AND FANCIES

Dip Faded Dress

If the color and pattern of the house dress have faded until it just looks rather soiled in color, why not buy some of the dye that is on the market that removes the color entirely and leaves the dress a clean white? It may be redipped to any shade desired, and you will feel much more comfortable in it.

Keep 'Em Clean

Dishcloths, towels and scrubbing pads must be kept scrupulously clean, if they are to accomplish the task of getting dishes clean. All three should be thoroughly washed and scalded after each using, and hung in a good drying place to dry.

Scouring pads are bad offenders, if not washed after each using. Particles of grease and food become lodged in their meshes, and they may spread more dirt than they pick up or clean.

Diadems and tiaras of fresh flowers are vogue in Monte Carlo.

"BROADWAY BILL"

This is one of the few pictures—the sort that comes just once in awhile—in which the audience lives through the story, instead of just watching it. You can't help it. Broadway Bill—it's a horse—grips you from the first to the last moment, even with one little sequence that seems rather in the way of an anti-climax, the bit where a regal funeral is tendered the favorite.

Broadway Bill is a racer who comes from away up north away down to the blue-grass country to try his luck in the Imperial Derby. And back of him is a story that unfolds itself in swift scenes, the story of a man, Dan Brooks (Warner Baxter), who has married into a rich family and finds the shackles galling. He can't manage a paper-box fctory in a way that will please his father-in-law, old "J.L." (Emperor) Higgins, founder of Higginsville and its many industries.

So Dan chucks the entangling alliances, defies old "J.L." (Walter Connolly), leaves his beautiful wife (Helen Vinson), and departs with Whitey, his coal-black negro hostler, and Broadway Bill. He is broke, and money is needed to enter the Derby. Just how he gets it, how his wife's younger sister, Alice (Myrna Loy), helps him, and how the race is run, makes up the total of an exciting picture packed with real thrills, and one that gives the lowdown on the reverse side of the great sport of racing. Here is a crowd of crooked speculators, fixing Broadway Bill and his chief rival, the English entry, Gallant Lady; here are the race-track touts and the bookies and the stable scenes. And here is Skeeters, the rooster that makes Broadway Bill's mascot and goes wherever he goes. To see the blaze-faced horse with his queer chum settled on top of his gallant head is to see two of the main actors in a picture that has something of everything; exciting episodes, romance, danger, tragedy and courage.

It's a great picture, one of the few that sustains the interest right to the last interesting minute.

—Jeanette.

1 I've always been careful about the soap I use. So when my beauty expert recommended Palmolive for my skin, I wanted to know why Palmolive. Wouldn't another soap be as good? This is what he told me.

2 Over 20,000 beauty experts recommend Palmolive because it's pure, safe and gentle. It is made from a secret blend of olive and palm oils, famous for their mild cleansing action. Its only colouring matter is the natural green of olive oil.

Greenburg Idolized By Jews

Cochrane Reaps 'Cream of Gate Receipts' Once Sought By McGraw.

DIZZY PULLS FAUX PAS.

IN AN EFFORT to capitalize on the large Jewish population in New York, John J. McGraw had a standing offer of $50,000 for any Hebraic ball player who could make the grade with the Giants. He spent thousands in a futile search, but he was looking too far afield. While disheartened by one failure after another, the greatest Jewish ball slinger of all time, Hank Greenberg, was playing almost in the shadow of the Polo Grounds. But the Giants and also the Yankees overlooked him until it was too late. Detroit signed him with the lure of $9,500 bonus in 1930.

Greenberg definitely earned the accolade of "greatest Jewish ballplayer" last year when he ranged third in the American League as a slugger by hitting for 356 total bases and third in runs batted in with 139. Every interesting factor in Greenberg's brief baseball career, whether high point or low, is directly traceable to his close association with his fellow Jews, who have idolized him. The most dramatic moment of his life occurred last Fall on the Jewish festival Rosh Hashana. He was smitten between religious conscience and loyalty to his baseball team.

THE TIGER infield had not missed a day and the team was in the stretch drive for the pennant as Rosh Hashana on September 10 approached. It is a sacred day to the Jews, who must not work on that day. Rabbis advanced to argue that baseball was work, but loyalty to his ball club finally prevailed and Green berg played. In fact, he reached the heights of baseball heroism by cracking out two homers to defeat Boston, 2 to 1. However, the criticism of Jews from all over the country was so severe that Greenberg didn't play on Yom Kippur, a week later.

Greenberg always strains to the utmost to reward the adulation of his fellow Jews and invariably falls in those instances. In New York he is rated the "world's worst player" by his mates. He wants to knock every ball into the bleachers and over-presses. His failure to star in the world's series also is attributed to the fact that he was so eager to shine before his family and friends who attended. "Dizzy" Dean was able to make him look particularly bad. Soon after the series "Dizzy" Dean appeared in a New York vaudeville house and, with his usual arrogant manner, stepped to the front of the platform and yelled: "If Hank Greenberg's in the house have him come up here and I'll strike him out again." But instead of the guffaws Dean expected, his words were answered by a deathly silence. The house was filled with Jews. Their loyalty to one of their own heroes would not condone a slur delivered even in jest.

Tommy Bridges on Tiger Mound Keeps Seven Hits Well Scattered.

GOMEZ AGAIN 'TOPS.'

A three-game American League program was marked by two shut outs with Vernon (Lefty) Gomez of New York Yankees and Tommy Bridges of the champion Detroit Tigers in the starring roles. Bridges kept seven hits well spaced as Detroit, showing rather convincing evidence of a return to last year's form, hammered out an 18-0 triumph over St. Louis Browns. The Tigers got only four hits off Buck Newsom in the first seven frames but made them good for six runs, then laced Jimmy Walkup and Bob Weiland for 12 more in the last two innings, nine of them in the eighth.

Gomez, returning to the firing line after a siege of grippe, held Washington Senators to four hits as the Yankees won 2-0. Philadelphia Athletics' 11th defeat in 12 starts was a 10-8 beating by Boston Red Sox in 11 innings.

TORONTO WINS DOMINION TITLE

Broadview Quintet Beats St. John Intermediates 30-21 in Second Game.

ROUND SCORE 54-31.

SAINT JOHN, N.B., April 30. (CP)—Toronto Broadview Y.M.C.A. flashed top form and won the Canadian intermediate basketball title when they defeated Saint John Basketball Association intermediates, 30-21, last night in the second of a two-game total series for the Dominion championship. With a 24-10 victory to their credit in the first match played Saturday night, Broadview's win last night gave them the round, 54-31.

Cautious Start

Play went back and forth from the opening face-off as both teams started cautiously, and Toronto produced the opening basket when Breadon flipped the ball through the hoop from close in after taking a pass from Breathett on the foul line.

Tommy Corbett, husky Saint John forward, tied the score on a long shot little more than one minute later, but Martin put Broadview into the lead again when he scored from the face-off.

Speedy attacks by Martin, Breadon and Samme netted Toronto 17 points in the next seven minutes of play, while Saint John tried vainly to break up the scoring rushes. Two of Broadview's point were made by Martin on penalty shots.

Slight George Turner, Saint John forward, counted a penalty shot, and Tommy Corbett scored a long one just before the bell ended the first session. Saint John saw their title hopes disappearing as they repaired to the dressing-room on the short end of the 17-5 count.

BLUE RIBBONS OF VICTORIA GAIN HONORS

Coast Team Victorious Over Assumption College in Last of Series.

FINAL SCORE 39-37.

VICTORIA, April 30. (CP).—Blue ribbons of Victoria to-day held the Dominion men's senior amateur basketball title for the second time in three years—a title they won by a slim two-point margin over a courageous Assumption College quintet from Windsor, Ont.

The two teams, champions of the east and the west, came to the end of the 1935 hoop trail here last night in the fourth of the best of five game series and when the final whistle had blown the ribbons were victors by a 39-37 count.

But for a lightning fast Windsor pass that went awry in the last 10 seconds of play history might have been repeated with the teams going into overtime as Ribbons did against another Windsor crew in 1933, the first time the Victorians won the title.

Underdogs after the first four minutes of the opening quarter, when Ribbons took the lead, and trailing at times by as much as 11 points, the Assumptionites fought grimly and a half dozen times in the first three quarters cut down the Victoria lead.

In the final quarter the six-foot Willie 'Moose' Rogin, ace scorer of the visitors, started an individual rally that just fell short of putting his team on an even footing with Ribbons.

JAVELIN CHAMPION PLANNING OLYMPIC DECATHLON ENTRY

Bob Dixon, Vancouver, Training for Variety of Competitions in 1936

By F. A. ROBERTS
(Central Press Canadian Correspondent).

VANCOUVER, April 30.—Clear the way for Bob Dixon, Canadian husky who won the British Empire games javelin title and intends to add several other titles to it this year.

Bob has his eye on the Olympic games decathlon—the toughest of the mall—and is already in training for 1936. He hopes to take in a number of eastern meets this year, including the American championships, which will give him enough experience to reach the peak in Berlin in a year's time.

Dixon is working out every day here in Vancouver, practising shot-put, javelin, high jump and hurdles as well as sprints and middle distances events. He is a former lacrosse and soccer star and is still fast on his feet, though he hasn't got down to serious training in the track events yet.

The decathlon — in which Bob hopes to make a name—includes 10 events: 100 metres dash, 400 metres and 1,500 metres run, javelin, shot-put, discus, high jump, broad jump, pole vault and 110 metres high hurdles. He'll be ready for them all by the time the Canadian track and field championships roll round at Winnipeg in August.

Bob is already doing nearly 200 feet in the javelin—slightly more than the mark of 196.11, with which he won the Empire title. He puts the 16-pound shot 42 feet and expects to add several more before midsummer, and he does five feet six inches in the indoor high jump. He believes that now he is getting outside for training he will be able to clear several inches more.

A member of the Vancouver Athletic club, the organization which claims two Olympic champions, Percy Williams, the double sprint titleholder of 1928, and Dunc McNaughton, the high jump winner of 1932, Bob is plugging along on his own and only needs competition to push him along to near-record performances. For that reason he is planning a trip east this summer, even if he has to walk there, he says.

ALBANY DROPS GAME ADVANTAGE AFTER EIGHT-RUN LEAD IN FIRST

Five Senator Hurlers Fail to Hold Rochester Onslaught and Red Wings Win 15-14—Leafs Find Three Newark Hurlers Easy For 10-4 Triumph.

(By the Associated Press)

Albany Senators, figured at the start of the International League season to be a strong contender for the pennant, have shown their expected slugging power but to date the pitchers have failed to come through. Jimmy Caruthers has been the only member of the mound staff to go the route and he broke even in the two games in which he worked the entire nine innings.

Yesterday the Senators drove three Rochester pitchers from the box in the first inning with a savage attack that netted 10 runs. Yet five hurlers, including Ed Chapman, Milburn Shoffner, Ray Prim, Manager Al Maumaux and Phil Hensick, were unable to hold the advantage, the Red Wings finally winning out in the 10th 15-14 after knotting the count in the ninth.

Chiefs Blank Royals

In contrast to the Rochester-Albany slugfest, Hy Vandenburg held Montreal Royals to four hits as Syracuse Chiefs took a 5-0 decision. Ben Tate, Montreal catcher, got three of his team's hits but Vandenburg, who fanned six and walked five, was invincible with men on bases.

After the Orioles had counted twice in the ninth to tie the score, Buffalo Bisons went on a home run spree in the 11th and with Frank McGowan connecting for four bases and Ollie Carnegie driving out his second circuit blow of the game defeated Baltimore 7-4. The Orioles' home run bats were almost silenced by Kenneth Ash, Woody Abernathy belting the lone Baltimore homer.

Easy Win For Leafs

Toronto Maple Leafs found three Newark hurlers easy as they collected 13 hits, including a home run by Cal Chapman, off three Newark hurlers to defeat the league leading Bears 10-4.

Headaches Aplenty In Game

Would-be Promoter From Pickle Business Generally Due For Fall.

"DRIVE YA NUTS."

NEW YORK, April 30.—"When you wrote the other day that boxing is a very funny business, you told the truth," Jimmy Johnston said. "Only, you don't know just how funny it is. You have to be in it for a while to know the complete answer. Ask some of the big business men who have been in it. You know, every once in a while some big business man sees a huge crowd at a fight, and he thinks that boxing must be a gold mine, so he either chucks his business altogether or turns it over to somebody else to run for him and plunges into boxing. He looks over the organization with which he has become identified, and the first thing he decides is that it is being conducted wrong. So he puts it on a nice, business-like basis, just like his pickle works, or jam factory, or whatever it is at which he has made all his money.

"'Now,' he says, 'I will show these mugs who have been trying to run boxing all their lives just how it should be done.'

"Those are the last coherent words he utters for a long time. First he discovers that he can't keep regular office hours, because fight managers and promoters go to bed when most people are getting up and do most of their business between four in the afternoon and three the next morning. Next, he discovers that verbal agreements do not mean anything and that half the fellows who sign contracts with him immediately run to their lawyers to find out how to break the contracts. He listens every day to the most outlandish stories that are told to him in a belief that he will fall for them, and the chances are that after a while he will get so bewildered he will fall for them. Worse, he starts to tell them himself—and, still worse, he apparently believes them.

One Tough Racket.

"He takes a likely looking young fighter and starts to build him up for a championship fight, and either one of two things happens: Just when he has him nicely built up, the guy gets knocked out, or he goes on to win the championship. If he wins the championship, he regards it as something that belongs to him, and if the promoter asks him to defend it, he gets mad.

"After a while our business man sits down and takes stock of himself. He finds that he has lost all his money and all his friends and is accused on all sides of being an enemy to boxing. Usually, that's when he steps out and devotes the rest of his life to trying to revive the business he had abandoned or neglected, leaving boxing to the mugs who grew up in it.

"As for myself, I have had many a headache in this business—and many a laugh. If I didn't have a sense of humor, I would be nuts. At that, there is many a guy in this town who claims that I am."

Success—or Failure.

Managing a fighter frequently is an exciting career. It also may be precarious. In the case of a heavyweight, a single match may mean success—or dismal failure.

Two recent incidents give point to this observation. Charlie Harvey had brought Steve Hamas along to a spot where, with victories over Max Schmeling and Art Lasky to his credit, he was first in line for a crack at Max Baer. For a long while Harvey steered a careful course, rejecting many offers to have Hamas meet lesser opponents because he feared something might go amiss that would cause him to blow the Baer match. At last, angered by both Johnston and Ancil Hoffman, he took Hamas overseas to fight Schmeling, with the result that Steve not only was blasted out of the Number 1 position but received such a terrific beating that he never may be the same again.

Nearer home, Joe Gould fairly begged for a chance to toss James J. Braddock in with Lasky, because he figured that Lasky, a converted southpaw and a left-hooker, was made to order for Braddock. Braddock won the fight and promptly was designated by the Boxing Commission as the man Baer must meet.

A few years ago Sammy Mandell won the lightweight championship. His several managers decided that the way to make a fortune was to keep him clear of the dangerous contenders and get the money in small takes, meeting town clowns through the sticks. So many of the town clowns beat him that they took all the fight out of him, and he made very little money. Finally, he was matched with Al Singer, and Singer knocked him out in a round.

Hymie Caplin, who managed Singer, thought to profit by the mistakes of Mandell's managers. The way to make a fortune, he decided was to match his champion with the best of the contenders. So he matched him with Tony Canzoneri, and Canzoneri knocked him out in a round.

The Rule Still Works Too Often.

Down through the years, there have been some notable exceptions to the rule that prize fighters must die broke. Still, it is a pretty sound rule, as many hapless fighters who have tried to beat it can tell you.

Even before the stock market crashed, carrying with it the apparently secure investments of sundry fighting men, many who had figured out a presumably safe way to guard their money saw it vanish.

Once there was a champion who said:

"I will not throw my money away on dames and liquor, nor will I get married, because how am I to know my wife will not take my money from me? I have just got a tip that the railroad that runs through my town is going to build a spur, so I will buy up property along the route of the spur and make a million dollars."

He put every dollar he had into the property—but the railroad built the spur in the opposite direction, and he spent the rest of his years in the ring in a futile effort to make enough money to hold on to the property he had bought.

Another fighter, who missed a title but made a fortune, would neither spend nor invest his money, but it where it would be really safe. So he gave it to his mother to keep for him. When he had quit fighting, he went to his mother and asked her for the money, but she laughed at him, and his brothers threw him out of the house.

FIRST "RIOT" OF THE YEAR CHICAGO GAME

Fist Fight Results in Banishment of Four Players—Six Circuit Blows.

CARDS TRIUMPH 7-2.

By Herbert W. Barker
(Associated Press Sports Writer).

Shorter baseball tempers, coinciding with rising mercury in the thermometers, can be credited with an assist on the major leagues' first full-grown "riot" of the year.

The wildest game of the young season, Chicago Cubs' 12-11 victory over Pittsburgh Pirates, provided the setting for yesterday's donnybrook in which 'Mississippi Guy' Bush, a former Cub, played the leading fisticuffing role.

The trouble all started in the fifth inning when Harry Lavagetto, young Pirate infielder, doubled to score Manager Pie Traynor with the run that gave the Corsairs a 6-2 lead. As Lavagetto slid into second, he got himself tangled up in Bill Jurges' spikes. He leaped to his feet with fists flying.

That brought on a small-sized battle-royal. Players from both teams surged onto the playing field. In the forefront was Bush, now wearing a Pirate uniform. After a short verbal exchange with Roy Jointer, Cub pitcher, Bush rushed his man and floored him with a couple of rights. Jointer wound up with a bloody nose and a six-inch scratch on the left side of his jaw. Jurges, Jointer, Lavagetto and Bush all were banished.

All this apparently aroused the Cubs from their lethargy, for in the eighth they sent 14 men to bat against Waite Hoyte, Johnny Salveson and Bill Swift and scored 10 runs, for a 12-9 lead. The Pirates came back with two runs in the ninth, but Traynor fanned with the tying and winning runs on base to end the game. The contest, marked by six home runs and a parade of 19 pitchers, lasted two hours and 41 minutes.

The National League program otherwise was quiet with Paul Dean pitching six-hit ball to give St. Louis Cardinals a 7-2 victory over Cincinnati Reds and Boston Braves handing the Phillies their eighth successive defeat, 7-5.

DOLLAR WAGER FOR WINDSOR

New Wagering Form Will Start at Kenilworth Track on July 8th.

ALSO AT LONDON

Announcement of the introduction of individual dollar wagering at the seven day race meeting the Orpen interests is staging at Queen's Park in London, starting July 20, has been received with such acclaim by turf enthusiasts that it has been decided to adopt the same wager at Kenilworth Park in Windsor, where the regular seven-day session gets under way on July 8. So that it will really be the latter track that will be the scene of the first individual dollar wagering experiment.

The Kenilworth racing will be the first sport in that sector this season and will follow immediately after the Detroit meeting which has been cut in half this year. Nearly all the horses participating in the racing across the river will be brought over for the border city sport which, as a result, should be unusually good this year.

Curtailment of the Detroit racing will give the Windsor sport a chance of getting back into its own. Kenilworth especially holds out a great appeal to turf enthusiasts who can still remember that memorable day on which the great Man O' War beat Sir Barton in a match race, the attractiveness and importance of which was only visualized by A. M. Orpen.

SON LIKE FATHER STARS IN TENNIS

Game Was Born in Laird Watt, One Canadian Seeking Honors Overseas.

Following is the first of a Canadian Press series of 12 sketches of Canadian tennis and golf players who will compete in English and Scottish tornaments this season.

MONTREAL, April 30 (C.P.).—A six-foot, easy-going youngster who loves to practice tennis almost as much as he likes to play competitively, Laird Watt has reached the point where tennis authorities believe he either will go rapidly ahead or stay just where he is. He will either become an international star or remain merely a good player.

The 22-year-old Montreal youth and Bobby Murray, also of Montreal, make up the male section of a Canadian tennis brigade that goes to Great Britain this season for experience and seasoning. The other half is made up of Caroline Deacon and Eleanor Young of Vancouver, the country's ranking women players.

The tour will be of particular importance for Watt, junior member of the 1934 Davis Cup team. He is ranked fifth in Canada and second in Quebec. But 1934 wasn't his big year. The previous season he won the Canadian intercollegiate championship and the Quebec singles. He hasn't progressed as rapidly as was promised by his early form.

Watt was born here on May 21, 1913, and learned the game from his father, R. W. Watt, and Ted Green professional at the Mount Royal Club. Laird and his father have become the best father-and-son doubles team on the continent. They won the United States father-and-son title in 1933 and again in 1934.

Laird showed early promise in junior tournaments and in 1932 sauntered into the limelight by winning the Ontario singles title. The next year he defeated Marcel Rainville, French-Canadian ace, in the Quebec final. He showed on these occasions that he possessed more than a sound game, more than natural speed and moderately good control. He showed a good fighting heart.

It's the fighting spirit in Watt that needs arousing, in the opinion of many observers. He seems to have everything else that is required. He doesn't stroke as flat as Murray, but he has good pace. His ground strokes are sound and at the net he is dangerous because of his height.

A weakness has been his service which he hopes to improve on the tour of English and Scottish tournaments. Perhaps more than those of most Canadian players, Watt's game is well suited to grass-court play, in which he will be called on to play at Wimbledon and in other events overseas.

After making a place on the Davis Cup team last spring, Laird lost to Murray in the finals of the Quebec championship, but paired with Bobby to win the doubles. He lost to Walter Martin in the semi-finals of the Ontario event and was eliminated in the quarter-finals of the Canadian by Phil Castlen of University of Southern California.

Bill Carey Is Head 20th Century Club

NEW YORK, April 30.—(AP).—William P. Carey, former president of Madison Square Garden, yesterday accepted the presidency of the 20th Century Sporting Club, the Garden's foremost rival in the promotion of outdoor boxing here.

In circles close to the situation, the move was considered a direct step toward Carey's return to power in the Garden, where he resigned a year ago and was replaced by Col. John R. Kilpatrick. As head of the 20th Century Club, Carey is expected to arrange a deal whereby the club, formed by Mike Jacobs, former associate of Tex Rickard, will lease the Garden for boxing shows during the winter.

The 20th Century Club has both New York ball parks under long term lease, but has no indoor arena. Carey will take charge immediately of promotion of the Barney Ross-Jimmy McLarnin welterweight title match May 29 at the Polo Grounds, and the Joe Louis-Primo Carnera heavyweight battle at the stadium June 25.

DEAN EQUAL TO MATHEWSON? NOT AS YET, OPINES RUNYON

Matty Was Super-Pitcher Over Ten Year Stretch — Dizzy Still Comparative Novice—Christy Less Colorful—Had Blinding Speed, Bewildering Curves.

By DAMON RUNYON
(Copyright, 1935)
By Central Press Canadian

WASHINGTON, April 30. — This writer has been asked how he compares Jerome "Dizzy" Dean with Christy Mathewson, the usual choice of most baseball veterans as the all-time greatest pitchers of the game.

Mathewson

It is very difficult to make this comparison now. The question should be asked about seven years hence. Dizzy Dean has been in the big league three years. Mathewson—Mathewson the Mighty—was a tremendous pitcher over a stretch of at least ten years, through all of which he was the spearhead of the big town assault against some of the roughest, toughest baseball competition in history. He was in the National League a total of 17 years.

He was a "money pitcher" whose like has never been seen since, a "money pitcher" being a pitcher who can pitch in the crucial spots.

Another thing that makes a comparison between Dean and Mathewson difficult is that the baseball conditions under which Mathewson—called "Big Six" worked were different than they are to-day—far different.

Had Superb Control

The way Mathewson pitched in his baseball youth would have sufficed to-day, all right, because he had blinding speed and amazing curves, and he would have got by an sheer "stuff."

But as he worked in his heydey, when he was the monarch of the mound, he would have had a tough time surviving present conditions. He let the batters hit the ball, paying no attention to the hits registered against him, and 'bearing down' only when it became absolutely necessary. He gave his support plenty of work.

He had such astounding control that he rarely hit a batsman with a pitched ball, and they were not afraid to stand up there and swing against him. Nowadays when almost every other swing may mean a home run, that style would have been no good. A pitcher to-day has to keep "bearing down," has to be warier of letting the batter hit than in Mathewson's time, and possibly Matty would not have lasted as long as he did.

Base-Runners Good

However, in Mathewson's day, they had great base runners, and more science in the game, and a pitcher had to know more about pitching than just turning on his 'stuff' so perhaps the different conditions even up.

Matheson was a Bucknell collegian, and a man of some culture. He was more intelligent than Dean. He had none of Dean's amazing picturesqueness and color, none of his braggadocia, none of his love for the mob. Mathewson was a shy, retiring chap, who would have shuddered at saying, or doing, the things that the redoubtable Dean delights in.

Crowds rather annoyed Mathewson. He was cold, and distant. To know him was to marvel that he was the baseball idol of the New York crowds. It was his great ability out there on the mound that won him their admiration, not his personality. His "color" was his work. He was a superb artist dealing with the opposing batsmen.

He was a big, loose-jointed, knock-kneed blond fellow with a shambling gait. In the flower of his pitching career he had such endurance that it seemed incredible that he could die of tuberculosis.

Press Boosted Him

Mush of his fame was due, of course, to the fact that he was the star of the big town giants in the days when the fiery McGraw bestrode the baseball land, a sort of hammered down, pudgy colossus.

Press Boosted Him

Much of his fame was due, of course, to the fact that he was the star of the big town giants in the days when the fiery McGraw bestrode the baseball land, a sort of hammered down pudgy, colossus.

Another pitcher back down the years, gifted with almost superhuman ability, had the misfortune to perform his most astounding feat beyond the glare of the limelight, and you never heard as much of him as you did of Mathewson in those days, though in sheer pitching power he was undoubtedly Mathewson's superior.

That was Walter Johnson, "The Jay Hawker Cyclone."

There were more newspapers in New York in Mathewson's time than there are to-day, and they gave more attention to baseball.

Dizzy Dean

Never less than ten writers and often more, were with McGraw's club sounding tom-toms on Mathewson. Small wonder that the world heard of him.

But he could pitch! Wait until Dizzy Dean has won 30 or more games for the consecutive seasons; wait until he has shut out a team three times hand running in a world series; wait until he has struck out 2,399 batsmen, and then come around and ask how he compares with Mathewson.

It is a curious feature of Mathewson's record that he was only twice pitching champion of his league, and they were among his most ordinary pitching years. He divided the honor with Camnitz of Pittsburgh in 1909 with 25 won and 6 lost, and stood alone in 1910 with 27 won and 9 lost.

He must have been taking it easy those years.

GOLF FACTS NOT THEORIES!
By ALEX J. MORRISON

Number 399

Some courses have a local rule asking players on the green on short holes to allow those playing from behind to shoot for the green. While playing such a hole recently I was invited to play while a foursome was on the green. I refused.

I didn't want to run the risk of hitting someone with a ball. I know the damage done in such event. I was severely criticized by others in my party. They insisted that I was not living up to the rules.

Under the circumstances it was the foursome on the green at fault. They should have stepped aside, clearing the green for me. Instead they lined up in front of the pin like a jury. They not only endangered their lives but also ignored the first rule of golf, which is to be courteous.

Where this rule about short holes is in effect, the players on the green should stand aside while those on the tee are shooting, then go ahead and putt out.

Pardon My Rudeness

NEW GLASGOW, N.S., April 30 (C.P.)—The newest tale of chivalry in the gladiatorial arena comes across the pond from England. Foster Dickson and Joie Beaton insist it's true. After an English hockey player has checked an opponent to the ice and taken the puck from him, he turns back and apologizes to the fallen foe. They are just back from a season on British ice.

SPORTS DAY BY DAY

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

(By C. J. P.)

Lots of meetings around town getting sports organized for the summer. Two of them tonight and one tomorrow. City Baseball League goes into a huddle at seven bells this eve in Duffus' and all interested should be on deck. At eight o'clock tonight in the Chamber of Commerce, the Tri-County Lacrosse League has a session, an open one. And tomorrow p.m. at 7.30, Men's City Softball League holds an open meeting in Duffus'. Officers, team representatives and others interested are invited to any one of these gabfests.

• • • • • • •

No senior practice last night because of rain. If the weather is oke, the boys will hop to it at 5.30 or thereabouts this twilight and nightly from now on. While several of the positions on the squad are practically assured, there are still several open to competition. And anyone wanting a tryout will be welcomed. Knotty Lee expects to tackle the daily drills hard as the weather is all right and the players should be receiving stiff workouts from the first of May on in order to be in the pink for the opening of the schedule. Excess players will be lopped off in a week or so.

• • • • • • •

The proposed series with Smith's Falls has fallen through owing to mistaken identity. Seems the Eastern Ontario team thought the locals were Santa Claus and May 6th was Christmas eve in the Falls! In other words, they believe in a give-and-take guarantee, us giving and them taking. So, arrangements have now been made to have Toronto Valleyviews of the Ulster Stadium League play the Petes—or Johnson Motors—a double-header here Monday, May 6th. It will be in the Exhibition Grounds as Riverside Park won't be ready for over a week yet. Maybe a morning and an afternoon game, or two tilts in the afternoon. More again.

• • • • • • •

Dark days have come to the E.P.L. baseballers. They had a meeting last night with Prexy Bill Prindible, the press and two teams' representatives on hand—C.G.E. and Fosters. As these teams can't make up a league themselves and as they are thinking of going in the Lakeshore Loop at the Port Hope meeting Thursday, it was decided to do nothing for a week or so. If Marmora—which had been inquiring—or Cogs or Raybestos or any other outfit is interested along with C.G.E. and Fosters, a four-team E.P.L. could be run here again. If any show interest within the next week, another meeting will be called. Otherwise, 'tis adieu and not au revoir.

• • • • • • •

C.G.E. and Fosters both said they would prefer a local loop but certainly not a two-team one. They'd talk business to a Marmora entry and another city squad. It's a pity if a flock of intermediates have to miss out on their game here this summer for lack of sponsors. The seniors will be dropping some fine material this year, and look at that championship Cogs team of last season. There are City Loop boys coming up and seniors going back—and little or no intermediate ball to absorb these. It's tough on the game here, on the players and on the southend fans. Well, if the E.P.L. flops, probably one or two local outfits will get into the Lakeshore Loop. We understand Raybestos have decided against it.

• • • • • • •

Any kindhearted party who would like to help the boys in some of the road camps to the north of here with softball equipment—bats and balls—will earn their gratitude Three camps near Apsley Nos. 2, 3 and 4, one at Bennett's Landing and one at Nogie's Creek, hope to have some games in their spare time, a sort of progressive tourney, travelling to each camp in turn. But they're shy on equipment and would like to get some donated. These camps include a big gang of young fellows and they need some sort of sport as relaxation. Just get in touch with us if you have a few bats or balls to give away. Boxing gloves would be more than acceptable, also.

Peterborough Tennis Club holds its annual meeting at eight next Tuesday evening in the Clubhouse and all members and prospective members are invited. This club should be larger and stronger than ever this year with many new members coming in, including Bill McGee, formerly of Tweed, and a star racquet-wielder. The courts are in excellent shape and play on them will start tomorrow and continue merrily from then on. Possibly a tournament will be arranged for May 24th.

First half of the Church Softball League schedule is published today. There are 26 teams in this big circuit and it opens tomorrow eve. Mark St. and St. Paul's juveniles start it off at six in Queen Mary School grounds with Park St. and St. John's bantams also playing there tomorrow. Thursday night sees Murray St. and Knox seniors clashing at King Edward Park and St. James and Trinity juniors mixing it at Queen Mary. Unless the weather interferes, the opening fixtures Wednesday will be marked with time-honored ceremonies by prominent officials.

Hither and yawn: Fashion-Crafts are slated to practise tonight at six in Central with all players welcome . . . . Notices to catch this column should be phoned in between nine and ten in the morning . . . . We like the proposal to sock each entry into the Tri-County Lacrosse League five berries as entry fee, dough to be returned if the schedule is completed . . . . Barrie junior "B" puck champs were presented with gold medals at a father-and-son banquet last eve . . . . While Oshawa Majors pulled down gold watches for their efforts the past winter . . . . It isn't raining rain; no, it's raining violets!

Packers vs. Brinton Monday Afternoon

C. G. E. Have Not Organized —Deloro and Lindsay Not Replied.

In spite of the inclemency of the weather last night, a large number of soccer fans and a full executive turned out to the meeting of the Peterborough and District Football Association, with President Ben McMaster in the chair, and Thomas Westwood, secretary.

A. Siddall, 281 Braidwood Avenue, was appointed official secretary in place of T. Westwood, who has decided to take an active part in the game.

Opening Game May 6.

The draw announced that the opposition to the Brinton Athletic on the opening day, Monday, May 6, would be the Canada Packers. Kick-off is arranged for 2.30, with Asa Downer acting as official referee. Linesmen will be appointed by the club. It is expected that the Packers will be attired in white sweaters and black pants, while Brinton have decided upon a maroon sweater. The C.C.F. colors are sage blue, with monogram on the right side.

No Definite Decision.

Time and again, the Canadian General representative has called special meetings in an endeavor to organize a soccer executive for the current season, but no active members have come forward to transact the business, thereby withholding a definite decision until next week.

Lindsay is endeavoring to organize for the season and has selected another date to give players in that vicinity an opportunity to get together.

All players' forms for the Monday game must be in the hands of the secretary not later than Saturday evening.

C. C. F. vs. Kingston

Word was received in the city this morning that the Peterborough C.C.F. Football Club is drawn to meet Kingston in the Ontario inter-city competitions, the game to be played at Kingston on July 1. This is only one of the many attractive games the local club are expecting to take part in this season, both at home and away, with a view to stimulating new interest in the game locally.

Official Church Softball Schedules

With the closing of entries, the Church Softball League has 26 teams. Last night's opener was rained out but it will be played Wednesday at six at Queen Mary School with the same teams and the same officials acting in the opening ceremony. Following a three-hour session last evening, the executive committee checked all entries, classified them and drew up the first half of the schedule. Limited time and playing grounds had to be considered to the best advantage, and the league co-operated with the Southend League's schedule as much as possible.

Home games could not be arranged to everyone's satisfaction. St. James and Park St. bantams, St. James' juveniles and juniors, and Knox, Trinity, Murray St. and St. Paul seniors use King Edward Park; Mark St., St. Luke's and George St. juveniles, George St. juniors and Mark St. and George St. seniors use Nicholls Oval. The other 12 teams use the two diamonds at Queen Mary School. Teams not having an even number of home games in the first half will have the matter equalised in the second half. A team may use one City League player till that league starts but—like other players — he must advance when he plays two games this year in the City League.

Players are requested to clip this first-half schedule and teams are reminded that list of players and entry fee must be given to the executive before playing. Following is the first-half schedule:

Ottawa Club Should Return To Big Time

OTTAWA, April 30 (C.P.).—The Ottawa Journal to-day published a letter from Tommy Gorman, manager of the Montreal Maroons, to Walter Gilhooly, its sports editor suggesting 'dyed-in-the-wool' sports men in Ottawa form a syndicate to buy the St. Louis Eagles from Frank Ahearn and his associates and bring Ottawa back into the National Hockey League fold.

Gorman added: "I would advocate the appointment of some high-class hockey man like Frank Nighbor or Dave Gill as general manager, with George Boucher or Eddie Gerard as coach and the purchase of Frank Boucher to generate the team on the ice."

GYPSY GIRL

THE STORY OF AN IMPASSIONED ROMANCE

By McDONALD FEADER

PICTORIAL

READ THIS FIRST:

Consuelo, a beautiful gypsy girl who longs to dance, is loved by the Dummy, a deaf mute, and Marcu. She despises her mother, Anica, but is fond of her father, Girtza. Marcu temps Consuelo with a huge diamond and she agrees to marry him until she suspcts her gypsy sweetheart has tricked her about the ring's value. In town she sees three men playing cards near a private car on a railroad siding. She dances for them.

(NOW GO ON WITH STORY)

CHAPTER 14

The blase gentlemen from New York who had seen the world's best dancers leaned forward.

Ah, why was it that when she danced people seemed to hold their breath and forget the world about them? Did her feet beat out from the ground magic that drugged them, or was it that because she danced on the heights she lifted them up with her?

The end.

Silence.

"Gypsy girl, you're wonderful," Stewart said and the other joined with him.

Consuelo brushed the perspiration from her forhead and breathlessly held out her arms, her body thrilling with the rhythm that still throbbed through her.

"I can dance, can't I?"

"I'd say!"

"Kid, you're great!"

"Boy, when you step around like that you make my blood run hot and cold and I feel like a satyr ready to grab up my flute and go leaping around. Crazy, eh what?" It was Doug. Strangely enough, they did not laugh at him. "Do you know," he continued "that you've danced before one of the biggest theatrical backers on Broadway?" He poinied to the gray-haired man. "This is Stewart Blackmire, the man who has made Broadway shows famous. He's the papa with all the dough that stands behind the scenes and never gets any of the glory, but nevertheless they all 'yes' him, from the stage hands to the biggest producers, and the names that flash in lights on Broadway are put there and taken out at his say so. King of the theatrical world." And Doug bowed before him.

"A hell of a friend you are," Stewart said. It was obvious that he was not pleased. "Now you'll have her asking me for a job."

The whistle of a train sounded down the tracks.

The porter appeared on the steps.

"Gentlemen, train's coming." He gathered up the card table and glasses. "Better git aboard, gentlemen. As soon as that limited goes through we git right on the tracks and start puffing along to make up for all this lost time we been spending here."

The shadows deepened about the girl's eyes.

"You're going now?"

"Yes."

She sighed.

"You won't forget about my slippers?"

Blackmire looked long and hard at her.

"Gypsy girl, I won't forget about your slippers—I won't forget about you, I guess. Now listen, closely, we have to pass over this road in exactly 10 days and we'll have to wait here again. You come here and I shall have the slippers with the real high heels for you. It's a promise. Now, remember, 10 days. That will make it a week from Thursday. A week after next Thursday, understand? I'll bring you the prettiest pair of slippers you ever saw."

The train on the main track was roaring down upon them.

"Are you really a man who puts on shows just as he said?" she shouted above the noise.

"Yes."

"And New York—it might be the high hill, mighn't it?"

The thundering train blotted out the words.

"Gentlemen, all board!"

"Hey, Stewart, get on this thing before it pulls out and leaves us here. Goodby, gypsy."

Blackmire reached into his pocket and took out his bill fold.

"I've paid $50 to see dancers not half as good as you." He pressed a bill into her hand. "Buy something you want."

She nodded.

"Good-bye, gypsy girl. Remember, be back here in 10 days. I won't fail you." For a second he held her hand in his and then swung onto the back of the car.

"Goodby," cried the girl. Her eyes were moist. "I won't forget."

Creaking, grinding, the puff, puff of the engine.

Consuelo stood and watched them till they were only dust on the horizon.

Ten days.

One gone.

Two gone.

Three gone.

"He is king of the theatrical world. Names in electric lights he puts and takes away. A king—"

The moon was shining. It was round and bright. The girl was sitting alone away from the noise of the gypsy camp. Only the mellowed sound of singing reached her, carried aloft on the slim breeze, and on the same slight breeze a leaf rustled and fell in graceful spirals to her skirt. She picked it up. It was red and golden and crisp and sadness came over her. They would be moving soon. When the leaves fell gypsy blood grew restless. They would not wait until cold was upon them, but long before would go south—south to eternal summer.

"The man who has made Broadway shows famous."

Autumn, hot, stifling, like the last head of summer burning itself out in a flare of spent energy. That effort was tiring—on, on, I am the King of Summer, I burn the fields dry and paint the forest with flames of red and sap the life from the leaves until they die and float to the ground. I won't give up and let the chill of winter come. I'm king here! King of Summer I am!

Autumn, Monotony. Anica, Marcu, the Dummy, Anica—and Voda, as simple as Honey Bear following her around like a dog. Girtza looking at her with puzzled eyes. Pretty soon he would say, "My little frog, you have had your way long enough. Marcu has gold in his purse. Will it be him or will it be one of the other young chavs?" Out of mischief she might answer "the Dummy." Then would Girtza let loose his anger. "I will not have my wagons filled with brats who cannot speak or hear me when I shout at them!"

New York, where light shone on Broadway! Shows! Dancer! Dancers! Great theaters where men and women came. Surely there they would toss nothing less than round silver dollars. Round dollars to fall on the floor—clank—clink—clank—New York, why it was bigger than any of these towns. "He's the papa with all the dough." Papa will all the dough—that didn't make sense whatever. Makes Broadway shows famous—names in electric lights saying, "Consuelo, the best dancer, is performing here." Bring your dollar and come and see this whirling dancer. Step up, folk, Consuelo the gypsy is here. She will tell your fortune after the show all for the price of one round silver dollar.

From the shadows Marcus was watching the girl. He wondered what she was thinking about as she sat there so intense not noticing him. He called her name softly, but she did not move. How quiet she looked, all the sharp brightness of her mellowed by the soft rays of the moon. Marcu breathed deep of the sweet warm fragrance of the night and his blood stirred within him.

"Consuelo." He stepped out of the shadows.

FRUIT-A-TIVES GAVE HEALTH TO TIRED NERVOUS MOTHER

London Woman Gives Evidence in Sworn Statement. Tells How Fruit-a-tives Helped Her Nerves and Made Her Feel Strong and Healthy.

Mrs. Mariette Burrows, 129 Vauxhall St., London, Ont., for years suffered from such poor health that she became nervous and high-strung—even cross with her children. She is happy and healthy again now and wants others to know of her experience. In order that everyone can be sure of its truth, Mrs. Burrows made her statement under oath before a notary. It reads,—"For some years I suffered terrible attacks that made me absolutely miserable for 3 or 4 days each time. I had constantly a tired-nervous feeling. I would get cranky and cross with the children. About two years ago the attacks became more frequent. I would get dizzy spells, my eyes would get hollow with black rings around them. I would be nervous and irritable and could not sleep. Then a friend suggested Fruit-a-tives. I tried them and they brought quick relief. Now I am never irritable, my nerves are good, and I feel strong and healthy all the time."

If you are troubled as Mrs. Burrows used to be, try Fruit-a-tives. They have brought lasting relief to thousands of men and women from nervousness, headaches, constipation and like ills. So successful have Fruit-a-tives proven that, today, it is the largest selling remedy of its kind in Canada.

Not only are Fruit-a-tives a safe, effective laxative, but their tonic effects will help give you new energy. Start Fruit-a-tives now. You'll be amazed how much better they'll soon make you feel.

Copy of Mrs. Burrow's complete sworn statement will be sent on request. Write Fruitatives Limited, Ottawa, Canada.

King George speaks to his subjects by radio

When King George speaks over the radio, the whole world listens. Wireless telegraphy has opened an entirely new medium by which his majesty may personally speak to his millions of subjects.

His Christmas message, which he has given every year since 1930, his opening of parliament addresses and other occasions of great Empire importance are now heard in every quarter of the world.

During the Silver Jubilee celebrations in England and throughout the Empire, the radio will play a great part in bringing the voices of the King and Queen to every home; the great thanksgiving service in St. Paul's Cathedral on May 6 will be broadcast to start the year of celebration.

King George is an excellent radio speaker, possessing a voice of fine texture and clarity. While he does not write his own speeches—that is to say they must bear the approval of his ministers—nevertheless his sage counsel is usually to be felt in the messages he reads to his people.

Our layout today shows the King speaking to the microphone. Left, at his desk in Sandringham, from which most of his addresses emanate. Right, reading the speech at the Five Power Naval Conference in 1930. In circle, his address of welcome at the World Economic Conference held in London in 1932.

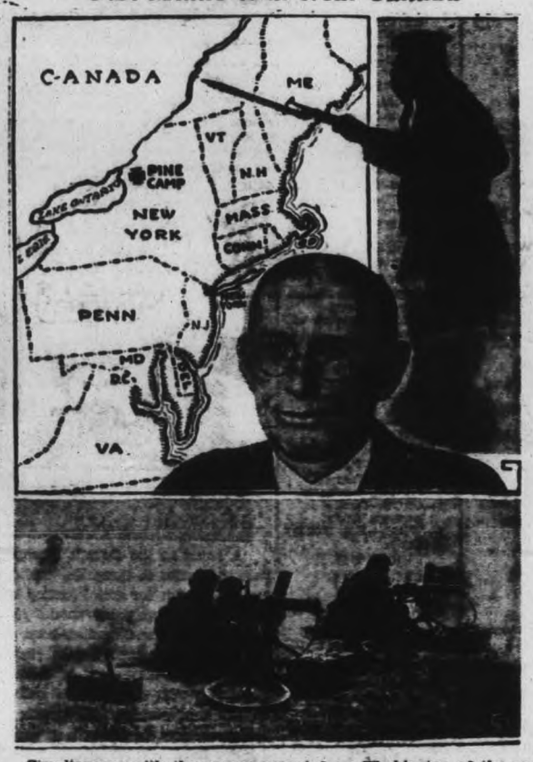
U.S. Mimic War Near Canada



Simultaneous with the announcement from Washington of the proposed new air base near the Canadian border in Great Lakes region and the subsequent reverberations in Ottawa, comes word that U.S. army will hold greatest mimic war in its history at Pine Camp, New York, within sight of Canadian boundary. U.S. will spend $379,630 on these manoeuvres and 60,000 troops, including National Guards, will be mobilized. U. S. First Army is under command of Maj.-Gen. Dennis E. Nolan (above). Meanwhile Washington is besieged with protests over U.S. naval manoeuvres in North Pacific.

PLAN PRIVATE JARVIS PROBE

Roebuck Seeks to Determine Whether to Recommend New Trial.

EXAMINE WITNESSES.

TORONTO, April 30 (C.P.).—Private inquiry will be started by Attorney-General A. W. Roebuck next week to determine whether he will recommend to Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Federal Minister of Justice, that a new trial be given Aemilius Jarvis, former Toronto broker, convicted and fined in 1924 on a charge of conspiracy to defraud the Province of Ontario.

Announcing the inquiry to-day, Mr. Roebuck said Joseph Sedgwick, solicitor in his department, would examine witnesses as government counsel, and Salter Haydon of Toronto would appear for Mr. Jarvis.

The Attorney-General was instructed by Cabinet prior to the opening of the recently-completed session of the Legislature to investigate the Jarvis case.

Jarvis and the late Peter Smith, Provincial Treasurer in the Drury Government, were convicted of conspiracy to defraud the province in 1924. Jarvis received a six-month term in York County Jail and Smith was sentenced to a three-year term. A joint fine of $600,000 was imposed.

On appeal, Jarvis' fine was fixed at $60,000 and Smith's at $100,000, but the prison terms were unchanged.

Say Girl Typical Of Good Consumer

NEW YORK, April 30 (C.P.)—Verna Long, a 21-year-old Bronx girl, was picked as "Miss Typical Consumer," a title bestowed upon her by the sponsors of the Industrial Arts Exposition, which opened at the Rockefeller Centre Forum.

Miss Long was considered to be the girl whose income, expenditures and mode of living came closest to an imagined young woman created by the exposition's officials. In their opinion, Miss Long best typified a young unmarried working girl of 21, earning $25 a week. "Miss Typical Consumer," as visualized by the exposition sponsors, shared an apartment with another young woman, who went 50-50 with her on the rent, upkeep of the apartment, laundry and food.

Selected from thousands of New York girls, Miss Long, a tall, slender brunette, was not flung into ecstasies by her nomination. She is a seasoned contest winner, about five years ago having been picked as "Miss New York" in a beauty contest held by the old "New York Graphic."

Woman Sentenced To Pray Quietly

LONDON, April 30 (C.P.) — "Mournful noises, moans, groans and praying in a loud voice" were mentioned in a complaint made to Justice Eve in the Chancery Division against a woman living in Streatham Vale.

Edward Pott who has a house next door, was granted an injunction to restrain Mrs. Elizabeth Stutely from "emitting the noises complained of."

It was stated that Mr. Pott had been greatly annoyed during the day-time by the noises made by Mrs. Stutely. The radio was often turned on in his house to deaden the sound of her voice.

Mrs. Stutely's husband said in an affadavit the party-wall was one thickness of one brick, and it was easy to hear what was going on next door.

The woman was admonished to pray quietly.

MILLBROOK

THANK OFFERING SERVICE HELD

Three Societies of Millbrook United Church United for Service.

EARLY HISTORY TOLD

MILLBROOK, April 30 (Examiner Correspondence) — The annual thankoffering service of the Women's Auxiliary, the Golden Links Mission Circle, and the Sunshine Mission Band, of St. Andrew's Church was held on Sunday at 10.30 a.m., with the members occupying the front centre pews.

"Keep telling it Everywhere" was the appropriate selection sung by the choir, and the story for the boys and girls of the mission band was that of Mary Slessor, of Calabar. The minister, Rev. A. L. Sisco, delivered the sermon, the usual custom of having a returned missionary as speaker being abandoned this year.

As a 'covering' verse for all the others to be saluted as having ministered unto Paul, the text chosen was, "Greet Mary who bestowed much labor on us" (Romans 16:6), the speaker going on to mention the many women spoken of as having ministered unto our Lord, and continued his theme under the three headings: Beginnings, Foundations and Carrying On.

"The church was always upon the frontiers in the early days, to establish Christianity as a national religion over the whole of Canada," the speaker stated, after showing how the French had planted the cross of Christ in the new land, and went on to refer to the courageous women who had "kept the home fires burning," were ever sending forth encouragement, and ministering unto the church. An interesting historical outline of the foundation laying of the Women's Missionary Society, which began in Prince Edward Island in 1835 when a body of Presbyterian Scotch women banded themselves together for "what ought to be the great object of all, the glorifying of God by doing good," showed how the work has grown, and a number of incidents were cited to give evidence of how it is still going on, reaching out into all fields.

Formed W.M.S. in 1864

The Presbyterian Church of Ontario in 1864 saw its organization of the W.M.S., and in 1875 the Quebec society was formed with the definite object of French evangelization. One June 10, 1886, at Ottawa, four women, wives of ministers who were delegates at a Congregational convention in the capital city, founded the Women's Auxiliary for that church, but ten years earlier, in 1876, the similar society of the Methodist Episcopal Church came into being, later to be merged with that of the Methodist Church of Canada in 1880. When the Rev. J. E. Starr, in 1886, discovered the sale of Chinese girls in Victoria, B.C., for immoral purposes, and asked the women to help, $200 was voted and the rescue home at Port Simpson, B.C. came into existence.

The appeal of one Indian girl to Mrs. Crosby for succor led to the founding of the Crosby Home for Indian girls, and so with friendliness as its keynote, and telling the story of Jesus as its main objective, the work goes steadily and successfully forward year by year.

Special mention was made of the blending of the women's societies of the three churches, Presbyterian, Congregational and Methodist at Bloor Street Church, Toronto, on October 26, 1925, and of the activities of the W.M.S., through its supply department, in sending bales of clothing, and car-loads of vegetables, etc., to the West in its time of need, the concluding petition being, "May the Spirit of Jesus ever be in the hearts of all Christian women to continue to carry on in His service."

Why His Headaches Ceased

Wife Put Kruschen in His Coffee

He could not understand why the headaches he had been subject to suddenly ceased. His wife told him, and he at once sat down and wrote the following letter:—

"I am 62 years of age, and ever since I was a boy of ten years, I was subject to very bad headaches. But two years ago the headaches stopped—for what reason I did not know. I was surprised when one day my wife told me I had been using Kruschen Salts in my coffee for over two years. I am still using them, as I know of nothing finer for the system."—J T.

Headaches can nearly always be traced to a disordered stomach, and to the unsuspected retention in the system of stagnating waste material which poisons the blood. Remove these poisons—prevent them forming again—and you'll never have to worry any more. And that is just how Kruschen Salts brings swift and lasting relief from headaches. Kruschen Salts aid Nature to cleanse your body completely of all clogging waste matter.

Father Coughlin Launches "Third Party"

A scene in the Detroit Olympia auditorium as 15,000 persons heard Father Charles E. Coughlin, "radio priest" ,thunder his demand that his national union for social justice be made a national political organization. This third party threat found approval with the listeners, apparently, for the Canadian-born priest, who is shown as he addressed the crowd, was greeted with thunderous cheers. He wishes the party launched to "blast out of existence reactionaries, conservatives and hypocrites who disgrace the halls of Congress." He charged that the Roosevelt administration, "counter to the true interests of the masses, prefers to consult wickedness in the high places." Coughlin said, "We reject atheistic Communism. We disavow racial Hitlerism. We turn our backs on industrial Fascism."

Fleetwood Family Honored By Friends

Presentation Made Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Werry at Farewell Gathering.

FLEETWOOD, April 30 (Examiner Correspondence). — The hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. Leander Werry, near Fleetwood Brick Corners, was thrown open to about one hundred self-invited guests on Friday evening when the Fleetwood and Lifford communities joined with other friends and relatives from farther afield, to bid farewell to the hostess' family before their departure for their new home at Waterloo.

Mr. and Mrs. Werry (who was Miss Stella Sluggitt before her marriage) observed the 25th anniversary of their marriage last December, having enjoyed a quarter century of farm life in the Fleetwood community. Mr. Werry has long been considered one of the most successful farmers in Manvers, and one who was ever ready to assist an inquiring aspirant with kindly valuable advice.

Mr. and Mrs. Werry have been energetic workers in connection with Fleetwood United Church for many years, throwing their home open on various occasions for activities in different church departments. Mrs. Werry will be greatly missed in the service of song and in all ladies' church work.

Mrs. Sluggitt, mother of Mrs. Werry, who has resided with her daughter at Fleetwood, has greatly assisted in adding to the hospitality of the home.

Mr. and Mrs. Werry are retiring from active farm work, while Welsh brothers will carry on in their stead. Leonard Welsh having assisted Mr. Werry for many years. They will make their new home at Waterloo with their only child, Mrs. Ormie Wright (Marjorie), whose marriage took place a few years ago and who has been holidaying with her parents at her old home for the past fortnight.

Presentation Made

When the gathering had assembled, Rev. R. W. Paton, pastor of Fleetwood Church asked the guests of honor, Mr. and Mrs. Werry and Mrs. Sluggitt to occupy prominent seats in the crowd, and explained the purpose of the happy gathering.

Mr. Victor Grandy, a near neighbor, then came forward and read an appropriate address, expressing the sentiments of all present and stressing the good wishes of all for future health and happiness.

Messrs. Chris. Cummiskey, Laverne McKinley and Clare Staples, also neighbors, then came forward and presented three beautiful gifts. Mrs. Sluggitt received a pretty cosy blanket; Mrs. Werry, a silver tea service and tray, and Mr. Werry, a smoker's magazine stand.

Mr. Werry made suitable reply on behalf of the recipients and invited their many friends to come to see them in their new home.

The crowd then enjoyed various games of cards and crokinole as well as community singing by the young people led by Rev. Paton, with Miss Ida Shea of Baker's Business College, Lindsay, at the piano.

A liberal lunch was served by the neighboring ladies, the many guests having assisted in supplying dainty edibles. The remainder of the evening was spent in happy, social conclave, with the younger set enjoying a few dances.

The gathering dispersed amid mingled feelings of regret at the departure of helpful loyal friends and pleasure in the freedom from ties of farm life which will be afforded them in the days which lie before them.

FRASERVILLE

SPECIAL SERVICES HELD ON CIRCUIT

Fraserville Charge Had Most Successful Easter Season.

FRASERVILLE, April 30 (Special) —The United Churches that make up the Fraserville charge have observed the Easter season in special services extending over three weeks. Pre-Easter services began two weeks before Easter in the form of a special Preaching Mission when the local pastor was assisted by visiting ministers from neighboring churches. The Rev. Wm. McDonald, B.A., of Knox Church, Peterborough, and Rev. A. L. Sisco of St. Andrew's United Church, Millbrook, preached at Bensfort; the Rev. A. E. Moorhouse of St. James' United, Peterborough, the Rev. G. K. Tyler of Park Street Baptist and Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe of Murray Street Baptist Church, preached at Fraserville and Rev. H. R. Williams, B.A., of Centreville and Millbrook Presbyterian Churches and Rev. Wm. Simpson, B.A., of Bailieboro and Millbrook Anglican Churches preached at Bailieboro. These services were consummated in Bailieboro United Church on Good Friday evening in a Communion service conducted by the pastor, Rev E. M. Cook. This was largely attended and six young people were received into full communion with the church.

Easter communion was observed on Easter Sunday in Bensfort United Church when over eighty participated and seven young people were received into full communion.

Easter Sunday evening the choir of Bailieboro United Church rendered an Easter cantata entitled, The Easter Gift, a story of the first Easter. The singing and story were well rendered and proved very impressive, the church was well filled with worshippers and there was a generous offering.

Bensfort and Fraserville Churches rendered cantatas the following Sunday. The Bensfort service was entitled The Prince of Life and the Fraserville service The Dawn Immortal.

Both of these were story and song presentations of the Passion and Resurrection of our Lord. Through the splendid co-operation of the choirs with the pastor and the generous help of the visiting clergy the Easter season has been one of great enrichment for the congregations concerned.

PEACE ABROAD IS GERMAN AIM STATES HITLER

1,000,000 Workers Hear Leader Extol Nation's Citizens.

"A NEW PEOPLE."

Wants World to Understand Present Germany is United for Success.

(Copyright, 1935, by the A. P.)

BERLIN, May 1.—(AP)—Reichsfuehrer Hitler told more than 1,000,000 workers assembled at Tempelhof airdrome to hear his May Day address today that even though "foreign nations may offer me whole continents, I would rather be the poorest citizen here."

While millions more faithful Nazis listened to the Fuehrer's words transmitted to cities and villages through the Reich, Hitler proclaimed the German nation had "now become a new people."

"We are a people without raw materials, without colonies, without capital, without foreign bank deposits," he said. "We know nothing but sacrifice, small wages and high taxes, but we do have one thing, namely, our German people.

"We, therefore, tell other countries: 'Don't fear we want anything from you. We are proud enough to say the highest thing we have is something you could not give us if you would, namely, our people.'

A United Nation

"You may wonder why on a day like this in such bad weather you are, nevertheless, called together. The purpose is symbolically to show that we are not divided into city and country, into workers, farmers and tradesmen, artisans and students, but that we are members of one people united in the common duty to fulfil our task in the world with such strength and talent as almighty God gave us.

"We shall not rest until we give to the last German his daily bread. Remember, May 1 is a day of decision."

VERMILYEA HAS FINAL HAIRCUT

Three Guards Watch as Barber is Called to Death Cell.

SPENDS DAY WRITING.

BELLEVILLE, Ont., May 1.—(CP)—Harold W. Vermilyea, who will be hanged to-morrow for the murder of his mother, to-day requested a shave and haircut. This was granted and three guards stood about while the barber worked.

Vermilyea was up early after a restful night. He breakfasted on corn flakes, grapefruit and oranges. After this he began writing letters to relatives and friends and it was expected most of his last day would be taken up by writing.

Arthur Vermilyea, the condemned man's brother, will visit him late to-day. The brothers talked together late yesterday, and another brother, Clarence, was also a visitor.

Vermilyea's sister, Mrs. J. A. Faulkner, was understood to have left for London. She has been a frequent visitor at the jail since Vermilyea was sentenced Feb. 25.

Vermilyea still makes no reference to the hanging. He conversed today with guards on various subjects and gave no outward indication he was greatly concerned over his fate.

He had a special meal last night, consisting of cold roast chicken, potato salad, tomatoes, cake and coffee.

Doggy Tails

TORONTO, May 1.—The hides of seven mongrel-collie pups were shipped into Queen's Park the other day by a Hastings County trapper, who represented the skins as those of wolf pups and sought $35 in bounty from the Department of Game and Fisheries. But D. J. Taylor, deputy minister of the department, wasn't to be fooled as easily as that. The skins had a wolfy color, they were about the same size, but the shipper had forgotten to do something about the three-inch, strikingly doggy tail with which each pelt was equipped. Those tails were the "give-away." No bounty will be paid.

EMPIRE COUNTS ON MOTHERLAND TO KEEP PEACE

Key to European Situation Dominion Premiers Inform Government.

BACK HER POLICIES.

Recognize Increase in British Arms Necessary to Play Role as Mediator.

(By Harold P. Braman. Copyright, 1935, by The Associated Press)

LONDON, May 1.—A well-informed source in close contact with the situation said to-day the Prime Ministers of the Dominions have informed the British Government the whole Empire is counting on the Mother Country to keep Europe at peace.

It was understood to-day's full cabinet session was given detailed reports of conversations of foreign policy and defence at Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald's offices in the Parliament Building. The conversations were entered into by Prime Minister R. B. Bennett of Canada, Prime Minister J. B. M. Hertzog of South Africa, and Prime Minister J. A. Lyons of Australia.

After Mr. MacDonald and Sir John Simon, Foreign Secretary, had explained to them the latest developments in European peace negotiations, the visiting prime ministers, it was stated, assured the British leaders they have the wholehearted backing of the Empire.

The Dominion chiefs, it was learned from their delegations, stressed the following three points.

1. Increases in British armaments are recognized as necessary in order that Great Britain can continue to play an effective role as mediator in European affairs;

2. Great Britain is expected to take risks in Europe if necessary, even without the knowledge of the Dominions as it is appreciated that Great Britain can achieve more in diplomatic negotiations if her hands are free;

3. It was pointed out that the Dominions have the right to refrain from committing themselves in any obligations that may be incurred by the Mother Country.

Crowland Unemployed Notify Premier Hepburn They Will Stay at Work.

VISIT AREA ON THURSDAY.

TORONTO, May 1 (C.P.)—May Day brought good news for Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn's. When he arrived at his desk in the Legislative Buildings to-day he found a telegram from Crowland relief strikers, marking the end of the province's first big relief strike.

The telegram, sent by the Crowland unemployed committee, asked withdrawal of their ultimatum they would go on strike next week if their demands were not granted.

End Of 4-Week Strike.

On receipt of the wire, which he regarded as marking the end of the four-week strike, Mr. Hepburn announced he and Minister of Welfare David Croll would go to Crowland Thursday of next week to discuss grievances of unemployed.

"I deeply appreciate the offer to continue to work and will be only too happy to go to Crowland on Thursday of next week with Mr. Croll to meet with the committee

CASE TIGHTENS ON RETTISH GANG

Bail For Leader of Suspected Mail Robbers Set at $125,000.

SEEK MURDER CLUES.

PROVIDENCE, R.I., May 1 (AP). —Federal and State authorities, satisfied they had established a case of armed robbery against members of the Rettich gang, to-day concentrated on a search for evidence which might lay murder at their door.

They looked toward Dr. Lester A. Rounds, State pathologist, who had in his possession bones that might be human and a substance which might be the dried blood of victims of the most notorious gang in the history of the State of Rhode Island.

More than a dozen of the gang were either in the custody of authorities or out on bail after a series of sensational raids and the uncovering of an elaborate hideaway, nestled on the shore of Greenwich Bay in the fashionable summer colony of Warwick Neck. The house, cuipped with an airtight subterranean vault, is situated beside the summer home of Senator Peter G. Gerry of Rhode Island.

Last night Carl Rettich, alleged leader of the gang, admittedly a former rum runner and at least an acquaintance of 'big time' racketeers, was arraigned before a U.S. commissioner, who set bail at $125,000, highest in the history of Rhode Island courts.

Rettich was charged with implication in the $22,000 mail robbery in Fall River last January, approximately $19,000 of which was found inside his Warwick Neck home and buried near a veranda outside.

Lt. Steele, charged with conspiracy in this robbery, was also arraigned and released in bail of $25,000.

WESTERN AREAS EXPECT TROUBLE FROM STRIKERS

Vancouver, Edmonton, Mining Town of Corbin Are Danger Spots.

POLICE STRENGTHENED.

Ontario, Quebec and Maritime Situations Well in Hand.

(By the Canadian Press)

Unless striking relief workers make a surprise move at points where causes of disputes seem to have been settled, this May Day will be quiet in the east and tense in the west. If Communists celebrate riotously police authorities were satisfied they would do it in the west.

Two thousand relief camp strikers are gathered in Vancouver and they will parade. They paraded a week ago yesterday and when it was over a department store interior had been damaged and Mayor G. G. McGeer had read the Riot Act. There was street fighting between police and workers.

The strikers have been quiet since, but police will watch today's parade closely. Other western points where authorities are fearful of disturbances are Edmonton and the mining town of Corbin, B.C., just over the Alberta border.

Corbin Nest Of Trouble.

Reports that 5,000 miners from the nearby Crow's Nest Pass mining fields would congregate in Corbin stirred police to prepare for possible trouble. More than 100 Royal Canadian Mounted Police and British Columbia Provincial police are stationed at Corbin and Neighboring towns.

Ontario provincial and municipal authorities appear to have cleared up a disturbed relief situation in preparation for May Day. Crowland, Ont., relief strikers promised Premier Mitchell Hepburn they would return to work next week pending a Government decision on their demands for increased food allowances.

For much the same reason relief workers went on strike in London township, but they agreed to start work again. Township officials predicted there would be no May Day demonstrations.

East Quiet

There have been no reports of possible workers-sponsored demonstrations in Quebec or the Maritimes, but anti-Communists have selected May Day for a meeting at which speakers will tell about what they saw during visits to Soviet Russia.

Groups sponsoring the meeting are prepared to cope with any interference from Communist sympathizers.

Hepburn To Discuss Relief Work In North

TORONTO, May 1 (C.P.).—Premier Mitchell F Hepburn announced to-day he and Hon. Peter Heenan, Minister of Northern Development, would leave for Ottawa to-night for a conference with Hon. W. A. Gordon, Federal Minister of Labor, respecting Northern Ontario relief problems.

The Premier also announced receipt of a wire from Mr. Gordon, stating the $600,000 Federal relief grant would be continued throughout May.

Mr. Hepburn said his one regret at going to Ottawa would be that he could not attend the professional ball game here to-morrow where he was scheduled to pitch the first ball.

Belleville Will Go On Daylight Saving

BELLEVILLE, May 1.—Daylight Saving Time will be proclaimed here from midnight June 1 until midnight of August 25, with the understanding that a vote will be taken either on the municipal or provincial voters' list, yet to be decided. The decision was reached at a meeting of the City Council, the vote being 8-6 in favor of the measure following lengthy discussion.

METZ, France, May 1.—(CP)—A German youth in full Nazi regalia slipped through the German frontier guard near Forbach today, told police he was chief of the Hitler youth organization at Wiessensee, near Berlin, and said he wanted to enlist in the French Foreign Legion. He was given civilian clothes and sent to a Metz recruiting station.

FARM DEMANDS FOR WORKERS BE SATISFIED

About 200 Fewer Workers in Four Relief Camps in North of County.

QUOTAS REDUCED.

Government Has No Intention of Absorbing the Usual Farm Labor.

The May quotas of men assigned to the four road camps in the northern part of the county have been reduced by approximately two hundred workers who should be available for engagement with farmers.

"There are fewer than five hundred men in the camps now," J. S. Selkirk informed The Examiner to-day. "The men who will do the road work for May went back to the camps yesterday, but the number in each camp has been reduced by anywhere from 45 to 65.

The Government has no intention of absorbing labor that is ordinarily employed on the farms at this season. Farmers pay all they can in wages, and the monthly wage is just about the same as the men get in the road camps. It must be remembered that the farmers are helping to pay the cost of the road work that has been carried on about Buckhorn and in the Apsley district, and the Government is not going to be competitor with the farmers for the labor that would otherwise be at-

West End Resident Accosted By "Tough"

Complaints that his daughter was accosted by an unidentified man, who demanded to know if she had money in her purse, have been laid with City Police by a Frederick Avenue resident.

The complaint alleges that the young woman was walking west on Charlotte Street at around eleven o'clock on Monday night, when she was accosted by a man, with the observation, "I see you have your purse with you."

Told by the young woman that the purse did not contain any large sum of money, the man is stated to have continued to follow the young woman, until he was apparently alarmed by an approaching automobile.

GERMAN ARMS MADE POSSIBLE BY NEIGHBORS

Lansbury Charges European Govt's Knew Where Their War Material Went.

FAULT ON OWN SHOULDERS.

British Cabinet to Protest Sub Building—Lay Policy at Thursday Session.

LONDON, May 1 (C.P.) — The Cabinet met to-day to consider the problems raised by German submarine construction as the morning papers carried the accusation by George Lansbury, Labor party leader, the governments of Europe which are now so concerned by the Reich's rearmament had made it possible by permitting importation of raw materials for munitions.

Calling for an international police to preserve order in Europe in the same manner as was done in the Saar, Lansbury, condemned German treaty violation and the attitude taken by European governments towards continued importation of war materials by the Reich.

Each Blames Another

"None can defend Germany's action," he said, in a speech at Bromley-by-Bow. "All governments put the responsibility on the other. Germany undoubtedly has broken loose from the Versailles Treaty. She has practically annulled its provisions.

"Reparations are finished and armaments clauses scrapped.

"The extraordinary thing is that while Germany has been condemned for rearmament, somehow or other she has been able to create a mighty air force, build submarines and other armaments.

"Someone must have supplied her with nickel, copper, tin and other commodities such as airplane engine parts. It is strange the governments of Europe have not been able to realise that imports of these goods were going into Germany. They must have known it and they must have known for what purpose they were destined. These importations should have been stopped long ago."

Meanwhile semi-official quarters said the cabinet contemplates protesting to Germany against her submarine construction program and at the same time appealing again for the Reich's co-operation in a collective security system.

May Act Alone.

These sources said the Government's move might be linked with a hint of action by the powers to preserve peace without German collaboration if the Reichsfuehrer Hitler persists in going his own way armed and alone.

The result to the Cabinet's efforts will be submitted to the House of Commons as grist for to-morrow's debate on foreign policy.

France and Italy particularly awaited the outcome of the deliberations for the influence it will exert on their own attitude toward Germany's latest armament moves.

Despite the concern which the submarine disclosures have occasioned in Great Britain, some groups influential in the government still are attempting to keep Great Britain in the role of the "honest broker" of peace without European commitments other than those contained in the Locarno pact.

NO AUTOMATIC CANADIAN AID FOR OLD LAND

Laborite Herald States Bennett Has Notified London of Stand.

AFRICAN VIEW SAME.

LONDON, May 1 (CP-Havas) — Canada and the Union of South Africa have served notice to the government here, their dominions will not come automatically to Great Britain's aid in case of war, the Laborite Daily Herald stated today.

The Times declares there might be a "split in imperial sentiment" as regards Dominion military aid in a new conflict.

Notice that the Union of South Africa and Canada would not automatically range themselves on Britain's side in a new war has been served on the London government by Prime Ministers Gen. James B. Hertzog and Richard B. Bennett, both here to attend the Jubilee celebrations beginning next week in King George's honor, The Herald claims.

"The Dominion representatives made it unmistakably clear," The Herald continues recalling that the two Prime Ministers conferred here yesterday with Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, "that they were unable to give any undertakings—to support Great Britain in a European conflict—without important reservations.

"Gen. Hertzog made it plain the South African government is not prepared to participate in any general scheme of imperial defence. His view is that participation of the Union of South Africa in any way in which Britain may be involved is dependent upon that issue of that war.

"For his part, Mr. Bennett also took a very detached attitude, and informed the British Minister of his assurance to the Canadian House of Commons that there was no undertaking to the British government in connections with defense and more especially with regard to aviation."

TORONTO LIVESTOCK.

TORONTO, May 1 (C.P.) — Under active trading, the cattle division of the Toronto Livestock Market recovered Monday's 15-cent loss on steers and heifers with all other grades holding steady. The supply was almost sold out. Sheep and lambs were steady while calves sold slow at weak levels and hogs continued unsettled.

Receipts as reported by the Dominion Livestock Branch were: Cattle, 370; calves, 710; hogs, 920; sheep and lambs, 860.

Choice weighty steers sold from $7 to $7.75 with mediums at $6. Butcher cattle brought $5 to $7.25 with a few choice steers up to $7. Good cows ranged from $4.50 to $4.75, while plain got $2.50. A few choice fed calves went at $5.75 to $7.50. Bulls sold from $3.50 to $4.25 for best. A few light stockers made $3.50 to $4.60.

The calf division was slow and weak at a general top of $6 to $6.50 with a few up to $7. Common, light vealers brought $3 to $4.

Good Western lambs brought $7 cwt., and mediums made $6 with several hundred still unsold. Spring lambs sold slowly at $4 to $7.50 each. The light supply of sheep went at $3 to $3.50 for good, light and $1 to $1.50 for culls.

Hogs remained unsettled with a firm undertone prevailing.

Lamb quotes were unchanged.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Prospects that little corn will be available for delivery on May contracts to-day led to tension and to price upturns in the corn market yesterday.

The unsettled open interest in May corn here is notably larger than at any corresponding time during recent years, and scarcity of offerings yesterday became very evident. As a result, previous speculative sellers of corn switched to the buying side, and there were late rallies of other grains owing more or less to reports of violent dust storms in Kansas.

Corn closed nervous, ⅛c off to ¾c up, compared with Monday's finish. May 89¾c to 89¼c, wheat ⅛c to ⅜c down, May 98⅞c to 99⅛c, at ⅛c decline to ⅛c advance, and provisions varying from 10c setback to a rise of 2 cents.

Wheat failed to overcome entirely its early decline. It was predicted that there would be a plentitude of wheat available to-day for May delivery here, although this wheat is of the soft winter kind and is less in request than the hard winter variety desired by millers, especially at Minneapolis.

Oats felt the effects of May liquidating sales, notwithstanding that only limited deliveries of oats are expected.

Provisions lacked aggressive support.

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

Butter prices continued their recent decline on the Montreal dairy and produce market yesterday with fractional declines from Monday's levels. No. 1 butter in carlots or less ranged from 22¼c to 22¾c a pound, compared with 22¾c to 23c Monday. The drop was attributed to increasing production with the arrival of spring weather. Small lots to retailers sold for 24c a pound for solids and 25c for prints. Receipts were 185 boxes.

No. 1 Ontario cheese was generally quoted at 11c a pound for current arrivals, with fall and summer cheese almost completely disappeared from the market. Offerings totalled 18 boxes.

The egg market was steady, graded shipments in carlots or less selling at 19½c to 20c a dozen for A-large, 17½c to 19c for A-medium, 17c to 17½c for "B," and 16c to 16½c for "C." Receipts amounted to 3,079 cases.

On the potato market No. 1 Green Mountains continued at 45c per 80-pound bag of Quebecs, 50c for New Brunswicks, and 53c for Prince Edward Islands.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, May 1 — Trading lagged on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange yesterday as export demand for Canadian wheat continued slow. Wheat prices closed ¼c lower. May at 88⅝c and July 88⅜c, after a dull session.

Local values dropped in sympathy with a weak Liverpool market and irregularity at Chicago. Late-session recovery in the latter exchange after early 1-cent declines had been sustained was not reflected here.

Market sentiment appeared to be generally bearish, due largely to the lull in foreign demand for Canada's wheat, and to a ¾d decline in the English market. Export sales were negligible, only small, scattered lots.

Possibly indicative of future purchases of Australian wheat, China's rice crop last year was shown yesterday to be 20 per cent. smaller than the previous year. Additional sales of wheat from the Commonwealth to China were reported.

Spreads closed fractionally better in the cash-grains section, but operations there showed little improvement. Trading in coarse grain at times was fairly active, scattered selling in barley and rye sending those commodities lower.

TRAVEL CLUB IS TO OPEN MONDAY ENROLL TO-DAY

Palatial Steamers and Luxurious Hotels Ready to Receive Guests.

SPLENDID OPPORTUNITY

The ladies, ten of them, from The Examiner's district, who will soon leave Peterborough on a trip to New York and Bermuda as guests of the paper are not yet known. No, the winners of the greatest travel plan ever to be sponsored in this part of Canada, will not be known until six weeks from next Monday. The Travel Club opens on Monday and will run for six weeks from the opening date, and then the greatest moment in the lives of ten ladies from the surrounding territory will be realised as they are declared the winners of a momentous tour of New York City and the beautiful Island of Bermuda. They will have the best of everything while away; they will stop at the best hotels, travel on the finest ships afloat, live in a form of luxury that will intrigue them every hour of the tour.

Where is the lady who has not dreamed of a trip of this kind? Have we not all at some time or other wished that we could just pack our trunk and "leave it all behind" for just a few weeks? Yes, we all have had the desire to travel far, away at times. It seems that travel is part of our make-up, to get away from the every day, hum-drum of life and to visit some far-off part of the world; maybe life would seem different there — maybe we could find a new environment that would interest us and give us a broader outlook on the future. Indeed, it is fascinating and educational to trav-

HELD CRIMINALLY INSANE

BUFFALO, N.Y.—Mrs. Elizabeth Kloes, 33, indicted for first degree murder for influencing her son, Richard, 11, to slay his father, John, was ordered committed to Matteawan State hospital for the criminally insane today by County Judge F. Bret Thorne.

Calves Team Up

OSKALOOSA, Ia., May 1.—(CP). "Any cow is an ox if it'll stay hitched and pull a load," said Mark and Marion Thomas, 14-year-old Osaloosa twins. So they copied an oaken yoke that had travelled to California and back during the gold rush of '49, fitted it on the necks of two yearling calves in the Thomas cow lot and trained them to pull a wagon.

The calves, Huckleberry and Bonnie, haul wood from the timber, grain to the feed lot and, after school, a wagon load of boys, with Mark and Marion on the seat.

A Little Slip

STRATFORD, Ont., May 1 (C.P.)—Reprimanded for failing to display license plates on his automobile, a farmer of this district began to explain: "I forgot to change this morning." It was news to him when the officer told him he must have two sets for two cars and they are not interchangable.

INDIAN CHIEFS NOT "BIG SHOTS"

Oldtimers Claim Bands Were Downright Socialists on Recognizing Authority.

LEADERS' POWER LIMITED.

MUSKOGEE, Okla., May 1 (A.P.)—The "heap big Indian chief" of schoolboy fancy was jolted down to less glamorous proportions to-day in one of his favorite reservation lands—Oklahoma.

Indian authorities of the state quickly agreed with Smithsonian Institute ethnologists who report finding the chieftains were not "big shots."

Said old-timers who ought to know:

The chiefs' power was limited, their following was voluntary, and there even were different chiefs in the same tribe for different jobs.

In fact, Indians were downright Socialists when it came to recognizing authority, preferring to follow their own ideas rather than those of erstwhile "leader." Grant Foreman, noted authority on Northwest Indians implied here.

"The Cherokees, for example, had a war chief as distinguished from the chief who presided over peace councils," he said. "The war chief might collect men for an expedition

VERMILYEA BIDS LAST FAREWELL TO HIS BROTHERS

Expected Something Better Doomed Man Tells Jailor on Hearing Fate.

ONE DAY TO LIVE.

BELLEVILLE, May 1 (C.P.). — Harold W. Vermilyea, condemned hatchet-slayer of his mother, sat in the jail death cell last night knowing he has but one more day to live. The former Ontario, Calif., fruit grower will be hanged to-morrow, and for several days he has heard the beating of hammers on the gallows near his cell window. "So it's all up, gentlemen; the answer is ——," Vermilyea said emotionally even before Jailer G. H. French and Adjutant W. A. Martin of the Salvation Army broke the news that the Federal Department of Justice would not interfere with the sentence Vermilyea heard Feb. 25.

The body of the man who came to Belleville last October 4, slew his mother, Mrs. Nathaniel Vermilyea, and then hurried back to California by train and airplane, will be taken through a newly built door after the hanging. The old wooden door crumbled on its hinges during jail rehearsals for the execution, the first hanging in Belleville for 40 years.

Sees Brothers Last Time.

Vermilyea yesterday bade farewell to his two brothers Clarence and Arthur, who were allowed to go singly to the death cell to make final disposition of his effects.

"I expected something better. I had heard hundreds of letters and telegrams had been sent to the office of the Minister of Justice. I believed they might have had a different answer." Vermilyea addressed the jailer and the adjutant before they gave him the final word.

His features worked spasmodically; his voice choked with pent-up emotion; his hands twitched nervously.

Adjutant Martin, chief confidant of Virmilyea, said the man expressed no regrets for himself but felt sorry for those of his family. He leave two children in California, Arelia, 21, and "Than," 15. He received letters from them only two days ago.

Vermilyea acmitted to jail officials he had been buoyed by the news he had received of letters and telegrams being despatched to the Minister of Justice seeking clemency for himself. He was visited again last night by the adjutant.

LEGION ABRUPTLY DISMISSES LOQUACIOUS LORD MONTAGU

Barred From Famed French Regiment After Recounting Adventures in Press.

"UNFIT FOR SERVICE"

By CORALIE VAN PAASSEN
Central Press Canadian Correspondent

PARIS, May 1.—The adventures of the sensation-hungry Lord Montagu, second son of the Duke of Manchester, have suddenly come to a prosaic end. He had just announced in a big Parisian newspaper that he had embarked upon the greatest romance of his life by enlisting in the Foreign Legion, wherein sixty thousand other foreigners serve without saying a word, when the French military authorities took his uniform away and quietly dismissed him with the verdict: "Unfit for service in the army of Morocco."

The young lord, who has been telling the story of his life in the pages of Paris-Soir, his encounters with bootleggers, gangsters and hijackers in the U.S.A. — nothing is too crazy in the Parisian boulevard press when it concerns America—made the mistake of starting to talk of his new adventure in the Legion and the hopes he entertained of sailing around the world in a canoe or something like that after expiration of the five-year term of enlistment. As a civilian he could talk all he liked, but once a legionaire he was bound to remain inarticulate. He probably did not know of this tacit understanding. He knows now that the Legion is not something that can serve for private publicity purposes. He is out.

Worked in Canada

He was really never in the Legion. He had signed up, been given the hundred francs ($6.50) premium, had been shipped to Toulon, one of the Legion's base-depots in France, been given a uniform, but stumbled on the staircase in the barracks one day and injured his arm which necessitated removal to a hospital. While convalescing he began to write his memoirs, past, present and future. With that he signed his own dismissal from the famous fighting corps and is to-day a civilian once more on the lookout for more adventure. In the meantime his father, the Duke of Manchester, has been arrested and released on a 250-pound security over in England on a charge of "abuse of confidence."

The French papers say he is a Canadian citizen. This probably derives from the fact that he disappeared from home at the age of 20, he is 26 now, and bobbed up as stable-boy on Lord Rodney's farm near Edmonton. The stable-boy episode lasted but a few months. Lord Montague wrote in his memoirs that some Canadians, upon hearing that he was an authentic lord and the son of a duke, were struck speechless and almost fainted. This reference to Canada made quite a hit over here. It threw a new light on the Canadians as—boobs. That there are millions of Canadians who wouldn't go across the street to see a lord whereas the French break their necks scraping and pirouetting when some Paraguayan planter says he is a baron or a descendant of Montezuma, the young chronicler did not say.

Voyaged With Wanderwell

At any rate he tells how he married an heiress, Doris Potter, in Vancouver in 1929 and how he became an automobile salesman in that city. A year later he ships off on the yacht Carma which belonged to Captain Wanderwell. They cruised for months off the California coast, until one morning, casting anchor in the harbor of Long Beach, the police came on board to take the dead captain off. Wanderwell had been murdered. The body showed a number of knife-wounds.

Lord Montagu was arrested and charged with the murder of his host. He proved his innocence. The young man bought a yacht for himself. A photograph shows him surrounded by a bevy of Mack Sennett-like bathing beauties, who are passengers on the boat.

His taste for navigation having cooled off a little, he turned his eyes landward. In 1933 he was the centre of a new sensation. Lord Montague was reported kidnapped by gangsters. The whole police force of the western states was mobilized to search for him.

The affair was quite a sensation but it turned out to be a false alarm. Lord Montagu bobbed up in Canada once more and told reporters he had never been touched by gangsters. Who had invented the story of his kidnapping, he did not know.

Started Open-Air Bar

By spring 1934 the wanderer had returned to London . And now began a series of articles in the press about a dispute in the family. Lord Montagu wanted to enlist in the Foreign Legion, but instead of doing so, which is no great trick, he talked about it. His sister, Lady Louise Montagu, was reported using all her influence to keep him from this mad plan. One day he had given up the project, the next day he had changed his mind. In August he got as far an Dunkirk and the papers said he had gone to sign up. But the same evening he was back in London.

A new eccentricity which caused a certain ripple was the installation of an open-air bar at Maidenhead on the shores of the Thames. There Lord Montagu sold coffee, tea and cheese sandwiches to London auto-excursionists. The business grew. It was a sensation. Thousands of citizens motored out to Maidenhead merely to be able to say that a genuine duke's son had poured them a cup of tea.

Then he was back in France "for financial reasons" as he told the pressmen. But there was also his thirst of romance. That thirst he was going to satisfy in the Legion. There is a society known as the "Friends of the Foreign Legion" in Paris to which several Americans belong. This society has for object among other things, to trace all reports, articles, books which appear in the world and which deal with life in the Foreign Legion. They are out to get the authors of slanderous or erroneous reports about the famous fighting unit. This society had its eye on Lord Montague from the moment he set foot on the shores of France, with the intention of enlisting.

Suddenly Dismissed

When he did sign up, got his 100 francs, a piece of soap and a toothbrush, and his transportation to Toulon, the papers said this is the last that will be heard from the romantic, adventurous Lord Montagu unless he distinguishes himself so much in the war with the Moors and Berbers that we will hear of him as earning the Croix de Guerre.

But it was not the last. Lord Montagu had availed himself of the offer of a newspaper to publish his memoirs. They began to appear while he was still drilling in the Legion's depot at Toulon.

And then suddenly came a new medical board and the young man who had been found fit two weeks before, was suddenly pronounced unfit. The first medical board had simply made a mistake, it appears.

Three-Act Comedy, "Here Comes Charlie," Scores Big Hit.

CAPACITY AUDIENCE

LAKEFIELD, May 1.—(Examiner Correspondence)—The Dramatic Club of the Efficiency League of the Lakefield United Church scored a big hit with their three-act comedy "Here Comes Charlie," presented in the town hall on Friday evening to a capacity audience. The annual dramatic entertainment of the League is always good but this year really went ahead even of last year's success. The play was full of action, had a definite well sustained plot and humour in abundance with every part well taken and a most attractive stage setting.

Where a fashionable young business man is called on to redeem a promise, made to an Ozark mountainer who had saved his life, that he would always be ready to grant any request, action starts for the mountaineer dies but asks the young man, Larry Elliott to take care of "little Charlie". This starts things with a vengeance for Larry is bewildered. Aunt Fanny, who rules Larry and his house with a rod of iron is raging and Ted Hartley, Larry's college chum is amused and continues to scatter his favorite peanut shells regardless of Aunt Fanny's rage. A small boy in the house amuses him but drives Aunt Fanny to hysterics but when the 'boy' 'arrives, accompanied by an uncle ,a regular hick, a surprise comes for the boy is a crude young girl who has a heart full of affection for "papa Larry" and who shocks aunt Fanny and Vivian Smythe-Kersey (Larry's fiance). Action is not lacking for a moment and the efforts of Mrs. and Miss Smythe-Kersey is to get rid of "Charley" and the antagonism of aunt Fanny to the girl form a very important part of the plot. The Smythe-Kerseys are on the verge of financial ruin. While posing as rich people but when Vivian finds Larry is not as well off as she thought the engagement is off.

The transformation of the "hillbilly" Charlie with a beautiful cultured young lady is a high light of the play, also the subjugation of aunt Fanny to "Charley's" fascinations. But we must not forget Uncle Alex Twiggs, the life of the party who staged his own little surprise for he was not as much of a 'hick' as anyone thought.

The parts were exceedingly well taken, both the heavier and lighter parts and in every case the characters lived the parts making the presentation very real. The Irish maid and her sweetheart, the policeman and the vapid Mortimer Smythe-Kersey were the other actors, all good, very good. "Uncle Alex Twiggs" was a treat and his appearance was greeted with roars of laughter from the audience. "Charley" (Charlotte) Hopps, the heroine was fascinating and the difficult part was admirably taken. Vivian, the young lady of fashion was a sharp contrast to "Charley" whom she despised. The two matrons parts were well taken, and the young men Larry and Ted were pleasing and well presented.

The cast was as follows: Nora Malone, cook at the Elliott's, Miss Eva Hendren; Officer Tim McGrill, her sweetheart, Harod Hamblin; Mrs. Fanny Famham, Larry's aunt, Miss Marion Miles; Larry Elliott, a young business man, Wallace Hendren; Ted Hartley, his college friend, Urias Springer; Vivian Smythe-Kersey, Larry's finance, Miss Helen Burgess; Uncle Alex. Twiggs, in charge of Charley, Jack Hendren; 'Charley' Hopps, Larry's ward, Miss Helen Miles; Mrs. Caroline Smythe-Kersey, a lady of fashion, Miss Margaret Tanner; Mortimer Smythe-Kersey, Vivian's brother, Stanley Dever; assistant director and prompter, Miss Margaret Richardson; director, Rev. W. R. Archer, B.A.

Between the acts several very pleasing musical number were given. Misses Doris Chittick and Frieda Webster gave a very attractive little sketch and duet "Mr. and Mrs.". Miss Mildred Purdy sang sweetly "Meet Me in Rosy Roseland" and Ralph Darling ("the lonesome singer of the air") gave a number, "Mississippi Valley" with quitar accompaniment in excellent form.

An excellent entertainment, a capacity audience and not a single jarring note; well worth repeating. This is the verdict of all who were present.

YOUNG'S POINT, May 1.—(Examiner Correspondence.)—On Friday evening last, robbers entered the grocery store and blacksmith shop owned by J. N. Brown of Young's Point, and escaped with a considerable amount of merchandise. Police were notified, but no trace has been found of the thieves.

The pall bearers were Patrick and Martin McAuliffe, Albert Franks A. Lowes, Michael Doran and Thomas Cavanagh.

MRS. JOHN McCOLL

HAVELOCK, May 1 (Examiner Correspondence).—Havelock's oldest resident, Mrs. John McColl, aged 93 years, passed away quietly last evening shortly after she had retired, at the home of Mrs. James Lang, with whom she has made her home since the removal of her son Archie McColl to Windsor.

Mrs. McColl, who had not been feeling quite so well for the past two weeks, was up and about her room on Monday, and had just been assisted to bed by Mrs. Lang when death came.

Mrs. McColl was born in Murray Township, a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Bull, and lived in Murray until her marriage to the late John McColl, when they went to reside near Wooler, later taking up residence in Lake Townshin.

Since the death of her husband, a number of years ago, she had made her home in Havelock with her son, Mr. Archie McColl, until about a year ago, when he was moved to Windsor, at which time she went to live with Mrs. James Lang.

She leaves two sons and one daughter, Archie Sandy and Mrs. George Mace.

TRAVEL CLUB IS TO OPEN MONDAY ENROLL TO-DAY

el. There is no greater educator than travel. It broadens our minds, it gives up a keener insight, it makes us realize how tiny the "shell" is in which we live. We have all, at some time or other, met people who have travelled in foreign sections of the world and listened to their interesting stories, their experiences and relationships in the remote parts of the globe, and sometimes envied them for their great store of knowledge.

A Wonderful Opportunity

Fortunate indeed are those who are at liberty to leave at will for strange lands, where life takes on a new hue, where the realization of freedom manifests itself in a magnificent expanse of outdoor life, but how few are those who are free to drop the responsibilities of life and spend months exploring the remote parts of our strange world. The Examiner Travel Club affords just the opportunity to spend a couple of weeks of luxurious living in a foreign atmosphere where life is just like a pleasant dream. The glorious tour to New York and Bermuda will not be a long one. It will last two weeks, but each golden hour will be crowded with romance. It will be a tour that will remain in the memories of all who are on it as one of the highlights of their lives. Years hence ,they will recall the joyous days spent in beautiful Bermuda; the days at sea on board a palatial ocean liner will remain with them forever. The entire cruise will be a "never-to-be-forgotten" one.

Club Opens Monday

The Travel Club opens on Monday and those who are interested in taking part in the club are advised to turn to the announcement in this issue, clip the enrolment coupon and mail or bring it to the Travel Club immediately and be ready for the opening day. No doubt there are many who read the first announcement with great interest and intended to enter the club, but just put off making the start. If you are one of these, do not delay another minute. Do not hesitate. Remember, there are ten free trips to be awarded and if you are willing to make the proper effort you can be one of the happy ladies who will be leaving on these golden travel tours.

Up to the time of this issue, eight ladies have already enrolled and are ready for the starting day. Of course there is plenty of room for more club members, as many of the districts served by The Examiner are not yet represented.

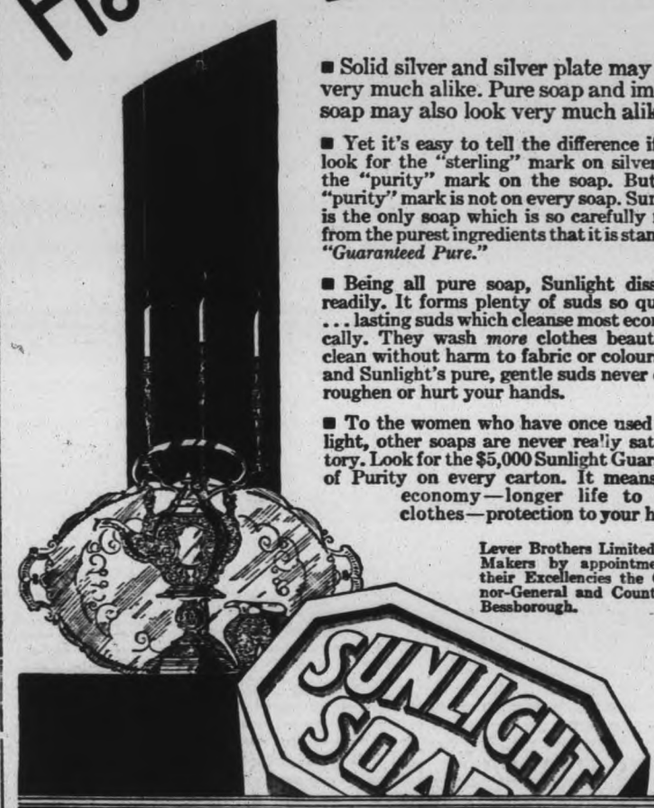
How do You tell the Difference?



■ Solid silver and silver plate may look very much alike. Pure soap and impure soap may also look very much alike.

■ Yet it's easy to tell the difference if you look for the "sterling" mark on silver and the "purity" mark on the soap. But this "purity" mark is not on every soap. Sunlight is the only soap which is so carefully made from the purest ingredients that it is stamped: "Guaranteed Pure."

■ Being all pure soap, Sunlight dissolves readily. It forms plenty of suds so quickly . . . lasting suds which cleanse most economically. They wash more clothes beautifully clean without harm to fabric or colours . . . and Sunlight's pure, gentle suds never could roughen or hurt your hands.

■ To the women who have once used Sunlight, other soaps are never really satisfactory. Look for the $5,000 Sunlight Guarantee of Purity on every carton. It means real economy—longer life to your clothes—protection to your hands.

NOW YOU CAN ENTIRELY CORRECT YOUR CONSTIPATION

— by following this treatment that checks its chief cause

"THE BIGGEST HEALTH NEWS IN YEARS —it should stop the cathartic habit," says Dr. Richard von Stenitzer (lower right) of this new fresh yeast. Dr. von Stenitzer is Primarius of the Consular Academy in Vienna.

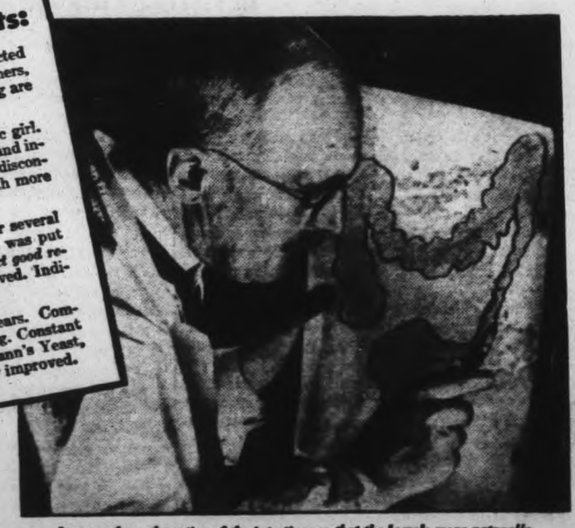
In leading hospitals . . . patients got these marked benefits:

IN one hospital, 93% of chronic constipation cases were corrected by treatment with the new Fleischmann's Yeast. In two others, 83% and 94% of constipation cases were relieved. The following are actual cases from one hospital's records:—

CASE OF U.S. AGE 22. WOMAN. Anemic, highly neurotic girl. Constipated 5 years. Complained of loss of appetite, gas pains and indigestion. Was put on the new Fleischmann's Yeast, cathartics discontinued. She began to have regular bowel movements, ate with more appetite, digestion gave her little or no trouble.

CASE OF I.C. AGE 44. MAN. Chronic constipation over several years. Headaches. Habitual user of purgatives. "This case was put on the new Fleischmann's Yeast for a trial. I did not expect good results." Bowel movements became regular, appetite improved. Indigestion, headaches almost completely disappeared.

CASE OF T.E. AGE 42. MAN. Constipated 2 or 3 years. Complained of sour stomach and pain in stomach after eating. Constant user of cathartics. After being put on the new Fleischmann's Yeast, bowel movements became regular, indigestion markedly improved.



It strengthens the action of the intestines so that the bowels move naturally.

This new food supplies substances your intestines need to work right. Helps you to avoid laxatives!

SIMPLY BY ADDING ONE FOOD to the diet—many clinics and hospitals now find it possible to completely correct constipation!

Constipation usually comes from an undersupply in the diet of certain "protective substances" needed to keep your intestinal tract active and healthy.

No ordinary diets—not even with fruits and green vegetables—supply enough of these substances. But one food supplies them all in abundance.

Richest Known Source

The new Fleischmann's Yeast is the richest known food source of these "protective substances." It stimulates and strengthens the nerves and muscles of both stomach and intestines, and brings about stronger, more vigorous action of your whole intestinal tract.

As a result, you digest your food better. Bowels begin to move regularly, without the aid of cathartics. There is a great improvement in your general health.

Your skin clears up. Appetite and digestion both improve. You've more energy—a happier, more buoyant outlook on life.

Begin today to eat the new Fleischmann's Yeast, and eat it regularly every day. Don't stop because you see an improvement. Keep on eating it! And eat it right! The rules at the right will help you:—

THE NEW FLEISCHMANN'S YEAST can give complete bowel regularity—help keep you free from constipation and allied troubles. It is a food—not a medicine.

Eat 2 or 3 cakes of this new Fleischmann's Yeast every day. Some eat 4 or even 5 cakes, no need. Eat it plain, or dissolved in a little water—or in milk or fruit juices.

Eat it ½ hour before meals—on an empty stomach to start juices flowing.

Discontinue cathartics gradually (not all at once). As this new yeast strengthens your bowels and brings about natural movements, you can cut out laxatives altogether.

You can get the new Fleischmann's Yeast—in the foil-wrapped cake with yellow label—at grocers, soda fountains, drug stores and restaurants.

WEDNESDAY, MAY 1, 1935

THE NEWSPAPER LEADS.

According to a report on national advertising for 1934 made to the American Newspaper Publishers' Association in convention at New York, it will be a long time before radio publicity will crowd the newspaper out of first place in the list of effective advertising agencies.

Out of each advertising dollar spent last year this survey shows that 46.7 cents went to the newspapers, 35.5 cents to the magazines, 12.2 cents to chain broadcasting and 7.7 cents to outside advertising.

Altogether the huge sum of $163,000,000 was spent in the United States last year on national advertising by all four means, as against $145,000,000 the previous year, a gain of $18,000,000, which carries its own proof of better conditions and of greater confidence on the part of business and industry.

Undoubtedly the fact that radio advertising was successful in obtaining only a little better than 12 per cent. of the advertising appropriation last year as against a combined newspaper and magazine share of 79.2 per cent. will be a revelation to many people, who seem to have been entertaining the idea that broadcasting has been usurping the place of printed advertisements.

As a matter of fact, radio advertising is still an experiment, and its value has yet to be determined.

When it is realized that 27 per cent. of the broadcasting publicity on the air in 1933 did not make reappearances in last year's programs, it will be seen that a good many advertisers have had reason to question the efficacy of the radio as an advertising medium.

CONDITIONS IN ONTARIO.

According to the quarterly survey of business conditions in Canada, made by the Bank of Nova Scotia, there has been a steady but moderate improvement in Ontario during the past three months.

The bank's seasonally corrected index of employment advanced by 3 per cent. from January 1 to March 1, and the losses registered in the autumn months.

While the latest figure was below the peak reached last July, it was higher than for the corresponding date in 1934.

As a matter of fact, if allowance be made for the normal season change in the early part of the year, it appears, according to the survey, that employment conditions improved by more than 5 per cent. in the factories, by even more in construction work, and that employment in the mines was up about one per cent.

By far the greatest gain, of course, was recorded by automobile plants whose production during the winter was expanded, even more sharply than usual. The output during the first two months of the current year, 128,700 cars, exceeded that for any corresponding period since 1929, and compared favorably with the 16,500 machines produced in January and February of last year.

Textile factories were fairly busy, but newsprint mills failed to maintain the high rate of operation reached at the close of last year.

Construction contracts awarded in Ontario were valued at $18,640,000 during the past three months, as compared with $12,880,000 in the same period last year, with the principal cause of this upturn being the public works program of the Dominion Government.

FINANCING RELIEF.

The announcement made by Premier Hepburn that Ontario proposes to meet relief costs by means of a special tax expected to yield $15,000,000, should occasion surprise to no one, in view of Mr. Hepburn's frequently voiced objection to pay for relief out of borrowed money.

The simple facts are that relief operations must be carried on, and if they are to be paid for out of current revenue, there is no other course for the Government than to adopt new methods of taxation.

Just what plan will be followed the Government has apparently not yet decided; it may be, Mr. Hepburn states, an income tax, a straight tax on salaries or a turnover tax.

There will be many people who will favor the third method, regarding a turnover tax, as the fairest, simplest and most effective means of obtaining revenue, as the burden will be shared by the whole population, while the other levies suggested would fall heaviest upon the wage-earners whose income is easily ascertained, and who have not the same chance of evading the tax as have other classes in the population.

While nobody is likely to do any cheering over the prospect of additional taxation, relief has to be financed, and the most business-like and the most economical course is to pay as you go, rather than pile up more debt and add to the yearly interest burden.

Mr. Hepburn is right in insisting upon this policy, even if to carry it out means another substantial addition to the heavy load of taxation already carried by the people of the province.

PLAIN SPEAKING.

Some plain truths were uttered by Premier Hepburn on the occasion of his second visit to the Crowland strike area, and they were things that needed to be said.

In the first place, his castigation of outside agitators will be generally approved; these individuals have caused trouble wherever their influence has been felt and an emphatic warning from the head of the Provincial Government should serve a very useful purpose so far as the efforts of these people are concerned.

Then, too, the Premier was quite justified in reminding the strikers that half the people of the country were working to help the other half in idleness, and while this condition was not the fault of large numbers of the unemployed, yet it was reasonable to expect that when opportunities to work were provided these should be taken advantage of.

There may be some inequalities in regard to the Crowland situation that should be smoothed off, but even if that condition does exist it does not offer any excuse for a strike among relief workers, nor for rioting or disturbances.

As Premier Hepburn has pointed out, the province of Ontario is not to be bluffed, nor can those who are guilty of damage to property expect to remain out of jail.

Thanks to the influence of agitators, there are too many people who think that they can take the law into their own hands, and who seem to be laboring under the delusion that all they have to do to secure more relief is to stage a riot.

The money for relief comes out of the pockets of those who have to pay taxes, and their sympathy is being alienated by the actions of certain groups whose conduct is not only hurting themselves but all other recipients of relief.

AFTER RAYON—WOOLSTRA.

Germany's inability to consume her own products or to export the unpurchasable surplus has driven her to invent a new textile called "woolstra," which is a synthetic substitute for wool. This substance is already being extensively used in German clothing, and, of course, it is far cheaper than wool.

Because it is so much cheaper, Australia, world's largest wool exporter, is being warned that she cannot afford any longer to ignore the threat of woolstra. Not only is Germany herself of necessity having to adopt this wool substitute, but France and Italy are said to be attracted by its possibilities. This threatens Australia's market, and if the new fabric should gain popularity, the Commonwealth would be in a decidedly unhappy position.

Under any sensible economic system, whereby people could consume what they produce, woolstra would not be a menace because it would not be needed while genuine wool was available. But cheapness is essential to-day because keeping costs to their lowest level is essential to the working of the existing financial system. Hence the nation which can cut its costs most drastically is, under the current regime, the most successful. And as long as the current regime lasts, woolstra will not only be a menace to Australia's welfare but to living standards everywhere.

Some will say that, despite Germany's experiment, there is no substitute for wool. A few years ago people said there was no substitute for silk. Now rayon is one of the world's major industries. And if woolstra is a good substitute for wool and costs half as much, it will find its way into the markets of the world. It is another case of what really ought to be a boon proving to be a menace.—Ottawa Citizen.

FREE SILVER.

Talk of free silver in the United States is heard exultantly from those who are anxious to see silver mine stocks soar and the subsidized market price of silver go up. By free silver is meant the free coinage of all silver at what is known as the Bryan ratio of 16 to 1. This means that 16 ounces of silver are equivalent in value to one ounce of gold. Under a 16 to 1 free silver scheme this value would be set by the Government of the country adopting the scheme, even though the law of supply and demand might not call for that ratio.

Backers of free silver talk of the day coming soon when silver will be priced by the United States treasury at $1.29 per ounce. When that happens they say free silver at 16 to 1 is achieved automatically.

However, that is open to argument. When President Roosevelt made his first gesture to the silver group, he set the price of silver at $1.29 per ounce, but the silver producer only got half of that, or 64.5 cents. The remaining half was retained by the treasury as seigniorage and for services rendered relative to the coinage and delivery of the silver dollars. It was really a polite way of saying the price was only 64.5 cents per ounce, but for the sake of good fellowship they called it $1.29 and kept back half.

On April 10 the price of silver was raised by Mr. Roosevelt to 71.11 cents per ounce; then on Wednesday the price was boosted again to 77.57 cents per ounce.

At first blush that 77.57 cents per ounce appears to be creeping up close to the $1.29 per ounce and 16 to 1 ratio for free silver.

But the $1.29 per ounce is estimated on the gold ratio of the dollar which figures gold at $20.67 per ounce. And the 77.57 cents per ounce are devalued gold dollar cents and not gold dollar cents. The 77.57 devalued gold dollar cents dwindle to a mere 48 gold dollar cents.

In terms of devaued gold dollar cents the price of silver will have to be raised to $2.19 per ounce to be in ratio of 16 to 1 with the present statutory gold value of $35 per ounce.

If the silver enthusiasts are going to use the paper money figures to value silver, they must also use paper money figures to compare the value of gold. They cannot make comparisons by using different sets of figures.

The chief thing at the moment for the silver enthusiasts, however, is not to worry about the difference between paper dollars and gold dollars. They have won another joust with Mr. Roosevelt and the United States Government is doing something more as a gesture to the silver group and the inflationist lobby. The action helps the speculators and pushes up the value of silver shares. Whether it will help solve the financial dilemma of that nation is a horse of another color.—Border Cities Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

According to one newspaper report, Premier Hepburn did not mince his words in talking to the Crowland unemployed. For all that, however, he is likely to make hash of the strike.

Peterborough is fortunate inasmuch as May 1 is merely the beginning of another month, rather than the occasion for labor demonstrations and disturbances.

Canadians are not likely to get unduly excited over the report that Uncle Sam is establishing an air base near the border. They refuse to believe that there is any significance in the project so far as this country is concerned.

It is reported that the Departments of Public Welfare and Labor are to be combined, with Mr. Roebuck relinquishing the latter portfolio. It looks as if Hon. David Croll will not have much time to devote to the federal election.

The Globe perhaps has failed to notice that serious outbreaks are not unknown in both English and American prisons. To put the blame for such conditions entirely upon the administration staff is to overlook the fact that bad prisoners rather than bad officials may be the chief cause of trouble.

Magistrate Burbidge of Hamilton thinks a year's imprisonment is too severe a penalty for a man who steals an automobile. The magistrate apparently has never had his car stolen.—Chatham News.

DAYLIGHT SAVING

To the Editor of The Examiner,

Sir,—I think it would be a very sensible thing to have Daylight Saving. With the Auburn Woolens and other factories having it, it surely makes it awkward for the housewife. Half of the city on and the other half off they are coming in for meals at all times.

I would suggest that Mayor Denne and the City Council put the city on Daylight Saving at once.

What's in the Name of Canadian Cities and Towns?

By FRANK H. WILLIAMS

HUNTSVILLE, ONTARIO

Situated in the Lake of Bays district, comprising the northern part of the famous Muskoka district, Huntsville's earliest history is identified with the occupancy by the Algonquin Indians, who established many trading posts in the vicinity.

White settlement in this district dates back about 75 years, when travellers and hunters from Orillia and other southern points came in to find game in abundance.

The railway penetrated the region in 1886 and the possibilities of the district as a beautiful summer resort soon became appreciated.

The naming of the town is veiled in secrecy, but it is assumed to be closely associated with the game possibilities and may have been bestowed by an Indian.

ALL OF US

(By Marshall Maslin.)

OH, MR. PITKIN

Mr. Pitkin, I've been looking through your book. I mean the one you wrote about Life Beginning at Forty....I thought I ought to, for I was 40 a few months ago. When your book came out a year or so ago, and sold so well because there are so many people about to be 40, or 40, or just past 40, I didn't see any need to be reading it....For I was only 39, and there are centuries of time between 39 and 40.

But now that I actually am 40, I thought I ought to read it ...So I read it, and perhaps I ought to tell you that I don't feel any different. Your medicine didn't do me any good, Mr. Pitkin...Perhaps I didn't "give myself" wholeheartedly enough to the book. Perhaps I had my tongue in my cheek. Perhaps I didn't honestly accept that title of yours: "Life Begins at Forty." I was skeptical.

Yes, I WAS skeptical. I believe Life Begins at Forty and I don't believe it....My idea is that it is "beginning" all the time. It has been ending and starting every year of my life. And I don't expect it to start all over again, suddenly, explosively, at 40.

Besides, if Life Begins at Forty for me, what have I been doing all my life up till now?

I used to be a little kid with long yellow curls. And then my mother cut them off. I used to ride a velocipede down the cee-ment sidewalk. Then I had a bike. And I read all Henty's books and Horatio Alger's. And went swimming in our home town river. And had a "girl". And saw my first honest-to-goodness PLAY, and my first movies....And went to college and was very lonely and then not so lonely and had my triumphs and my disasters....And I went to war and I saw men die. And I've been in love. And I've fathered children and I saw a child born....I've been a fool and I've been fairly wise. I've been cranky and I've been philosophical. I've been a coward and I've been brave. I've worked and I've loafed.

Seems to me, Mr. Pitkin, I've done considerable living up to now, and I'd be awfully sorry if Life Begins at Forty. All I ask is that it KEEP ON GOING.... That'll be plenty. That'll be enough to keep me busy and as happy as I deserve.

A Thought

HAPPINESS

If your world seems full of sadness,
Disappointment and regret,
You are sure that no one ever,
Trials braver could have met.

You have mercy, never judge men,
Give your best to weak, to strong
If you've understanding kindness,
Yes, and give it with a song.

And you love the folks around you
And all those above your station,
Yet you know that seldom ever
Do you get appreciation.

Think of others who have suffered
Never telling what they've stood,
But they trusted, loved, remembered
Things, together work for good.

'Tis by trials they have conquered,
Bravely health and wealth have won,
And you'll prove by prudent patience
Happiness has just begun.

Your Health

By DR LOGAN CLENDENING

In the little city of Wurzberg in South Germany there stands a building which I would recommend to public works administrators, and all other planners who are trying to help out humanity, because it is the best example I know of the result of getting the most for your money by taking the long view. It is the Institute of Physics which was erected a good many years ago to develop experimental physics at the university. Something cataclysmic occurred there because a genius happened to be made the head of the department of physics, and the result was that in 1895 W. C. Rontgen discovered the properties of the X-ray.

The X-ray has been found useful in so many fields of diagnosis that I think, undoubtedly, it may be said to have been the greatest single discovery so far as the field of medical diagnosis is concerned.

When the first practice steps were taken with it, it was thought that its use would be confined entirely to diagnosis of injuries, fractures and dislocations of bones. While it has been continuously helpful in this, with the advance in technique and increase in the refinement of X-ray photography, its usefulness has broadened out so that there is hardly any part of the body to which it cannot be applied.

About ten years after its discovery, Dr. W. B. Cameron of Harvard found that by feeding food impregnated with bismuth, the bismuth would throw a shadow on the X-ray plate, and it was possible to take an outline of the stomach and intestines and also to show their movements. Thus the diagnosis of digestive diseases was extended. The idea that soft parts such as the stomach could be shown on the X-ray led to an extension of its application to diseases of the chest. At first this was called "soft tissue work," but now the differentiation is so fine that practically all diseases of the lung will show changes on the X-ray plate, and the size of the heart and its movements can be seen.

A whole field of discovery was opened up when the use of dyes which throw shadows on the X-ray plate was used. Among the most valuable was that of the dye excreted by the liver and held in the gall-bladder. This has allowed us to make positive identification of gallstones, which usually threw no shadow of the X-ray plate under ordinary circumstances. Stones in the kidney, of course, were, early in the history of the X-ray, found to be identifiable.

In connection with dyes, one of the most interesting of the new developments is the possibility that a dye can be given which will remain in the blood vessels of the spleen, the kidney and the liver, and show the outline of these organs.

LAKEFIELD HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS' CHORUS MAKES HIT

LAKEFIELD, May 1 (Examiner Correspondence)—The girls chorus of the Lakefield High School made a big hit in the musical festival at the O.E.A. where they gave two numbers, "Fairies' Chorus," a two-part selection and "Good Night," (three parts). The girls in their becoming uniforms were excellent in deportment and performance, good to look at and delightful to listen to. Their conductor, Mr. H. C. Renaud, who had spent a great deal of time in the training of the girls had good reason to be proud of their performance and appearance. The applause of the audience, who crowded the Eaton Auditorium to capacity was hearty and appreciative. None of the adjoining counties were represented and the Lakefield girls were the sole representatives of Central Ontario.

A DAY IN CANADIAN HISTORY

By Fred Williams

MILITARY RAID ON BROCKVILLE

On this date (May 1) in 1809 Brockville was the scene of an unjustified military raid by United States troops. A small schooner having on board a detachment of U.S. infantry, under Captain William P. Bennett, anchored in a small bay on the Canadian side. Bennett had been told by an anonymous informer that Isaac D. Underhill, a deserter from his regiment, was teaching school in Elizabethtown as Brockville was then called. Bennett landed with an N.C.O. and two privates fully armed and marched to the school where Underhill was captured. On passing the house where he lodged, the prisoner attempted to escape by running to it and shouting for assistance. Two shots were fired. Underhill fell mortally wounded; he died the next day.

After a coroner's inquest had returned a verdict of wilful murder against Bennett and his three companions, three magistrates made application to the magistrates of Western New York, asking the surrender of the four accused. They replied that the quartette had left their jurisdiction. On May 16 the magistrates of the Johnstown District adopted a memorial to Governor Gore, reciting the facts and praying that steps be taken to bring the offenders to justice. Gore wrote to London, stating the facts and asking that the British ambassador make representations to the United States government. But nothing was ever done. The only satisfaction the Canadians got was to be told many months later that Bennett had been tried by court martial and reprimanded, but returned to the command of his company. This did not improve the sentiment on our side of the line and for a long time United States soldiers were not welcomed.

RECORD ENTRY FOR FESTIVAL

Marked Increase Over Last Year's Entries Shown for Durham Event.

HELD AT PORT HOPE

Close to three hundred entries have been received by the secretary for the fourth Durham Music Festival which will be held in the United Church Port Hope on May 15th, 16th and 17th. Each year the number of entries has shown a marked increase and a pleasing feature this year is that there is only one class in which no entry has been made.

Through the co-operation of J. S. Atkinson, Director of the Canadian Bureau for the Advancement of Music, Frank Welsman has been obtained to act as adjudicator. Mr. Welsman is one of the leading piano teachers in Canada and is an all round orchestra man having been conductor of the Toronto Symphony Orchestra for years. He is also a choir master and church organist and knows voices and singing. Mrs. Jessie White, Toronto who has been present at the three previous performances will again act as Festival Secretary. The efficient manner with which the programs were staged indicates Mrs. White's much appreciated ability.

Membership tickets at fifty cents are available this year. These act as a pass to all competitive programs, but are not good for the final concert which will be twenty-five cents to all. To a non member the total admission for all the competitions would be one dollar. You are therefore, encouraged to support the association with your much needed membership. A. E. Fulford, Port Hope is chairman of the ticket committee and will be glad to furnish you with your membership ticket. The following persons have taken charge of this work in their respective districts: Mrs. E. Robb, Orono; Mrs. G. Campbell, Newtonville; Miss H. A. Mason Newcastle, and J. H. Johnston, Bowmanville.

COUPLE HONORED AT YOUNG'S POINT

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Wilson Presented With Candelabra on 40th Wedding Day.

YOUNG'S POINT, May 1.—(Examiner Correspondence.)—On Wednesday evening, April 24, in celebration of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Wilson's fortieth wedding anniversary, their family held a surprise party at their home, and presented them with a beautiful silver candelabra.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson were married forty years ago in St. John's church, Lakefield by Archdeacon Warren, incumbent then in charge. They took up residence in Young's Point at that time when Mr. Wilson began cheese-making in the same cheese factory that he is still operating.

MARMORA MAN UNHURT IN CRASH AFTER PUNCTURE

MARMORA, May 1 (Examiner Correspondence).—About 11.30 p.m. on Sunday, as Marshall Sopha of this village was driving his car westward on No. 7 Highway, he had the misfortune when two miles east of Norwood to have a blow out to his left front tire. At the same time his car sideswiped another car journeying to Marmora. Though both cars were damaged to some extent, none of the occupants were hurt.

Millais' picture, "Charley Is My Darling", was sold recently in London for $760, less than half the price paid for it 35 years ago.

Market Closing On All Exchanges

WALL STREET

NEW YORK, May 1 (AP) — The stock market maintained its early steadiness in post-noon trading today despite a dribbling of selling in metal shares which cancelled most of their advances following another reduction in bar silver.

A run-up of nearly 2 points in American Bank Note on reports that the company had secured profitable business contracts with the Mexican Government, featured late trading. Among other shares holding early gains were Bethlehem Steel, American Telephone, Chrysler, Johns-Manville, Montgomery Ward, Loews, Douglas Aircraft, Union Pacific, Pullman, and Brooklyn Manhattan Transit. U.S. Smelting and Cerro de Pasco lost all of their advantage and slipped a trifle lower. The late tone was steady. Sales aggregate 800,000 shares.

MONTREAL EXCHANGE

MONTREAL, May 1 (CP)—Stocks see-sawed in a small arc on Montreal Stock Exchange to-day and prices at the close were irregular with volume the lightest in more than a week.

Penman's lost 3 points to sell at a new low of 52, while Canadian Celanese Common was off ⅝ at 20⅞ and the Preferred ½ at 106½.

B.C. Power rose ½ at 25, Dominion Steel ⅜ at 4⅞. Industrial Alcohol ⅛ at 9⅝ and Dominion Bridge ⅛ at 26½. McColl Frontenac and Power Corporation were narrowly lower and Canada Cement Preferred eased ½ at 56.

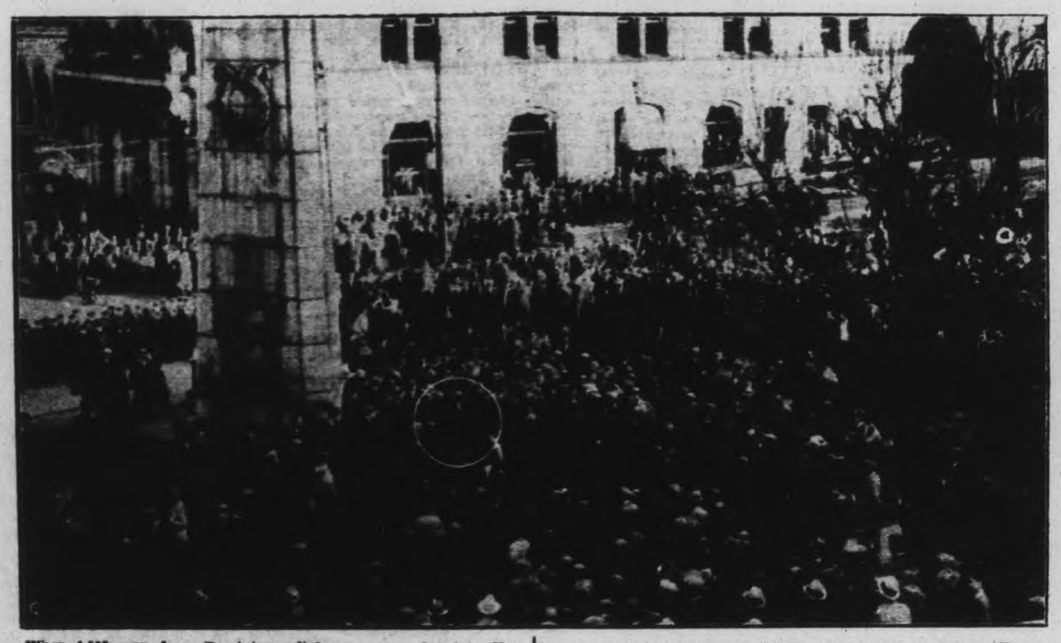
As Mayor Read Riot Act To Vancouver Strikers



When 1,500 men from Dominion relief camps crowded into Vancouver demanding work, serious riots took place which required assistance of R.C.M.P. to quell. Mayor G. G. McGeer after receiving a delegation, finally took recourse in reading Riot Act from foot of Vancouver cenotaph. He is seen (CIRCLE) as he read the famous act.

DOMINION STEEL SHOWS ADVANCE

Losses Outnumber Gains in Industrials Due to Late Hour Selling.

OILS MODERATELY SOFT.

TORONTO, May 1 (C.P.).—Distillery stocks moved ahead quite confidently in to-day's session only to take the count in the last hour, gains running up to a full point being more than half erased. Dominion Steel featured the day's operations with heavy volume on a rise of close to a half-point and Nickel and Ford A maintained a firm front, while the oils were moderately soft. Losses outnumbered gains at the close.

Distilletrs Seagrams pushed up to 15 for a gain of a point and the close around 14% showed more than half the advance forfeited. Walkers Common made a full retreat from the day's high and Industrial Alcohol A closed unchanged.

Fractional recessions occurred in Imperial and International Pete. Brazilian and C.P.R. worked lower. Consolidated Smelters was weakened by the cut in the bar silver quotation to show a loss of more than a point.

In the steel group Page-Hersey, Pressed Metals, Steel of Canada, and Dominion Bridge followed the lead given by Dominion Steel, and chalke dup gains.

Trout Get Break As Season Opens

The weather man gave the trout a break this morning with a cold dip that left a layer of ice on standing water as a chill and unseasonable greeting for the first sun of May.

The robins greeted this May Day of 1935 with a warmth of song that didn't fool the hook and line men, snuggling under their blankets. They rolled over around five o'clock and decided to wait until the frost went out of the air at dawn. Some of the local ardent anglers postponed their attack on the streams until this afternoon. At any rate, a canvass of the Fish and Game fraternity failed to get a nibble of news. Some of the members were too busy, believe it or not, but are all set for another day; and others intimated that fishing should be a pleasant outing, and not an affair of endurance for spirits like Dick Byrd and his Antarctic explorers.

NO MYTH ABOUT INDIAN CHIEFS

Leading U. S. Authority Upholds Canadian Claim Regarding Iroquois.

DISTINCT RULERS.

BINGHAMPTON, N.Y., May 1 (CP)—Young Canada and the youth of the United States may chase Indian chiefs all over slumberland tonight, secure in the knowledge its quarry are real entities and not mere story-book creatures. For the leading United States authority on the Iroquois says, the Smithsonian Institution to the contrary notwithstanding, that there were Indian chiefs.

Dr. Arthur C. Parker of Rochester, former State Archaeologist and recognized successor to the late Dr. William Beauchamp of Syracuse as foremost united States authority on history and folklore of the Six Nations—in a statement to the Binghampton Press to-day set Smithsonian authorities right on their recent declaration "there were no real Indian chiefs."

"The Iroquois and many other groups," said Dr. Parker, "certainly had civil and military chiefs whose authority within their fields was not disputed save for failure to perform expected functions."

Canadian Protest Right

Referring to the protest of Brantford Ont., Iroquois authorities to the Smithsonian Bulletin, Dr. Parker said:

"The Canadian authority who replies that the Six Nations of the Iroquois had civil chiefs is correct. Iroquois civil sachems constituted a council operating under rules and regulations as definite as those of the United States Senate and with even greater decorum. What the Washington bureau may mean is that in Indian government there was no executive function capable of rigorous enforcement.

"With the Indians, however, social pressure took care of that. With the Indians government proceeded from the group as an entity and was not imposed from above. Thus may have arisen the statement that there were no chiefs. To dispute this fact is only mincing definitions."

MINING ISSUES RETAIN GROUND

White Metal Shares Disturbed Mildly by Cut in Bar Silver Price.

VOLUME DOWN.

TORONTO, May 1 (C.P.).—The mining section of the Toronto Exchange lacked the spirit to resume the recent advance to-day but was able to hold its ground despite some adverse news. A cut of about ¾ of a cent in the bar silver price disturbed the silver shares only mildly, while base metals were generally firm and the golds were irregularly higher Volume was down, fewer than a half million shares changing hands in the first four hours or about a third of last week's volume.

Eldorado, Nipissing, Premier, Castle and Bear closed 3 to 15 cents lower each. Selling of Noranda expanded mildly in the afternoon to give the price a loss of about 75 cents.

McWatters worked down about 5 cents to the 1.65 mark. Little Long Lac, Macassa and Sylvanite worked lower. Acme Oil at 23 was up a point and Royallte at $22 was up 25 cents.

FARM DEMANDS

tracted to the farms at this season.

That is the reason why the quotas have been generally reduced, and it is expected that the men from the camps, especially those who have experience on the farms, will take up this work again while they are needed. The outlook for farmers seems to be better than a year ago, and quite a number of men will be needed throughout the county.

The groups of settlers who have been working north of Buckhorn and east of Apsley have been reduced to a time basis of 200 man-days a month as a further means of provding labor for the farms."

Mr. Selkirk said that several men who had enquired about the May change in the number of men employed in the road camps had remarked that they preferred to stay in the camps, but the Government's policy is quite definite in this matter. It has been intimated that if reports come in from the country to the effect that farmers find difficulty in hiring help there may be a tendency to shut down the road camps.

"The farmers' jobs of putting in the crop and harvesting it are more important than building the northern roads, which were chiefly to meet an emergency" Mr. Selkirk added, "and that is where unemployed and experienced farm workers are expected to go while their labor is needed."

London Strikers Try Job 2 Weeks

LONDON, Ont., May 1.—(CP)—London township relief strikers staged a May Day parade today—back to work.

Township officials reported about 20 of the 30 unemployed men took up their picks and shovels on a drainage job in the northern part of the township, thus ending the strike which lasted exactly four weeks.

Practically all of the men, acting under an agreement reached with the township council, accepted emergency relief orders to tide their families over until they receive their pay again.

There was only one dark spot in the settlement and that was the men's decision it be merely conditional. They said they were trying out the township's offer for two weeks only, reserving the right to ask for better terms, if they so decided, at the end of that time.

COACH TOO HEAVY FOR KING'S TRIP

Their Majesties and Premiers Will go to Jubilee Service in Landaus.

LONDON, May 1 (C.P.). — When the King and Queen drive from Buckingham Palace to St. Paul's Cathedral for the thanksgiving service Jubilee Day, May 6, the accompanying procession must step lively, the order being to move at a "slow trot."

Their Majesties will make the journey in an open state landau drawn by six of the famous Windsor grey horses. The first proposal they should ride in the coronation coach built for King Edward VII. has been dropped. This great vehicle weighs 3½ tons and could not travel at the pace required for the procession.

Nine other landaus, each drawn by four bay horses from the royal mews, will accompany the King's carriage. They will bear to the cathedral the royal princes, the Prime Minister of the United Kingdom, the Prime Ministers of the Dominions and other representatives of the Empire's dominions and colonies. The route will be lined with 10,500 men of the Royal Navy, the Army and Royal Air Force.

54 Births In April Set Record For Year

Births and marriages last month reached a new high point for the first four months of the current year, with births totalling 54, and marriages 14, statistical records at the City Hall show. For the same period the death rate of 34 showed a decrease of 12 deaths as compared with March.

As further comparison, it is noted the records for April 1934 show there were 31 births, 17 marriages, and 24 deaths.

No Foreign Royalty Invited To Jubilee

LONDON, May 1 (CP Cable).—No members of foreign royal families have been officially invited to the Royal Silver Jubilee commemorations and in this respect they will differ from the coronation and Queen Victoria's Diamond Jubilee.

The King at the outset made known his own desire the celebrations be "as near as possible to the homes of the people." The Queen of Norway, however, will stay with her sister, Princess Victoria, and Queen Marie of Rumania is at present staying with Lady Dering at Tonbridge. Marie's last volume of reminiscences, just published, contains many intimate notes bearing on the King's reign.

Found Pleasure In Her Clothes

MONTREAL, April 30 (C.P.)—Sudden changes of spring weather present many difficulties to the woman who aspires to be always comfortably and appropriately dressed. After studying fashion pages of 30 years ago, however, "D.D.", women's page writer of The Star, concluded that "it might be worse."

One costume described was a smoke-grey walking suit, much tucked and pleated, with which was worn a "big hat of white crinolin and braid, with ruches of tulle, white ostrich feathers and pink tinted camelias." Also for practical occasions was "a hat of pale blue chip straw with tulle and ribbon to match and deep garnet roses."

'I found myself," commented D.D. "thinking rather fondly of my good old four season $1.50 felt, that I could wear in any weather, put it in my pocket, or sit on at the movies."

HIGHER PRICES FOR LIVESTOCK

Gradual Increase in Price of Farm Produce is Forecast.

LIVESTOCK SHORTAGE.

TORONTO, May 1. — (CP). — Prospect of a gradual increase in farm prices, particularly in livestock led him to believe it would be wise for farmers to employ additional men, Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn said to-day in support of the plan Minister of Welfare Croll announced last night to ease the relief situation by having farmers employ men now on relief.

Higher prices for livestock, Mr. Hepburn believes, would result from destruction by the United States' government last year of a large number of hogs and cattle. Classing the destruction as "an economic waste," the Premier said now there was a shortage of livestock on the North American Continent.

While he realized it was impossible for farmers to pay high wages, Mr. Hepburn siad he thought reasonable and attractive wages could be paid.

Restaurant Owner Is Slain In Victoria

VICTORIA, May 1.—(CP).—Clarence Pappas, Victoria restaurant owner, was shot to death to-day in front of his home and police began an intensive search for a fellow Greek with whom he had ridden in a taxicab.

Information given to police indicated Pappas and the other man met in a cafe of which Pappas was principal owner. They left together in a taxicab driven by J. P. White. The driver said the men seemed to be arguing.

When the car stopped, Pappas got out and was about to enter his home. White told the police, the other man sprang from the car, whipped out a pistol and sent three bullets crashing into the victim's back. The slayer fled.

CANCEL GRANTS HEALTH NURSES

Ontario Government Discontinues Grants to Municipalities.

NO GRANTS COMING HERE.

TORONTO, May 1 (C.P.). — The Ontario Government has discontinued grants to municipalities for health nurses, Minister of Health J. A. Faulkner said to-day.

"If municipalities feel they need a nurse, they must pay for them, our money is limited," said the Minister. Dr. Faulkner added there were only a few municipalities receiving this grant.

The Government's decision was in accordance with estimates passed at the recently completed session of th Legislature. After April 1 of this year no provision was made for grants to nurses.

The Government made grants to about 40 municipalities, it was learned at the Department of Health. The grant was $400 for one nurse. For each additional nurse the grant was $100 except in cities of more than 200,000 population, where the grant for each additional nurse was $25.00.

Dr. G. S. Cameron, secretary of the Peterborough Health Association, said that this announcement by the Minister of Health did not affect the nursing service carried on by the Association.

"Our service is really a private enterprise which is carried on in the interest of the public," Dr. Cameron told The Examiner. "The Association receives a grant of $1,000 a year from the City Council, but we have never had the assistance of any grant from the Government."

The effectual work of the Peterborough Health Association has been so consistently recognized by the Council as deserving the support of the municipality that the local grant of $1,000 has been paid from year to year as an appreciation of a nursing service that has been invaluable to many homes which could not afford it from their own slim resources.

STRUCTURAL CONDITIONS AT GILMOUR.

R. J. Parquharson, B.Sc., M.E. in charge of operations at Gilmour Gold Syndicate in Hastings county, Ontario, reports that the rock formation and the network of veins are exceptionally favorable for the location of more rich ore. The vein shows cross-fracturing, a condition that caused the deposition of gold to be richer there than in other parts of the district where this does not occur.

The Colby vein, which is from 3 to 5 feet on surface, has been opened up by a pit. Just south of the pit is one of these cross-veins. Another vein was traced over 1,000 feet. Mr. Parquharson states that the porpnyry dike near the mill may connect with the Colby vein. On top of the hill north of the old stamp mill is another vein, which after trenching should yield good values; the same may be said for No. 6 vein. Channel samples were secured from some of these veins, and forwarded for assay.

In conclusion, Mr. Farquharson states: "In general, the network of veins at the Gilmour is ideal for mining, and the tonnage available will be large if the surface indications mean anything."

Erected in St. Mark's Church at Bonarlaw in Honor of Mary Ann Cooke.

30 ARE CONFIRMED.

BONARLAW, May 1 (Examiner Correspondence).—On Sunday last, the Right Rev. Dr. John Lyons, Lord Bishop of Ontario, visited Rawdon Parish. At St. Mark's Church at 11 a.m., twenty-three persons and at St Thomas' Church at 3 p.m. seven received the Apostolic Rite of the Laying on of Hands or Holy Confirmation

At the St. Mark's Church, Bishop Lyons dedicated the new font which was given as an expression of thanks from the congregation for the gift of the new church by the late Mary Ann Cooke. The tablet near the font reads: "This font is erected A.D.G.M., and in honored memory of Mary Ann Cooke by the Sunday School of St. Mark's Church Easter, 1935."

Following the dedication of the font, Dr. Lyons, assisted by the rector, Canon W. G. Swayne, performed the rite of Holy Confirmation and celebrated Holy Communion. The church was filled to overflowing and there were a large number of communicants.

In a very inspiring sermon, the Bishop dwelt upon the fact that the real power of the Christian church is the power of the Holy Spirit.

The church was beautifully decorated with flowers. The cut flowers on the altar were a gift from Mr. and Mrs. Morley Stocker in memory of their little son Jimmy.

The affair was in the form of a Visitors' Night, members from Canesteo, N.Y., Cobourg, end Trenton to the number of sixty were seated around the banquet table.

The principal speaker was the Rev. Harry Somers of Canisteo, N. Y., who in a most convincing and interesting manner outlined the sixth object of Rotary—"International Peace and Goodwill."

PEACE ABROAD

sion against the difficulties which still are to be overcome. What we want is not war, not unrest.

"Just as we restored peace within Germany, we want peace abroad, because only then can our domestic works be a success. May other nations understand that the Germany of to-day is not the Germany of yesterday."

A heavy thunderstorm accompanied the exercises at the airdrome. Der Fuehrer stood bare-headed, speaking from a high rostrum.

March in Snow.

Hundreds of thousands of German workers and employers marched through snow and bitter wind in celebration of Nazidom's May Day to-day, while tolling church bells announced the "day of national labor."

The thoroughfares, lined with closely packed ranks of storm troopers, reverberated to the stirring music of military bands and the songs of the marching columns.

A festival air prevailed throughout the city. No newspapers were being published, Government departments, banks and boerses were closed and post offices informed citizens they would have to call for their own mail.

Dr. Robert Ley, commissioner of trade unions, administered the oath to shop delegates assembled on fields throughout the Reich. These representatives repeated phrase by phrase the oath:

"I swear fidelity to Adolf Hitler. I swear that I will practice and advance the idea of the community. I swear I will be an honest helper to my comrades of labor whenever troubles beset them. I swear I will place the interests of my nation ahead of everything else."

RUSH POINT Y.P.I. HOLD TAFFY PULL

Novelty Arranged by Mr. and Mrs. E. Pollock Follows Regular Program.

RUSH POINT, May 1.—(Examiner Correspondence.)—Through the generosity of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Pollock, the members of the Rush Point Young People's League enjoyed the novelty of a maple taffy-pull at the White church on Thursday evening, April 25.

The program was arranged by Ray Wrightly. Unfortunately the musical numbers had to be omitted because of the unavoidable absence of some of the members.

A very fine paper, the topic for the evening, was handled by Miss Helen Buchanan. This was followed by an appropriate talk and illustrative story by the Rev. Mr. Kemp. Miss Jean Pollock gave a reading and then conducted an "author" contest.

A number of the girls assisted Mr. Earl Pollock in serving lunch of sandwiches, tea and taffy, which was thoroughly enjoyed.

The next meeting is in charge of Miss Clara Menzies and a special program is being prepared.

Miss Esther Menzies and Miss Rena Toms of Warsaw spent part of the Easter holiday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Menzies and among other friends at Rush Point.

HAVELOCK GROUP PRESENTS DRAMA

"Silas Smidge From Turnip Ridge" Draws Capacity Crowd to Knox Church.

HAVELOCK, May 1. (Examiner Correspondence)—A capacity crowd greeted the presentation of "Silas Smidge from Turnip Ridge" a rural comedy drama by Knox Church dramatic society on Friday evening, April 26, when the young people excelled themselves, and kept the audience in kinks all evening with their interpretation of the true-to-life characters of the play.

The characters, named as they appeared on the stage were as follows: Neurasthenia Twigg a stage-struck girl—Evelyn Leng; Miss Simplicity McPheeters—Miss Madeleine Armstrong; Oswald Gorlick, a clerk in the store—Will Rose; Judy an orphan waif—Miss Roxie Rutherford; Florence McPheeters, the daughter of Thaddeus — Miss Marie McQuigge; Thaddeus McPheeters the village Shylock—Mr. Harold Keichen; Ralph Thornhill, a young minister—Noel Lade; Enid Thornhill his sister—Isabel McQuigge; Leola Pixley, the village postmistress — Miss Marguerite Martin; Ben Bruce, a young farmer—Fred Rutherford; Silas Smidge from Turnip Ridge, County Clay, Iowa—Frank McLaughin; Wayne Kendall, Thaddeus' stepson, a black sheep—Gordon Vance; Miss Muriel Armitage, Judy's aunt—Mrs. J. Squire.

The play was done with the finesse of professional players, the only weak spot being in the love scenes, where apparently the young people were afraid of shocking their elders by a too realistic presentation. The comic characters presented by Evelyn Leng and Will Rose, the tight-fisted deacon McPheeters, H. Ketchen and the lovable Miss Simplicity, Madeleine Armstrong, the winsome Judy portrayed by Roxie Rutherford, and the young minister, Noel Lade, not forgetting Silas Smidge by Frank McLaughlin, were all made to live again on the stage, and drew forth laughter and tears at will

The proceeds of the evening's entertainment were $94.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk, and the world looks punk, don't think that a large cleaning out of the bowels will make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

It can't do it! You know it can't give you any lasting relief. For a mere cleaning out does not get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pints of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food don't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get those two pints of bile flowing freely. Then you feel "up and up." Carter's Little Liver Pills contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at drug stores. © 1935 C. M. Co.

$4,000 DAMAGES SOUGHT IN SUIT BY JAMES GUIRY

Action Hinges Mainly on Alleged Nuisances From Noises and Fumes.

SET DOWN IN LINDSAY

J. K. Hughes and His Company and Ivan Lillico Are Defendants.

Trial of the $4,000 damage suit by James Guiry, proprietor of the Peterborough Annex on the corner of Hunter and Water streets, against J. K. Hughes and his company and Ivan Lillico, was begun yesterday before Mr. Justice J. A. McEvoy at a sitting of the Supreme Court here. The action hinges mainly on alleged nuisances from noise and fumes caused in operation of the J. K. Hughes Limited garage on the ground floor of Guiry's building.

The action was set down for trial in Lindsay at the scheduled sitting there this week. As the one case on the Lindsay docket was disposed of yesterday, Justice McEvoy agreed to continue the sitting in the Peterborough court room with a view to the convenience of the witnesses in the case.

Asserting that he is the owner of the entire corner building, formerly the old Munro House, Mr. Guiry claims that he leased the ground floor space now occupied by the J. K. Hughes firm to J. K. Hughes and Ivan Lillico in 1927 for ten years, one clause in the agreement providing that the lessees "will not carry on any business that shall be deemed a nuisance on the said premises." He alleges that the defendants ignored this term in the lease by permitting undue noise and noxious gases to interfere with his rooming-house business carried on up-stairs. He claims further that the defendants have permitted the existence of a serious fire hazard in the building and ages that they made certain alterations on the property without his consent, contrary to the terms of the lease.

Seeks Injunction

In addition to the $4,000 damages, Mr. Guiry is asking the court for an injunction restraining the defendants from continuing the alleged nuisances.

Ivan Lillico, co-defendant, claims that he is not liable for any damages the plaintiff may have suffered having left the property in July, 1929. Stating that at that time he assigned all his rights in the original Hughes and Lillico firm to J. K. Hughes Limited, he is asking from the court the right to recover from J. K. Hughes Limited any damages he may be assessed as a result of the action.

Mr. Hughes, the principal defendant, denies that any nuisances have been caused the plaintiff. He claims that the property was leased from the plaintiff with the implied right to conduct an automobile business on the property, and that the auto business has been carried on in a normal, proper manner. He denies that alterations were made without consent in cases where the lease demanded consent and denies that paint and lacquering work in the garage has been solely responsible for increase in fire insurance premiums on the building.

T. J. Carley, K.C., and R. R. Hall, K.C., are acting for Mr. Guiry. S. J. Robertson, K.C., of Toronto and J. W. Stevenson are appearing for Mr. Hughes and G. N. Gordon, K.C., with B. E. Park for Mr. Lillico.

First Witness

Mr. Guiry was the first witness called by Mr. Carley. He said he purchased the building at question in the suit in the summer of 1927. It was formerly a hotel, he said. He told the court he leased a lower portion of the building to J. K. Hughes and Ivan Lillico, and that they moved in on May 1, 1928.

The witness described in detail the form and lay-out of the first and second floors of the building at the time the lease was executed in 1927. Questioned further by Mr Carley, Mr. Guiry testified regarding changes made on the property by the defendants. He said several partitions were torn down and plate glass fronts installed along the Hunter and Water street faces of the property. Three fire-doors were erected on the east side of the building, he said. A wooden structure on the east side of the property was torn down and a repair shop, about 30 by 70 feet erected, he stated.

Made Complaint

The witness told of complaining to Mr. Hughes and Mr. Lillico that the repair shop was not being erected according to an agreement in the matter reached after the signing of the lease. A letter of complaint from the plaintiff's solicitor to the defendants was produced and filed as an exhibit.

Asked concerning the noise of which he complains, Mr. Guiry said hammering is carried on in the garage two or three nights a week, often throughtout the night. He declared the noises were of great volume, and that they had continued from 1928 to the present.

"Were they loud enough to wake you up?"

"Yes."

"Did you make any complaint about it?"

"No. I don't think so."

Radio Noise

The witness told of being bothered by a radio operated by garage employees during the nights.

"What complaint have you made about that?"

"I have called up the police to come up on several occasions." He said he complained also to Mr. Hughes and his employees.

"How about the noise at the present time?"

"Even last night I was disturbed. I was waked up last night about 3 o'clock."

Mr. Guiry said he saw the original plans for alterations of the property to be carried out by Mr. Hughes and Lillico and approved them.

Take 3—$4000 damages ... ...

As Mr. Robertson commenced his cross-examination, Mr. Guiry admitted that their might have been some thing he wanted in the lease which he was unable to get in. He said he has not been friendly with Mr. Hughes in the years which have intervened since the signing of the lease. He conceded that, at the time of signing the lease agreement, he knew the property was to be used as the site for an automobile business.

Accepted Rent

"From the time you leased the property you accepted rent payments regularly?" Mr. Robertson asked. He showed the witness a number of cheques received by him from J. K. Hughes Limited .

"Yes."

Mr. Guiry denied that he told the defendants, before leasing the garage space, that he was thinking of putting an insurance office and a bowling alley on the second floor of the building.

"Do I understand that the first complaint you made about the radio was in September, 1929?"

"I complained to the police before that."

"Is that a neighborly way to act? Wouldn't you first ask them to turn the radio off before going to the police?"

"I spoke to some of the men."

The witness agreed that the radio disturbance was stopped in the Fall of 1929 and that he had not been bothered again by a radio until after the present suit was instituted.

"Although there was no radio since the Fall of 1929 you brought it into the lawsuit?"

"Yes."

Further along in the cross-examination, Mr. Robertson questioned Mr. Guiry regarding his claim that noxious gases from the garage were causing a nuisance in the second storey.

"Did you say you smelled carbon monoxide gas?"

"No. You can't smell carbon monoxide."

"Then how do you know it came up?"

"There was a blue smoke in the rooms."

"What makes you think there was carbon monoxide gas in the blue smoke?"

"They both come from the same place."

"Why didn't you speak to your tenant, Mr. Hughes, before you went to your solicitor?"

"I thought I would be no use."

GOVERNMENT MEN FIGHT MIGHTY MUSKIES AT OMEMEE

At the Ontario government experimental fish hatchery at Pigeon Lake, near Omemee, skilled men are busy spawning the big maskinonge that come to the lake to breed. Over 1,000,000 eggs are fertilized every year. In (1) A. W. McLeod, supervisor of the 18 fish hatcheries in Ontario, is seen holding a handful of spawn. Arnold McQuade and Harry Cheeseman are seen in (2) fighting with one of the 20-pound, four-foot mama "muskies" and squeezing her spawn into a pan where it is fertilized with male milt. A close-up of the spawn is seen in (3). Some of the fish in the net where the lunge are caught are seen jumping around in (4) and in (5). Mr. Cheeseman is pouring the spawn into one of the trays where it will hatch.

Y'S MEN'S CIRCUS ON FRIDAY NIGHT

"Bungling Brothers Circus" Will Be Staged in Brock Street Summer Gardens.

"Bungling Brothers Circus" is the big event of this week in the local entertainment world to be presented by the Y's Men's Club on Friday night at Brock Street Summer Gardens.

In aid of the Y's Men's service work activities, which consists of assisting boys whose parents are unable to afford it, to obtain membership privileges in the Y.M.C.A., the event offers itself as being worthy of strong public support. Furthermore it affords the general public a unique opportunity of seeing some of the results of the all-important physical training program which is one of the features of Y.M.C.A. work.

About fifty men and at least one hundred boys, drawn from the ranks of the Y's Men's Club, the Leadership Corps, and the various junior groups are taking an active part in the Circus; and broadly speaking the program is divided into two main parts—physical training and athletic demonstrations, and amusing novelty clowning and acrobatic acts.

It has been the effort of the promoters of the Circus in drawing up the program to present a well-balanced show that will it is confidently hoped prove to be both instructive and entertaining. It is to open with a grand march, followed by demonstrations of group games by the beginners groups, and succeeded by weight lifting by Stan Peryer; wrestling by C. McGee, J. Gardner, H. Cartin and F. Williams; elementary tumbling by the junior groups; a trained "elephant" act; demonstration of revolver shooting by Jack Thornton?!!—a mind reading act, and musical ride by eight intermediate boys, to name but a few of the outstanding features.

Nova Scotian Vizualizes Speedboat As War 'Surface Torpedo' Doing 125 MPH

HALIFAX, May 1 (C.P.)—By two months F. W. Baldwin, first man to fly an aeroplane in the British Empire, beat Gar Wood to the public visualisation of a wireless-controlled speedboat as a wartime "surface torpedo."

He was a bit ahead of the Detroit speedboat driver and manufacturer, too, in the speed of their weapon. Wood looked to 100 miles an hour as its rate; "Casey" Baldwin saw an eventual speed of 125 miles an hour developed from the "hydrodrome" which he helped Dr. Aexander Graham Bell invent.

The hydrodrome is a motorboat built on the principle of the aeroplane—driven by an air screw and coasting over the water on "aerofoils," the nautical equivalent of the aeroplane's wings. As far back as 13 years ago, one of Baldwin's 'dromes was clipping off 72 knots on Nova Scotia's Bras d'Or Lakes, and he's developed it considerably since then.

Baldwin, native of Toronto, but now living in Nova Scotia and representing Victoria in the province's legislature, contends the hydrodrome is away ahead of the ordinary motorboat for the use he looks to. It can "turn on a dime," carry a heavy load with stability, and ride a choppy sea as though it were a millpond.

CONVICT'S BODY IS RECOVERED

Located Near Ridgetown After Escape Plunge From Speeding Train.

ON WAY TO NEW TRIAL.

RIDGETOWN, Ont., May 1. (CP)—A section gang brought back the mutilated body of William O. Reeves, Waupin, Wis., convict who escaped from custody to die on the rocky ballast of the Michigan Central Railway tracks near this western Ontario town.

Meanwhile Coroner D. L. Marr prepared to hold an inquest into the death of the 64-year-old prisoner who apparently squeezed through a washroom window and plunged to his death from a train taking him to Arlington, Mass., to face trial on charges of forgery.

Lieut. A. E. Ryan of Arlington, in charge of Reeves since he was released from Wisconsin state prison on Monday, told how he had dined with his prisoner in the train early last night. After dinner, he said, he had given Reeves permission to go into the washroom. When he did not return the door of the washroom was forced open. Reeves had disappeared.

A section gang was dispatched to search the tracks. They found the body about a mile and a half from this town, 15 miles south east of Chatham.

It was estimated the train had been travelling close to 65-miles-an-hour at the point where the body was found.

Ryan said Reeves was a man of small stature and would have had little difficulty in squeezing through the small washroom window.

The telegram was signed on behalf of the unemployed committee by Thomas Martin, John Dennis, H. L. Blundell, John M. Kowal, Walter Krivonos, John Kazmoski, Alfred Judry, Mike Gulzi, Alfred O'Neal, William Martin.

The strike started April 2, when relief workers quit their jobs on the Beatrice Street sewer project, demanding a 25 per cent. increase in food allowance, open vouchers for clothing and relief for single men.

Macphail Charges About To Be Probed

OTTAWA, May 1.—Appointment of an Ontario judge will be announced in a day or two by the Minister of Justice to investigate the allegation that Inspector Dawson made serious reflections upon Miss Agnes Macphail, M.P. during a visit to Kingston Penitentiary.

The inquiry is the sequel to a sworn statement made by a former prisoner of Toronto, which was read in the House of Commons by Miss Macphail. Efforts were made recently to persuade the lady member of Parliament to let the matter drop but as the honor of every member of Parliament is involved she decided to accept the offer of the Minister of Justice for a judicial investigation.

2 NEW TRUCKS ARE ORDERED BY UTILITIES

Utilities Commission Also Discusses Purchase of Pole Trailer.

CUTTING OFF SERVICES

Purchase of two Ford trucks from Hood and Cummins Motors Limited was authorized by the Utilities Commission yesterday afternoon. Bids were received from the various local dealers, and the lowest were accepted.

R. L. Dobbin, manager for the Commission, was instructed to buy a half ton truck at $725 and a ton and a half truck at $989, receiving $675 for the two machines that are being turned in. The net cost to the Commission is $1019.

Purchase of second hand pole trailer from the Bell Telephone Company at $175 is also contemplated for both the power and water departments of the Commission. A new trailer would cost $540, but Mr. Dobbin told the Commissioners that the Bell Company's trailer appeared to be adequate for transport of poles and water main pipes.

The Commission decided to enforce more strictly a regulation which provides for cutting off power services to consumers whose payments become considerably overdue.

G. S. Matthews, chairman, said that the Commission did not intend to apply this regulation drastically, and had tried to be considerate to consumers, but in some instances arrears had grown, while no attention was apparently being paid to notices from the collections department. According to the existing regulations power services may be discontinued in such cases, and final notices will be sent out to that effect.

Mr. Dobbin was also authorized to buy a bicycle for the use of the collector whose calls on delinquents have become more frequent.

Discontinue Rental Charge

The Commission approved a communication from the Hydro-Electric Commission advising that booster water heaters would no longer be installed on the former basis of a rental charge.

Cost of installation will be taken care of after May 1 in the same manner as for flat rate water heaters.

Purchase of equipment for the correction of the Commission's power factor is being considered, and tenders will be invited from several manufacturers, including the Canadian General Electric Company and the Westinghouse Company.

In a recent interview with the Hydro Commission in Toronto, the Utilities succeeded in getting a reduction of their February bill. Mr. Matthews stated that in buying the proposed equipment the Utilities Commission would soon save a sufficient sum to cover the capital cost.

Dust Blizzard Takes 20 Lives In 2 Weeks

SPRINGVILLE, Colo., May 1. — (AP). Farmers in the southwest dust area tore another page from the calendar to-day and hoped that May would bring rain.

For the past two months dust storms have swept over the drought striken "bowl" resulting in discomfort, distress and illness. Rain would settle the dust and enable farmers to start planting spring crops.

Albert Evans, in charge of Red Cross relief headquarters at Liberal, Kas., estimated "at least 20 persons" have died within the last two weeks from diseases aggravated by the blowing silt and sand.

SEVEN CONFIRMED AT MADOC CHURCH

Rt. Rev. Dr. Lyons, Bishop of Ontario, Officiates at St. John's.

MADOC, May 1 (Examiner Correspondence)—On Sunday evening, April 28, the Rt. Rev. Dr. Lyons, M.A., Bishop of Ontario celebrated the Holy Rite of Confirmation at St. John's Anglican Church, Madoc, when seven persons were presented for confirmation by the rector, Rev. W. G. Hope Swayne. Assisting in the service was Rev. Canon W. G. Swayne o. Bonarlaw.

The church was beautifully decorated with flowers for the occason. The procession hymn "The Church's One Foundation" was used followed by "My God accept my heart," "Come Holy Ghost, our souls inspire" and the recessional "Thine for ever! Thine for ever."

His Lordship the Bishop chose the text, "Let us now go even unto Bethlehem and see this thing which is come to pass." Luke 2:15, giving an inspiring and heart-searching message as he emphasized that the same qualities which brought results in those days would if well exercised by church members in these days bring tremendous and cheering results to the world and humanity in the world of to-day.

Followed the "laying on of hands" the choir sang the beautiful anthem "He lives" (J. Lincoln Hall) very effectively.

A capacity congregation assembled for this solemn service among whom were visitors from other congregations in Madoc and several from Tweed.

Have you found the SUNNY PACKAGE on your grocer's shelf?

It's a delicious ready-to-eat cereal. Millions of Canadians have found Kellogg's ALL-BRAN a safe, effective means of correcting common constipation—the kind caused by lack of "bulk" in the menu.

Laboratory measurements show that ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to aid elimination. ALL-BRAN also supplies vitamin B and iron.

The "bulk" in this tempting cereal is more effective than that found in fruits and vegetables—because it resists digestion better. Within the body, it absorbs moisture, and forms a soft mass. Gently, this cleans out the intestinal waste.

Isn't this natural food better than taking patent medicines? Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily are usually sufficient. Chronic cases with each meal. If this fails to give relief, see your doctor.

Enjoy ALL-BRAN as a cereal, or cook into appetizing recipes. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN contains much more needed "bulk" than part-bran products. In the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

YOUR SPINE!

is the line-shaft of your body.

It has a direct controlling influence on your health and movements.

There are nerves emitting through openings between each pair of vertebrae all along the spinal column and these nerves send branches to nearly every part of your body.

If any of these nerves are constricted because of misalignment of a joint of the spine or hips weakness and lack of proper function will exist in the tissues supplied by those constricted nerves.

A severe nerve irritation at the upper part of the neck can be responsible for upsetting the whole nervous system.

LIBERAL RALLY TO HEAR FRASER

Nelson Parliament Will Also Speak at Thursday's Convention.

CALLED FOR 8.00 P.M.

W. A. Fraser, M.P., of Trenton and Nelson Parliament will be the speakers at the Liberal convention in the Grand Opera House Thursday night at which the party's candidate for the federal elections will be nominated.

E. L. Sackville, president of the Association, said this morning the executive had decided not to make a feature of any address.

"The convention has been planned as an opportunity of giving the delegates from all parts of the riding all the time that may be required in selecting their candidate," Mr. Sackville said, "and as many of them are coming from the country they will no doubt wish to start for home at what might be called an early hour. We expected Mr. Fraser anyway, and as he is a favorite with the Liberals of the riding it was felt that there was no need of inviting any other special speaker."

It is intended that those who are proposed for the nomination shall each be given a short time to address the delegates, and the business of choosing a candidate may take up considerable time. The meeting is called for eight o'clock. Only those who have credentials will be admitted until 9.15 o'clock. Mr. Sackville said that there would not be many seats left after the more than nine hundred delegates had been placed.

Parking Regulations Outlined By Police For Civic Celebration Of King's Jubilee

Police regulations governing the parking of automobiles at the King George V. Silver Jubilee celebrations here on Monday forenoon, were announced to-day by Inspector James Reid.

The inspector, who has control of all details in connection with the handling of traffic for the occasion insists that with exception of a few cars that will be permitted parking privileges on Murray street for the convenience of aged and infirm persons no motor cars will be allowed to remain within the restricted area from the hour of 9 a.m. until the close of the ceremonies.

Parking restrictions are extended to include Sheridan street; Brock street between Sheridan and Water streets; Water street from Brock to Murray streets; Murray street from Water to College street; and College street.

Motorists who wish to take advantage of the provision that is being made for car parking for the convenience of the aged and infirm persons are requested to drive to Water and Murray streets intersection and ask for Inspector Reid who will see that provision is made for such persons.

With the use of amplifying equipment that is being provided by the Canadian General Electric Company, by special permission of the Northern Electric and Baldwin Companies as owners of the exclusive rights, Inspector Reid points out that it is quite essential to the success of the proceedings that all foreign noises be eliminated so far as it is possible.

For that reason the Inspector seeks the co-operation of motorists and the public generally in the elimination of any unnecessary noise, pointing out that the amplifying equipment is so sensitive that such noises would be greatly amplified and would tend to spoil the remainder of the program.

APRIL BUILDING TOTALS $12,030

Building in 1935 is Slightly Below That of 1934.

ALL SMALL JOBS.

Sixty-eight building permits were issued by the city engineer in April authorizing construction work in the city to the total estimated value of $12,030.00—an increase of $1,570.00 as compared with the corresponding period in 1934.

Compared with the first four months period of last year, when the total construction here was $32,316, activity in the building trades has experienced a decline with the total from January 1 to the end of April this year aggregating $15,285.00.

One of the permits issued in the month just ended authorized construction of a double house by Edward Holden, owner and contractor, at 270-172 Mark street at an estimated cost of $2,800.00.

With exception of another permit which gave the Conger Lehigh Coal Company authority to erect a service station at Chamberlain street and Monaghan road, at a cost of $1,600.00, the remaining permits were for minor repair work such as shingling of roofs, and repairs to verandahs and eavestroughs, etc.

Miscellaneous permits numbering 50, aggregated $7,240.00; garages 7 permits, $390.00; dwellings, one, $2,800.00; service station, one $1,600.00.

Magistrate's Court

Gordon Druce, 18, Elm street, charged with a serious offence, was today remanded for one week without election or plea, when he appeared before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C. Bail was set in the sum of $1,500.00.

Norman Robinson, 114 Robinson street pleaded "not guilty" to a charge of committing an indecent act, and was likewise remanded for a week, with bail stipulated at $1,000.00. He elected summary trial.

Edward King, a local man with no fixed abode, pleaded "guilty" as a second offender to a charge of intoxication, and was fined $50 and $4.50 costs, or one months imprisonment in default.

When asked to plead the accused remarked, "This would be a first offence under the new act".

"What new act?" his worship questioned.

"The new act that came into force when the government was changed", King replied with obvious reference to the amendments to the L.C.A.

A trio of transients was included in the line-up. James Hall and James Stephens withdrew pleas of "not guilty" and admitted charges of drunkeness and were fined $10 without costs, or ten days; while Ernest McMillan who stated he came from Prince Edward Island, was convicted of a charge of vagrancy, but was allowed his freedom on the condition that he immediately leave the city.

It was stated by the chief constable that McMillan was going from house to house on Murray street begging, an allegation which was not denied but which was qualified by the accused with the statement that, "I was looking for blankets to sleep under and was not begging for money".

For operating a motor cycle without a license, William J. Steele of Carlisle avenue was fined $1 and costs.

Y.W.C.A. SHOW FRIDAY MAY 10

"The Romance of the Toy Shop" is Title of This Year's Pageant.

PHYSICAL DISPLAY.

"The Romance of the Toy Shop" is the title of the gay extravganza which features this year's Pageant of the gymnasium of the Young Women's Christian Association, to be presented at the Grand Opera House on the evening of Friday, May 10th.

As usual, every member of the many gymnasium classes will take part in the big entertainment, from the tiniest babies who delight the watchers with their cunning antics, to the seniors of the dancing classes.

Numbers of artistic posters made by Miss Molly Wood and quantities of blue 'Y' pennants, advertise the big attraction in various stores and gathering places, while especial displays for the occasion are being arranged by the Hall Store, Neill's Shoe Store and the Canadian Department Stores.

Everyone loves dolls, seniors and juniors and babies alike. So this year's Pageant should be particularly attractive, with the gorgeous costumes that make these annual events so colorful (a description of the costumes will appear later), with music appropriate to the event, and with gay settings. Miss Caroline Littlefield, Physical Instructress at the 'Y', has arranged a really beautiful Pageant for this season's presentation.

There are baby Kewpies; funny little Teddy Bears, just like the laughing wee bears of the Antipodes that serve as models for these beloved toys; naughty pickaninnies with huge slices of watermelon to keep them in good humour; Jumping Jacks in harlequin outfits; quaint little Victoria dolls with demure pantalettes and sunbonnets; Spanish dolls in bolero outfits; darling little Music Box babies; pert Drummer soldiers standing stiffly at attention in marvellous getups of many colors, and captivating little Lollipop dolls who come on to the tune of the "Gay Ship Lollipop," and cavort about with huge lollipops. To say nothing of the spinning tops that are really wonderful creations, and the lovely Princess with her attendants and a real live Prince. And, best of all, there is the favorite couple, Mickey and Minnie Mouse, to enchant the fancies of the watchers.

Preceding the fantasy will be exhibitions of the physical side of the gym's training, in German gymnastics, pyramids, intricate club and dumbell drills, wand and reed movements and setting-up exercises by the Babies' class.

Tickets are now on sale for the big attraction.

Executive Clemency Mrs. Coo's Only Hope

ALBANY, N.Y., May 1 (AP)—The New York Court of Appeals to-day signed the death warrant for the execution of Mrs. Eva Coo and set the date for her death in Sing Sing prison as Thursday night, June 27.

The order of the court give Warden Lewis E. Lawes of Sing Sing prison the discretion to carry out the execution any time within the week beginning Monday, June 24, but as executions are invariably carried out Thursday night the order means Mrs. Coo will walk "the last mile" on the 27th. She was born in Haliburton County Ont., but left her home at an early age.

Executive clemency now is blonde Eva Coo's only hope to escape Sing Sings electric chair.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

Summer will be here in all its glory before long, and with it will see the large picture hat framing the faces of many pretty ladies. They will have floral decorations and velvet ribbon trimming. A lovely combination is a deep purple linen straw, with a lighter shade of violets for trimming. The white hat will continue to be the favorite for midsummer.

Long, thin wool coats, lined or unlined, are the most practical buy of the season. They can be worn with a fur just now over a thin wool dress, or with a contrasting printed silk suit. When worn with a bright printed silk dress they make a redingote ensemble. Later they can be worn with linens and white summer crepes.

• • • • • •

Here's an idea: Glazed chintz is being used for dresses this season. Sport costumes are being made of this material, and it is also used for trimming for silk crepe. When used for an entire dress it is kept very simple, so as to be practical and not just a fashion.

Here is a little poem we came across the other day and we thought we would pass it along:

• • • • • •

THE CRUST OF BREAD

I must not throw upon the floor
The crust I cannot eat;
For many little hungry ones
Would think it quite a treat.

My parents labor very hard
To get me wholesome food;
Then I must never waste a bit
That would do others good.

For willful waste makes woeful want,
And I may live to say,
Oh! how I wish I had the bread
That once I threw away!

Sift together the corn meal, flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. Add the milk and well-beaten eggs and melted shortening. Add dates, cut in small pieces. CONTRACT BRIDGE

By E. V. Shepard
"Teacher of Teachers"

PART GAME SCORES

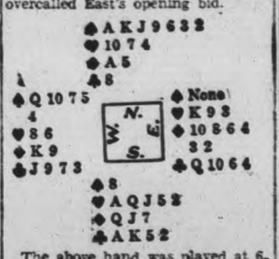
One does not always have to bid games or slams to score tops in duplicate games. Last evening I saw two top scores at the New York Athletic club made on part game scores. The first was scored on a bid of 4-clubs. Nobody else bid or made more than 3-clubs on the hand. The second hand is shown below.

Bidding went: South, 1-spade; North, 2-clubs; South, 2-spades; North, 3-no trumps; South, 3-spades, which North passed. At other tables bids of 3-no trumps and 4-spades were defeated. At no other table were 3 bid and 4 made.

The opening lead was the 9 of hearts. Dummy played low, East's 10 covered and declarer's ace won. He led back his lone Q of clubs, overtook with dummy's K and lost to East's ace. The winner led his Q of hearts, losing to dummy's K, and two club tricks were run off. Upon them the declarer discarded his last heart and a low diamond. Game was assured if only 2 spade tricks still had to be lost.

Dummy led a trump, losing to East's K. Back came a heart, which the declarer ruffed. Dummy was put in with the ♠ of diamonds and its last trump was led. East's ace won the trick. He led back his heart. South ruffed with his J, shutting out West from overruffing. West let go a diamond. Declarer led his Q of spades picking up the last opposing trump, and leaving him with a good trump and the ace of diamonds to win the last two tricks. He scored 17 points on the hand, as he had not bid the game the game he made, but no other South player made more than 140 points on that hand.

Duplicate players usually make lighter opening bids than they would at rubber bridge, as part game scores may win tops at duplicate, but the same part game scores are of much less value in rubber games than usually is thought. I bid the South hand but in a money game I would have passed, then overcalled East's opening bid.



The above hand was played at 6-spades by North. The opening lead was the 4 of diamonds. Before tomorrow see whether the best subsequent defence can defeat the contract.

Four stones from the old Waterloo Bridge in London are to be sent to Western Australia to be placed at each end of the new bridge at Perth.

ROBERTA'S CHAT

A column conducted by a reader of The Examiner for her other reader friends. Address all mail to Roberta in care of The Examiner.

DEAR FRIEND

ELLO. How does the world look to-day? Is it bright and beautiful, or is it dark-blue and cloudy?

If the latter, why not start thinking that everything is all right.

Think that you have all the money you want, all the friends, all the health, all the beauty. For after all, right thinking often brings about the very things you want. Make life as pleasant for yourself as you can.

Think of yourself, as a worthwhile person. Picture yourself as you would like to be, and in a little while you will be like that.

Always remember, if the good times don't last, the bad times can't last either. Then, too, just think that, no matter how large your home is, you can only be in one room at a time, wear one dress at a time, eat one meal, etc., etc., and take comfort from the fact that great possessions can also be great burdens. How do you know you would like the care of a large house, or the worry of a large fortune.

Now if there is anything you would like me to write about, just send me a note, and I'll do it. Don't think I won't be interested. I will.

Tell me also if you like my writing you a letter each night. I shall expect letters from all of you, so don't disappoint.

Your friend,
Roberta.

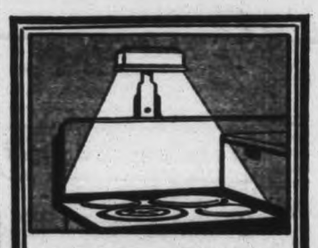
McCLARY
TAKES THE LAST BIT OF GUESSWORK OUT OF BAKING AND ROASTING

Stabilized Heat



The "Daylite" Cooking Top
A small but important detail. Light when you want it—and where you need it. You can obtain this added feature for your McClary at only a slight additional cost.

Cooking Top Elements
The famous Max-Speed Element for super-quick heat ... one to each McClary as standard equipment. The remaining elements are the new improved Speed-Irons. Your dealer will explain their many advantages.

GENERAL STEEL WARES

THE NEW McCLARY ELECTRIC RANGE FEATURE

GENERAL Steel Wares has added the final touch to automatic baking and roasting. In the new McClary Electrics, these two important cooking operations have been reduced to two simple turns of a switch.

NO OVER-HEAT

With the first turn, Stabilized Heat takes charge and gives you the fastest pre-heating ever found on a McClary Electric Range. You can't over-heat the oven, for the oven elements are automatically cut off when the desired temperature has been reached ... and a small red light on the switch panel tells that your oven is ready.

NO UNDER-HEAT

If you delay getting your baking in the oven, the Stabilized Heat Control keeps the oven temperature at the proper level by turning on the oven elements at the first sign of a dropping temperature.

THE GREATEST BOON

Once your baking is in the oven you can forget it. Throughout the entire baking process, the Stabilized Heat Control will see that the oven heat is evenly maintained—no over-heating, no under-heating. It turns on oven elements and turns them off when not needed. You save electricity—you save time—you save worry—and you get the best baking results you've ever had.

AT YOUR DEALER'S

You must see the new McClarys to appreciate the many new features ... the "Daylite" cooking top, the stainless oven top, the super-fast Max-Speed elements, the matchless beauty of the range. Write to General Steel Wares Limited, 299 River St., Toronto, for free literature.

Sullivan Turns Tide

Tigers Will Win American League Pennant Again This Year—Cochrane.

TEAM PERKS UP

BASEBALL'S miracle man of 1934, Mickey Cochrane, pilot of the American league champions, smiled for the first time in weeks as he sat in the lobby of a St. Louis hotel chinning with Bob Murphy, sports scribbler with the Motor City Times. Only a few hours before Detroit had broken a six-game losing streak. The team rallied around Joe Sullivan, a kid pitcher to beat the league leading Indians before a home crowd of 23,000 diamond maniacs. And Monday, the same Tigers stood behind Tommy Bridges as he subdued the Browns while his teammates ran wild at the bat to run up a score of 18 to zero. And of this chin fest Murphy writes:

"I knew it would come sooner or later," said the Mike. "This ball club has been in a terrible slump. It is not the first time it has happened. It won't be the last.

"I'm satisfied with the Detroit ball team. I'll sink or swim with it. The boys have hustled for me all through this slump. They've tried. They poured out their baseball souls. But it just wasn't in the cards. Everything we did was wrong and everything Chicago and Cleveland did was right."

HERE THE relaxed Cochrane suddenly returned to his natural self. He stiffened in the chair. He started pounding the arm.

"I'll wager you," said Mickey. "Why, man alive, I'll wager you anything you mention Cleveland and Chicago won't be as hot all season as they have been against us.

"I am convinced any other club probably would have fared just as we did against those two outfits.

"We started off in Detroit getting good pitching. We had no hitting. When we arrived in Chicago our hitting picked up some, but as might be expected, the pitching went bad.

"Remember all through the slump I kept telling you some pitcher would go out there and hold the opposition long enough for us to get started. It finally happened. Sullivan put us back on the right track, as soon as he did we started hitting, our fielding perked up, and Detroit became Detroit again."

Cochrane couldn't say too much for Sullivan. He complimented the southpaw rookie's calm and courage. He, too, cast in a word or so for the manner in which Clyde Hatter, the other rookie pitcher, has come through.

"Those kids have plenty of stuff," he said. "And let me tell you something. Rowe and Bridges are far better pitchers this season than they were last. They will break loose any day now.

"You won't believe me when I tell you that Bridges never pitched two more perfect strikes than he did in the first inning of Saturday's game against Cleveland when Trosky and Campbell hit home runs.

"They were perfect curve balls. Tommy never threw two better ones in his whole pitching career. But they were blasted out of the park.

"It was just a case of a losing team getting the ax on the back of their necks. We were retreating then and now we are advancing. I knew it had to turn some day, and Sullivan was the boy to turn the trick.

"Yes, sir. I'm still picking the Tigers to win the pennant. This ball club has spirit, hustle, determination and ability. We won't let the fans down. We've got too good a ball club for that."

BEARS HOLD GAME-HALF LEAD OVER SECOND PLACE ORIOLES

Newark Scores 11th Victory in 15 Games by Defeating Leafs 8-1.

BIRDS BEAT BISONS 17-5.

(By the Associated Press)

With Newark Bears perched at the top of the standings with a game and a half advantage over Baltimore Orioles, the International League teams took today off preparatory to opening the season in the circuit's four "northern" cities tomorrow.

An Off Day

Tomorrow's games will find the Bears facing the Red Wings at Rochester, the Orioles tangling with the Royals at Montreal, the Syracuse Chiefs at Toronto and Albany Senators at Buffalo.

The Bears wound up their home stay yesterday by defeating the Maple Leafs 8-1 for their 11th victory in 15 games played at Ruppert Stadium. While the league leaders were making the most of their nine blows, Kemp Wicker, young southpaw, kept the Leafs' six blows well scattered, the only damaging hit being a home run by Tom Oliver in the first inning.

Jimmy Pattison managed to hold the New York Yankee farm hands pretty well in check until the sixth, when they blasted the Toronto right hander from the mound with a three-run attack. They scored four more times in the eighth at the expense of Yelovic and Moore.

Birds Beat Bisons

The Orioles connected with only one home run, hit by George Puccinelli, but they drove out plenty of singles, doubles and triples to defeat Buffalo Bisons 17-5. The victory was the 10th triumph in 16 games played at home by the Birds.

Fred 'Sheriff' Blake went the route for Baltimore, holding the Bisons to seven hits, one of which was a home run by Dick Diebert. Puccinelli's circuit blow was his 10th of the season and the 37th for the team.

The scheduled games between Rochester and Albany, and Montreal and Syracuse, were postponed because of rain.

MAKER OF SWIMMING CHAMPIONS PASSES AWAY IN HIS 60TH YEAR

Stricken Ill Last Saturday, Walker Dies in Long Branch Home.

FORMER POLO STAR.

Developer of Champions Such as George Young, Margaret Ravior and Marvin Nelson.

TORONTO, May 1 (C.P.).—The man who made George Young a swimming champion, who developed Margaret Ravior of Philadelphia and Marvin Nelson of Fort Dodge into world-beating competitors, is dead here. He was Johnny Walker, 60-year-old Scot, himself an international polo star in his youth.

Walker, celebrated trainer of marathon champions, died here last night from a heart attack. He was taken ill last Saturday, shortly after the day's work of coaching young swimmers at the Granite Club.

The pudgy Young, whom the burly Scot picked out of a big Y.M.C.A. swimming class and elected to make into a champion, brought Walker an international reputation. He trained Young for the $30,000 Catalina Channel swim in 1927, although he did not go to California to watch George win.

After Young's sensational triumph, marathon swimming went on a prolonged boom here. The Canadian National Exhibition put up a $25,000 prize for a 21-mile grind in Lake Ontario. Swimming under auspices other than Walker. Young swam only a few miles in 1928 and was taken from the water.

Not until 1931, with Walker rowing a boat beside him, did Young score in the big Toronto event. Miss Ravior, now Young's wife, captured the rich women's 10-mile swim three times under the direction of Walker.

Turned Out Many Winners.

When the marathon boom arrived Walker opened a camp for contestants, and a big percentage of money-winners were turned out of his training grounds. Nelson, the giant Iowan, attributed most of his success to the handling of Walker.

Under Johnny he won the swim in 1930, 1933 and 1934. Johnny's son, Tommy Walker, was one of his most successful pupils, winning amateur races in Canada and the United States. He captured the United States Pentathlon championship in 1923.

Before coming to Canada 22 years ago, Walker played water polo on the Scottish national team for seven years, and was a highly-regarded swimmer at all distances.

SEVEN ERRORS IN DODGER WIN

Six Runs in Third Gives Brooklyn 12-5 Victory Over Giants.

CHICAGO GOING UP.

In the National League, the year's first clash between New York Giants and Brooklyn Dodgers saw the Dodgers and Bill Clark start through to a 12-5 victory in a wild game marked by 25 hits and seven errors. Triples by Buzz Boyle and Danny Taylor, singles by Lonnie Frey, Jim Bucher, and Tony Cuccinello, and errors by Dick Bartell and George Davis accounted for six Dodger runs in the third, and really decided the ball game. The defeat left the Giants in first place eight percentage points ahead of the Dodgers although Brooklyn leads on a "games" basis by half a game.

Chicago Cubs pulled closer to the leaders by beating Pittsburgh 3-0 with Roy Henshaw easily outpointing Ralph Birkofer in a southpaw pitching struggle. Gene Schott throttled St. Louis Cardinal batsmen, permitting only five hits, and Cincinnati Reds clubbed out a 12-2 victory to regain fourth place. Rain forced postponement of the Phillies-Braves game.

BOONE'S KID INFIELD STARTLES INTERNATIONAL LEAGUE EXPERTS

First Night Ball Game at Toronto Slated for Wednesday, June 26th.

COOK'S COMEBACK

Baseball critics are about ready to award Isaac Morgan Boone, popular manager of the Toronto Baseball Club the "Miracle Man" title. The genial "Alabama Ike" brought along the Toronto Leafs of last season and won the play-off series for the right to represent the International League in the Little World's Series with Columbus of the American Association. And now, in the first weeks of a new season, Boone is upsetting the experts with a kid infield that has played sensational ball in their first swing around the circuit. Frank McCormick on first base, Calvin Chapman at second, Eddie Miller at short-stop and Lee Handley on third average around 21 years of age. In fact Miller is the baby of the foursome, having just celebrated his eighteenth birthday. Defensively this "kid" foursome have shown to great advantage and their hitting has been timely and very effective.

To balance the youth of the infield, Boone has gathered two outfielders of experience to assist him in the pasture duties. Tom Oliver has all the speed of Bill Lawrence in centre-field and makes an ideal lead-off man due to his ability to get base hits when needed. Wesley Schulmerich provided the power on the attack and plays left-field in a true big league manner. Oliver was secured from Baltimore in a winter trade for pitcher Blake and in comparing the work of these two athletes so far this season, Toronto seems to have had much the better of the deal. Larry MacPhail, general manager of the Cincinnati Club, and also second vice-president of the Maple Leafs optioned Schulmerich to the Leafs and, in so doing, gave the club much more offensive power in the outfield. Of course your old friend Ike Boone is back in right field and hitting the ball harder than ever. In recent road games Boone has lead the way for his youngsters with timely slugging. Last season the Toronto manager lead the International League with the impressive average of .372 and was voted the most valuable player award by league officials and critics.

First Night Game

General manager Arthur Leman has announced the first floodlight baseball game of the season at the Maple Leaf Stadium has been scheduled for Wednesdy evening, June 26th with the Rochester Red Wings as opposition. The second night game will be the following Tuesday on the evening of July 2nd with Buffalo Bisons.

Earl Cook, native of Lemonville, Ontario, is destined to make the grade as a pitching member of the Toronto Baseball Club this season. After a season with the Beckley Club in West Virginia, where he was sent on option by the Leafs. Cook has come back and his first appearance in Albany was a high-class performnce throughout. Cook held the Senators to seven scattered hits, striking out two and walking three to win his game by the comfortable margin of 7-2. Manager Boone has great plans for Cook this season.

HAMILTON, May 1 (C.P.)—James Myers, 82, grand old man of baseball in its earliest professional days here, died yesterday. Mr. Myers played for the Standards, Hamilton's first professional team and an entry in the International League.

An interesting stunt introduced into baseball by the old time player was the training of two cocker spaniels to retrieve balls hit out of bounds.

BROWNS EASY FOR DETROIT

Alvin Crowder Hurls Tigers to Their Third Straight Victory.

SIXTH FOR YANKEES.

By HERBERT W. BARKER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

That surprising early season slump of Detroit Tigers, champions of the American League, is beginning to yield to baseball's infallible treatment—heavy hitting, tight fielding and effective pitching.

Mickey Cochrane's Bengals, after dropping nine of their first 11 games, have won three games in a row, sweeping along in much the same steam-roller fashion they did a year ago. With Joe Sullivan, Tommy Bridges and Alvin Crowder starting and finishing the Tigers' last three engagements; the teams has played errorless ball in that span, and the batters have scored 34 runs on 41 hits, 14 of them for extra bases.

This compares with the Tigers' record of 36 runs on 91 hits, 22 for extra bases, in their first 11 games.

11-3 Victory

The hapless St. Louis Browns once again felt the weight of the Tigers' bats yesterday as Detroit pounded out 14 hits and won, breezing, 11-3. Goose Goslin's second homer in as many days in the fourth gave the Tigers a 3-2 lead and they went on to clinch the verdict with a six run drive in the seventh. Crowder was nicked for nine hits, including a triple and three doubles, but was effective in the pinches. The defeat was the Browns' eighth in succession and drooped them into a tie with Philadelphia Athletics for last place.

Sixth Win for Yankees

Meanwhile at New York, the Yankees chalked up their sixth triumph in a row, rallying for two runs in the ninth to nose out Washington Senator 9-8. Bill Dickey's single drove Bob Rolfe home with the winning run. Johnny Broaca held the Senators to three hits in the first six innings but was tagged for two runs in the seventh and then retired in the midst of a six-run outburst in the eighth when Alvin Powell clouted a home run with two on. Dickey and Tony Lazzeri contributed homers to the Yankee cause.

Rain and cold weather held other American League clubs idle.

Remember When—

Two years ago to-night Percy Page's Edmonton Grads, at the height of their power, swamped Toronto Ladies' Athletic Club 72-28 at Edmonton and retained their Canadian women's basketball title. One of the strongest teams Toronto sent in quest of the championship took two one-sided beatings from the famous Grads.

$5 ENTRY FEE FOR EACH CLUB IN NEW LEAGUE

Two Local Teams, Lindsay, Norwood, Millbrook and Port Hope in Loop.

LAHANE IS PRESIDENT.

Six teams will make up the Tri-County Lacrosse League this summer, the six being Dinty's Inn and Auburns of Peterborough, Lindsay, Millbrook, Norwood and Port Hope. Over 30 enthusiasts were present at the re-organization meeting held last night in the Chamber of Commerce. Jim Lehane acted as chairman. Following the general session, the executive met and drew up part of the schedule.

The election of officers was the first item of business. James Lehane of Peterborough was elected president unanimously. It was left to him to appoint the secretary-treasurer. The executive will consist of these officers and one representative of each team. A motion was passed that an entry fee of five dollars be charged with each team finishing its schedule getting four dollars back, one dollar from each going toward incidental expenses for the league. If a team defaults a game—without giving sufficient notice—that team's entry fee will be used to cover the opposing team's expenses. A long argument followed as to what "sufficient notice" meant, and this was left for the executive to decide.

One Referee to Game.

There was a motion that no visiting team be permitted to default a game but, after much discussion, this matter was shelved for the executive to deal with. The executive will decide this point at another meeting. It was moved and carried that the visiting team bring a referee for the game, it being felt that the home referee was not satisfactory to players or fans. One referee will handle each game. The general meeting then adjourned and the executive drew up the following schedule:

May 28—Dinty's Inn at Lindsay, Auburn at Norwood, Millbrook at Port Hope.

May 31—Port Hope at Lindsay, Dinty's Inn at Millbrook, Norwood at Auburn.

June 3—Port Hope at Dinty's Inn, Lindsay at Auburn.

June 4—Millbrook at Norwood.

June 6—Lindsay at Millbrook, Norwood at Port Hope, Dinty's Inn at Auburn.

June 11—Dinty's Inn at Port Hope, Auburn at Millbrook, Norwood at Lindsay.

June 14—Lindsay at Dinty's Inn, Port Hope at Norwood, Millbrook at Auburn.

June 17—Auburn at Port Hope, Millbrook at Lindsay, Dinty's Inn at Norwood.

June 20—Port Hope at Millbrook, Lindsay at Norwood, Auburn at Dinty's Inn.

June 25—Port Hope at Auburn, Millbrook at Dinty's Inn.

June 28—Norwood at Millbrook, Auburn at Lindsay.

July 1—Lindsay at Port Hope, Norwood at Dinty's Inn.

Winter Favorite For Derby Again Fails to Impress—Whiskolo Wins.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 1.—(AP).—Whiskolo, bay colt from the Milkway Farm, came from behind to defeat nine other Kentucky Derby eligibles, including the former favorite, Chance Sun, in the Preparation Purse at Churchill Downs yesterday. The colt's time for the mile was 1.37 4-5. He paid $8 on a $2 part mutual ticket.

Weston, hope of Jouett Shouse to win the Derby, and Bluebird, Mrs R. B. Fairbank's candidate, showed early speed, but finished among the also-rans.

Whiskolo, smartly ridden by W. Garner, came from behind to beat D. B. Midkiff's Tearout, not a Derby candidate. Whopper, nominated for the Derby by Hal Price, finished third.

Chance Sun, which was among the colts defeated in Saturday's test by the filly, Nellie Flag, showed poorly again yesterday, finishing seventh

DAY BY DAY

Men's City Softball League meets at 7.30 this evening in Duffus'. It's an open session and everyone interested is invited. There have been just two definite entries to date, Fashion-Crafts and Onemee. Westclox and Board and Huffman's are two more good prospects while several others have been named. However, we doubt if more than four teams can be lined up. Six would be better, if possible. The executive was supposed to check up on various possible entrants and they'll report at this huddle. With a lower entry fee, there should be more in. We hear Herb Payne will join tonight. Other business will be cleaned up at this meeting, too.

• • • • • • •

Looks like six teams in the bantam section of the City Baseball League this summer. At last night's meeting, Maple Leafs, Naborhood Colts, Westenders, Trojans, St. Peter's and possibly King Edward School were all named as starters. Herb Ralph expects to enter his junior Terriers in the Lakeshore League, and there are plenty of good juvenile players around but no sponsors yet. Maybe Kiwanis Club and Kinsmen's Club would be interested in two teams for this division. The cost is quite low.

• • • • • • •

Riverside Park, Exhibition Grounds, Armour Field and one or two other diamonds were all mentioned, and these will be checked upon before a final meeting is held about the middle of May to draw up the schedules. Officers elected—and the meeting was well-attended, especially by the kids—were: Honorary Presidents, R. E. Cutting, Ken Sloane, Hugh Campbell, George Hewitt and Bill Kay; president, Jack Deannard; vice-prexy, Shocky Mein; secretary-treasurer, Mike O'Brien.. Messrs. Deannard and O'Brien re-organized this loop last year, paying particular attention to the bantam section, and carried it along very successfully. We expect they'll build the City Loop up even more this summer.

• • • • • • •

With April going out like a jungle-full of lions last eve, the senior ball practice turned into a hot stove session indoors. They will practise nightly at 5.30 in Riverside, when—and if—the weather becomes a little more gentlemanly and considerate. Maybe tonight, maybe next week—quien sabe? Anyway, the team expects to play a couple of exhibition games here Monday 'gainst Toronto Valleyviews and would like a little practice beforehand. The games will be in the Exhibition Grounds.

Speaking of O.B.A.A. transfers, the Belleville scribe points out that Frank Whitehouse has been granted permission to play here this summer and that Red Hollingsworth may be doing his stuff locally, also, "If our memory services us rightly," says he, "that gives the Petes no less than seven imports over last year, not including Sig Konopka, who shook the dust of the Quaker Oats Town from his heels late last fall and did not return until late this spring. (And to think Oshawa could not get two by)." However, he's out on both counts. We didn't get seven imports here this year and Oshawa certainly got more than two by. And Belleville didn't do so badly, either.

• • • • • • •

But we're inclined to agree with the same writer when he remarks thusly: "Another important question that will confront the C.O.B.L. delegates here on Saturday is the question of umpires. For the past eight or nine years, the various clubs throughout the circuit have deemed it advisable to employ local or home umpires, much to the dissatisfaction of the players, fans and even the umpires themselves. Now that the clubs composing the league have taken on a more optimistic attitude and have reconstructed their clubs to a marked degree, they should discard this cheap inadequate system of umpiring and revert back to the old neutral-umpire system that assisted the C.O.B.L. to soar to heights in its early and more flourishing days."

• • • • • • •

There will be six teams in the Tri-County Lacrosse League this summer, Auburns and Dinty's Inn from here, Lindsay, Norwood, Millbrook and Port Hope. They open their schedule May 28th. Dinty's Inn will likely play most of their "home" games away while Auburns may fix up a place in the north end of town for their games. Norwood isn't sure about its home games the first month as the rink isn't dry till late in June. They may play outdoors, in Havelock or in the other teams' rinks. Jimmy Lehane of here is president and, with a sec.-treas. to be appointed, will act on the executive with a representatives of each club. Looks like a good loop.

• • • • • • •

Unlike most organizations, the Tri-County League can't be bothered with financial matters. They operate on a frayed shoe-string and get by quite successfully. However, this year they'll sock each entry a fee of five seeds, four to be returned if the team completes its schedule without defaulting games. They did a lot of yapping around as to what constituted a default and what "sufficient notice" meant without getting anywhere. Seems odd to us if a visiting club can postpone a game in any case—something never done in O.H.A. O.B.A.A. or other lines of sport. And if the home team wants it postponed, they should merely notify the visiting team before it leaves for the game and take their own loss on advertising. It was a lengthy and tiresome session, but they accomplished quite a bit and are all set now for play.

Up and down Sports' Rialto: The Southend Loop junior entry into the Men's Softball League—to be known as Pepe's Cleaners—will practise at 5.30 this eve in Central; players under 20 welcome . . . . Fashion-Crafts workout at Central at six Thursday . . . . And Dinty's Inn practise at the Exhibition Grounds Thursday at six p.m. . . . . Vinny Utronki may play ball for Cobourg this summer . . . . Entries for the Girls' Softball League close at a meeting at eight in Duffus' next Wednesday . . . . We hear Abbie Rose will manage C.G.E. baseball team this year.

FLATBUSH FANS SORE AT TERRY HURL CRACKERS

Brooklyn Greeting Cards in Form of Giant Firecrackers Part of Festivities.

GIANTS TAKE A FALL.

By EDWARD J. NEIL
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, May 1. (AP). — The Hatfields and McCoys of baseball, Memphis Bill Terry and Gowanus Casey Stengel, may have settled their feud to their own personal satisfaction, but there is no calling off the franzied faithful Brooklyn.

It looks as if the boys who buy the pasteboards never are going to forget or forgive the fact in an unguarded moment over a year ago Terry quaintly pondered: "Are the Dodgers still in the League?"

Even belting the Giants out of last year's pennant hasn't salved the outraged Brooklyn pride.

Old Feud Revived

The Giants crossed the Brooklyn bridge and the Gowanus canal yesterday for the first time since the 1934 debacle, and the greeting Terry and his men got from the 17,000 Flatbushers would have warmed the hearts of survivors of the old Giants feuds with Chicago Cubs. There must be something to it, because the Dodgers won a ball game as wild as the setting, 12 to 5.

The boys heaved cannon crackers out of the stands, howling with delight as the cardboard bombs burst abaft Giant trousers. They called them Brooklyn greeting cards. One, as the festivities opened, nearly blew staid Tom Clark off the first base coaching lines.

Terry, principal target, shook hands with Stengel for photographers by home plate yesterday, and the 17,000 stood and roared in outraged unison:

"Don't shake hands with that bum."

Cash in Pockets

But it was all music to the ears of Terry and Stengel, who can hear through the turmoil of baseball's most rabid fandom the sweet click of the overheated turnstiles.

EXPECT TRIUMPH FOR YOUNG STAR

Well Tutored and With Classic Style, R. D. Murray Will Play for Canada.

Following is the second of a Canadian Press series of 12 sketches of Canadian tennis and golf players who will compete in English and Scottish tournaments this season.

MONTREAL, May 1 (C.P.)—Generally speaking, Robert R. (Bobby) Murray of Montreal, 20 years old and ambitious, is the most promising young player Canada has ever sent to the international tennis wars. There may have been others just as promising, but they weren't sent abroad.

Murray goes to Wimbledon and other major tournaments in the United Kingdom equipped with a classic style and a fine ground game that the veteran Willard Crocker taught him. He is ranked behind only two players in Canada, Marcel Rainville and Gilbert Nunns.

The Canadian Lawn Tennis Association selected Murray and Laird Watt of Montreal, Caroline Deacon and Eleanor Young of Vancouver, for the British invasion largely because of their youth. The idea is to develop young players rather than accept annual Davis Cup beatings from the United States with the youngsters getting little or no chance to take part in even these slaughters.

Last summer Murray scored some notable triumphs. He eliminated Rainville from the Quebec championships. Don Leahong, brilliant Jamaican star, fell before his stylish stroking in the quarter-finals of the Ontario singles and he topped it off by reaching the semi-finals of the Canadian, defeating Walter Martin, ranked No. 1 last year, in a stirring five-set battle.

Bobby was unbeatable in intercollegiate tennis. He won the singles and teamed for a doubles victory on behalf of McGill. Then he succeeded Watt as Quebec champion and teamed with Laird to capture the doubles. In the Canadian indoor championships last winter he again defeated Watt in the finals and they teamed to take the doubles.

Murray started welding a racquet when he was 12, playing in Montreal West. Flat strokes constitute the base of his game and he produces strokes more easily than any other player in the country. He has a preference for the backcourt, but his half-volleys from midcourt and his overhead game at the net are among the best in Canadian tennis.

Murray first came into prominence in 1933 when he was ranked in the first 10 in Quebec. He was a fine junior player and the impression he gives even now is that he still is a junior. Potentially he is a great player, as promising at his age as Walter Martin or Gilbert Nunns were at the same stage. Overseas experience never came to Martin or Nunns.

Number 600

I just had a round with Sidney Levison of Great Neck, Long Island. I would say that he stands about five feet, possibly a shade less.

He has played less than five years. He can smack wood shots well enough to keep up with any of the pros. His drives were never less than 240 yards straight down the middle. It was a pleasure to see him perform, for I've always maintained that size means little if you have the right swing.

Levinson stands quite erect and takes a full windup of body and arms. His wrists are free to bend with the action of club and arms, with the result that he is able to whip the club down with the speed of a pro.

His short game is excellent so that he always gets around in the middle seventies with a good chance of being down close to seventy. Good golf requires skill, not strength.

GYPSY GIRL

THE STORY OF AN IMPASSIONED ROMANCE

by McDONALD FEADER

READ THIS FIRST:

Consuelo, a beautiful gypsy girl who longs to dance, is loved by the Dummy, a deaf mute, and Marcu. She despises her mother, Anica, but is fond of her father, Girtza. Marcu tempts Consuelo with a huge diamond and she agrees to marry him until she suspects her gypsy sweetheart has tricked her about the ring's value. In town she sees three men playing cards near a private car on a railroad siding. She dances for them. Much impressed, one of the men, Stewart Blackmire, New York theatrical producer, promises to return in 10 days and give Consuelo a pair of slippers. Consuelo comes back to the gypsy camp—to meditate, Marcu steps out of the shadows.

(NOW GO ON WITH STORY)

CHAPTER 15

The girl started. Lights on Broadway went out. She saw who it was who stood before her. Hate came and shut out the thoughts she had been thinking, made of them nothing, like the moon paled by the glare of the sun.

"Well, big fellow, what are you doing here? Now that you have found me alone, have you another 'hunk of glass' to offer?"

Marcu did not answer her.

"Go along with you. I am thinking and cannot be bothered by such as you."

He knelt on the grass beside her. All arrogance was gone from him.

"Consuelo, my loved one, listen to me just once, will you? I am going mad. I cannot stand this longer. I am eaten inside by a hot flame until my throat burns when I think of you. I cannot eat. I cannot sleep. I am like a crazy man, so great is my desire for you. Can't you forgive me? I love you." His voice was hoarse with emotion, his hands trembling. "I thought you knew the diamond wasn't real. I thought you'd accept it for the lovely thing it was." His throat was dry. "Please little one, I love you." Never had he been so humble.

"Forgive you!" Her voice was throbbing with anger. "Never! I hate you as I have never hated anybody on this big round earth!"

He caught her hands.

"Dear one, you lie when you say that. You said to me—I love you. Oh, say it again!"

"I was lying! I was drunk! I didn't know what I was saying, so frightened was I in that awful courtroom, and you, fool, took my words for truth!" She laughed at him.

"Truth, they were. You did not despise me that night, I know you didn't. You loved me!"

Each word added to her hate and brought deeper scarlet to her face.

"You lying skunk!" Hurt him! Hurt him! "I loved the diamond, not you!"

The man recoiled.

There was bitter silence between them.

"All you wanted, then, was the ring!"

"That was as you planned, wasn't it? When you got the ring you knew you could have me with it."

"I thought I could bribe you to love me. I thought that if I could make you love me a little you would love me always. But all you thought of was the ring!"

"Yes. Even in that I was wrong. It was like you are—worthless!"

"How many men did you flirt with this afternoon to get the $50 you showed to all the camp and boasted about?" There was no longer humility in his tone.

The girl sprang up, an inarticulate scream rising to her throat.

"You lie!" she shrieked. "You were the only one—"

He laughed, a wild laugh.

"Now, you are right, my precious! I am 'the only one!" Suddenly his voice became a roar. "Do you hear me, I am the only one!"

She stared at him and his meaning was clear to her. She spat down on his feet.

"That for the gypsy dog!"

"You call me dog!" He reached out with his right hand and slapped her across the face. "You have called me liar!" His left hand swung out and slapped her. "You have called me fool!" Again he slapped her .

It took a moment for Consuelo to get her breath, then she uttered a low growl and sprang at him. He caught her arms and flung her from him. She fell to the ground. She rose and sprang at him again. With hardly a movement of his body he flung her down. She got up unsteadily, head whirling, eyes blinded with rage. Again she came at him. Again she was down. This time she could not rise, but lay groaning, the breath knocked from her.

A moment passed, then. "Are you ready to listen to me, little one?" It was the first word either had spoken. He did not expect an answer. "I am gong to give you back this ring. You will wear it." He tossed the diamond into her lap. "Put it on." She made no move to obey him. "Put it on, little one!" He kicked her. "From now on you are my woman and if you don't do what I say I'll beat you until your body is black with ugly marks." His voice was exalted.

"You are mine now. Tomorrow I will pay Girtza my purse of gold and he will marry us. Do you understand what I am saying, my precious one? Tomorrow you will be my wife and you will obey me. You will not forget how strong are my arms when I beat you and you will learn how tender they are when I love you."

He stooped down and holding up her head, kissed her lips. It was a short triumphant kiss of victory.

"You'll be my bride tomorrow night. I will not touch you until then."

Then, because he had won, he threw back his head and laughed like a drunken man, but because he had promised he went away and left her.

Marcu finished his plate of potatoes and rose to his feet. He was very tall and handsome as he stood there beside the breakfast bonfire.

"Girtza," he said, his voice loud that all might hear, "I offer you $80 in gold and the young bay colt for your daughter."

The gypsies looked up and nodded their heads with approval. Girtza wiped the grease from his beard. He straightened his shoulders and cleared his throat and looked into Marcu's eyes.

"You offer me sand when I am thirsty. Eighty dollars in gold and a young bay colt for my daughter. You are not in your head. My daughter is worth a hundred times that." But his eyes were sparkling and his hands rested lightly in his pockets.

The gypsies nodded.

"A man cannot give more than he can do without." Marcu answered. "She is a hell cat."

"She is virtue itself."

"She is a flirt."

"To be desired by many men has its price."

"I pay only for my own desire."

"Your price is an insult."

"I add to my offer the diamond and gold watch, Mira, my mother, gave me."

"It is not enough. My daughter is a dancer. She can bring you a hundred gold watches."

"I offer you three horses within the next half year."

"Where are these horses?"

"I will get them."

"Like an American gorgio, you would buy my daughter on the pay-as-you-can-plan. No, a thousand times, a hundred times, no!"

"I will get them this week."

"It is not enough."

"Oh, come now, Girtza, my father, you are not back in the old country. No man here buys a wife. Marry us tonight and I will get you three good horses by the time we move on."

Girtza hesitated.

"The horses first!"

"Marry us tonight!"

"The horses first!"

Marcu shrugged his shoulders.

"As you wish, my father. I will have them before the week is out."

"It is a bargain."

"Yes."

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Thursday, May 2

A day of great importance, with possibly a reorientation of all current interests, is presaged by the prevailing planetary influences. A change of far-reaching effect, bringing journey, new ties and associations is probable, but it involves hard work and application. Although ultimately propitious, this sudden upheaval may have surprising denouements and may cause anxiety at the start.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a very important and surprising year, with many unforeseen upheavals, contacts and changes. Travel, new surroundings and interests, especially desirable in connection with combines, secret bodies or in diplomatic service, are seen.

A child born on this day may be ingenious, skillful in unusual ways, hard working and determined to gain its ends with shrewdness.

With the bringing of water by irrigation into the De Aar, South Africa, nearly 300 windmills will be for sale by landowners.

Cricket Results

LONDON, May 1 (C.P. Cable).—Rain interfered with two of four games scheduled for the opening of the first-class cricket season in England to-day. Kent and Leicestershire got away to a good start at Gravesend in the only county match on the program, and there was a full day's cricket at Cambridge, where Sussex played Cambridge University.

No play was possible in the opening match of the South Africans' tour at Worcester, and the start of the Surrey-Marylebone Cricket Club game was postponed until to-morrow on account of rain.

F. E. Woolley, veteran Kent professional, made an auspicious start, compiling 195 runs. A. Melville, Sussex amateur also hit up a century.

The scores:

Sussex, 373 (Melville 124), vs. Cambridge University, at Cambridge.

Kent, 242 (Woolley 105, Knott 60, Smith five wickets for 87, Geary five for 60) and 32 for one wicket; Leicestershire, 110 (Freeman four for 53, Lewis five for 13), at Gravesend.

New Robot Pilot Does 80 Per Cent. of Flying on Air Liner.

11 HOURS 34 MINUTES.

NEW YORK, May 1. (AP). — A robot that did 80 per cent. of the piloting and its three flesh-and-blood lieutenants have moved the Atlantic and Pacific oceans a half hour closer together in transport flying.

After shaking off the icy clutch of the continental divide and skimming above a western dust storm, a twin-motored monoplane landed just before dark yesterday at Floyd Bennett Field, breaking the transcontinental transport record of 11 hours, 34 minutes and 16 seconds.

The robot took no bow but its right-hand man, bespectacled D. W. (Tommy) Tomlinson, and navigator Peter Redpath and radio-man Harold Snead—all fresh as daisies—were cheered by the 250 persons who had gathered quickly to witness termination of the unannounced flight from Los Angeles.

Tomlinson fished his slide rule from an inner pocket and quickly figured that the 11 hours and five minutes of flying time over the 2,459 miue great circle course meant the ship had averaged 221.8 miles an hour, despite a 50-mile detour on account of weather.

Home and School Association News

PRINCE OF WALES

Echoes from the Ontario Federation of Home and School Associations, held in Toronto last week, was a feature of the regular monthly meeting of the Prince of Wales Home and School Association last night.

The two delegates, Mrs. Harold Darling and Mrs. Bert Cribbis each brought back to their organization a helpful and vitally interesting account of their three-day convention.

Reports are usually dry; but in this case they were the very opposite; Mrs. Darling injecting a bright touch of humor, as she recounted the many activities, while Mrs. Cribbis' report was from a very different angle, but equally interesting. The local secretary and treasurer also reported the work at home which was most encouraging.

Preceding all these reports the usual devotional service was held, with Mrs. A. Mason capably presiding over the meeting.

As guest speaker, Miss Dorothy Worboy, with the aid of lantern slides, brought a vivid word picture as well, of her splendid work in the Western provinces, under the direction of the Anglican Sunday School. Going from place to place in her car, Miss Worboy's pictures were most enlightening. Through them she showed that the work was not all sunshine, and brought her hearers into almost actual touch with the sorry conditions of which we have heard so much. Still, the outlook was quite optimistic and promises a more hopeful future.

When young girls give themselves for this wonderful service through their church, it is not difficult to predict better conditions for the stricken areas of our West.

After the appreciation of the association was extended to Miss Worboy, the meeting closed with the National Anthem, and a social time was enjoyed, with carpet bowling as the chief attraction.

Huge Crevasses Open in Earth Swallowing Men and Beasts.

TREMORS CONTINUE.

Breaks in Roads Hinder Rescue Work in Terrorized Areas.

KARS, Turkey, May 2. — (C.P. - Havas)—Two hundred are dead, more than 500 seriously injured, and 15 villages are reported entirely wiped out, in the violent earthquake that shook this region during the night.

Losses to property and livestock mounted as reports from the stricken region told of huge crevasses opening up in the earth, into which men, beasts and entire houses have fallen.

Water necessary for the population has been drained off in vast chasms, and work of relief has been considerably hampered by the breaks and obstructions occurring in the roads.

Rescue parties were obliged to proceed cautiously through the broken terrain since the trembling has not ceased and recurrent quakes of varying intensity are still terrorizing the region.

The most violent shocks were in the region of Digor where many fatalities occurred.

In Kars, capital of the province, the shocks damaged most of the buildings, particularly those occupied by the government offices. A number of dwellings also collapsed here.

MURDER COUNT IS LAID AGAINST ALVIN THOMPSON

Husband of Toronto's "Lilac Bush" Victim Re-arrested at Guelph.

SERVED PERJURY TERM.

TORONTO, May 2 (C.P.) — Alvin Thompson, husband of the woman found slain in the "lilac bush murder" last July 10, was charged with murder to-day in police court and remanded to May 10 without bail.

Thompson was released earlier today from Ontario Reformatory at Guelph, where he served a term for perjury that followed taking out a license to marry another woman. He was immediately re-arrested.

Police investigation showed the license was taken out a few days before Mrs. Viola Thompson's body was found on Blythwood road on the outskirts of Toronto in York County.

Body Found Under Bush

Viola Thompson's body was found on Blythwood road, York County, under a bush, and the slaying became known as the "lilac bush murder."

Authorities said the woman died from head injuries received when beaten with a rock or instrument.

Police visited the woman's birthplace, Guelph, where she had been prior to her death.

Thompson, when charged with perjury, told police his wife had told him several weeks before of having been out with a man in a car and that the man attacked her.

The search for the slayer extended to New York City where it was learned Provincial Police had asked United States authorities to try and locate a shoe firm whose trade name was found on a pair of shoes found close to the woman's body. Later police reported the shoes were bought by the woman in Toronto.

After much investigation, during which Thompson was held on the perjury charge, no further arrests were made. On August 24 Thompson was sentenced to a term of six months definite and six months indefinite. It was understood his term was shortened through the King's Jubilee amnesty.

Six thousand pupils in Sutherland, England, were ill with influenza on a recent day, causing a closing of the schools.

BELLEVILLE, Ont., May 2 —(CP)—In the dim light of a few electric lights that cast eerie shadows in the high-walled jailyard, Harold W. Vermilyea strode stolidly up gallows steps early today and paid the death penalty for murdering his mother with an axe.

BELLEVILLE, Ont., May 2 (CP) —Vermilyea was buried in the cemetery here to-day after rites at the graveside performed by Major Wallace Bunton and Col. E. Simms of the Salvation Army, Toronto Corps, and in the presence of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Vermilyea and Clarence Vermilyea, his brothers and sister-in-law.

Half an hour before the funeral, a coroner's jury under Dr. F. G. Wallbridge found Vermilyea came to his death by hanging in accordance with the sentence of the court.

Strode Firmly to Scaffold

Dressed in grey trousers and sweat-shirt and with slippers on his feet, the condemned man strode firmly to the scaffold and listened closely to the words of The Lord's Prayer recited by Major Bunton.

"I don't need these things," he told attendants when they tied his hands behind his back before the black cap was put over his head. A minute later he asked, "What is the hurry?"

His last words were ones of farewell to his special guards and jail officials and of thanks for their kindness to him while he was in jail.

Belleville—the people he knew here, the people he went to school with and played ball with and then left to seek his fortune in California—slept when Vermilyea paid with his life for a crime that shocked the Bay of Quinte community last October.

He was led from the death cell at 1:05 E.D.S.T., just five minutes after it became legal for his hanging to take place. Between two Salvation Army officers, Wallace Bunton of Toronto and Adjutant A. W. Martin of Belleville, he walked into DUNDAS, Ont., May 2 (C.P.).—John Stephen Fry, former town clerk and town magistrate, died at his home here to-day. Mr. Fry would have been 75 years of age June 27. He held the position of town clerk for 32 years and was forced to resign in May of last year because of ill-health.

Mr. Fry had also been police magistrate for about 27 years, and he occupied the bench until last year. On the bench, he was particularly interested in juvenile delinquency, which he made practically non-existent in Dundas.

He had been president of the Horticultural Society, chairman of the Children's Home and chairman of the Widows' Allowance Board. In fraternal circles Mr. Fry was a member of the I.O.O.F. and Royal Arcanum.

HEPBURN MAKES HEADWAY WITH RELIEF PARLEY

Meets Gordon With Heenan.

OTTAWA, May 2 (CP)—Progress termed as satisfactory was made today at a two-hour conference on Ontario relief matters between Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn, Ontario Minister of Northern Development Peter Heenan, and Dominion Minister of Labor W. A. Gordon.

"We had a satisfactory conference and the discussion will be resumed at four o'clock this afternoon," Premier Hepburn stated at the conclusion of the meeting.

"Northern Ontario relief primarily was discussed although the whole question of relief throughout the province in a general way entered into the conversations, but nothing has been decided definitely yet." the Ontario Premier answered interrogations.

Ottawa's Share

The question of Dominion contribution to the trans-Canada highway in Northern Ontario was very much in the picture, it was stated.

"Is it intended to reopen some of the relief camps recently closed in the northern part of the province?" Premier Hepburn was asked.

"That depends on the result of our negotiations," Mr. Hepburn replied. "The province cannot keep 30,000 men gainfully employed unless we get Dominion assistance; we have not the money ourselves."

The Dominion - Ontario relief agreement expired March 31, but payments of direct relief have been continued for April and May at the monthly rate of $800,000.

"Nothing has been done yet," Premier Hepburn answered when questioned on the prospect of an extension of these monthly payments at the same rate for another year.

Mr. Gordon announced he had no statement to make beyond the fact the conference would be continued at a later hour to-day.

The Ontario representatives were accompanied to Ottawa by three provincial engineers with data on Northern Ontario development work.

SHERIFF BELFORD RESIGNS OFFICE

Suggested as a Possible Conservative Candidate in Northumberland.

RESIGNATION VOLUNTARY.

(Special to the Examiner)

COBOURG, May 2.—Announcement of the resignation of Sheriff James F. B. Belford caused little surprise among his friends here yesterday. Recent intimations of Major Belford's intentions foreshadowed the official statement from I. A. Humphries, Inspector of Legal Offices in Ontario, that the voluntary resignation had been accepted.

Local gossip among those who are close to the political scene in Northumberland has suggested the possibility that Major Belford may be a candidate for the Conservative nomination in this riding. It is no secret that the leaders of the party are combing the county for a strong candidate to toss into the federal arena against W. A. Fraser, M. P., who has already been re-nominated to carry the Liberal standard again.

Highly Respected

Major Belford has a large personal constituency in the affection and respect of many friends and other admirers in the county, and

LONDON, Eng., May 2. (A.P.)—Rain or shine King George's silver jubilee procession to St. Paul's Cathedral next Monday—will be carried out.

An official announcement to-day the weather would not be permitted to interfere with the great event stilled discussion of what would happen if May showers should make an unwelcome contribution to the occasion.

The only difference in the plans will be that in the event of unfavorable weather the King and Queen and their retinue will ride in a closed instead of open state landaus.

The picturesqueness and opulence of the east will be represented in the procession by four distinguished Indians, the Maharaja of Jammu and Kashmir, the Maharaja of Bikaner, the Maharaja of Patiala and Nawab Malik Sir Umar Hayat Khan.

The day's events in Great Britain will be climaxed by the lighting of a chain of 1,750 beacons illuminating the realm from Land's End to John O'Groats.

King George himself at the end of the day of thanksgiving will ignite the first of the chain by pressing a button in Buckingham Palace. An electrical impulse thereupon will set ablaze a conical beacon 20 feet high in Hyde Park.

Hitler to Make Important Announcement on Arms Possibly Inside Week.

BERLIN, May 2 (A.P.).—General Hermann Wilhelm Goering, Minister of Aviation, told foreign correspondents to-day that Germany's first class of conscripts since compulsory military service was abolished by the Versailles treaty would be called to the colors Oct. 1 for one year's service.

This statement was regarded as a definite announcement of Germany's military plans.

At the same time, Goering said Germany could return to the League of Nations only if the Geneva body apologized for the Council resolution of April 17 censuring Germany's rearmament.

Chicago "Firebug" Admits 17 Blazes

CHICAGO, May 2 (A.P.).—The "firebug" who terrorized residents of the Rogers Park and other districts was under arrest to-day, the police said.

He is H. Carl Peterson, 30, and he confessed, Police Captain Patrick Harding said, that he set at least 17 incendiary fires

"I set the fires just for the excitement," Captain Harding quoted him as saying. "I'd get a few drinks in me—then I wanted excitement. I like to see fires and see the fire engines."

Peterson was first apprehended April 23, the day after a fire in which Mrs. Julia Goldberg was burned to death, but he was released, Captain Harding said, because of lack of evidence. He was arrested again last Monday, when the police said they found a diary in which he had recorded his "firebug" activities.

Chief Draper Reports One Murder and Two Attempted Cases.

1,610 CARS STOLEN.

TORONTO, May 2.— Manslaughter, robbery, burglary and thefts increased in Toronto during the year 1934.

Sixty cases of manslaughter were brought into the courts last year, and of the sixty-three persons involved only two were jailed.

Annual Report.

These salient facts were revealed by Chief Constable D. C. Draper in his annual report to the Police Commission yesterday.

One murder and two attempted murders were reported. The murder was that of Alfred J. Hagget, aged 48, who was stabbed to death with a 12-inch butcher knife by his wife, Violet Hagget, 38, on December 20. The courts disposed of the two cases of attempted murder.

Details of Chief Constable Draper's report to the Commissioners follow:

Twenty-one cases of manslaughter, an increase of nine over the previous year. Of the twenty-two persons arrested, five charges were withdrawn, two were acquitted, four dismissed, four found not guilty, five committed for trial, on "no bill' was found, and one was not disposed of.

Disposal of Cases.

Criminal negligence during the year decreased over 50 per cent. There were thirty-nine cases during 1934, compared with eighty-five in 1933. Of the forty-one persons charged in 1934 the cases were disposed of as follows: Seven withdrawn, five found not guilty, eight dismissed, three placed on suspended sentence, five fined, one "no bill," two committed for trial, two sent to jail, and eight not disposed of.

Robbery reports received numbered 165, compared with 94 the previous year, and represented a loss of $36,835.86, compared with $15,933.01 in 1934. There were fourteen cases of burglary and 968 cases of house and shopbreaking reported, compared with 5 and 989 respectively for the previous year.

FRUITS AND VEGETABLES

TORONTO, May 2 (C.P.) — The following changes in fruit and vegetable prices were reported by White and Co.: Louisiana strawberries, 24-pint case, $3.75; California asparagus, case, bunched or loose, $3.50 to $4; Louisiana beans, green, bushel, $2.50; wax, $2.75; California Navel oranges, case, $4.25 to $4.50.

ONTARIO GRAIN.

Approximate prices track shipping point: Wheat, 87c to 89c; oats, 35c to 37c; barley, 43c to 45c; corn, 59c to 61c; rye, 52c to 54c; buckwheat, 47c to 48c; malting barley, 65c to 69c.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Material setbacks of wheat prices late yesterday resulted from heavy selling that was associated with reduction of trade estimates of prospective European wheat import requirements.

A leading British authority announced that Europe would probably need to import but 434,000,000 bushels of wheat this season, whereas his original forecast was 468,000,000, a total which he had afterward curtailed to 416,000,000. It was also predicted yesterday by him that probable Canadian wheat export shipments would be about 200,000,000 bushels, instead of 240,000,000, his latest previous revised estimate.

Wheat closed weak, ⅛c to 1⅜c under Tuesday's finish, May 97⅜c to 97⅝c; corn, ¼c to ⅝c down, May 89⅝c; oats, ⅛c to 1c off, and provisions unchanged to 10 cents declins.

Liquidation of May wheat contracts on the part of holders, who did not wish to finance 1,327,000 bushels, tendered there in first-of-the month settlements, had considerable effect as a weight on the market.

Breaks in wheat prices had a bearish effect on corn, as well as on oats. Provisions eased when grain markets turned weak.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, May 2 — It was delivery day on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange yesterday, but the first of the wheat due against the May contract and put through the clearing house had no effect on the market. The session was quiet.

Wheat prices closed ¼ to ⅜ cent lower, after holding steady throughout the day, and fluctuating sluggishly within a half-cent range. May closed at 88⅛ cents and July 89⅝ cents. Pit trade was at a minimum and Canadian wheat exports negligible.

Delivery of the wheat apparently was conducted in a manner that did not disclose the actual amount delivered to the Government wheat agency. Clearing-house figures revealed only 8,000,000 bushels tendered against open contracts.

It was understood an arrangement between John I. McFarland, agency head, and the terminal elevators called for a certain quantity to be delivered direct, and this wheat did not show up in the clearing-house totals posted.

Traders could only guess at the quantity delivered, these ranging between 16,000,000 and 20,000,000 bushels. Deliveries will be continued throughout the month.

Cash and coarse grains continued dull.

HON. P. F. MARTIN DIES IN HALIFAX

Rose From Humble Surroundings to Canadian Senate in 1921.

CHAMIPON OF LABOR.

HALIFAX, May 2.— (CP) —Hon. Peter Francis Martin, who rose to the Canadian Senate from humble surroundings, died here today in his 81st year.

The veteran parliamentarian had been ill intermittently for many months ,though his condition became critical only two weeks ago. The end came early today with his wife and children gathered about his bedside.

Senator Martin had been a member of Canada's Upper House 14 years. He was called to the Red Chamber in 1921 after four years in the House of Commons as Conservative representative for Halifax under Sir Robert Borden .

Before his acclamation to the Commons, he had served Halifax with distinction. He was mayor of the city for three terms, an alderman for 16 years nd a member of the city's school board for six years.

During all this long period he took an unflagging interest in Labor and its problems. He had started life at 13 as an ordinary house painter, without higher education, and risen through sheer determination.

He married Elizabeth C. Sullivan of Halifax in 1881 and they had eight children. The seven surviving children—five sons and two daughters—still live in Halifax county.

14 Vacancies in Senate

OTTAWA, May 2 (CP)—Death in Halifax of Senator Peter F. Martin to-day brought to 14 the number of vacancies in the Red Chamber. Senator H. S. Beland of St. Joseph de Beauce Que., and Ottawa, died of heart disease near Kingston, April 22.

Of the vacancies four are in Quebec seats, four in Nova Scotia, three in New Brunswick, two in Ontario and one in Manitoba.

The standing of parties in the Upper House is: Conservatives, 49; Liberals, 33; vacant, 14.

CAMPBELLFORD

No Record Catches First Day's Sport

CAMPBELLFORD, May 2 (Examiner Correspondence).—While large numbers of ardent fishermen braved the cold May morning to try their luck with the speckled trout, there is no thrilling story about the "big one" this year. Dr. Watson and Charlie Calver have a secret stream, but claim they did not break the game laws. Buster Whitton, Harry Tinney and Carl Johnston did not quite get their allotment, but the fish were all over seven inches in length. Frank Bonnycastle got high score with Postmaster Ferris a close second. There were no complaints about low water, the recent heavy rain having fixed that—but it was just a little too cold to be an enjoyable outing.

When a newspaper photographer arrived to take pictures, the freak was gone. "Somebody stole him," the gardeners explained.

ATLANTIC ICE ADDS TO TOLL

Schooner Sinks 100 Miles Out —Norwegian Freighter Goes Aground.

TRAWLER ASKS AID.

HALIFAX, May 2.—(CP).—Mariners counted fresh toll to-day as the twin perils of the North Atlantic—ice and weather—reared their yearly menace to shipping along the seaboard.

Two ships were lost, one sunk at sea and the other a wreck on Cape Breton Island's coast. Three more had escaped the ice floes with trouble and two others had met difficulty through stress of weather. Hope long had been given up for another pair carrying 33 men.

At the bottom 100 miles or more off Newfoundland lay the big French barque Pomone, whose crew of 28 fishermen was brought into St. Pierre, Mik., aboard a Newfoundland schooner last night—two days after she had sprung a leak and foundered.

PORT HOPE, May 2.—Falling out of a canoe at Blake's trout pond, 15 miles north of here, late Tuesday, Stanley Swisky, 18, was drowned and after a two-hour search, his body was recovered in eight feet of water. He was employed by V. Blake and when the overturned canoe was noticed by a farm hand, a search was instituted.

The remains were located by C. Haultain and L. Carr of Port Hope, who went to the scene following the call for a pulmotor. Dr. F. W. Diamond, coroner, ruled an inquest unnecessary. Union Demands Sling Loads be Cut in Half to 1,000 Pounds.

NO VIOLENCE.

Pay Increase Not Involved — Lake Freighters Are Unaffected.

MONTREAL, May 2 (C. P.).— While cargo hoists hung idle along the miles of docks here, shipowners and union representatives early to-day sought solution of the labor troubles which paralyzed the movement of ocean-going freight in Montreal Harbor since yesterday.

Growing fires of discontent among members of the Montreal Association of Syndicated Longshoremen flared when officials of the union issued a strike call which was instantly and fully obeyed. From holds and winches, from slings and barrows came 2,000 men who had been busily occupied in and about some 25 liners and freighters, and the port went dead. There was no violence, and complete order was kept by the striking men.

Point at issuet was the size of loads allowed in slings unloading and loading certain commodities, chiefly woodpulp and tin. At present 2,000 pounds are lifted at once and must be rushed away in hand cars before the next sling is handled. The union seeks 1,000 pound slings. It was stated in shipping circles the change would mean the men would earn more money as they are on a time basis and it would take longer to handle a cargo.

Y.P.S. GUESTS OF LADIES' AID

Rev. Dr. Hilton Campbell and Family Welcomed to Hastings.

CLOSING MEETING

HASTINGS, May 2. (Examiner Correspondence). — The Young People's Society of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church held their final meeting which closed their winter's activities on Monday evening, April 29th, when they were pleasantly entertained by the members of the Ladies' Aid. The meeting was a happy occasion as they were able to welcome their new minister, Rev. Dr. Hilton Campbell, Mrs. Campbell, David and Shirley who were present, and to enjoy a splendid program and appetizing supper.

Miss Annie Spooner presided for the opening exercises including the opening hymn, Scripture reading by Mrs. William West and prayer by Rev. Dr. Campbell. In her closing address Miss Spooner expressed her appreciation of the splendid co-operation given her by the members. On behalf of the society she extended a hearty welcome to the members of the Ladies Aid, and to their new minister, requesting each member to give him his or her loyal support.

Mrs. McMillan, president of the Ladies Aid was then called upon to take the chair. The following numbers were then presented: Introduction to the topic on the Books of the Bible, by Mrs. Scott Fife; an instructive topic on the many famous women of the Bible by Mrs. C. Plant; a reading by Mrs. J. A. Brown, The Books of the Bible; solo, Beautiful Isle of Somewhere, by Mrs. Chas. Dodd, accompanied by Mrs. H. Wilson; reading, Pa's Yearly Ambition, by Mrs. A. E. Spooner; hymn, accompanied by Mrs. H. Wilson; instrumental, by Mrs. W. McMillan; reading, "The Ladies' Aid", by Mrs. Howard Fife; recitation by Mrs. Owen Phillips, The Children's Call to School by a Scotch Woman; solo, In the Garden, by Mrs. Henry McMillan, accompanied by Mrs. W. McMillan.

The Rev. Campbell, in a few remarks, praised the Ladies' Aid for their program and the Young people for their hospitality. He expressed the wish that they would work loyally together for the good of the church and societies.

A contest by Mrs. McEachnie and Mrs. Spooner proved very enjoyable and was won by Mrs. W. McMillan as first winner, and Freddie Richardson as second.

A delightful repast followed, when over sixty-five were seated at three long tables, attractively arranged with flowers.

A hearty applause showed the appreciation of the program and Mrs. Fife on behalf of the Ladies' Aid moved a vote of thanks to the Young People which was seconded by Mrs. A. E. Spooner.

$6,000 In Gold Notes Found In Old Cellar Farmer On Relief Afraid To Tell Officials

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., May 1 (AP) —Willis Bridges' family was on relief rolls all winter, his "seven kids crying for something to eat"—while Bridges tremblingly guarded $6,000.

To-day the 41-year-old tenant farmer told his story, refreshed by three nights of good sleep, the first he has enjoyed since he went rabbit hunting last Fall. Seeking meat for the family table, he found in an abandoned cellar on his farm near Stockton, a fruit jar full of money. An agreement reached with his landlord to divide the bills relieved a terrific strain which began with his hunting discovery.

"I told my wife about it and we didn't know what to do," Bridges said. "I heard them talkin' downtown that the gold notes wasn't legal, or something, so I was afraid to try to spend it.

"I hid it way out in a plowed field. But I couldn't sleep nights. I kept thinkin' 'what if it was to get plowed up, or something'."

Where the money came from is a mystery.

FIELD DAY AND REGATTA PLANNED AT LAKEFIELD

LAKEFIELD, May 2 (Examiner Correspondence)—On Monday evening the first meeting of the Diamond Jubilee committee was held at the Lakefield Inn and it was decided to celebrate the day in which the new road will be opened and that a program to fill the entire day be arranged. A field day in the morning, a regatta in the afternoon, addresses in the early evening and a street dance to top off the day's program. Committees were formed and the wheels are beginning to turn to bring about a very attractive program for the auspicious occasion. A paved road through the village is something that the village fathers of 1875 never dreamed of and will suitably mark the "march of time."

PRISONER DIES UPON GALLOWS

the jailyard and walked briskly toward the gallows, 25 feet away.

Trap Sprung At 12.12 A.M.

Seven minutes later his body was sent hurtling through the trap. He had shaken hands with his spiritual advisers, speaking in low tones to them at the foot of the gallows steps. There was no hesitation on his part until the black cap was placed ver his head and he was ready to die at the end of a rope.

In addition to the Salvation Army officers, only eight persons witnessed the death of the 50-year-old Belleville native. They were Sheriff J. D. O'Flynn, Governor G. H. French, Dr. W. C. Morgan, Hangman Sam Edwards, Turnkey J. Samain and three special guards.

Newspaper reporters were not admitted to the jail for the event. Dr. Morgan formally pronounced Vermilyea dead 39 seconds after the body was cut down. It will be claimed by the family here and buried in a plot separate from the family plot in Belleville Cemetery.

Few Knew Fatal Hour.

While Belleville was deeply stirred by the brutal murder of Mrs. Aurelia Vermilyea last Oct. 4, excited by her son's arrest two days later in Ontario, Calif., and by the trial that took place in February, few persons were up and about to note the significance of the lighted jailyard at midnight.

Jail officials gave no indication yesterday or last night at what hour the hanging would take place. Most citizens expected it would be at dawn. There was virtually no precedent, because the last hanging in Belleville took place 40 years ago.

Throughout yesterday Vermilyea prepared quietly for the end. Jail officials said he was unafraid, calm as he had been from the time of his arrest. He did not formally admit his guilt. Until two days ago he had hoped the Federal Government would commute his sentence.

Parting Advice To Son.

He wrote a letter to his 14-year-old son, Than, who is in San Bernardino, Calif. He said: "My dear son...Don't gamble...Go to church regularly...Join a lodge." He wrote, too, to his daughter Aurelia. Then he talked with Jail Governor French and his Salvation Army friends.

It was evening when a telegram was delivered to his cell, from the wife who divorced him several years ago. It read: "God will forgive you, as I have everything."

Arthur Vermilyea, Harold's brother, paid his last visit to the cell in the afternoon, and said he believed his brother was "perfectly at peace and ready for the end." But the night message from his former wife noticeably added to Vermilyea's courage.

Those who saw most of Vermilyea since his return here to stand trial predicted he would remain calm and strong, and they were right. He did not even appear nervous when he walked into the shadowed jailyard and headed for the gallows without even turning his head.

No Weakling.

His attitude was one of strength from the day he set out from Ontario, Calif., his home, late last September and boarded a train for the east. No one knew he was coming to visit the city of his childhood, and no one in his new west-coast home knew where he was going.

He came to Belleville at night in a taxi-cab from Toronto. The driver later identified him. He knocked on the door of his mother's house, then left the house with her. Mrs. Vermilyea was attacked just outside the door with a short-handled axe. Her head was beaten in. She died the next day.

Back to California Vermilyea dashed by taxi, train and airplane. On October 6—two days after the murderous attack—he telephoned his brothers here from California to express horror at the death of their mother. But he was already under suspicion.

A letter to his mother in which Vermilyea had spoken of financial difficulties and asked the loan of money was found by police. Other relatives told of letters they received from Harold expressing the opinion his mother should distribute her estate before her death.

Claimed Innocence.

Arrested, Harold proclaimed his innocence. He said he had not been outside California since 1932. Extradited to Ontario, he showed little concern over his position. During the 10-day trial before Mr. Justice Nicol Jeffrey and a jury he remained unconcerned, almost nonchalant.

He showed no interest in the unsuccessful efforts of defence counsel to have the jury accept a plea of insanity on the grounds Vermilyea was not competent to stand trial. And he joked with his guards after Mr. Justice Jeffrey sentenced him to death on February 25.

There was a momentary let-down two days ago when he was told no government clemency would be forthcoming. But it was emotion that lasted briefly. He was strong and fearless when he walked to the gallows this morning.

Graduate's Biography

TORONTO, May 3 (CP)—Ten words from Shakespeare's King Henry IV., printed above a graduate's biography in the University of Toronto year-book 28 years ago, held a tragic significance to-day.

Beneath the picture of a bespectacled youth were the words:

"Oh, my sweet Harry, how many hast thou slain to-day?"

The youth was Harold W. Vermilyea.

Why this particular quotation was chosen may never be known. In the play, after Prince Hal initiated the braggart hotspur, he voiced an imaginary question by Hotspur's wife, and that question was the selected quotation.

Of Vermilyea, the now-forgotten biographer chronicled in the 1907 "Torontonensis" of Varsity tradition.

"One day four miles out of Belleville his nurse looked into the blue eyes of Baby Harold and remarked that he was a 'braw laddie.' This set a pace for his ambition, and when in 1903 he came to Varsity he proceeded at once to the gymnasium and the track. A good student at the proper time and of sport when occasion demanded, he was never an easy man with whom to become familiar. His friends will remember him as a good fellow, who was always willing to extend the helping hand. He is reliable and persevering in his studies, and will become one of the strong men of our great West, to the building up of which he intends to devote his life."

Montreal Harbor Commissioners not being connected with the strike. Contract terms are drawn up between the union and the companies.

It was hoped the meeting this morning would reach a compromise on the question of loads. Union officials stated they were not seeking any change in basic rates of pay. E. McQuirk, official representative of the Department of Labor, was seeking to bring the disputing parties together.

Immediate settlement of the strike was regarded in shipping quarters as imperative for ocean shipping was completely tied up in the harbor. Passenger liners are due to sail tomorrow and there is a possibility they may be delayed if immediate facilities for their cargo are not completed.

The strike did not affect lake freighters or coastal boats.

No Strike-Breaking

Another group of stevedores the National Independent Union, has no contract with the companies. They have already sent their representatives to the employers for recognition, but no official statement of their success in this regard had been issued up to to-day. No attempt at strike-breaking, therefore, had been made. All seagoing handling contracts in the past had been made with the syndicated men, and they are the only men affected by this disturbance.

Two years ago there was a deadlock between the same parties which led to a board of conciliation whose finding was accepted by both groups. No arbitration has been undertaken in the present instance, the men walking out without the usual formalities under the Lemieux Act.

Police Prepare

(By Thomas T. Champion, Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

LONDON, May 2 (CP Cable). — The police and traffice authorities are frankly at a loss to estimate the probable size of the crowds they will have to handle on Monday along the processional route to St. Paul's Cathedral, for the great thanksgiving service in commemoration of Their Majesties' Silver Jubilee.

They are taking no chances in any event. Two thousand members of the "city" police who guard the one square mile of the city proper are being reinforced for the first time in history.

Nine thousand uniformed officers of the Metropolitan Force will line the route outside the "city" limits and nearly 1,000 detectives will be among the crowd on the sidewalks.

The real street jam is expected to occur in the evening of Jubilee when floodlighting and other illuminations will mark the event. Large-scale exterior lighting effects are still something of a novelty here. This week the trial floodlighting of Buckingham Palace St. Paul's, the Houses of Parliament and Westminster Abbey along with fifty other notable structures has already brought suburban and country visitors in by the tens of thousands. All wheeled traffic has been prohibited for some hours each evening in Picaddilly, Regent Street, and some other main arteries.

DUKE TO THE ISLANDS.

ST. PETER PORT, Guernsey, May 2 (A.P.). — While the rest of the British Empire acclaims George V. as King and Emperor on his Silver Jubilee Day next Monday, he will be only a Duke to habitants of the picturesque English Channel Islands.

The islands are officially the old Duchy of Normandy. Such they have remained ever since William the Conqueror led from the Duchy the biggest free-booting expedition ever organized in Europe and seized England from the Saxons.

It is nigh upon 1,000 years since that happened, but the Channel Islands have never been incorporated in the United Kingdom. They have remained "The Duchy," and all the Kings of England have ruled over them as Dukes of Normandy—never by any higher title.

In the view of the Channel Islanders, when the question comes down to outright analysis, they do not belong to England, but England belongs to them by right of conquest.

WORK ON THE FARM.

Hon. David Croll's effort to furnish Ontario farmers with the helpers they require from the ranks of the unemployed is a move in the right direction, and the hearty co-operation the Minister of Public Welfare is requesting from farmers and from municipal relief officers should be readily forthcoming.

It has always been a paradoxical situation that able-bodied young men should be maintained in idleness out of public funds in the cities while at the same time Ontario farmers were in need of workers during the busy season.

Mr. Croll deserves credit for his determination to put an end to this kind of thing, even if it means cutting off from the relief lists all those unemployed who refuse to accept farm jobs when they are given the chance to go to work.

"No farmer willing to pay fair wages need hunt for farm hands this year," the Minister declares, "and officers of this department will see to it that those who refuse farm jobs under fair conditions are struck off relief rolls. No man can refuse farm wages and stay on relief."

With the fairness of that policy there can be no quarrel.

There is no reason in the world why so long as fair wages are offered by Ontario farmers their needs should not be supplied from those on relief, and in deciding to make his department a clearing house for the supplying of farm laborers from relief lists, the Minister of Public Welfare has adopted a course that should have widespread approval.

A GIGANTIC PROGRAM.

For some time economists have been endeavoring to decide as to the efficacy or otherwise of providing jos for the unemployed through the medium of a public works program.

There are many who believe that such a policy is better than taking care of the workless through direct relief; on the other hand, doubtless as many more are of the opinion that the public works plan is so costly and involves such increased taxation that it is of doubtful value as a cure for unemployment.

The Examiner agrees with the Ottawa Journal that whatever else President Roosevelt's four billion dollar works program may do, it ought to settle this argument for all time.

Certainly it is the most extraordinary spending program in history, involving the expenditure of $4,-000,000,000, and aimed at accomplishing two objects, namely, to replace direct relief with work and to assist private business by increasing the general purchasing power.

Mr. Roosevelt hopes to put 3,500,000 men to work under this scheme, and it is the idea behind the plan that it will benefit not only those who actually find jobs on public undertakings, but will also provide work for thousands of others in turning out the materials needed for the public works program.

This four billions are to be spent as quickly as possible, on productive enterprises, if these can be planned, but in any event to be spent so that as many jobs as can be provided will be set up.

Certainly such a gigantic effort should show whether or not unemployment can be banished by public works expenditure.

THE NEWSPAPER SCORES AGAIN.

In these columns yesterday The Examiner gave figures that showed that of the huge sum spent on national advertising in the United States last year very nearly half went to the newspapers and the balance was divided among magazines, radio broadcasting and outdoor advertising, magazines ranking next to the newspapers as a publicity medium.

To-day we are able to show from a survey made by the Bureau of Advertising in the United States, involving nearly a million homes in fifteen American cities, that the newspaper stands alone as an effective and cheap means of reaching the ultimate consumer.

"The final conclusion," says the report, "is that the advertiser who uses newspapers alone is getting the best available coverage at the lowest cost."

Getting down to details, the survey shows that one newspaper in each of the cities covered in the investigation would reach 607,300 homes at a cost of $3.09 a line, whereas to reach 472,439 families through the seventeen magazines with the largest circulation 88 per cent. of the advertising revenue would cost the advertiser $7.15 a line.

As to radio advertising, the bureau's finding is that, although 61.5 per cent. of the homes covered by the survey have radios, only 4.5 per cent. are tuned in to a single program.

The experience of one automobile company is typical. Its air audience was estimated at 545,600 listeners, who were reached at a cost of $11,898, and for that amount the company could have brought their product before a million readers through the medium of a page and a half of newspaper advertising.

GOOD ADVICE FOR MOTORISTS.

In calling attention to the fact that for the eleventh month in succession motor deaths in Ontario during March were higher than for the same month last year, Hon. T. B. McQuesten, Minister of Highways, indulges in a little plain speaking and the truth of his words should impress itself upon the chief offenders.

Errors in judgment and hasty decisions on the part of drivers, Mr. McQuesten declares to be the fundamental causes of the majority of accidents.

"The actions and behaviour of such motorists seem to indicate that the safety of themselves and others is of small consequence in comparison with the possibility of saving a few minutes, or even a few seconds."

Allowance is usually made for obvious dangers, Mr. McQuesten points out, but a clear road breeds a false sense of security, which too often leads to accidents.

"This is especially true," the Minister's statement says, "when children are at play. Apparently many drivers assume that the child on the sidewalk will stay there until the car has passed. Thus all through the spring and summer months accidents are reported in which the driver states: 'The child darted from the sidewalk into my path. I didn't have a chance to stop.'

"In almost every case this is the truth, but what such drivers fail to realize is that the child on the sidewalk is a danger signal which must be passed with caution and reduced speed if safety is to be assured. The great increase in accidents involving children during the late spring and summer months, an increase which is to be observed in accident statistics year after year, is conclusive evidence that drivers still place too much reliance on the judgment of the child in such circumstances. Trust your own good judgment, not the whim of a child, is an excellent rule at all times, and especially during the sunny days of spring and summer when the number of children on the street is much larger than at other times."

QUEBEC WOMEN ASK KING'S HELP.

When a delegation of women called on the Premier of Quebec recently asking for the electoral franchise, they indicated that unless their request was granted they would resort to spectacular artifices to attain the privilege which they sought. It is now announced that a petition signed by representative women from all parts of the province of Quebec is to be presented to King George on the occasion of his jubilee celebration and asking that he intervene to have the Quebec Government extend the franchise to women.

The appropriateness of such action may be questioned, because it involves a certain embarrassment to the King from which he ought to be protected on such an occasion as that which is being commemorated. If the Quebec Legislature cannot see its way clear to extend the franchise to the women of the province, it is quite unlikely that King George would regard it as a matter for royal interference. Most people, however, will recognize the gesture of the Quebec women as a publicity venture to call attention to their fight for the franchise. Since 1922 they have been appearing regularly before the Government with their petition for the vote, and they have been consistently rebuffed. One of the features of the petition to be presented to the King will be one page containing the names of the "pioneers" who in 1922 presented the first request to the Legislature. These Quebec women are persistent and their campaign is apparently taking on strength with the years. Although the province of Quebec is the conspicuous standout in Canada against votes for women, it will probably be unable permanently to shelve this demand.—Woodstock Sentinel-Review.

AIDS TO GOLD MINING.

Repeated proposals by this newspaper that the Government hire men on its own account to help extend the gold mining industry failed to raise a flicker of interest in Queen's Park, but it is some satisfaction to read that the Dominion Government is going to organize at once 180 geological investigating parties to seek for gold, and will spend about $720,000 in this way.

This undertaking by the Government ought to be a considerable help in the opening up of productive mineral territory throughout Canada. Private interests have done very well in locating gold and other minerals in this country, but they should not be saddled with all the pioneer work in a field which offers tremendous advantages to the Dominion. During the years of depression the activities of our mines have greatly softened the blows of adversity. They have kept many more at work and their demands for supplies have provided business for many other industries. The Canadian mining field is of such tremendous extent that it is impossible to speed up its development too greatly. It would be an excellent thing for Canada if there were hundreds more producing mines in the country and the more official knowledge that is available the easier it will be to find capital for the exploitation of this rich territory.

This newspaper's proposals went so far as Government participation in development of some mine properties, for example those abandoned through exhaustion of capital, or because the margin of profit was too small to meet overhead expense. The idea, of course, was to give men employment at something which would at least be productive. Somewhat along this line, there appears in Mines and Oils Weekly of April 19 an article by N. W. Kingsland, whom the editor describes to us as a large employer of labor, who has taken a leading part in constructive mining development. Briefly, his proposal is a subsidy in the way of lending equipment to enterprises whose program of development met with approval of Government engineers. In support thereof he submits a number of arguments, including the following:

The greater part of the cost spent in time-consuming sales campaigns would be eliminated. No longer would 95 per cent. or some similarly high rate of discount be charged on the sale of capital stock.

Properties could be proved or disproved much more rapidly.

For every man sent to work in a mine, about 25 people in various other lines of occupation step forward to their respective tasks to keep up the flow of goods and supplies.

Canada produced $102,000,000 in gold last year. She should be getting $500,000,000. To meet a $500,-000,000 production in gold, unemployment would utterly disappear in Canada. Finally:

"With $500,000,000 in gold coming in to Ottawa each year, less than one-fifth of it would handle our annual foreign commitments. The remainder, used as backing for currency, would permit, even on a 30 per cent. coverage basis, around $1,350,-000,000 in new currency fully backed by necessary gold requirements. In less than seven years Canada would be entirely out of debt, income taxes could be abolished, business taxes cut to fractions, if not entirely eliminated, and a standard of living set up which not even the C.C.F. could find fault with."—Woodstock Sentinel-Review.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Premier Hepburn's plain words are evidently having their effect on the Crowland situation. He was right when he told the strikers that the province was not going to be bluffed.

May Day, it would seem, was frigid enough to have cooled off the hottest Reds in the country.

It may help to visualise the four billion dollar spending program of the United States to realise, as the Ottawa Journal points out, that it represents the total expenditure for all purposes (excepting war) made by Canada since Confederation.

With the Liberal convention to choose a candidate to-night, the battle in this riding for federal honors may be said to be about to really open.

The closing of road camps will sharply accentuate the unemployment problem. That aspect of the situation should be brought strongly to the attention of the Federal Government.

INGERSOLL, ONTARIO

Situated in the heart of the dairy industry of Ontario, Ingersoll traces its origin to Major Thomas Ingersoll, for whom it was named, who settled here in 1793.

Thomas Ingersoll was a descendant of Jered Ingersoll, collector of taxes on imported teas in Boston at the time of the Boston Tea Party. He also was the father of Laura Ingersoll, afterward known as Laura Secord, who wrote her name large in Canadian history during the war of 1812. He was also distantly related to the Ingersoll watch people.

Thomas Ingersoll was guided to this district by Chief Joseph Brant, famous Indian chief.

Asks Quick Sentence To Get "Cut Rates"

ORILLIA, May 2 (C.P.).—George Hill, 38 years old, has a deadline to catch. He wants to be taken to Barrie immediately and plead guilty to auto theft so he can be sentenced before May 3.

Convicted and sentenced to six months here yesterday on one charge of auto theft, Hill was in a hurry to get to Barrie and face a second charge that awaits him.

He told the court he had read in a newspaper that in celebration of the King's jubilee, six days were being clipped from each month of sentences imposed before May 3, and he wanted to get in on the cut rates.

Crown Attorney F. G. Evans laughingly assured Hill he would be rushed to Barrie with all possible haste. Hill thanked him profusely.

THAT OLD SUIT OF CLOTHES

Yes, I remember that old suit of clothes hanging in the back of my closet.

Yes, you are right, I haven't worn it for ages.

But you can't give it away....I want it. I would not think of getting rid of it. I'll wear it again some day. I'll wear it in the country. I'll take it to the mountains. It'll come in very handy. I might burn a hole in this suit. I might be in desperate need of another, and there it would be, waiting for me....I wouldn't even sell it. You just forget all about it.

Well, maybe I AM selfish. Yes, I HAVE thought about how much somebody might be needing that suit of clothes. I understand all that, and perhaps I do feel a little ashamed of myself....But just the same you can't give that old suit away. You're not going to shame me out of it, either. It's mine, and I want to keep it.

I am NOT to fat to wear it any more. It's a very loose suit and it would fit me as well today as it did four years ago. It's not like my own army uniform. I wouldn't dare go down the street in that, even if I still had it....But this suit is quite another matter.

Fact is, I'm sentimental about it. I feel at home in it. It fits me like an old friendship, like a happy memory. It wrinkles just right. It hangs swell. When I wear it I don't need to be careful. It has a rip by the right pocket and a little hole on the left lapel where a cigaret burned it. It belongs on me, I belong in it. Catch me giving it away!

What did you say?....Well, perhaps men ARE funny. I'm not denying that. They're funny, and I'm funny, too....But you ask ANY man what he thinks of having his favorite old suit given away, flung out as it were, into a harsh and unappreciative world. Ask him and see what he says. Ask him and see if he doesn't agree with me.... Why, woman, if I lost that suit I'd feel as if I were practically naked, as if I didn't have a thing to wear....You can give away any old shoes you find, but you keep your hands off that old gray suit of mine!

Your Health

By DR LOGAN CLENDENING

The final step in summing up the diagnosis of a particular individual is to try to decide what his functional capacity is. Most diagnosis is anatomical. We say that the heart is enlarged, the valves are damaged, or that the thyroid gland is diseased, or that there is a stone in the kidney, etc., but the greatest refinement comes in deciding how much work this damaged organ can do. We know that a badly damaged heart may serve its owner for many years. Everyone knows of such cases. We find hearts at an autopsy so diseased that it is a matter of marvel that the man could have lived at all, and yet he did, doing a fair amount of work.

The decision as to this functional capacity or, in other words, this physiological diagnosis, has depended in the past largely upon the clinical judgment and experience of the physician, but we are finding methods of exact measurement which bid fair to be increasingly important. Measurement is the final test of science, and no science made much growth until it began to have standards of measurement.

Thus, I received the other day, the report of the young army surgeon who took care of Napoleon at St. Helena during his last illness. He records that the Emperor's body heat was high or low, but he gave no exact measurements because the clinical thermometer had not yet been perfected.

Clinical medicine has been borrowing instruments from the physiological laboratory for the purpose of making these more exact measurements of functional capacity. One of the first that we borrowed was the blood pressure apparatus. Another recent one was the apparatus for measuring basal metabolism. Basal metabolism is the total energy exchange of the body, and is measured by the amount of oxygen which it consumes per square area of body surface. We have found, especially in activity of the thyroid gland, that the basal metabolism is high, and that when it degenerates the basal metabolism is low. This is true because the thyriod is the regulator of energy exchange.

Method of measuring nasal metabolism

Another method of physiologic examination is that of the irregularities of the pulse and the integrity of the conduction system of the heart muscle. This is done by a very delicate indicator of galvanic electricity called the "electrocardiograph." A tracing of the heart's action can be made upon a roll of photographic film so that an extremely good idea of what is taking place inside the heart can be obtained.

By still other methods, more or less chemical in nature, we are able the kidneys, and of the liver, to judge the functional capacity of the kidneys and of the liver.

STILL DANGEROUS.

A DAY IN CANADIAN HISTORY

By Fred Williams

THE BATTLE OF CUT KNIFE

On this date (May 2) in 1885 was fought the battle of Cut Knife in the campaign of the Canadian militia against Poundmaker and his braves. The place had been deliberately chosen by the Indians for a stand because it had 15 years before been the theatre of a battle between the Crees and the Sarcees, in which the latter were defeated, and hence the place had sacred associations for the Crees.

The battle of Cut Knife was one forced by Col. Otter, for he deliberately set out from Battleford with a portion of his force to punish Poundmaker and teach him a lesson. The troops engaged were "A" and "B" batteries, Mounted Police scouts, "C" School of Infantry, the Ottawa Sharpshooters, No. 1 Company of the Queen's Own and the Battleford Rifles, about 400 in all. They came upon the enemy at dawn after a search of 35 miles. The Indians were surprised but soon rallied and put up a desperate fight for several hours.

It is clear from all reports of the affair that Otter was out-manoeuvred by the Indians who finally had him surrounded, and an orderly retreat was necessary. It was a dangerous operation, but was accomplished due to the bravery of the riflemen as they kept up their fire while retiring. The artillery dropped their shells on the advancing Indians and the whole column was enabled to form on the prairie level, to partake of a meagre meal and a short rest before returning to Battleford.

In the fighting eight were killed and 13 wounded. The killed: Corporal Lowry, Corporal Sleigh and Constable Burke of the Mounted Police; Bugler Foulkes, "C" School; Private Rogers and Osgood, Ottawa Sharpshooters; Private Dobbs, Battleford Rifles; and Charles Winder, transport.

The wounded: Sergeant Ward, Mounted Police; Lieut. Pelletier, 9th Batt.; Sergeant Gaffney, Gunner Reynolds and Corporal Mornon, "B" Battery; Major Spackman, "C" School; Colonel Sergeant Cooper, Privates George Watts, J. S. Fraser, Charles Varey and George Lloyd, of the Queen's Own; Private J. McQuilliken and Color Sergeant Charles Winter, Ottawa Sharpshooters, and Bugler Ernest Gilbert, Battleford Rifles.

The George Lloyd mentioned afterwards became Bishop of Saskatchewan, and Sergeant Winter is now Brigadier-General C. F. Winter, Secretary of the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association.

Fat domestic cattle of light weights sold from 13 to 14 cents per pound, dressed weight including offal, with medium and heavy weights from 12 to 13¼ cents per pound.

KING OF LATHERS DIES.

TORONTO, May 2 (C.P.).—Funeral arrangements were being made to-day for Jack Hale, known as "King of the Lathers," and the oldest man to hold a Lathers' Union card, having organized the British union. He died at his home in East York Township, near here, yesterday. He was 80.

Hale was reputed the fastest lathing worker in North America. He once issued a challenge to some members of the trade in the United States to contest the title but they refused to meet him.

MINING TRADE SLIGHTLY HIGH

Silver Issues Feature April Session Almost to Exclusoin of Others.

TORONTO EXCHANGE.

Despite heavy action in the last half of April, share trading on the mining section of the Toronto Stock Exchange for the month at 20,973,701 shares was only slightly higher than March, but values of transactions were down some four million dollars at $20,285,910.

The mixed market action was probably unique since the Cobalt or Rossland, B.C., days owing to the featuring of silver issues almost to the exclusion of other stocks. Dethronement of the golds as leaders occurred in the second week when the United States increased its domestic price of silver and overnight the metal reached a nine-year high in the free London market.

Prior to this, general action of the board was of a desultory character, senior and secondary golds being most apathetic and even the base metals refusing to respond to the general improvement in world copper.

Into this situation the silver announcement had the effect of focussing trading, solely in the group. Volume improved almost immediately and under the impetus Castle-Trethewey recorded an eight year high to be followed by new peaks for the year in BEAR, Eldorado and certain of the base metal issues having a good percentage of silver in their ores.

Issues Sacrificed.

Other issues not belonging to the favored white metal group were overwhelmed and sacrificed with small recessions daily in a non-receptive market. Later, failure of the Washington administration to follow again the world price brought about profit-taking in the silvers before a strong closing rally on the 29th averted a further cut into the gains made earlier.

The month's action was depicted by the Exchange index of miscellaneous mines which are comprised mainly of silvers and base metals. Opening at 83.68, the index hit the 100 mark on the 26th for the first time since early 1934 and reacted to close the month at 96.72. The gold index moved in an unusually narrow range of four points throughout the month, finishing at almost the same level at which it opened April.

Most active stocks of the silvers were Bear Exploration, Eldorado and Castle Trethewey, each with volume ranging up to 2,000,000 shares and all three showing a fifty per cent. price appreciation. Junior golds featured McWatters and Tashota each having volume of above 300,000 shares, while Teck-Hughes and Hollinger led the seniors. During the month 175 issues were traded, 91 advancing against 57 declines.

Market Closing On All Exchanges

MONTREAL EXCHANGE

MONTREAL, May 2 (CP)—A few small gains were chalked up late in the session on Montreal Stock Exchange to-day and the appearance of weakness which the last had held throughout the day was lessened somewhat.

Consolidated Smelters touched a low of 155 before recovering to 157¼ where it held a loss of 1¼ points. Penman's dropped 2 more points to a new 1935 low level of 50.

Brazilian, Industrial Alcohol and Dominion Steel were all off about ¼ of a point, while Winnipeg Electric declined 15 cents at 1.10. Dominion Coal Preferred jumped 4 at 129, Canadian Hydro Electric ½ at 41, Goodyear Tire Preferred ¼ at 116¾, and National Breweries Preferred ½ at 28½. Building Products and one or two more also showed gains.

WALL STREET

NEW YORK, May 2.—(AP)—The stock market refused to be more than momentarily discouraged by a slump in world silver prices today.

After an irregular decline in the earlier hours the list recovered most of its losses and in most of the leaders replaced them with gains, despite continued sogginess in commodities.

Chrysler and American Telephone rose 2 points and shares up a point or more included Santa Fe, Eastman, Westinghouse Electric, Pullman and a few others and fractional gains were numerous. U. S. Smelting recovered half of a 3-point loss and declines of fractions to a point in other non-ferrous metals were reduced. In the late dealings the market was irregularly higher. Transfers approximated 920,000 shares.

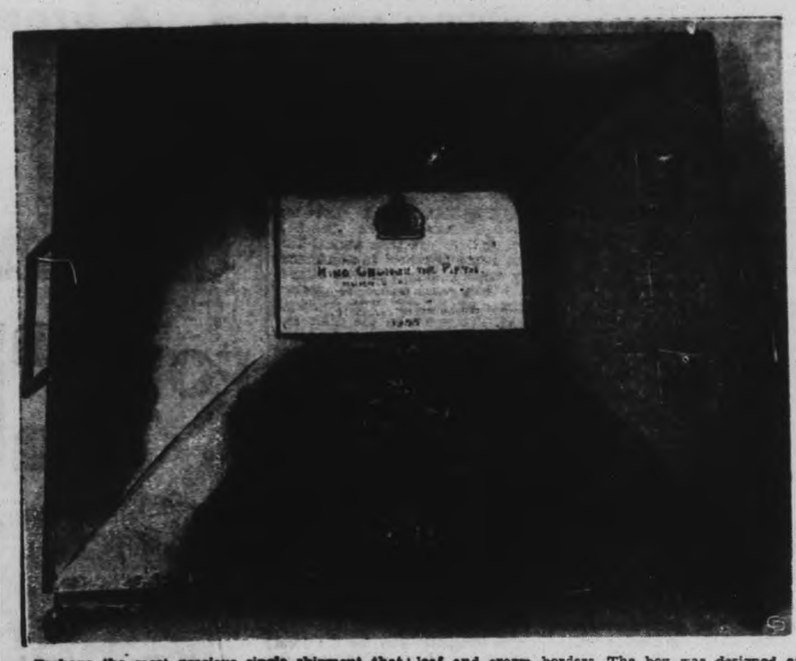
ONTARIO HOG PRICES.

TORONTO, May 2 (C.P.).—While Stratford registered a 25-cent advance on bacon hogs and Barrie and London rose 10 cents, Hull supplies dropped 10 for the only loss this week. All other reporting market points were unchanged. To-day's prices:

Chatham $8.00, Peterborough $8.25, Kitchener $8.25, Barrie $8.25, London $8.25, Brantford $8.40, Stratford $8.50, Hull $8.40.

Jamaica has exported this year twice as many bananas as in early 1934.

Canada's Jubilee Gift To Their Majesties



Perhaps the most precious single shipment that ever left Canada for Britain is now in the strong room of liner Aquitania. This is none other than Canada's gift box to King George V. It is a gold box measuring 18 x 14 x 3 inches, elaborately decorated with hand-engraved crests of the nine Canadian provinces and the Dominion coat-of-arms, with maple leaf and crown borders. The box was designed and made by Henry Birks & Sons, and its inscription reads: "To His Most Excellent Majesty King George V humble address of the Senate and the House of Commons of Canada on the occasion of His Majesty's Silver Jubilee, 1935." The box will be presented to his majesty on May 8.

SILVERS STAGE LATE COMEBACK

Early Recessions Regained on Heavy Buying Before Market Close.

BASE METALS TRAIL.

TORONTO, May 2 (C.P.). — Breaking quite severely at the opening on the announcement of a sharp drop in the price for bar metal, silver stocks came back most of the way late this afternoon on heavy buying. The group held the main interest with base metals trailing and the gold share market appearing somewhat draggy. At the close the price level was slightly off for the day, but with a late firm appearance.

From a low of 1.98, Eldorado recovered to about 2.20 for a nett loss of a few cents. More than 100,000 shares of the stock changed hands in the first three hours. Castle improved to erase the entire morning loss, Bear made up most of the recession, and Nipissing and Premier closed practically unchanged.

Base Metals Corporation, Noranda, Hudson Bay, Falconbridge, and Pend Oreille closed on the down side by a few cents.

Braylorne, Dome, Hollinger, and Wright-Hargreaves and Teck-Hughes sold lower, but losses did not exceed 75 cents.

Night Patrols

Twenty-two strapping cyclists, NEW YORK, May 2 (CP)—strong enough to handle "bars" or punsters, soon will start nightfall-to-dawn patrols of eight of the city parks to prevent vandalism, give first aid to the injured and assist generally in preserving the peace. They will be deputized as special officers.

CHAMBER HITS ROOSEVELT PROGRAM.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—(AP)—After adopting a series of resolutions attacking virtually every phase of President Roosevelt's legislative program, the Chamber of Commerce of the United States today selected as its new President Harper Sibley, Rochester, N.Y. banker described by his associated as somewhat critical of the administration policies.

APPEALS TO KING

MONTREAL, May 2 (CP)—The unusual procedure of carrying an appeal for commutation of the death sentence on a convicted murder direct to the Throne was revealed to-day.

Mario Lattoni, defence counsel for Joseph Alisero, condemned to die on the scaffold here Friday for the rumble seat murder of his sweetheart, Graziella Viens, said to-day he was awaiting a reply to a cablegram he sent King George V. earlier in the week, pleading Alisero be sent to jail for life.

Father Of 10 Children Forgets One In Fire, Recount And Dash Into Flames Saves Tot

FLORENCE, N.S., May 2 (CP) — Simon Rasmussen had so many children he didn't know what to do with them.

A half hour after he thought he had shepherded the ten out of his burning home early to-day, he came running back from a neighbor's. His youngest, forgotten in the shuffle, still lay in her crib.

Friends boosted the father through a window with Bert Coakley and Bob Robertson. Up the blazing stairs the trio ran, to find the infant still asleep in the smoke-filled bedroom.

They carried her to safety with Rasmussen making a mental note to count heads next time.

Even Break in Industrial List as Market Firms in Late Trading.

NICKEL HOLDS STEADY.

TORONTO, May 2. (CP). — The Industrial list of the Toronto Exchange had a slow and somewhat unsettled day but displayed firming tendencies in the late performance to give the price level an almost even break on losses and gains. Some of the liquors and oils improved and the metals recovered early recessions. Volume was better also in the late trading.

International Nickel held steady despite the drop for bar silver and closed unchanged while Smelters came back to 158 to show a small net gain. Ford 'A' traded actively at an advance of ⅝ and C.P.R. ruled slightly higher.

Gains of small fractions appeared in the oils with International Petroleum the leader. Pressed metals, Dominion Bridge and Canadian Car showed gains.

Tax All Spinsters At Age Of 11 Years

BOMBAY, April 30 (C.P.)—In spite of widespread propaganda against all forms of child marriage, the orthodox diehards seem to be as firm as ever in their views, says the Times of India. Recently the Desha Dishawal Vanik Mahajan of Ahmedabad passed a resolution proposing that all spinsters over the age of 11 shall be taxed to the tune of one rupee (about 32 cents) each month by the community.

The resolution reads: "As the number of bachelors and spinsters in our community seems to be increasing it is proposed that all parents should get their daughters between the ages of nine and 11 engaged to be married. If this rule is not observed, and the daughter remains unengaged though over 11, her parents will have to pay the tax till such time as her engagement takes place.

Air Force Match For Any.

BERLIN, May 2.—(AP).— Hermann Wilhelm Goering, Minister of Aviation, said to-day that the German air force, because of its superior quality of men and material, would be more than a match for any assailant, even though that assailant were numerically stronger.

Goering made this statement to a gathering of foreign correspondents.

(Sir John Simon, British Foreign Secretary, recently announced in the House of Commons Reichsfuehrer Hitler had informed him Germany's military aviation strength was already equal to that of Great Britain).

"If you ask how strong the Reich is in the air," said the aviation leader, "I reply it will always be as strong as any outside combination, for or against peace, will be. Whoever dares attack us will have a bad time because we have absolutely the most modern machines and motors.

"I have suffered a great deal in past years through having to play hide-and-seek in the matter of an air force. A year ago I could say with good conscience that we had nothing. We hadn't any machines hidden in the forest or underground, as the stories went. They simply weren't there, but since others refused to disarm, we were forced to arm also."

Italy is extending the scope of the forty-hour week.

Royal Commissioner Proceeds Without Man Who Made Charges.

AGAINS R.C.M.P.

FREDERICKTON, N.B., May 2.—(CP)—Hon. J. B. M. Baxter, chief justice of New Brunswick, sitting as a Royal Commission, opened an investigation today of the charges lodged against the Royal Canadian Mounted Police by Hon. P. J. Veniot, former Postmaster General.

Mr. Veniot was not present to press his charges but the chief justice decided to proceed in his absence.

C. L. Dougherty, representing E. C. P. Salt, New Brunswick superintendent of the R.C.M.P. and Sergeant B. G. Peters, in command of the Bathurst detachment, stated he proposed to prove the charges were "unwarranted, unfounded in fact and untrue."

The first charge dealt with was "third degree" methods had been used by the Bathurst detachment. Superintendent Salt, the first witness called, said Mr. Veniot's charge had reference to the case of one Stanley Scott who had been questioned by Sergeant Peters. He was followed on the stand by Sergeant Peters who denied having used "third degree" methods and by Scott himself who corroborated the evidence of the Mounted Police officer.

CURRENT DEMAND FOR CANADIAN WHEAT AN ASSET FOR RAILWAYS

Stresed as Grounds For 'Guarded Optimism' By C.P.R. President.

FAVORS UNIFICATION.

MONTREAL, May 2 (C.P.)—The current hopeful demand for Canadian wheat and an encouraging improvement in basic economic conditions throughout the Dominion were stressed as grounds for "guarded optimism" by E. W. Beatty, K.C., in the course of his annual presidential address to the shareholders of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company yesterday.

Mr. Beatty argued the Dominion's and the company's progress was also dependent upon an adequate and honest solution of the credit-destroying national railway problem and advanced the claim unification alone offered a plan which would eliminate the tremendous waste caused by maintaining duplicate services in a country which could no longer afford to pay for them.

Mr. Beatty emphasized statistics indicated this year may mark a change for the better in respect to wheat prices and Canada's wheat position which would be promptly reflected in the company's earnings.

Moderate Traffic Increase

There were many indications the nation's productive organization had been strengthened and moderate traffic increase should result.

Mr. Beatty pointed to substantial percentage increases in 1934 in the movement of mine and forest products and in manufacturing and miscellaneous freight. The increase in agricultural tonnage was only one half of one per cent and was the leading factor in retarding more substantial recovery.

Preference shareholders had written expressing disappointment a dividend on that stock had not been declared, Mr. Beatty announced. "If trade volume continues to show improvement, it is hoped the maintenance of this policy will not long be required. The position of the company has improved materially," Mr. Beatty added.

$1,093,000 in Economies

Dealing with the railway situation in Canada Mr. Beatty said the directors had used all means within their power to improve the financial position of the Dominion and the company through measures of co-operation with the Canadian National Railway. Joint economies to date totalled only $1,093,000.

The directors were prepared to conclude agreements on equitable bases for the unification of the express and telegraph facilities of the two systems for the common use of the best passenger terminals at Montreal and for the pooling of Montreal suburban passenger services.

Only in one instance, namely the pooling of passenger traffic west of Toronto, had the company been unable to agree with the Canadian national co-operative proposals.

CURLERS HOLD ANNUAL SUPPER

E. W. Bailey Reviews Past Season's Activities in Presidential Address.

AT LAKEFIELD

LAKEFIELD, May 2 (Examiner Correspondence) — The Lakefield Curling Club held their annual banquet at the Lakefield Inn on Thursday evening with a smaller attendance than usual owing to various counter attractions. The president, E. W. Bailey was in the chair and reviewed the past season's activities, the conditions of the ice and the expansion of the club program in the mixed bonspiels. Reference was made to the passing of two former club members to whose enthusiasm for the roarin' game the Lakefield Curling Club was a great deal. In 1923 each of these men contributed a handsome trophy to stimulate local club competition and which will keep their memories ever green. These men were Messrs. H. G. Fitzgerald and E. A. Tanner.

The report of Mr. Burrows, the secretary-treasurer, showed a small financial balance to end the year.

The cups were presented to the winning rinks and reference made to former contests.

The Fitzgerald cup for the local competition was presented by W. G. Morrison, whose tribute to the donor was a masterly one and recalled many incidents of his interest and his enjoyment of the club. The winners of the cup were: George Robertson, Jr., F. L. Erskine, S. J. Charlton, B. Q. Dench, skip.

The Casement cup (skips' cup) for a local bonspiel was presented by G. H. Spence to H. Atwood W. W. Yale, E. W. Bailey, C. S. Tanner, skip.

The Tanner cup (vice skips' cup) for a local bonspiel was presented by C. S. Tanner to F. Wannamaker, E. Waldon, N. A. Moore, C. C. Stenner.

The following were appointed to the executive: E. W. Bailey, W. W. Yale, H. R. Wagar, George Robertson, Sr., D. H. Charlton.

The committee will elect the president from among their number at a future meeting.

A. B. Burrows resigned the position of secretary-treasurer but was persuaded to carry on till the fall meeting.

Votes of thanks were given to the past executive for their excellent work, to Mr. and Mrs. Lawless for a delectable banquet and to all who had contributed to the year's success.

ST. GEORGE'S MINSTREL REVUE DELIGHTS CAPACITY AUDIENCE

Beautiful Costumes, Fine Act in, Peppy Music Makes Up Pleasing Program.

A.Y.P.A. AUSPICES.

With strikingly effective scenery, beautiful costuming, fine acting and peppy music, St. George's A.Y.P.A. excelled themselves last night in the presentation of their second annual Minstrel Revue.

St. John's Parish Hall was filled to capacity with appreciative listeners, who by their continuous applause, paid tribute to the work of the actors and the assisting artists.

Arranged, staged and directed by Walter Farr and Lilian Laderach, this clever minstrel show left nothing to be desired in the way of clean comedy, rhythmic dancing, popular songs and skits.

After a musical introduction by St. John's orchestra, directed by L. Dyer, the Rev. J. L. Hughes welcomed the large audience and expressed the appreciation of his group of young people for the use of St. John's Parish Hall, and for the splendid service rendered by their orchestra.

The curtain rose upon a scene carried out in modernistic effect with black and white as the keynote.

As interlocutor Ted Hotston in usual formal evening dress opened the revue while the circle of thirty singers, the dancing chorus and the endmen, made a striking picture as they took their position on the stage. In black and white, the costumes of this ensemble made an attractive contrast to the background.

Cast of Characters

A well-chosen cast of characters provided for plenty of humorous acting by the endmen, including Ken Gibson, Ernie Clarke, Mel. Holden, Ernie Gibson, Jack Adamson and "Wag" Hotston. Clever repartee kept the audience in gales of laughter, especially when "Wag" Hotston, in mournful tone, kept asking "if anyone had any moth balls." This mysterious query was solved to everyone's satisfaction later in the program. Both endmen and interlocutor deserve much credit for their quick-witted sallies.

Snappy Dance Numbers.

The dancing chorus, with their mystifying dresses of black and white, reversing back and front, did some snappy dance steps in the selection "Take a number from one to ten." These graceful young ladies included Ruth Farr, Edna Millard, Hilda Houghton, Agnes Burgeon, Jane Harvey, Helen Reid, Margaret Joiner, and Marjorie Simms.

Vocal music is always one of the chief features in a minstrel show, and last night's was no exception. Splendid work was done in chorus, duet and solo by the ladies and gentlemen of the Circle: Beatrice Curtis, Mabel Busby, Doris Ferguson, Gwen Farr, Edith Spenceley, Phyllis Sanderson, Dorothy Moscrop, and Grace Wagstaff; Lawrence Gibson, Harold Porter, Eddie Adkinson, Charles Simmons, Clarence Porter, Reg. Stevenson, Ernie Davis, and Alexander Anderson. Among the endmen the fine vocal work showed careful training, and included "I Want Some Money" by Mel. Holden, "On Revival Day" by Ken Gibson, "I Ain't Afraid of Nuthin'" by Ernie Gibson, "I Used to Sigh for the Silvery Moon" by "Wag" Hotston, and "Downtown Strutters' Ball" by Ernie Clarke. The ladies' voices showed to splendid advantage in "Clouds" by Beatrice Curtis in sweet liting voice, and "Believe It, Beloved," sung in Mabel Busby's beautiful soprano; "In the Valley Where the Bluebirds Sing," with whistling accompaniment, was a popular number by Ted Hotston, while Ernie Davis' offering, "The Isle of Capri," won great applause. "Let's Have a Jubilee" and "I Want Some Money," sung by the whole chorus, formed the grand finale for the first half. During the intermission splendid music was again furnished by the orchestra. "Winter Woodland" was the title of the charming novelty skating dance featuring Lilian Laderach, Ernie Davis and the dancing chorus. White satin costumes, with white pom-poms, were most attractive, while a realistic touch was added by the tossing of snowballs. Two dance specialty numbers were contributed by Sophus Yeates in black and white satin dance suit, whose toe dancing in her usual charming style was much appreciated, while Everett Cook did some clever step dancing to violin accompaniment. Also assisting in the program were the popular Hilo Serenaders, Arthur White, Hazel Barrie, May Fee, and Anne Watkins. One of the loveliest things of the evening was the waltz number, "Dancing with My Shadow," starring Lilian Laderach, with the chorus assisting. In a flowing dance frock of white organdie with butterfly sleeves, the leader with her rainbow "shadows" made a pretty and graceful picture.

This versatile cast closed their performance with the playlet, 'Waiting at the Gate for Katie,' with the following players taking both singing and speaking parts: Mother, Mabel Busby; Katie, Beatrice Curtis; Belmont, H. Porter, Stewart, C. Porter; Jack, Ernie Davis. The plot was a light and humorous one, and the setting a pretty garden scene. Some fine solo work was again done by Mabel Busby, Beatrice Curtis, and Ernie Davis. The entire company appeared for the finale, which was a fitting climax to this excellent production which merits a full house for its second appearance to-night.

Much of the success of the revue is due to the work of the staff, whose personnel includes: Business managers, Ed. Hele and Jack Adamson; stage manager, Fred Dorrall; properties, Art. Thomas; wardrobe mistress, Mrs. F. Dorrall; electrician, Alf. Clarke. Orchestra personnel: Pianist, Mrs. R. King; violin, Walter Farr and C. Busseau; drums, Mr. Gray.

BRITAIN TO MEET GERMAN MENACE

could not be carried out, yet if he gave an undertaking, he would never break it. He it also noted that Herr Hitler publicly declared the determination of the German Government to accept both the spirit and the letter of the Locarno pact."

[The Locarno Pact by Germany, France, Belgium, and Great Britain to preserve Franco-German border inviolate).

Still Has Hopes

While Mr. MacDonald painted the European picture in sombre colors he still held out hopes. He firmly declared Great Britain's intention not to be outclassed in the air, yet he appealed to Germany to join in an international agreement before it was too late.

The destructive possibilities of aerial warfare were appalling, he said. Britain would not encourage competition in air forces unless she was forced to do so. The value of air forces was relative.

"At this moment," he pleaded in slow and deliberate tones, "before we have gone very far, the British Government urge with all the influence they can command that a halt should be called and that the power should limit their air arms within well-defined bounds to be fixed by free negotiation.

"I commend this, if I may venture to do so, and I make bold to do so, to the German government."

The government head said there would be an expansion of the air strength "beyond that provided for in the estimates this year in order to implement Mr. Baldwin's declaration."

"We propose," Mr. MacDonald told his audience, "to put our power of defence into a state which will enable our people to feel they are protected."

He announced naval conversations between Great Britain and Germany will be held "near the middle of this month," attributing postponement to the forthcoming celebrations of King Geor's jubilee anniversary.

Collective Security.

Mr. MacDonald pressed again that the policy of the British Government was a policy of collective security—a collective system which contemplated the inclusion of Germany. Aggressive military alliances formed no part of British policy.

"I repeat," he insisted, "that our policy si not aimed at military alliances but at the widest cooperation. The present good understanding between France and Italy and ourselves is a guarantee of peace. It challenges no one. Every other nation which contemplates peace will be welcomed into its free companionship."

British policy in a nutshell combined defence and collective security with International agreement on armaments and peace, he added.

The Prime Minister said despite Germany's decisions to build submarines in violation of the Versailles Treaty, "we are still prepared, without conceding in any way the right to disregard treaty provisions, to receive the German representatives in London."

Referring to the disclosure of German submarine building plans, he said:

"It could not have been imagined that it would be of no concern to us. The conversations will be carried on under precisely the same conditions as those with the United States and Japan.

No Secret Pacts.

"These two countries, together with France and Italy, will be informed of what takes place, because we have nothing to hide and have no intention of making any secret and private agreement with anybody."

In revealing the plans for aviation increases, recalled: "In the debate of November, 1934, certain estimates were put forward on the basis of our then information as to the strength of the German air force and Mr. Baldwin, on behalf of the government, gave assurance in no circumstances would we accept any position of inferiority in regard to whatever air force may be raised by Germany in the future."

Premier MacDonald reviewed that disturbed course of international events since the Anglo-French declaration of London last February. One section of that declaration contemplated a freely negotiated agreement in substitution of the arms clauses of the Versailles Treaty. Germany had accepted that as the basis of discussions.

Deplores Berlin Action.

"It is greatly to be deplored," he added, "that at that moment the German Government announced its intention to impose conscription and take immediate steps to raise the peace strength of the army to 550,000 men as well as to create a military air force."

He spoke of the Stresa Conference with France and Italy, and said nothing was done at Stresa that changed the London declaration. Britain was not directly affected by the proposals in that statement for mutual security pacts in Central Europe. Britain would not be directly represented at the coming Rome Conference on the Danubian question, "because it is well understood we are not taking any new commitments in this regard." But Britain would be represented there by observers so she would be kept in closest touch with the discussions and could contribute to the success of the conference in any useful and proper way.

Reductions in Ontario will range from 40 to 60 cents a regulated quart on domestic and imported liquors, the decrease in prices follows a cut in the excise tax from $7 to $6 a gallon, by the Dominion Government. Since the cut, old stocks were cleared by the commission before putting lower prices into effect.

SHOWER FALLS IN DUST BOWL

Is Heaviest Rain Since 1932, But Not Sufficient for "Cure-all."

COVERS 3 STATES..

SPRINGFIELD, Colo., May 2. —(A.P.)—Rain—the answer to the prayers of farmers in three states—splashed into the dust bowl of the south-west early to-day in a joyous symphony.

Those who dashed from their beds into the street, nightshirts and lace caps trailing, were more eager in this silt centre to feel the hope of reviving moisture than to bother with precipitation gauges locked in the community weather station.

Those familiar with farmers appraised it as a "fair shower." They were ready to hail it as an omen of a broken drought, but reluctant to call it a cure-all.

This much was certain. It was the first rain in dirt-battered Baca County area since January, and perhaps the heaviest since June, 1932.

After rain had fallen for two hours the same type of wind that has tortured the region with incessant clouds of dust for weeks on end threatened again.

although the years have carried him along in life since his last campaigns he would still have to be reckoned with in any canvass of the Conservative ranks preliminary to a convention which at this stage seems to be wide open. His brief and pungent remarks at the recent Conservative meeting here addressed by Denton Massey indicated an indifference to his position as Sheriff of Northumberland and Durham and a freedom of action that anticipated the announcement that his resignation had been forwarded to the Attorney-General.

Some of his friends held the opinion that Liberals of the riding preferred to have him muzzled in his position than to urge his dismissal and turn him loose as a possible candidate or at least as an active and trenchant lieutenant to the Conservative party's choice in the coming elections.

Those who have been associated with Sheriff Belford regret his retirement. He had every qualification for the position, and discharged his duties with dignity, diligence and with the amiable disposition that has won him so many friends. He was appointed in 1909, succeeding E. J. Nesbitt who retired on account of ill health.

It is possible, according to an official statement here, that the office of sheriff will remain vacant, in spite of the fact that already a large number are angling for the job from the ranks of Liberal workers. The belief exists that the legal offices will be combined under one head with the various departments in charge of deputies. It is felt that the chief objectors to such a departure from customary operation of these offices will be thoses who are aspiring for the sheriff's position.

GUIRY WILL PAY $2,500; HUGHES GIVES UP LEASE

Settlement is Reached in Damage Action Brought Against J. K. Hughes.

CLAIMED $4,000.

A settlement brought the $4,000 damage suit of James Guiry against J. K. Hughes, J. K. Hughes Limited, and Ivan Lillico to an unexpected end in the Supreme Court sitting before Mr. Justice McEvoy at 6.15 p.m. last evening. According to the settlement, J. K. Hughes Limited will vacate the property on the corner of Hunter and Water streets about which the action centered, accepting $2,500 from the plaintiff for abandoning the unexpired lease. Mr. Guiry taking over the whole property on August 1st.

Approval of the settlement by Justice McEvoy followed negotiations by the parties extending throughout the afternoon. Evidence of Mr. Guiry and five other plaintiff witnesses had been heard before the possibility of a settlement was given attention. Removal of the Hughes firm will take place on or before July 31. The plaintiff and defendant Hughes will bear their own costs of action, while, it is understood, they will share Mr. Lillico's costs.

Mr. Guiry instituted the action claiming $4,000 by reason of alleged noise, smoke and fume nuisances committed by the Hughes firm in operation of their automobile business. Mr. Guiry is owner of the entire building carrying on a rooming-house in the Peterborough Annex on the second floor. He leased the lower part of the property to the defendants in 1927, the lease to run from 1928 to 1936.

Evidence Given

Mr. Guiry continued his testimony under cross - examination by J. C. Robertson, K.C., for a few minutes, while the case was still proceeding early in the day. He was questioned closely with regard to his knowledge of what operations were being carried on in the J. K. Hughes' Limited garage. He said he was rarely inside the showroom or garage, but looked in through the windows daily.

"Then you wouldn't have much idea what was going on," Mr. Robertson suggested.

"That's not right," he replied. "I knew what they were doing at all times."

Jacob Kornblum of Toronto, a bedding manufacturer, was called by T. J. Carley, K.C. He testified that he visited the Peterborough Annex as a guest in February, 1935.

Mr. Robertson objected to the testimony on the ground that the witness' visit to the property had been subsequent to the institution of the damage suit. Justice McEvoy allowed the evidence subject to the objection.

Smelled Gas

"I smelled a gas smell," Mr. Kornblum testified.

"How did it affect you?"

"I wouldn't say it affected me, but I couldn't sleep nearly all night."

"How did you sleep normally?"

"Sound."

James Yokom testified that he has resided in the Annex for the past two years.

He said he has often heard pounding noises from below and noticed a smell from lacquer. The smell was sufficient that he sometimes opened a window or went out to gain relief, he stated.

Cross-examined, he said the noises disturbed him "quite a lot," but that he couldn't state exactly from where they came. The noise was like that of pounding on fenders, he stated.

Smoke

John Connell testified that he has resided in the Annex since April, 1934. He told of lacquer fumes and smoke in his room, using the word "disagreeable."

Mr. Robertson later asked, "Is there any reason why you couldn't move?"

"It's the most convenient place for the money."

Dr. Roger Devlin, Indian River doctor, stated he was formerly a frequent visitor to the Annex, but discontinued his visits last year because of gas in the rooms. He said he experienced the nuisance on every visit. The fumes could be smelled on his effects a week after he left, he testified.

Edith Guiry, daughter of the plaintiff, confirmed previous evidence of noise, fumes and smoke.

Y.P.S. OF OMEMEE HOSTS TO A.Y.P.A.

Feature of Evening is Talk on Seigniory Club by W. J. Ferguson.

OMEMEE, May 2. (Examiner Correspondence). The Young People of Trinity United Church had as their guests the members of the A.Y.P.A. on Monday night to a social gathering in the basement of the church.

The special feature of the evening, when all the guests had arrived and been warmly welcomed, was a description of the "Seigniory Club" Lucerne-in-Quebec, given by W. J. Ferguson of Lindsay. Other numbers on the program were an instrumental by Helen Reddick; a vocal selection "Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes" by the quartet composed of Miss M. Faulkner and Eleanor Sherin and Messrs. B. Weir and F. Weir. Miss Lily Race rendered a piano solo. The girls' quartet in which E. Bigelow, E. Morcombe, H. Reddick and J. Fee sang, received hearty applause for their numbers.

The remainder of the evening was spent in community singing and contests, the recreation period being in charge of J. Weir.

J. Johnson on behalf of the A.Y.P.A. thanked the members of the Young People's Union for the delightful evening and lunch was served.

BEHIND the Scenes in HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD — The watchman outside the "Anna Karenina" set was confronted by a bustling young man carrying a large flashlight bulb.

"Hello, Doc," he said. "I've got to get this inside in a hurry. They're waiting for me."

Unsuspecting, the guardian of the Garbo privacy opened the door and let the young man enter.

Greta Garbo

Once inside the stage, however, his manner changed. He lost his hurried air and proceeded unobstrusively to a spot on the fringe of operations where, still clutching the flashlight globe, he sank into a chair and devoted himself to a fascinated study of the Swedish star and the scene going on in front of the camera.

He was still absorbed when Director Clarence Brown presently noticed a stranger in the company's midst. An assistant director strolled over to the young man with the flashlight globe.

"Are you looking for someone?" he asked.

The young man rose and laughed nervously.

"I guess the jig is up," he said. "My name is Frank Shields. I wanted to watch Miss Garbo work."

After being complimented on his ingenuity, the American tennis ace was chased off the set.

The troupe making "She" at R-K-O pass on an amusing story about Helen Gahagen. The other afternoon the actress retired to her dressing room on the set to rest until her call. Nearby, one of those ancient fire engines was being stoked to provide steam for an effect in the scene. Soot poured from its stack, but nothing was thought about it until Helen presently emerged from her dressing room. Her face was almost as black as Al Jolson's made up for a "Mammy" song.

BACK IN WAR-TIME, Irving Berlin wrote that doughboy's favorite, "Oh, How I Hate to Get Up in the Morning." Apparently, he still sticks to his story.

The night before R-K-O's "Top Hat" troupe was to leave on a location trip, Director Mark Sandrich invited Berlin, as author of the musical score, to go along.

"We leave at 6.30 in the morning," said Sandrich.

"Okay," replied Berlin. "I'll see you about 4.30 in the afternoon."

WITH A CAST containing some of screenland's most outstanding players, "Carnival" opens Thursday at the Regent Theatre. Lee Tracy, Jimmy Durante, Sally Eilers and two-and-one-half-year-old Dickie Walters, who makes his motion picture debut in this production, are the principal players.

500 PRESENT SUCKER HUNT

Annual Event at Wellbeck Farm, Westwood, Popular for Sixty Years.

WEATHER CUTS CROWD

HASTINGS, May 2 (Examiner Correspondence)—The annual sucker hunt at Wellbeck farm, Westwood the home of W. C. Breckenridge was held on Tuesday morning.

The heavy rain early in the morning stopped a number from attending but despite the downpour there were over five hundred present.

For over sixty years this has been a great day's outing for a large crowd from the counties of Northumberland and Peterborough. It is impossible to set any definite date for to hold it each year, as Mr. Breckenridge who has been the main man behind this big event for a number of years informed The Examiner that when the suckers commence to leave the Trent River and come up the Ouse that it is only a few days before they finish spawning and return to the Trent.

All day Monday Mr. Breckenridge spent on the phone spreading the news of the hunt on Tuesday. The five hundred present this year was considerable below the bumper fifteen hundred present in 1934. The difference can easily be accounted for by the very inclement weather and the short time to advertise it.

At seven thirty Tuesday morning when Mr. Breckenridge let the water go the hunters who ranged in years from ten to seventy-five waded right in with pitch forks, nets, bags and almost every thing imaginable to catch the poor sucker. The banks of the river were lined with willing helpers putting them in bags as they were tossed out all ways.

CLEANER MOTION PICTURES

OWEN SOUND, Ont.—Motion pictures came in for considerable discussion at today's session of the Diamond Jubilee meeting of the Synod of Hamilton and London of the Presbyterian Church. MANION STANDS FIRMLY AGAINST RAILWAY UNION Claims Amalgamation Would Not Solve Problems—Interest on Bonds.

CANADIAN CLUB ADDRESS.

TORONTO, May 2 (CP)—Hon. R. J. Manion, Canada's Minister of Railways and Canals, yesterday declared himself unequivocally opposed to amagamation of the Dominion's two railway systems.

Amalgamation, unification or joinment of the two systems—the Canadian National and the Canadian Pacific Railways—would not solve Canada's railway problem, Dr. Manion told a meeting of the Canadian Club.

The problem, he said, arose out of the payment of interest to holders of the railway's bonds. If conditions improved and gross earnings increased to a point touched in 1929 and 1930, the C.N.R. could pay close to the total interest obligations from its net profits, and the balance could be easily absorbed. This would be possible through stringent economies put into effect since the advent of the depression.

Only economies proposed by champions of amalgamation, and not put into effect by the C.N.R., would not ease the debt burden, Dr. Manion stated. These he enumerated as abandonment of 5,000 miles of railway—two thirds of which would be C.N.R. lines; closing of terminals, shutting down shops and abandonment of towns now serviced by the railways.

Abandon Towns to Wolves

These other so-called economies, he claimed, would not reduce the interest burden on the system. They would leave entire towns "abandoned to the wolves and would thrown thousands of workers out of employment and entitled to compensation.

Further, he declared, amalgamation would set up "the biggest monopoly Canada has ever known." It would create a voting body of great influence.

Dr. Manion directed at proponents of amalgamation questions which, he said, had never yet been answered. He invited replies from authoritative men.

1.—Are the amalgamated railways to be under private or under government control?

2.—How much saving can be made by amalgamation under present traffic conditions?

3.—If by amalgamation savings are made, in what proportions are these savings to be divided between the Canadian National and the Canadian Pacific?

4.—How much capital expenditure will be necessary to effect the physical union of the two railways?

5.—How much of the present deficit of $50,000,000 is the C.P.R. ready to absorb, if the C.N.R. is taken over by the other railway?

PROBE GERMAN ARMING OF RHINE

Breach By Nazi Means Calling Locarno Treaty Into Play.

SERIOUS ACTION.

(By George Hambleton, Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

LONDON, May 2 (CP Cable).—Inquiries by British authorities, it is understood, have failed to confirm current reports, Germany is assembling troops in the demilitarized Rhineland zone. But the reports, repeated to-day by The Daily Herald, are being further investigated.

Violation of the demilitarized zone would be more serious than Germany's accomplished breaches of the armaments clauses of the Treaty of Versailles, inasmuch as it would call the Locarno Treaty into play. Under Locarno, the signatories—Britain, France, Italy, Belgium and Germany—guarantee the maintenance of the territorial status quo of the demilitarized zone as laid down in the Treaty of Versailles.

At the Stresa Conference three guarantor powers, France, Britain and Italy, reaffirmed their Locarno obligations.

In a speech Jan. 30 Adolf Hitler announced Germany was prepared to observe the strict letter of the Locarno Treaty, but Germany has since given no further assurances.

The Dominions are not parties to the Locarno Treaty.

Liberal Convention Opera House Tonight

In a final reference to to-night's Liberal convention in the Grand Opera House, E. L. Saskville, president of the riding association, said he hoped no disappointment would be caused to the general public who might wish to attend.

"It is important that delegates be given first consideration in seating arrangements," Mr. Sackville said, "and after they have all been accommodated there won't be room for more than two hundred probably at the most. It has been thought advisable not to admit those who are not delegates until after 9.15 so as to avoid any confusion about seats."

G. N. Gordon, K.C., told The Examiner this afternoon that he had no intention of seeking the nomination.

"I have heard that my name is being mentiond by many Liberals but I might as well say beforehand that if I am proposed for nomination I could not let my name go before the delegates."

MAY DAY PASSES IN PEACE, QUIET ACROSS CANADA

5,000 March in Vancouver Without Friction—Corbin Miners Hold Sports.

BUCK CHEERED IN TORONTO

(By The Canadian Press)

The record of Canada's May Days contained another entry of "Peace and Quiet" to-day. Disorders were feared, particularly in some Western strike centres yesterday, but nothing disturbing happened.

Only a strike of 2,000 longshoremen on the Montreal waterfront broke the peaceful spell and the walkout of men unloading and loading vessels occurred without violence of any kind. Nevertheless, harbor officials described the situation as "very grave" and shipowners appealed to the Federal Department of Labor for help in settling the strike.

Traffic in downtown Vancouver was held up an hour during a parade of 5000, but there was no repetition of last week's riotous events brought by strikers from British Columbia relief camps. Special police stood by during the parade.

Demonstrations in support of striking Corbin, B.C., coal miners did not materialize although thousands of miners and their families assembled at nearby Blairmore, Alta., and staged a lively sports program.

Seven thousand paraded at Winnipeg last night. Parades and meetings were held in various parts of Ontario, but at no place did trouble arise. It was estimated 10,000 marched to Queen's Park in Toronto where Tim Buck, Communist, received a big cheer. He didn't speak.

NINE HOMES DESTROYED IN TWO MINING TOWNS

SYDNEY, N.S., May 2. —(CP)— Early morning fires in two Cape Breton centres destroyed nine homes and four other buildings today. Total damage was roughly estimated at $100,000.

Florence, a little coal mining town suffered the most serious loss, $75,000. Pitt street was in ruins, littered with the debris of nine dwellings, two large stores and a fraternity hall.

Destruction of the Masonic building at North Sydney, about five miles distant, caused a further loss of $25,000.

OLD PETERBORO BOY.

As former Minister of Trade and Commerce whose strictures of business conditions in Canada precipitated the price spreads enquiry, Mr. Stevens has gained during the last year a position of outstanding prominence in the public thought, and his visit should be of exceptional interest to a large number of Peterborough people.

The announcement by the Chamber of Commerce says to-day: "No doubt, those wishing to hear him would more than fill any hall or church that could be secured, and the matter of requesting him to make two addresses, one in the afternoon and the other in the evening is under consideration.

An Old Peterborough Boy

Hon. Mr. Stevens is an old Peterborough boy, and at one time was in the employ of E. F. Mason. Having been in the limelight and on the front pages of our newspapers so much lately, he will no doubt be greeted by a packed audience.

Definite announcements will be made later through the press."

24,000 Extra Italian Troops For Africa

ROME, May 2.—(CP).— Military sources said to-day three more divisions of the regular army are to be sent to East Africa. An Italian division consists of 8,000 men). These are in addition to two divisions already transported there or en route.

Premier Mussolini's newspaper, Popolo D'Italia of Milan, printed an editorial commenting upon a speech by Emperor Haile Selassie to the Ethopian Parliament recently, and concluded by saying: "We will see each other next autumn." This was widely interpreted as indicating there may be hostilities between Italy and Ethopia in the autumn.

Peterboro' Stores Are Being Decorated

Peterborough merchants are rising spontaneously to the great Empire-wide celebrations in commemoration of the Silver Jubilee anniversary of Their Majesties King George V and Queen Mary, by giving the lead in the matter of decorations suitable to the occasion. To-day several of the larger stores on George street were preparing elaborate window displays, and the general public are urged to enter into the spirit of the celebrations by decorating their homes with flags and bunting.

On Monday the Union Jack will be flown from all government and civic buildings here as elsewhere throughout the length and breadth of the Empire, and it is anticipated that flags will also be displayed prominently on the flagstaffs at each of the various manufacturing plants.

Industrial production in Poland is increasing.

Madrigal Singers Present Delightful Program

OLD FOLK SONGS SCORE BIG HIT IN FINE PROGRAM

Two Assisting Artists Add Much Color to Madrigals' Annual Concert.

CLEAR ENUNCIATION.

Singers Sang With Splendid Meticulous Shading and Memorization.

(By Jeanette)

An especially fine program featured the annual big concert of the Madrigal Singers, presented last night in the auditorium of the Collegiate Institute to an audience of over four hundred people who accorded the Singers and their guest artists the intent and appreciative attention that is the meed of this group of exceptionally well-trained musicians.

In white frocks, against a purple back drop, their director and leader, Dorothy Allan Park, wearing a lovely gown of black velvet, they sang beautiful numbers, ranging from madrigals and folk songs of old English and Scottish types to a delightful trio of Brahms part songs and the lilting cadences of the "Blue Danube Waltz".

They sang with the splendid memorization, the meticulous shading, the fine enunciation and the well-balanced, tonal beauty which have made this group of lady vocalists receive complimentary references from so many sources, in a program which approximated the very best of any previous performance.

And the assisting musicians: Miss Muriel Donellan, harpist with the Toronto Symphony Orchestra and also with Rex Battle's well-known orchestra, and Harvey Doney, M.D., baritone singer were equally well received. Miss Donellan is new to the city and Dr. Doney has sung at smaller gatherings here than those of last night.

Agnes Logan Green, at the piano, provided her satisfying and very adequate accompaniments for the choral selections.

The program opened with "O Canada" to an accompaniment arranged by Dr. Charles Peaker, formerly of Peterborough, and closed with a very effective choral rendition of the National Anthem, three verses of Dr. Ernest MacMillan's arrangement being sung in slow tempo by the choir, in honor of the King's Jubilee.

Guest Artists

The harp, which, in its miniature state, is probably one of the most ancient of musical instruments, is seldom heard in Peterborough. Miss Donellan, handling her large eighty-pound gilt instrument with ease and skill, delighted her listeners with a charming program of this lovely music. The dulcet tones of the vibrating strings sang their delicate melodious strains, every plucked note pure, sweet and clear.

The first trio of harp numbers included a descriptive selection, "The Brook", simulating the sound of the plangent waters. MacDowell's frail melody, "To a Wild Rose", followed, and then the haunting harmonies of the Irish folk tune, "Londonderry Air."

The second trio was comprised of a lovely arrangement of the Sextette from "Lucia di Lammermoor", a "Fantaisie" of vagrant charm and "Vision", by Chalmers, lambent music colored by poetic imagery, with the pizzicato strings humming the enchanting melody.

To the repeated and genuinely sincere appreciation that followed her numbers, Miss Donellan responded with an encore to each group, the last being "The Last Rose of Summer".

Dr. Doney's vocal solos were also enthusiastically received and heartily applauded. His voice has an extraordinary range that appears to extend well over two octaves and has some wonderfully deep notes that appeared to great advantage in an encore number, sung by request, Mendelssohn's 'I'm a Roamer.' This was a vivid, bass-noted, staccato-phrased bit of descriptive imagery that enchanted his listeners, as did the third song in the last group by this very pleasing singer, a Cumberland air entitled "Because I were Shy." It was the down-to-earth, ringing, robust music of a philosophizing yokel and it received hearty plaudits. With it were included three other songs of the folk-music type; an Irish Traditional air like a dirge: "When in Death I Shall Calm Receive"; and two English tunes of older type: the 'homely,' jocund music of "The Farmer's Son," and the boisterous, "bedtime story" recital of a disciple of Baron Munchausen, "The Crocodile."

Three Brahms' numbers were given: 'A Night in May,' the charming "Sonntag" composition, and "Thy Blue Eyes," forming a prelude to a forceful, dramatic rendition of the majestic "Creation's Hymn," by Beethoven. As an encore to the final group, Dr. Doney sang "Rise up and Reach the Stars."

The Madrigal Singers.

Possibly the most dramatic interpretation of the Singers' numbers was in the loudly-applauded old Scottish air, "Hame, Hame, Hame," arranged by Deems-Taylor. In it was demonstrated the splendid technical grasp of difficult vocal instrumentation possessed by these superbly-trained musicians, in the manner in which they attacked and presented this tone picture of the homesick one, longing for his "ain countree." It was quite different to the majority of the Madrigal Singers' presentations, and possessed a very satisfying depth of forceful, patent volume. It had passages of contrasting type and handling, and was marked by soprano solo work by Mrs. Ross Williamson and Miss Margaret Dickson.

The encore to this selection, with its artistic finish and extremely light touch to the gay voices, was also one of the most arresting of the evening's choral numbers.

Describing the first number as a "real madrigal," in which a definite air is carried by each part, Mrs. Park opened the choral program with an Old English composition, "In the Merry Month of May," followed by the Old English ballad, "Who Liveth so Merry," in which the fine alto section was much in evidence. This opening trop closed with Purcell's "Hark, the Eching Air," which was a really triumphant demonstration of the ethereal, floating quality which distinguishes this finely-trained group of voices.

A light, high tone was paramount in the unusual arrangement, by Gerrard Williams, of an English folk song, "Sweet Kitty," with a reiterated refrain of "fol the diddle dero" type, the sort of thing that takes away any aspect of seriousness from even a very grave recital. Kitty's beau may have been a slow fellow, but he provided a music-maker with some interesting thoughts.

Giving their conductor that absorbed, constant attention that is at all times an attribute of this choir and that, no doubt, has a great deal to do with the finesse and delicacy of their supe and careful vocalisation, the Singers presented a trio of Brahms' compositions, sung "a capella": "The Miller's Maid," "Behold! the Roses are Blooming," and "The Bridegroom." The second number was distinguished by high, clear, trebletoned cadences, the last by a sustained, lengthy finale.

And the finale, carrying out a tradition of this group in making the last number on a program one of the most effective of the lot, was "Greeting to Springs," arranged from Strauss' famous and haunting "Blue Danube Waltz." It is marvellously suited to the timbre of these fine-textured, floating voices, with its rhythmic, dancing melody, its lilting cadences and graceful harmonies. And one section of the group provided a laughing background to the reiterated lines of the final verse: "Then we will laugh and sing all day." Gay vibrant, bright, it was accorded the sincere and appreciative applause that followed each number on a very satisfying program of vocal and instrumental music.

Members of the Madrigal Singers' group who were present for the concert last night, with two or three absences through illness, are as follows: Conductor, Dorothy Allan Park; Accompanist, Agnes Logan Green; Singers: Mesdames A. Barton (Lindsay), L. M. Brooks, C. H. Crowe, G. H. Cutmore, J. Johnston, E. Kitney, J. H. Matthews, L. R. Mitchell, E. V. Morphet, L. Picard, G. A. Richmond, I. Spriggs, F. Turner, S. Whitehouse, L. Wood (Lindsay), R. Williamson, the Misses Freda Allison, Eleanor Brown, Geraldine Collins, Jean Cameron, Isabel Connolly, Musa Cox, Margaret Dickson, Ethelwyn Dix, Jean Dickerson (Port Hope), Florence Glenny, May Jory, Helen Lytle, Isobel McKee, Mary Mead, Jessie Maconomy, Trucie Pearson, Marion Pilling, Marion Ralston, Dorothy Sager, Margaret Wolstenholm.

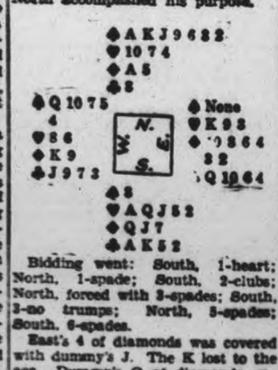
CONTRACT BRIDGE

By E. V. Shepard

A SMALL SLAM CONTRACT

Most contracts must be undertaken with expectations of finding reasonably normal distributions in critical suits. With eight of a suit between the two hands 68 per cent of the time the 5 remaining cards will be divided 3-2. Even 4-1 was considered possible by the declarer, but when he found a 5-0 division the case looked bad. I wonder what percentage of readers can make 6-odd at spades, even double dummy. Of course North had to perform that feat blindly, against an opening lead of the 4 of diamonds. Try it before reading how North accomplished his purpose.



Bidding went: South, 1-heart; North, 1-spade; South, 2-clubs; North, forced with 3-spades; South, 3-no trumps; North, 3-spades; South, 6-spades.

East's 4 of diamonds was covered with dummy's J. The K lost to the ace. Dummy's Q of diamonds enabled North to enter to lead dummy's only trump. West played low. With 5 missing cards including the Q-10, the finessed J was proper. The J held the trick and East discarded a low diamond. North saw that a double-grand coup was the only method of fulfilling his contract. Any other method of play would give West two trump tricks.

The lone club was led. Dummy's K won the trick. The declarer ruffed a return lead of a low club to shorten his trumps to 4, the same length held by West. A low heart was led. Unless East held the K and west could not ruff, the contract could not be fulfilled. Dummy's J won the trick. North ruffed a low club, thus obtaining the shortened trumps required.

A heart was again lead through East, who played low. Dummy was in with the Q. West played the 8. It was ticklish work. The ace of clubs was led. North did not know whether or not West held another card of that suit, but West played the J. North's last heart was discarded.

Now came the opportunity for which North had been preparing himself. He and West each held 4 spades only. The ace of hearts was led. Of course West had to ruff. He did so with the 5, but it would have made no difference which he used. North overruffed for his tenth trick with the 6. He led off his Ace and K of trumps, winning his 12 tricks bid, then he had to surrender the last trick to the hand of West. The hand certainly was well played. It is considered one of the most difficult coups in the game.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

It often is the little things that seem to be the most work. The last straw has but little weight, but it is the proverbial one to break the camel's back.

* * * * * * *

Small details are frequently the last straws in work although it would appear that the task itself was the burden. Without saying this is not the fact, the minor details have a nagging insistence which are disproportionate to their importance.

* * * * * * *

So in housework of every day as in business, care to details can be very relieving, while neglect of them can be so disconcerting that it leaves one in no mood to fulfill really important duties most efficiently.

* * * * * * *

Toothpicks may now appear on tables. They are not to be used as accessories of a table toilette in the reprehensive custom of our forefathers' era.

* * * * * * *

Today they take on something of the aspect of miniature chop sticks since they are used to convey food to the mouth. In this guise they become the epitome of delicacy.

* * * * * * *

It is to keep dainty fingers pristine that they are given their present prominence. And a welcome aid they certainly are. They belong to the super-sanitary equipments, immediately discarded once their purpose is filled.

* * * * * * *

Floor or table lamps should stand to the left behind a chair to give enough light and drive away shadows.

* * * * * * *

* * * * * * *

If you are traveling and wish to carry bath salts with you, don't take them in their glass container. It is too heavy. Pour enough to last you for your trip in a clean salt or sugar bag and stow it away among your underwear. The salts will help perfume the clothing and also be ready for your bath.

TO A LITTLE GIRL.

Her eyes are like forget-me-nots,
So loving, kind and true;
Her lips are like a pink sea-shell
Just as the sun shines through;
Her hair is like the waiving grain
In summer's golden light;
And, best of all, her little soul
Is, like a lily, white.

ROBERTA'S CHAT

A column conducted by a reader of The Examiner for her other reader friends. Address all mail to Roberta in care of The Examiner.

DEAR FRIEND,—How do you do your wishing?

Do you wish, and expect it to come, or do you think "it might come to someone else, but I don't think it will come to me?

Do you know that, when you wish, you open a door to let the wish come to you, and when you think you would get it, you shut the door? Yes, it's true.

Do you just THINK your wish, or do you utter the words? A thought is a powerful thing, but when put into words, it gains life. So, give life to your wish, by saying the words. Also, wish for something that is possible for you to get.

Keep saying it, again and again and again, and in a short time you will get your wish, I get mine. And there is nothing supernatural about me.

You see, if I tune in my radio, and the people in the broadcasting station, just stand there, and THINK the song, announcement, or music, I wouldn't hear a thing. I am not "tuned in" to their thoughts, but to their voices. If you call a friend on the telephone, and she just sits at the receiver and THINKS the answer, to our conversation, it would be very annoying, wouldn't it?

So, SAY your wish and say it often, and here's hoping you get it soon.

Your Friend,
ROBERTA.

Veal Cutlet in Tomato Sauce
Scalloped Potatoes
Green Salad Peas
Cream Puffs Coffee or Tea

Ever try to make cream puffs? Here is the recipe for the shells. Try it. Fill with whipped cream or custard.

Today's Recipes

Veal Cutlet in Tomato Sauce.—Two tablespoons butter, one green onion, chopped; one green pepper, chopped; veal cutlet, cut three-fourths inch thick; one-half cup tomato catsup, one cup warm water. Melt butter in skillet and saute in it the onion and green pepper. Put in veal cutlet, which has been rubbed with salt and pepper and dredged with flour. Brown on each side. Pour catsup, mixed with water, over all. Bake in an uncovered oven, 350 degrees.

Cream Puff Shells—One cup water, one-half cup butter, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one cup bread flour, four eggs. Put water, butter and salt into a saucepan. Heat to boiling, add flour all at once and cook over a low fire, stirring constantly until flour is well blended in and the mixture leaves the sides of the pan. Remove from fire, cool slightly. Add eggs, one at a time, beating vigorously after each one is added, before adding the next. Take up heaping tablespoons of the mixture and with another spoon push off onto a well-greased cookie sheet, placing the puffs at least two inches apart. Bake in a hot oven, 450 degrees, for twenty minutes, then reduce to 325 and continue baking twenty minutes longer. Remove from baking sheet onto a cake rack to cool.

Be Beautiful

By GLADYS GLAD

As I told you in my last column, it is really a good plan for every woman to experiment with different coiffures occasionally. Any girl is likely to get tired of seeing the same reflection of herself in the mirror all the time, and this is really the psychological moment for such experimenting, for the new coiffures and hats designed for spring are already out. Poke bonnets, off-the-face hats and sailors seem to be the order of the day. And the hair stylists have quite outdone themselves this time. They've turned out some of the most charming and individualistic coiffure styles I've ever seen. And the lass who doesn't try some of them is, in my opinion, rather foolish!

Most Attractive

In one of the most attractive of the new spring coiffures, the hair is parted on the side and softly waved away from the face. After the last wave, the hair is combed back over each ear so that just about half the ear is exposed. Then this hair, with the hair at the back of the head, is fashioned into numerous brush curls. When the hair is properly combed out, these soft, fluffy curls cover the back of the head, from the hairline on up midway to the crown.

In another charming coiffure the hair is parted a little to the right of the centre and brought back off the ear in soft waves. A fringe of tiny, fluffy curls is arranged over the upper part of the forehead, and the ends in back are formed into soft ringlets. These ringlets are then pinned about an inch above the neckline, so that they form an avalanche at the back of the head. This coiffure is best for evening wear, but can be modified by eliminating the avalanche of ringlets and forming the hair at the back into a soft roll from ear to ear.

A third individualistic coiffure eliminates any parting. The hair is all smoothly slicked straight back from the forehead and fastened at the nape of the neck. There the ends are fashioned into fluffy brush curls. From these curls, all along the edge of the straight hair up to each temple, small, tendrily sculpture curls are then fashioned, in order to relieve the severity of the coiffure and to lend the face softness.

Our King and Queen on their Silver Jubilee

The King, business man

In addition to being a naval officer, an army commander an expert on things artistic—in general, apart from being a king, the Sovereign of the British Empire has to be a business man.

And a clever business man is King George—(the word clever used in the sense that it means wise and careful). The illustration today depicts the King at his desk where he daily reads state documents, letters from his subjects, attends to the rental of his estates and reads all his correspondence—and answers it.

When the King comes down to his study about eight o'clock each morning, he finds there laid out, telegrams, morning papers, state communications, etc., which demand immediate attention. He looks them over carefully before breakfast, which he has at nine-thirty. Often the King and Queen breakfast together; sometimes other members of the Royal Family are home, and the talk is the usual "family stuff," with no suggestion of discussing affairs of state.

Breakfast over, the King then confers with Sir Clive Wigram, his private secretary and personal adviser. After going over the correspondence with him, he is then advised of callers, requesting each tkne a short summary of the visitor's career.

Quite often the King surprises his visitor with his knowledge of their own affairs; he is a most charming host and, as one officer puts it: "Whether His Majesty is receiving his first or twenty-fifth caller, it makes no difference." He never allows the interest to flag.

Often the King spends the afternoon in session with government or police officials whom he has called to advise him on certain matters.

In all practically his entire day is taken up with the business of being a business man—and that he is a capable one is shown by his successful reign of twenty-five years, from May 6, 1910, to May 6, 1935. Long May He Reign!

To-morrow: Her Most Excellent Majesty, Queen Mary

AUTOCRATIC ARABIAN SHEIK HAS PEARL FISHING MONOPOLY

Will Attend King's Jubilee as Independent Ruler and Ally of Britain.

IS SUPREME RULER

By CORALIE VAN PAASSEN
Central Press Canadian Correspondent

PARIS, May 2.—The Sultan of Elcatar the richest pearl-fisher on earth, Abdullah ben Jassin, has decided to come to Europe to attend the royal jubilee in England. He is bringing 43 of his wives with him, leaving the other 43 in charge of his harem to keep order during his absence among the 400 concubines, who also owe marital allegiance to his majesty. The sheik is not only the richest man of Araby, he is also the most genuine remaining specimen of a tribe that is fast disappearing.

There is this difference between the Sultan of Elcatar and the dozen rajahs and maharajahs of India who are to attend King George's jubilee. The sultan is not a vassal of the British Empire. He is the ally of King George. In other words, he is an independent ruler.

Before going to London the sultan will spend a week in Paris. His major domo, who came to Europe four months ago to arrange things for his master's visit has rented a villa in the Bois de Boulogne and another villa in London. His majesty never stays at an inn. "Inns" are what he calls the ritziest hotels.

When the sultan goes through the Rue de la Paix in Paris past the jewelry shops with their costly arrays of rosy pearls behind heavily-insured windows he will see his own products. He may recognise each individual pearl of value. For they have all passed through his own hands. What this means may be imagined when it is known that the sultan has eight hundred pearl-boats sailing and searching the bottom of the Red Sea, the Gulf of Aden and the Persian Gulf.

White Men Barred

In the sultan's kingdom of Elcatar, on the east side of Arabia, no infidels are admitted. The natives have never seen a white man. Abdullah ben Jassin is namely of the opinion that the contact between his subjects and members of other races will do the former no good. He is especially concerned about religious customs. He stands for no laxity in matters of religion, church attendance is compulsory in Elcatar.

Four thousand slaves run the service at his court. A slave is released from the sultan's service at the age of twenty-five. Abdullah wants only young men around him and they must all be tall, athletic and without the slightest physical blemish. He needs a thousand new slaves a year and pays for them in pearls and gold to the Arabian slave-raiders who get the boys in Abyssinia, the Soudan sometimes, but from Africa in general.

Every night the Sultan of Elcatar holds court. He is then surrounded by his dervishes astrologers, magicians and twelve of his wives. The wives attend their lord in relays, another crew every day. That's the time also when the pearls of the day's catch are carried up the mountain where the royal palace stands and he examines them, fixing the price they are to fetch in the world market.

Abdullah ben Jassin fears no foe. His kingdom is small. The entire army is incorporated in his bodyguard. He need have no fear of King Ibn Saoud, the greatest ruler in Arabia. A few fine pearls on the occasion of Ibn Saoud's birthday fixes that. With England he has a treaty. He sells his pearls to English jewelers exclusively for gold, of course, on the understanding that no Englishman sets foot ashore in Elcatar. This bilateral treaty is no scrap of paper like the Treaty of Versailles. It is scrupulously observed by both sides.

Adds to Harem

The English have never mixed in the sultan's private business. It is true, the shores of his country are marked on the map under the name of Private Coast, but that's an old name, moreover, it is only a name which appears in geography books. In Arabia the name is "Coast of Hope."

The sultan is a modern man a man of vision, we would say. He had just pushed through a radical reform in the harem-system of his country. Formerly he had but 10 wives and a score of concubines. He enlarged the retinue, moved into bigger quarters. When the holy feast of Bairam approached, he summoned all the sheiks of Elcatar to his palace and held a roll-call.

"After this," he said, "I want you gentlemen to show me your loyalty by bringing to my palace once a year the most beautiful girl in your tribe. The girls must not be older than twelve. I know your loyalty of old. You have never failed me in the past. You will not fail me this time. It's all for the prestige of our kingdom and for the glory of Allah. Now get out!"

The sheiks obeyed without a murmur. A sheik who displeases his majesty has a bad time of it. Field punishment number one in the kingdom of Elcatar is the bastonnade, that is a beating on the soles of the feet. Number two is a bullet through the arches of the feet, so that the victim never walks again. Number three is hanging.

Hanging as Warning

Sometimes the bastonnade is administered on general principles, as a reminder to behave. The sultan summons the sheiks. They think they are coming for a session of parliament or the crown council and they all get a licking on their bare feet. The beatings are given by the powerful young blacks of whom the sultan has 4,000 within beck and call all the time.

The pearl-fishers who work for his majesty receive five cents a day wages. They last about three years when they die with tuberculosis—the pressure of the water in which they dive destroys their lungs. He has just decided to reduce the wages on account of the weak status of the pearl market. Before announcing the general reduction he had the divers called on land, assembled in his capital and then had the army hang sixty of them. The sultan is an autocratic ruler; he reigns by divine right and owes responsibility to no man. The execution of the sixty black men was a precautionary measure. The sultan is human enough to have realised that a reduction in the five cents a day wages might produce some dissatisfaction, so in order to prevent the discontent from being voiced he had executed sixty individuals by way of warning. There was no strike among the pearl-fishers when he subsequently announced that henceforth they will get only three cents a day.

Ag has been said, Sultan Abdullah ben Jassin is an ally of England. It is said he is bringing his majesty King George a gift on the occasion of the jubilee of ten choice pearls.

Painful Piles

Go Quick—Prevent Cutting—No Salves.

When sore and painful Piles distress and upset you, and salves give insufficient or only temporary help and wish is to avoid operation; isn't it best to at once try HEM-ROID—the internal remedy for piles?

Dr. J. S. Leonhardt was convinced early in his career that the cause of Piles was internal—bad circulation of blood in the lower bowel—the hemorrhoidal veins filled with stagnant blood—and that the right and safe way to get freedom from Pile agony was to remove the cause with an internal medicine. Immediately the doctor set to work to find a remedy. He succeeded and called his prescription HEM-ROID.

Pile sufferers everywhere are benefitting by Dr. Leonhardt's internal treatment, so why doubt or delay longer when McDermid & Jury and Bond's Drug Store and other good druggists say, "No matter what kind of Piles you have, one bottle of HEM-ROID tablets must show you the safe clean way to get rid of your pile misery or money-back."

HULL ATTACKS TRADE ENEMIES

Raps Unscrupulous Resistance to Roosevelt's Program to Lower Tariffs.

FOR RECIPROCAL PACTS.

By J. R. BRACKETT

WASHINGTON, May 2—(AP)—Amid signs of approval of British recovery methods and hostility between President Roosevelt and the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, Secretary of State Cordell Hull went before the business men's convention today to attack what he called "unscrupulous resistance" to the Roosevelt program of lowering traffic in negotiating reciprocal trade treaties.

The cabinet official, in a speech prepared for delivery today, criticised those business interests which, he said, bring "pressure" to bear in "fear that they are to be deprived of even a small part of the artificial advantage given them by an over-indulgent government."

Signs widely interpreted as indicating a sharp break between the president and the organization of business men were seen by Washington observers as the convention went into its final day.

President Roosevelt, reported to be angry over sharp assaults which convention speakers have launched against new deal measures and plans, omitted to send a message to the Chamber's annual dinner last night. For years, the Chamber has been accustomed to hear a speech or a message from the chief executive. Authoritative sources said the customary invitation to appear or send greetings had been extended to the president.

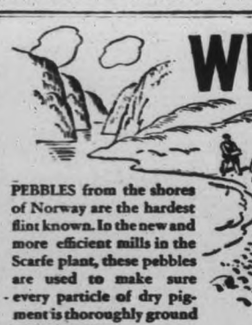
WE BROUGHT PEBBLES from Norway TO MAKE A GOOD PAINT BETTER



PEBBLES from the shores of Norway are the hardest flint known. In the new and more efficient mills in the Scarfe plant, these pebbles are used to make sure every particle of dry pigment is thoroughly ground with the oils.

Round and round goes this mill, as the smooth, flinty pebbles grind the oil into the pigment. This means a smoother, more uniform finish for your walls.

The finished product is put to the brushing test — to make certain it spreads evenly without brush marks, covers well, and gives a smooth finish.

Tested too in actual service in scores of homes. Scarfe's expert observers visit these homes regularly to see that the paint stands up under wear and washing.

SCARFE'S LO-GLO WALL FINISH is subjected to every test science can devise before it comes to you. Obtainable in many pastel shades. Produces a satin finish with a long lasting, non-absorbent, washable surface. Use it on plaster, wood, metal or plaster board surfaces. A standard price everywhere $1.30 a quart.

O'Sullivan Is Praised By Scribes

Resident Manager of Churchill Downs Comes in For Honors From Sportswriters.

FACES HARD TASK.

THE ANNUAL verbal battle between the press and officials of the Churchhill Downs racing plant in Kentucky where the thoroughbreds show either up or down in the famous American turf classic, the Kentucky Derby reaches its deadline today with Daniel E. O'Sullivan, resident manager as head of the racing aristocrats. Danny is given high praise by the newspaper brethren across the line and Warren Brown of the Chicago Examiner who rates him in the highest order has nothing but praise in following schipt:

"He is primarily a newspaperman. In is day, before he joined forces with Col. Matt Winn, Daniel E. O'Sullivan was a good newspaperman. Pride in the craft isn't all that causes me to say that a good newspaperman can tackle any kind of a job, and make it go. A darn good newspaperman was lately lost to the trade when they made Ford C. Frick president of the National League. But I don't think that even Ford Frick, with all his eight clubs, can have as many problems as come the way of Daniel E. O'Sullivan, nor settle them with less expenditure of time and temper.

× × ×

ONE OF the things that Daniel E. O'Sullivan has to do is to satisfy the gentlemen of the press and the photographers. If you have never tried to satisfy the gentlemen of the press, and the photographers in congress assembled, then you don't know what trouble is.

× × ×

There are really only three standard events in sporting history that precipitate a stampede of the gentlemen of the press and the photographers. One is the world series another is a world's championship heavyweight fight (when somebody is fighting it it), and the last is the Kentucky Derby. They come from all over. They come early, and they come late. They not only crave attention; they demand it. Are they not the gentlemen of the press and the photographers?

× × ×

AND IT is a matter of Kentucky Derby history, equally as interesting as items that get into record books, that it is a rare gentleman of the press, indeed, who goes away from a Kentucky Derby feeling that Daniel E. O'Sullivan had let him down.

Directing this traffic jam of the gentlemen of the press and the photographers has always seemed to me to be a year's work for one man. The jam reaches the saturation point—and I don't mean what you do either—toward the end of Derby week, itself. Then it is terrific. It has seemed to me that one man would be entitled to use up many of the succeeding months in getting his breath back, and the next few months in getting ready for the next rush. But I've never known a time that Daniel E. O'Sullivan has lost his breath, or has needed a rest. Certainly I don't remember that he has even taken one."

BIRDS TOTING DYNAMITE BATS FOR 1935 RACE

Only Lack Fairly Consistent Pitching to be at Top of League.

'HEAVY OUTFIELD.

(By The Associated Press)

Give them fairly consistent pitching and Baltimore Orioles threaten to blast themselves into a playoff position when the International League season rings down the curtain.

Hopelessly outclassed last year when they finished in last place, 39½ games behind the league champion Newark Bears, the Orioles have taken a new lease on life via the home run and extra base-hit route. With their first stretch of home games under their belt and a long road trip ahead the Birds are nicely situated in second place one and a half games behind first place Newark and a full game ahead of third place Montreal.

Boasting probably the heaviest hitting outfield trio in the minor leagues, Woodley Abernathy, Vince Barton and George ('Pooch') Puccinelli, and with the rest of their lineup toting dynamite-laden bats, the Sturdymen overcome the handicap of mediocre pitching in their first dozen games with a winning percentage of seven victories against five defeats. Since then, the pitching has taken a turn for the better with George Darrow, Harry Gumbert and Fred ('Sheriff') Blake going the route for victories and Bill Lohrman also going the full distance although losing his game.

37 Homers to Date

In that stretch of 17 games 37 homers have bounced off the batting bats of the Orioles, Puccinelli leading the parade with 10.

No games were scheduled yesterday as the 'southern' group 'rode the rails' enroute to meet the teams of the 'northern' section. Today's games find Baltimore meeting the Royals at Montreal, the Bears at Rochester, Syracuse Chiefs at Toronto and Albany Senators at Buffalo.

Can't Trust Look In Nellie Flag's Eyes

Here They Come Again As Another Track Opens

Another eastern track opens for the season as Havre de Grace, Maryland, welcomes the runners back again. The track looks sloppy as Dreel, owned by A. G. Vanderbilt, scores a handy victory in the Hartford Handicap, feature event of the first day program. The son of Trojan, and a well-rated runner among the track followers, came from behind in the stretch to win by a length and three-quarters from Star Porter, placing second.

WILLIS HUDLIN HURLS INDIANS TO 11-5 WIN OVER CHICAGO SOX

Athletics Drop 5th Straight by Losing See-saw Game to Red Sox.

YANKS FALL TO SENATORS.

By HUGH S. FULLERTON.
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)

Unless they crack up when the eastern teams start their first intersectional invasion, Cleveland Indians appear set to remain at the head of the American League for some time to come.

Despite the absence of Billy Knickerbocker, flashy young shortstop, and weak hitting by some other members of the club, Walter Johnson's team already has repulsed two strong challengers in riding into first place, overcome an early lack of scoring and gained strength as the pitchers continued to perform consistently.

In their first three games this season the Indians had to play 41 innings in all for a total of six runs. Then they swung into action at bat and have fallen below the five-run mark only twice in eight starts.

Pacing their closest rivals, Chicago White Sox yesterday in the only game left of the series after rain and cold weather got through, the Redmen belted out an 11-5 decision to increase their lead to a full game. They started scoring in the first inning, belted Sad Sam Jones to cover in the fifth when the totals reached nine blows and eight runs, and kept right on against Young Joe Vance. Willis Hudlin went the full route for Cleveland, granting eight hits, and having only one bad inning.

To make the prospect brighter, Earl Averill snapped out of his hitting slump with a home run, double and single and Hal Trotsky belied his fourth homer.

Yankee Threat Lessened.

Cleveland's threat from New York Yankees, a game and a half behind in third place, was lessened when the Yanks failed to survive Washington's ninth inning rally and went down 7-6 to see their winning streak ended at six straight. After coming from behind against Leon Pettit, the Yanks called upon Lefty Gomes for relief after Vito Tamulis gave a pair of passes in the ninth and the start southpaw was nicked for a single and double that decided the ball game.

The Red Sox also won out on a ninth inning spurt, scoring twice off Charley Lieber to beat the Athletics 8-6 after coming from behind with pairs of runs in the seventh and eighth. Jimmie Foxx smacked his fifth homer for the A's but let in the last run with a wild throw.

GIANTS FINALLY DEFEAT BROOKLYN

Parmelee and Dick Bartell Too Strong a Combination For Dodgers.

The Giants finally broke the Brooklyn spell to increase their margin of leadership in the National League with an 8-3 triumph over the Dodgers. Featuring circuit swats by Dick Bartell and Mel Ott in the third, when they drove Johnny Babich out with four runs, the Terrymen had an easy time behind Roy Parmelees fine hurling. Parmelee tossed home run balls to Lonnie Frey and Danny Taylor but never was in trouble otherwise.

Dizzy Dean lifted the Cardinals into four place in the other National League contest by hurling a six-hit, 5-2 triumph over the Reds. Diz gave only three hits in the first seven frames but eased up after Joe Medwick's four-ply wallop had started the Cards off well ahead.

Rain and cold weather kept the other four National League clubs and Detroit and St. Louis in the American idle.

Joe Widener's winter book favorite, Chance Sun, look like a large and glossy selling plater.

Out of the starting stalls like a streak of yellow lightning, Nellie reeled off seven furlongs through the ooze in 1:25 3-5 under snug restraint, and then went on to gallop out a mile and eighth in 1:53 2-5, without ever being fully set down.

What Vet Says

"I'd rather be Wright than president," muttered a veteran hardboot horseman, as he surveyed the big golden daughter of American Flag with admiring and envious eyes. And then he added, as though to himself: "I know there's always a filly in the Derby, and I know somebody is always expecting her to win. But give this mare an even shuffle in the racing luck and if she doesn't wind up with Matt's Rose (meaning the Derby winner's blanket of American beauties) for a necklace, fil-...lies might as well stop trying in...this race. She's as big and strong as any man's colt; the sort of mare that comes along about once in a racing man's lifetime."

A large plant for the production of talkies and silent pictures is being built at Uzbekkino, Russia.

BROWN ORBS DECEIVING, SAYS CORUM

Blonde Croquette From Calumet Farm Most Impressive in Recent Races.

FAST AS A WHIPPET.

An Even Shuffle in Racing Luck All Filly Needs for Victory.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 2.—Say, the boys may be seeing Nellie home again at the finish of the sixty-first Kentucky Derby here next Saturday afternoon. At least, Nellie is the lady in the case this year, and your correspondent, for one, doesn't trust the look in her big brown eyes.

Nellie's full name is Nellie Flag and she is a second cousin of Mutt and Jeff, once removed. That is, Nellie's mamma was Nellie Morse, who was named for Cartoonist Bud Fisher's mother, and carried that gentleman's light blue and dark blue racing silks to a great victory in the mud of the Preakness Stakes of 1924.

Cartoonist Fisher, taking his ease in a cabin of what "Gangplank Harry" Acton calls a trans-Atlantic pleasure gondola when the news of Nellie More's triumph came, yawned: "Please go 'way and let me sleep."

Which proves once again them as has gets, and, further, when one draws a successful comic strip, he can afford to yawn at $54,000.

Most Impressive

But just because Nellie Flag is, in a sense, a product of the funnies, don't get the idea she is going to be any laughing matter in Saturday's blue grass blue ribbon fixture. Of all the Derby candidates that showed their wares over the week-end, the blonde croquette from Calumet, was, by all odds, the most impressive.

A product of Chicago millionaire Warren Wright's beautiful Calumet farm on the Lexington turnpike, Nellie Flag ran a smashing race in the Cherokee Park Purse to make

FIVE TEAMS IN SOFTBALL LOOP

Omemee Entry Depends on Decision Regarding Number of Games for Village Grounds.

NEWCOMERS IN LEAGUE.

Five teams are expected to make up the City Softball League this summer, the five prospects being: Fashion-Crafts, Hood and Cummings, Pepe's Cleaners, Lillico Motors and Omemee. The Lillico entry was not positive at last night's meeting in Duffus', but Herb Payne promised to let the League know shortly if this team was coming in. Omemee's entry depends upon the executive's decision regarding the number of games that can be played on Omemee's grounds. Entries close May 10th and the schedule opens May 17th.

The executive will decide on the type of ball to be used this year and will make arrangements for the grounds. Vince Stewart has been re-appointed groundskeeper. Umpires will be advertised for. The League decided to purchase two new balls and two new bats for the Peterborough boys in the road camps north of the city. The secretary will check up with local teams this week, asking them if they will each play two or three of their Omemee games in Omemee and the remainder here. If the local teams are agreeable, Omemee will enter. The Omemee club will be notified this week.

There were various matters discussed by the large representation at the open meeting and at the short executive session which followed. It was felt that nothing further could be done till after the closing date for entries, when the schedule will be drawn up and plans made for the opening.

Birthday Greetings

(By The Canadian Press)

To MRS. TEMPLE DOBELL, the former Gladys Ravenscroft, the world's greatest woman golfer immediately before the war. Born on May 2, 1893, Miss Ravenscroft achieved her peak form in 1912 and 1913. She won the British women's title in 1912 and the following year captured the United States championship and made her only appearance in Canada, losing in the third round of the Dominion event.

DYNAMO ON COURT IS COAST PLAYER

Caroline Deacon Goes to England With Reputation For Boundless Action.

VANCOUVER, May 2 (C.P.) — Five years ago Caroline Deacon started to play tennis and last summer she entered the Canadian women's championship for the first time, going to Toronto for the occasion. She won without losing a single set during the week. It was a tournament record.

Flame-haired Caroline goes to England and Wimbledon this season along with Eleanor Young, her tennis-playing companion, and the two Montreal stars, Laird Watt and Bobby Murray. Caroline has come a long way in five years and they say she isn't anywhere near the end of the trail.

The Deacon-Young invasion of the 1934 Canadian championship tournament in Toronto remains one of the most spectacular and sweeping in the history of the event. They went east as strangers and they came home champions. Caroline defeated Eleanor in the final of the women's singles.

They teamed to capture the women's doubles in decisive fashion and Eleanor did her share by winning the junior women's singles, defeating Betty Hollinger of Dayton, O., United States indoor girls champion, in straight sets. They left a mark of consistent brilliance for future title-holders to shoot for.

Miss Deacon was coached by E. J. H. Cardinall, who held the Vancouver city title for four consecutive years a quarter-century ago. The 22-year-old Vancouver girl is just the sort of dynamo on the court that popular belief has always associated with those possessing red hair. She is never still a second during a match. She bounds around the court with a display of action that often caused critics to wonder if she was not wasting energy.

On this point, however, Coach Cardinall is emphatic:

"She is high strung and nervous," he says, "and must have an outlet for her nervous energy. It's the only way she can keep on her game. If she were to hold herself down to the smooth play of the stylist, her tennis would suffer."

Caroline did not play in an open tennis tournament until 1933 when she won the Vancouver Island junior singles at Duncan. That was the beginning of a season that ended with the new sensation in possession of six titles, all provincial. Last summer she won six championships, including the British Columbia and Canadian.

CARNERA-LOUIS FIGHT HERALDS 'RICH RETURNS'

Primo Trying Comeback Will Be Brown Bomber's Stiffest Test.

CAREY IS CHIEF.

By BILL BRAUCHER
Central Press Canadian Sports Writer.

In a summer of spectacular sports contests, the bout in New York city June 25 that brings together former heavyweight champion Primo Carnera and young Joe Louis, Detroit negro, is a standout.

It points the way to a return of the million-dollar gate to boxing. If Louis wins, and there is every reason to believe he will, there naturally will follow the first heavyweight championship battle between a white man and a negro since Jess Willard knocked out Jack Johnson in Havana, 20 years ago.

How Time Flies!

The Havana bout occurred April 5, 1915, and at that time Joe Lopis, who now looms as a principal in the summers most stirring ring spectacle, was a pickaninny in Birmingham, Ala., a little more than 10 months old.

He has fought his way up through amateur ranks, and since turning professional has scored 18 knockouts. Recent knockouts of Charley Massare, Lee Ramage, defeat of Patsy Perroni and knockout of Roy Lazar stamp him as the foremost contender for Baer's heavyweight title.

He is a deadly puncher, his boxing style being a cross between that of Sam Langford and Bob Fitzsimmons, shuffling in with no wasted motion and sending short jarring punches. He has knockout power in both right and left.

Two men of his own race are handing the former golden gloves champion, Detroit politician, and Jack Blackburn, the negro lightweight of the early 1900's. So far they have made no mistake in matching the youngster. They want to go slowly and let him develop naturally with experience.

Before Louis knocked him out, Massare was regarded as one of the half dozen best ring prospects of the year. Discovering he could not nail Massare with a right, Louis popped him over with a left.

In his two knockouts of Ramage, he showed the same ability to knock an opponent down with either hand. Added to that, he is a good defensive fighter, though he shuffles in constantly toward his objective. Al Thomas, trainer of Steve Hamas, says the Detroiter, though only a year out of amateur ranks, has the finesse of a veteran professional.

Louis carries 198 pounds nicely distributed over a six-foot frame. He is a short puncher. Patsy Perroni said Louis hurt him badly with a left jab.

He is a quiet type, like the late Tiger Flowers, soft-spoken, and with some of the racial sadness in his face that is reminiscent of the sombre mask of Joe Gans.

Primo a Hard Hurdle

Big Primo will be his greatest test. In his battle with Baer last summer, the giant showed he could take it, and even though groggy, shook Max from stem to stern with ponderous right hands in several rounds, Louis has not met a fighter of Primo's power. The negro will find the Italian a hard man to put down.

The fight will give the ring world a line on Louis' courage, which so far has not been doubted. Carnera, battling for a chance to win back his title, will put everything he has into the bout.

Memories of his rousing battle with Baer last summer still linger. It is an axiom of promoters that one boisterous shindig of that sort deserves another. Carnera's gameness in defeat won a following he never had as champion.

Primo has been ably handled since that gory night. It is accepted cauliflower custom that a beaten fighter should be removed from public gaze, and though a man of Primo's size offered his board of directors a problem that might have baffled Houdini, it was accomplished. The Large One was bundled off to South America to meet a couple of fellows called Jose.

The fellows called Jose didn't offer Carnera too much resistance, though one hombre did entertain an illusion he was Luis Angel Firpo and shoved Primo around for a few rounds, finally tiring of that arduous business.

The effect on public psychology of these victories in South America, and his defeat of Ray Impellitiere, has been marked. People who last fall had dismissed the Large One as no longer usable are beginning to ask again how good he is.

Carey Is Chief

Popularity of the promoters will help to swell the gate. The bout is to be staged by the Twentieth Century club, which was organized by Mike Jacobs, who was one of Tex Rickard's closest friends in the days when Tex was fighting his way to the top in New York through a No Man's Land of intrigue and politics.

It was after the signing of Louis and Carnera and a bout, May 28, between Barney Ross and Jimmy McLarnin for the welter title, that it was announced William F. Carey, former president of Madison Square Garden, was president of the new boxing organization.

Carey, veteran railroad builder, succeeding Rickard as head man at the Garden upon Rickard's death in 1929. He and Jacobs became close friends. Forced out of the Garden in 1934, Carey now steps back into the spotlight with the star acts of summer ready for the showing.

SPORTS DAY BY DAY

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two.

(By C. J. P.)

A guy asked us the other day how the Girls' Softball League was coming along or if we had forgotten it. Heaven forbid that we should forget the fair ones! Generally speaking—no joke intended—the gals will not let themselves be forgotten. But, since their next meeting is not till next Wednesday, we were plugging other sports in the meantime. And the gals' loop officers are working quietly toward getting two good sections—intermediate and senior—for this summer's circuit. It'll go over okay, don't worry. The Bowl will be brimming with gals' softball nearly every night this season, with P.W.S.U. playdowns in the autumn.

• • • • • •

A checkup yesterday assured us that five teams would enter the senior section—the one affiliated with the Provincial Union. They are Sixth Line, Keene, C.G.E., Westclox and Omemee, the latter entering the second half of the schedule. In the intermediate—or independent division, if you wish—Choate's, Westclox, C.G.E., a C.C.F. entry and possibly Brintons are all expected. Of course none of these is definite until the next meeting, but we expect there'll be four in this section anyway. So this loop looks pretty well set for the summer.

• • • • • •

Valleyviews of Toronto will be here for sure on the holiday Monday, May 6th, to play the local seniors—Johnson Motors—a doubleheader in the Exhibition Grounds. We haven't heard what time the games will be staged yet—and we sure hope the busses are running regularly that day! It will prove fine practise for Knotty Lee's gang and give fans here a chance to see the 1935 edition of the Petes with several newcomers romping around in their lineup. We've got a sneaking hunch this year's Peterborough squad might cop the O.B.A.A. flag. Ever since the team returned to senior ranking here five years ago, we've been looking for a hitting, fielding, pitching team that would go places. Maybe we have it now. Anyway, five years is quite a while to wait in one sense—we'd even get tired holding Janet Gaynor on our knee for five years!

• • • • • •

Mush Brooks' Valleyviews—easy winners of the outlaw senior loop in Toronto last year—are rated strong in the Ulster Stadium League this season. Such players as the Dowling brothers, Nipper Jones, Len Hayes, George Cox, Sam Terry, Peter Swan, Jefferies, Brandon, Archibald, Jacobs, Hart, Begley and others will convince ball fans that this is a tough crew to take on so early in the season.

• • • • • •

Herb Ralph entered his Terriers in the Lakeshore Junior Baseball League last night. It will be a six-team circuit with the local squad, Port Hope, Cobourg, Oshawa, Bowmanville and Colborne. Probably games here will be staged in the Exhibition Grounds, although it might be a good idea to put the odd one on in Riverside Park. The schedule will be drawn up for this junior circuit next Wednesday. Max Swanston accompanied Herb to last night's meeting. So it looks like the bantam and junior sections of our City Baseball League are okay, but something should be done about a couple of juvenile squads here.

• • • • • •

In answer to our request for softballs and bats for the boys in the road camps north of here, the City Softball League has come through with the offer of two new balls and two new bats. And Dave Cowan, local businessman, has donated a new Kenesky ball and a new bat. And the Omemee management last night said they could give a good bat. This is fine and anyone else wanting to kick in with something still has time. Just let us know. And we'll ask the contributors to send the equipment around to this office as soon as convenient as they'll be calling for it around the end of the week.

• • • • • •

Men's Softball League met last eve and made real headway. Hood and Cummings—under Jake Beckerman's management—entered along with Fashion-Crafts, Pepe's Cleaners, Omemee and Lillico Motors. Of course these last two aren't positive. Herb Payne expected to enter Lillico's but couldn't say definitely for a few days. We hope he comes in. And Omemee want to be sure of a certain number of games in their village before they'll join. We think it's only fair for each team to play, say, two games this summer in Omemee. Some are willing but others wouldn't commit themselves. Omemee will be satisfied with getting half their rightful share of home games.

• • • • • •

George Dorner will handle Fashion-Crafts and fans will get a look out of seeing Dorner and Beckerman battling again as in days gone by. We're glad to see Hood and Cummings in this season. If these five and one more—why not Board and Huffman's—climbed aboard, you'd have a nice six-team circuit. Pepe's Cleaners are the junior squad which will go into O.A.S.A. junior playdowns in the fall. However, they will bolster up with several good intermediate players for the local schedule. Vince Stewart is again groundskeeper, and peoples should apply to Dave Lecther, 288 George St. The loop hopes to get Central for games again this year. Schedule opens May 17th.

FINAL PLANS LAID FOR VICTORIA DAY

Agreement Reached on Building Fence for Omemee Athletic Grounds.

OMEMEE, May 2 (Examiner Correspondent).—A meeting of the members of the Athletic Association was held in Coronation Hall Monday evening, with a real good attendance present, with the president L. Curtis, in the chair.

The secretary was advised to write to the Patterson Candy Co. to see if they would supply a loud speaker at the grounds on May 24th.

An innovation in the form of a contest for amateurs is to be tried in Coronation Hall on the night of Victoria Day.

The fence committee reported as follows: C. Mills will supply gate leading into athletic field at his own expense, and Mr. Rutherford will pay for half of fence to be erected between his property and athletic field—the association to pay the other half.

Messrs. F. Parker, B. Chester, S. Vaughan, Geo. Wilson and W. Prince were appointed to look after the amateur contest.

It was decided to have a uniformed policeman on the grounds and at the dance in the evening.

F. Parsons acquainted the Athletic Association with the fact that the men's softball team had decided to give the former body the softball cup which they had purchased three years ago, but which has never been put up for competition.

The meeting adjourned to meet Monday, May 13th, at 8 o'clock.

SAINTS DEFEAT MARK ST. NINE IN FIRST GAME

Presbyterians Take 28-12 Decision From East City in Softball Tangle.

ST. JOHN'S WINS 5-4.

Two games at Queen Mary School last evening opened the Church Softball League schedule. Chilly weather kept down the crowd. St. Paul's defeated Mark Street, 28-12, in the juvenile opener; while St. John's Bantams nosed out a 5-4 win over Park Street. Rev. E. R. James, vice-president of the Ministerial Association, President Fred Scates and Secretary Dave Leether of the City Softball League and Chairman Len Agnew of the Church League participated in opening ceremonies.

The juveniles, last year bantam finalists, played ragged ball with the East City team particularly off form. Barr was shelled out in the fourth when Mark Street got eight runs. McMillian finished for the other side, going strong all the way. Craig found the going tough owing to his wildness and poor support. McMillian, McCartney, Rutherford, Brady and Scriver hit well with Eason and Mackness going good in the field. The teams:

St. Paul's: Mackness, ss; Easton, cf.; Moorhead, cf; Sedgewick, c; Williamson, c; McMillian, 1b., p; McCartney, rf; B. King, 2b; Rutherford, lf; A. King, 3b; Barr, p, 1b.

Speedy Bantam Game

Dyer's hit in the last of the seventh with two out sent L. Clarke in with the winning run in the speedy bantam game. It was run off in 35 minutes with both squads in midseason form. Sanderson on Park Street mound was unlucky in losing after fanning ten. A couple of costly errors proved his downfall. Crowter and L. Clarke both hurled well. Lewis, Morley, Anderson and Weaver were effective with the willow, with Lewis, Morley, Anderson and Briscoe strong in the field. The teams:

Park Street—Tarkington, c; Sanderson, p; Anderson, 1b; H. Campbell, 2b; Miles, 3b; Martin, ss; Briscoe, lf; Weaver, rf; Bucknell, cf; S. Campbell.

St. John's—Howell, 3b; R. Clark, ss.; L. Clarke, cf, 1b; Dyer, c; Lewis, lf; Castle, 3b; Morley, 1b; Forsythe, rf; Crowter, p., cf; Graham.

GOLF FACTS NOT THEORIES!
By ALEX. J. MORRISON

Number 601

Two of my pupils have dropped from shooting around 100 to scoring in the middle 80's. I mention them because they should be playing in the 70's.

They hit the ball well and far enough to be putting for a par on every hole. After going out in something like 36 or 39 they'll take 46 or 47 for the second nine.

In their cases the let down is due to the fact that they insist on playing with duffers who shoot around 120. They get to whacking around like the duffers. Players of distinctly different classes cannot keep in step with one another.

You never see pros preparing for a big tournament by playing with duffers. They seek good players during their practice. You'll profit by following their example.

Filming Soccer To Show the Plays

LONDON, May 2 (C.P.) — Consisting of eight reels each depicting a particular phase of soccer, a film is being made through the efforts of the English football association.

There has been a big demand for a film of this kind from various countries, including Iceland and Newfoundland, and it is expected the film will be ready for despatch to these countries by September.

H. E. Hibbs, Birmingham's international goalkeeper, made the first shots—demonstrating the art of netminding.

EXCELLENT WORK BY THE PLATERS

Epicurus and Eileen D Reel Off Mile in 1.47 Over Sloppy Track.

TORONTO, May 2—Trainer Harry Giddings of the Parkwood Stable certainly gave owners of plate eligibles something to shoot at yesterday morning when with a track that could be called sloppy, and a strong west wind battling them all the way down the streach, Epicurus and Eileen D. worked a mile in the excellent time of 1.47 flat. Both finished full of rum and fighting for their heads.

It was workout day for the platers at the McLaughlin barn and Trainer Giddings lost no time in getting them into action. The first pair to work were Vingt Cinq and Listaro. After first galloping once around the track they broke flying from the five-eighth pole, went to the half in :52 1-5, the three-quarters in 1.39 2-5, and breezed out the mile in 1.49 1-5, well within themselves.

It was only a matter of a few minutes before Epicurus and Eileen D. Made their appearance on the racing strip. They galloped once around, took a flying start at the five-eighths pole, reached the half in :51, hit the three-quarters in 1.19 4-5 and finished the mile in 1.47.

Trainer Giddings, commenting on this excellent workout, said: "They worked that mile faster than Horneer did, the same time before plate day."

Another plate candidate to show his wares was Goggles, which will carry the white and black silks of Stanley Crawford. The Crawford colorbearer worked a six eighth mile in 1.32 3-5, in company with Aymond, the King's Plate winner of 1930.

More action was seen when Trainer John Thorpe of the E. P. Seagram Stable appeared with the plate candidates, Gay Sympathy and Languisette. Breaking from the five-eighths pole they worked their mile in 1.34 2-5, with Gay Sympathy just crying to run.

The next Seagram plater that made its appearance on the track was Sally Fuller. In company with Shady Well, the daughter of Judge Fuller—South have worked a mile in 1.31 2-5, finishing full of run at the end of the journey.

The Canadian division of the stable of J. E. Smallman, popular London sportsman, arrived on the scene of action. Included in the shipment was the King's Plate candidate, Highland. The son of Single Foot—Milady certainly looks as if he put in a satisfactory Winter.

It is expected that Thursday will see Trainer John Hutton send the Ryland H. Boy plate candidate, Lipton, over the mile journey.

Factories in Leeds, England, have been working overtime making flags and bunting by the miles for the silver jubilee celebrations.

Chance Sun, Probable Victim of Ringbone, Shipped Back to Farm.

BOXTHORN STANDS OUT.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 2 (AP)—The few chosen thoroughbreds considered worthy to start in the 61st running of the Kentucky Derby ended severe training yesterday, leaving high hopes and heartbreaking disappointments among the owners of 11 original nominees announced two months ago. Only two days remain before the big race at Churchill Downs Saturday.

C. V. Whitney's brown colt, Today, loomed as probable post-time favorite. He breezed a mile and one-eighth in 1.55 1-5, and then galloped out the remaining eighth of the mile and a quarter Derby route in 2.08 4-5.

Trainer Jack Healey's only observation was: "To-day's done everything we've asked of him and done it easily."

Another splendid colt, Joseph E. Widener's Chance Sun, beat a sad retreat back to Elmendorf Farm in the Blue Grass, a victim of what was believed to be a ringbone. His owned said positively Chance Sun, the Winter book favorite, would not start in the Derby.

Col. E. R. Bradley's Boxthorn furnished what trained observers said was the standout effort of the pre-Derby training grind at Churchill Downs, a spin yesterday over the full Derby route of a mile and a quarter in 2.06 4-5. "Derby Dick" Thompson, trainer for the Idle Hour Farm, appeared satisfied that Boxthorn measured up to Col. Bradley's specification for a Derby winner: ability to stay in the running and cover the last quarter in 26 seconds. Boxthorn's last quarter of the workout was run in exactly that time. Jockey Don Meade was up and kept a snug hold on his mount until he had reached the mile in 1.41 4-5.

Plat Eye Goes Route

Plat Eye, from the Greentree Stable of Mrs. Payne Whitney, also went the full Derby route. Jockey Silvio Coucci had the leg on the Chesapeake winner as he breezed the 10 furlongs in 2.10.

E. D. Shaffer's St. Bernard, regarded as a "dark horse," stepped a mile in 1.39 3-5, very handily, and galloped out the extra quarter in 2.08 1-5. Trainer Alex Gordon said he was immensely pleased with the workout, and that Jockey Paul Keester was on the way from Texas to ride his charge. The Bulldog colt's fractionals were :28 3-5, :47 1-5, and 1.13.

Mrs. Charles Hainsworth's Blackbirder was put down as a "sleeper," when under guidance of her husband jockey-trainer the Bostonian colt breezed 10 furlongs in 2.06 handily.

Omaha, William Woodward's hope to repeat the 1930 victory of Gallant Fox breezed a mile and an eighth in 1.55 4-5 and galloped out the additional furlong in 2.10. J. H. Louchetm's Morpluck rattled off a mile in 1.40 2-5, and pulled up a mile and an eighth in 1.54.

Roman Soldier was not called upon for a speed trial yesterday, now were Nellie Flag, sensational filly, and Whiskole, winner of Monday's preparation race over a field of lesser Derby eligibles. Jouett Shouse's Weston was reported ready for withdrawal, after disappointing trials this week.

GYPSY GIRL

THE STORY OF AN IMPASSIONED ROMANCE

By McDONALD FEADER

READ THIS FIRST:

Consuelo, a beautiful gypsy girl who longs to dance, is loved by the Dummy, a deaf mute, and Marcu. She despises her mother, Anica, but is fond of her father, Girtsa. Marcu tempts Consuelo with a huge diamond and she agrees to marry him until she suspects her gypsy sweetheart has tricked her about the ring's value. In town she sees three men playing cards near a private car on a railroad siding. She dances for them. Much impressed, one of the men, Stewart Blackmire, New York theatrical producer, promises to return in 10 days and give Consuelo a pair of slippers. Marcu bargains with Girtsa for his daughter's hand.

(NOW GO ON WITH STORY)

CHAPTER 16

Marcu held out his purse with the gold pieces and the finely made watch that had been his mother's. "The colt I will hitch to the end of your wagon."

"It is good." Girtsa counted the money and handed back the empty purse to Marcu. "Consuelo," he shouted, although it was not necessary, for the girl was sitting near him, her untouched breakfast plate in her lap. "Consuelo, come put your hand in this man's. When he has given me three horses he will be your master. Come, my child."

Consuelo rose, and like one in a stupor, came to Marcu and placed her hand in his. The diamond, shining in all its loveliness, was upon her finger.

Then it was that the gypsies raised a shout and threw their scarfs into the air and Petru picked up his flute and played. All the gypsies gathered in a circle around them and danced and sang. Marcu stood as proud as a king and his heart near burst within him. He glanced down at the girl, but she, like a well-behaved promised one, was looking down and no one saw her eyes.

Gaily the camp went about the morning tasks. The gypsies' voices were loud with discussion of the coming event and jests were made and laughter came light and easy and other of the young men began to flirt more openly with the young gypsy girls. So the monotony of the last hot summer days was stirred into life and it was more like spring than autumn.

Money was produced from belts that had boasted of none. Kegs of beer were bought. There were scarves and inexpensive jewelry presented to the girl. Some one gave Marcu a new knife, its steel blade shining, its handle pure ivory.

The news leaked into town. Curiosity was aroused. A gypsy wedding. Did they really get married? Smith's grocery store offered five gallons of hard cider if Smith, wife and family might be permitted to witness the ceremony. The promise of cider was accepted. Other gorgios also announced their intention of coming whether they were invited or not.

For two days Marcu disappeared and when he came back, dusty and tired, he was riding a young sorrel and leading a mare heavy with colt. He rode up to Girtsa and said:

"Here are your three horses."

How the gypsies laughed!

Girtsa pulled on his long beard and spat on the ground and said it was not the bargain.

But Marcus was insistent. The gypsies stopped laughing. Perhaps there was some sense in what he said. They felt of the mare and nodded and talked withone another. "It will not be longer than three days before she foals. Perhaps only two."

All morning the discussion kept up and in the end Girtsa agreed to accept the mares and the unborn colt and they set the wedding at three days hence to live up to the bargain, for they were all of the opinion that the mare would not carry longer than the three days.

The new assurance the Dummy had taken on after the fight with Marcu vanished. He put the oils away in his box and his brushes lay idle. He kept out of the merry-making, for with the opening of the beer, it had already started. His dark eyes were shrouded with heaviness, his face pale under the tawny skin, his slim fingers restless, but he could not paint. Laughing heads on canvas? Ah, no. He had not the heart for them.

He drew a small sketch of her in black, a veil about her head, her clothes of somber hue, her body hidden. Only a bare throat and a pale face with eyes cast down were visible. So had she looked to him when the gypsies made the betrothal circle. But when he had finished the picture he could not bear the sadness he had drawn, so he burned it.

His heart was heavy with bitterness. The blood throbbed in his temples and he cursed his dead lips. If he could talk, if he could hear, Consuelo would be his. But what right had he to fight for her, a half dead man as he was. Oh, God, why hadn't he been born blind that he might never have seen her loveliness, could never have dreamed of her, never have desired her until life itself was not worth while without her.

Then he cursed himself for a fool and beat his hands against his breast. "If there is a God in the heaven, let Him forgive me—" and he fell to his knees and gave thanks that he was not blind. And the artist soul of him gave thanks for her beauty, but it did not heal his sore heart.

He went back to the camp and joined in with the others. Because his eyes were dark and forbidding, the gypsies did not joke with him because he had not won the girl. He drank beer with them, but it did not lift the cloud of his sorrow.

One of the men showed a batik kerchief he had made for Consuelo. The Dummy had given her nothing. He had been so concerned with himself that he had not thought of it. Now the time was growing short, only this afternoon and tomorrow left. Then she would be a bride. He must have a gift for her. Something beautiful—something beautiful.

He left the group and hastened into the town. It took him an hour to buy a piece of white silk. He ran back to camp, the sweat rolling down his body. Feverishly he unwrapped the paints and brushes and stretched the silk on a board. The heat of the afternoon sun poured down upon him, but he worked like one possessed. The oils took shape. He forgot the merrymakers; forgot the bitter hurt within him. Creation was pulsing through his fingers to take form.

The sun seemed to fly on wheels of flaming gold toward the hills, but still he worked. The call came for dinner. He was not missed. The purple shades of twilight came down to the hills. He worked on, The light did not matter now. He could have closed his eyes and kept on working, so well did his mind portray the picture he was putting upon the white silk.

Now the last sweep of the brush, Darkness settled down, the hushed expectant darkness before the moon. Only the shadowy figures in the distance showed against the glow from the campfire. The oils on the crude palette began to run and blend together. The moon rose and touched the darkness with silver and fell upon the square of silk, lacing it with shadows from the leaves of the tree above it.

Exhausted, the Dummy fell into sleep. He was sitting in a great forest and the girl beside him. He was talking to her, telling her of his love, and his voice was sweet and good. She answered him and he heard. He held her close to him and buried his lips in the shroud of her raven hair. He whispered all the things that had been in his heart so long. Finally she lay in sleep, her head upon his arm and the painted piece of silk a covering for her.

The moon had gone down when he awoke. He was cold. The grass was covered with dew. The leaves of the tree bent heavy above him. With aching muscles he rose to his feet. The silk was wet from the dew. For a long time he stared down at the thing which he had created as if now he was seeing it for the first time, and it was beautiful. A shawl for this girl he loved.

He crept beside the bonfire, putting fuel upon it, and warmed his chilled body. The camp was very silent except for the snores of the men. His eyes traveled to the van where Consuelo slept. The curtains were pulled aside. He went close and for an instant looked down upon her face, the black hair in tangled curls around her shoulders. Many times he had seen her in sleep, but never had she looked so beautiful to him. His dream, the girl asleep against his shoulder. He went back to the fire and sat down. He bent his head wearily and tears, unemotional, rolled down his cheeks and he was not ashamed of them.

Shortly before noon the Dummy gave the shawl to the girl, his lips smiling. The gypsies crowded round, hushed at the thing they saw, staring at the beauty of it and then arose the babble of sound, exclamations of delight, of envy.

Consuelo let him put the shawl about her shoulders. She did not speak, but her eyes thanked him. In the confusion of the wedding preparations no one noticed that the girl had not spoken these many days, but had been sullen and brooding, surely no way for a promised one to act.

For a long moment the Dummy stared into her eyes, then he turned and left her. He had done the thing he wanted. She had no lovelier gift. His outer sense was satisfied, but the inner part of his being was more lonely than ever.

Trade Charge Withdrawn Against Ottawa Broker

OTTAWA, May 1 (CP)—A charge of trading in securities without a license against Thomas H. Fitzgerald of Ottawa was withdrawn in police court to-day. David H. Jackson, solicitor for the Ontario Securities Commission which laid the charge, said the information against Fitzgerald had been laid in good faith, but was incorrect.

Decision in the case of William J. Irvine, charged on a similar offence, was reserved for a week to allow counsel to submit written arguments on legal points and hearing of evidence proceeded on a similar charge against Victor H. Morris.

N.S. COAL MINING TOWN IS SWEPT BY $40,000 FIRE

Nine Buildings Raged and Whole Business Sections Threatened.

MANY NARROW ESCAPES.

Firemen Battle Three Hours Before Gaining Control.

FLORENCE, N.S., May 2. (CP). Fire levelled 9 buildings in the heart of this coal mining town early to-day, causing damage of more than $40,000 and threatening its entire business district before it was brought under control.

Dozens of lives were endangered as flames raced swiftly through the wooden structures before a powerful wind blowing in from the sea. And there was more than one narrow escape as families awoke from sleep and tumbled out of their homes.

The infant daughter of Simon Masmussen was rescued by her father and two neighbors a half hour after the parents and 10 children had abandoned their dwelling. The sleeping child had been forgotten in the confusion of getting the large family to safety.

In another home Mrs. D. G. McDonald, an invalid, was carried from her upstairs bedroom by her oldest son as the house burned. Ironically, fire was the elderly woman's fear and the home had gone unheated through the cold winter nights because of a narrow escape she had experienced in a previous fire.

The McDonald home was believed to have been the source of the conflagration, though its cause still remained a mystery as the firefighters gained the upper hand after three hours. Defective electrical wiring was considered as a possible origin.

The town has no fire apparatus and they could do little but watch until the Sydney Mines fire department sped three miles into town.

No help was available from North Sydney, about five miles further on, for all available firemen there were engaged with a fire in the town's business district.

POTATO GROWERS ARE ORGANIZING

Objectives Are "Protection" and "Co operation" With Board.

TORONTO, May 2.—Organization of a Province-wide potato growers' association was launched yesterday at Queen's Park, when about thirty growers from all sections of Ontario Conference with the Ontario Branch of the Eastern Canada Potato Market Board.

The object of the association is to protect growers and to afford closer co-operation between farmers and the Ontario division of the Marketing Board. J. T. Cassin, head of the branch, was selected chairman of a committee to undertake organization work.

Additional Revenues.

According to L. F. Burrows, chairman of the Eastern Canada Potato Marketing Board, who attended the Queen's Park conference, growers present expressed the opinion that through the operation of the board and its Ontario branch thousands of dollars of additional revenue had flowed into the pockets of the farmers in the Province.

Since the first of February this year 500 less carloads of New Brunswick potatoes and 200 fewer carloads of the Prince Edward Island product have entered Ontario. It is also estimated that in the past year the Ontario farmer has marketed 50 per cent. more potatoes in the Province than in any of the past ten years.

The benefit to the Ontario potato grower, Mr. Burrows said, has been mainly through the action of the Ontario branch in pegging prices, regulating grading and stipulating that potatoes must be sold before shipment to Ontario markets from Ontario farms or from another Province into Ontario.

Before July 10 a vote will be taken among Ontario potato producers on the question of whether or not they are in favor of the continuance of the potato marketing scheme as laid down by the Eastern Ontario board and the Ontario branch.

Magistrate's Court

William Jones of Toronto, alleged cheque artist, appeared on remand before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., to-day, but the Crown offered no evidence against him on a charge of vagrancy. The case against the accused was dismissed, but he was held in custody for the Toronto Police, who hold a warrant for his arrest on charges of forgery.

Murney Martin, 222 King Street, pleaded guilty to a charge of intoxication, and was fined $10 and costs, or in default ten days in gaol.

Fund is Growing In "Kit" Memory

TORONTO, May 2 (C.P.) — The Newpacket, organ of the Canadian Women's Press Club reports that with the completion of the Kit Memorial Fund their chief objective, the members of the Hamilton branch, C.W.P.C. has decided that the fund be devoted to the establishing of a university scholarship for a woman student to be awarded for the purpose of encouraging literary pursuits.

This was considered by all an appropriate and fitting memorial to Mrs. Kathleen Blake Coleman, known to readers from coast to coast as "Kit," and the patron saint of so many aspiring writers. The Hamilton branch has already $600 in this fund. It hopes that the other branches interested will take the opportunity to share in the creation of the memorial to the woman who was the organiser and first president of the Canadian Women's Press Club.

CHILDREN ENJOY 'ARBOR DAY' TO CLEAN UP SCHOOL GROUNDS

More Interest Being Taken in Making Rural School Grounds Beautiful.

PLENTY OF SHRUBS.

JANETVILLE, May 2 (Examiner Correspondence)—For many a year rural school pupils have enjoyed happy anticipation and realization of the observance of "Arbour Day" on an early Friday in the "merry month of May" when the school grounds are improved and beautiful.

And year by year one sees a greater interest taken in the work of making beautiful the grounds of our rural schools. This is because knowledge is being disseminated and examples of the results are becoming more and more evident.

It has been thought that money spent on the planting of school ground areas is largely wasted. We now however know that where the subjects are judiciously chosen and properly arranged the expenditure is not a waste. The plantings are really valuable assets to any school.

In order to be fully successful in laying out the grounds of rural schools, prime consideration should be given to the nature of the subjects. Their hardiness should be unquestioned. They should be of a permanent nature such as trees, shrubs and herbaceous perennials. They should also be largely chosen because of their usefulness for certain positions and should not be as we have seen, scattered in discriminately through the lawn areas where in isolated loneliness they suggest a lack of knowledge of landscape design on the part of the designer or that no design was available. Wherever permanency of planting is achieved, the initial cost of outlay is practically the only cost.

In all efforts to beautify school grounds, it should not be forgotten that the subjects should be chosen, not only with a desire to create an attractive layout, but also for their usefulness. It so happens that trees and shrubs serve a really useful purpose in landscape arrangement and particularly on school grounds. When planted in positions of usefulness and of certain simple principles are observed a very beautiful effect may be possible.

The area to be beautified should be that immediately surrounding the school front, rear, and if possible the sides. For this reason the playgrounds should be placed toward the rear of the property or if to the side of the school, sufficiently far way to allow of adequate planting. In other words, the immediate environs of the school should be the beautified portion and this should be visible from road or street or whatever may be the approach. Each rural school should have at least an acre of land without which restrictions will certainly be placed on schemes of beautification.

The playing areas may be separated from the beautified parts by means of fences, hedges, or plantings of shrubs. Borders of shrubs and perennials should be so arranged as to frame in the lawns. The lawn as far as possible should be kept open and free from individual shrubs dotted here and there through them. Many times these have been seen dotted so close to the playing areas that they were simply trampled underfoot to perish, which all tends to show a lack of knowledge or of co-ordination in the work. Our school grounds have yet to be laid out along proper landscape lines. A system where the adaptibility of the layout as well as that of the subjects for the purpose must be adopted to achieve success.

Only where trees and shrubs will serve a really useful purpose should they be planted in the lawns of school grounds. What are useful positions? Where are they? If a shrub planted near a grouping at the side of the lawn will in any way pleasingly accent the grouping or enhance its beauty such a specimen shrub may properly be planted. It must however, be planted closely to, and bear relationship to the major feature of the grouping so that it will harmonize. If such is the case, is it not folly to plant a shrub out in the centre of the lawn out of all association with the major plantings? For trees proper positions are where they will give shade just where needed. Also probably where they will serve as a background to the building and bring it into relief. If within the limits of the area to be beautiful deciduous trees can be planted so as to shade the ground near the school less radiation of heat will be possible during late spring and early summer and the school will be more comfortable for the children. A few well placed trees will suffice.

Evergreens are a great asset to rural school grounds. Planted as windbreaks, they exercise a moderating influence during stormy winter days keep the school cosy and cut down the expense of fuel. Rural schools should be protected from the prevailing winds of winter. Massed boundary plantings of evergreens will be more pleasing than straight lines, although the latter may be employed. Tall hedges are sometimes quite effective. Here again, the usefulness of the subjects is of cardinal importance. Evergreens beautify the winter's landscape as can nothing else and should be more generally used.

It is customarily preferred that the walks around the school should be of concrete; of whatever nature however it is best for them to be laid sufficiently far away from the base of the building to allow of foundation planting of shrubs. These shrub plantings soften the harsh lines of the foundation and serve as a link or medium to connect the school to its setting—the lawn with its plantings. They also give the impression of a school nestling into the earth, expressive of the care and thought of the trustees and teachers and of still greater importance is the influence upon the children who are educated therein.

The planting of only the hardiest and enduring types of shrubs and perennials is advised for rural school grounds. Often labor to properly maintain is not procurable, thus subjects which are at all fastidious in their cultural requirements or are not fully hardy should not be planted. In all the work of beautifying school grounds economy should be kept in mind.

In summing up the question of the beautifying of rural school grounds on Arbour Day every year we will surely be forced to the conclusion that it is work worth while.

Whether from the utilitarian or aesthetic viewpoints we study it we must agree that it is of great importance. If for economic reasons alone, however, we should plant trees and shrubs imparting as they do, coolness in summer and warmth in winter. Above all, however, they impart cheerfulness for they are not only useful but beautiful. Thus rural school grounds which are unbeautified are void of any example to stir the imagination of youth; are void of inspiration; are not suggestive of life and of beauty and so the best days of growing childhood are spent amid surroundings which are dull and drab and at this its most impressionable age.

UTAH MAN TO DIE BY FIRING SQUAD

Prisoner Who Slew Wife, Her Mother, and Uncle Has Avoided Death 5 Years.

TWO APPEALS.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, May 2 (U.P.).—Unless a plea of insanity or action by the board of pardon intervents, Delbert Green, 26, will die before the fire of a squad of riflemen here June 26.

The twice convicted and confessed slayer of his young wife, Gladys, her mother, Mrs. Delbert Green and James Green an uncle, was sentenced for the third time late yesterday at the tiny village of Farmington, county seat of the rural community, where the crime was committed.

A successful appeal to the State Supreme Court stayed execution the first time. At a second trial Green was convicted again, but once more an appeal gave him a lease on life, but in this instance the appeal was denied so Green automatically came up for re-sentencing.

In Utah, a condemned man has the choice of being hanged or shot. Green, however, refused to make a choice. The first time he was asked to name the method of execution he jokingly said, "Neither." The judge, thereupon, selected shooting for him.

For five years Green has avoided death through appeals. He has been an inmate of the state prison here during that time and is classed as a model prisoner.

The triple shooting occurred at Green's country home, January 4, 1930. He was arrested a few hours later in Ogden and readily admitted the crimes. Family troubles prompted the act, he said.

Construction in Manchuria last year is estimated to have cost nearly $275,000,000.

Janetville

On Friday evening April 26, the final crokinole party of a series was held in the primary rooms of the United Church under the auspices of the Women's Association. The successful winners of the game were Mrs. Wilfred Leslie and Mr. Frank Joblin. The proceeds amounted to $7.00.

The Young People's Society of Mount Horeb United Church was entertained by their public school teacher, Miss Marjorie Robinson at the home of her mother, Mrs. Thos. Robinson, Viewlake. There was a splendid attendance of young people and after the usual opening and devotional exercises the meeting was turned over to the literary and citizenship convenor, Mrs. Vincent Hickson. Mrs. Hickson had a delightful arrangement of music, games and contests which were thoroughly enjoyed by all. At the close of the evening, dainty refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Robinson and Miss Marjorie Robinson.

The Mission Band of the United Church are busily making arrangements for a social evening on Wednesday, May 8, when Miss Ruth Hamilton, R.N., of Bethany will be the guest speaker.

There's a cleanser we know as Old Dutch,
For both tubs and sinks there's none such,
Keeps sauce pans so bright,
For paint work it's right,
Try a can, the cost isn't much.

—Written by Mrs. E. Fraser, Peterboro, Ont.

Soimotite, one of the important ingredients in Old Dutch, is a fine, flaky, cleaning and polishing material and is so remarkable in its cleaning action that it makes Old Dutch unique in the service and satisfaction it gives. No other cleanser can equal Old Dutch because it is the only one made with pure soimotite.

You can use Old Dutch on any surface water will not harm. It doesn't scratch; cleans quicker; saves your time and energy.

Saves you money, too, because its flaky, flat-shaped particles cover more surface and do more square yards of cleaning per penny of cost. Try Old Dutch.

$5 HERE'S HOW $5 Made in Canada

Write a limerick about Old Dutch on the back of an Old Dutch Cleanser label (or a reasonable facsimile) and send it to us. We will pay $5.00 in cash for each limerick which we publish and publication will include the writer's name and address. All limericks become the property of Cudahy Soap Works.

CHILDREN ENJOY 'ARBOR DAY' TO CLEAN UP SCHOOL GROUNDS

More Interest Being Taken in Making Rural School Grounds Beautiful.

PLENTY OF SHRUBS.

JANETVILLE, May 2 (Examiner Correspondence)—For many a year rural school pupils have enjoyed happy anticipation and realization of the observance of "Arbour Day" on an early Friday in the "merry month of May" when the school grounds are improved and beautiful.

And year by year one sees a greater interest taken in the work of making beautiful the grounds of our rural schools. This is because knowledge is being disseminated and examples of the results are becoming more and more evident.

It has been thought that money spent on the planting of school ground areas is largely wasted. We now however know that where the subjects are judiciously chosen and properly arranged the expenditure is not a waste. The plantings are really valuable assets to any school.

In order to be fully successful in laying out the grounds of rural schools, prime consideration should be given to the nature of the subjects. Their hardiness should be unquestioned. They should be of a permanent nature such as trees, shrubs and herbaceous perennials. They should also be largely chosen because of their usefulness for certain positions and should not be as we have seen, scattered in discriminately through the lawn areas where in isolated loneliness they suggest a lack of knowledge of landscape design on the part of the designer or that no design was available. Wherever permanency of planting is achieved, the initial cost of outlay is practically the only cost.

In all efforts to beautify school grounds, it should not be forgotten that the subjects should be chosen, not only with a desire to create an attractive layout, but also for their usefulness. It so happens that trees and shrubs serve a really useful purpose in landscape arrangement and particularly on school grounds. When planted in positions of usefulness and of certain simple principles are observed a very beautiful effect may be possible.

The area to be beautified should be that immediately surrounding the school front, rear, and if possible the sides. For this reason the playgrounds should be placed toward the rear of the property or if to the side of the school, sufficiently far way to allow of adequate planting. In other words, the immediate environs of the school should be the beautified portion and this should be visible from road or street or whatever may be the approach. Each rural school should have at least an acre of land without which restrictions will certainly be placed on schemes of beautification.

The playing areas may be separated from the beautified parts by means of fences, hedges, or plantings of shrubs. Borders of shrubs and perennials should be so arranged as to frame in the lawns. The lawn as far as possible should be kept open and free from individual shrubs dotted here and there through them. Many times these have been seen dotted so close to the playing areas that they were simply trampled underfoot to perish, which all tends to show a lack of knowledge or of co-ordination in the work. Our school grounds have yet to be laid out along proper landscape lines. A system where the adaptibility of the layout as well as that of the subjects for the purpose must be adopted to achieve success.

Only where trees and shrubs will serve a really useful purpose should they be planted in the lawns of school grounds. What are useful positions? Where are they? If a shrub planted near a grouping at the side of the lawn will in any way pleasingly accent the grouping or enhance its beauty such a specimen shrub may properly be planted. It must however, be planted closely to, and bear relationship to the major feature of the grouping so that it will harmonise. If such is the case, is it not folly to plant a shrub out in the centre of the lawn out of all association with the major plantings? For trees proper positions are where they will give shade just where needed. Also probably where they will serve as a background to the building and bring it into relief. If within the limits of the area to be beautiful deciduous trees can be planted so as to shade the ground near the school less radiation of heat will be possible during late spring and early summer and the school will be more comfortable for the children. A few well placed trees will suffice.

Evergreens are a great asset to rural school grounds. Planted as windbreaks, they exercise a moderating influence during stormy winter days keep the school cosy and cut down the expense of fuel. Rural schools should be protected from the prevailing winds of winter. Massed boundary plantings of evergreens will be more pleasing than straight lines, although the latter may be employed. Tall hedges are sometimes quite effective. Here again, the usefulness of the subjects is of cardinal importance. Evergreens beautify the winter's landscape as can nothing else and should be more generally used.

It is customarily preferred that the walks around the school should be of concrete; of whatever nature however it is best for them to be laid sufficiently far away from the base of the building to allow of foundation planting of shrubs. These shrub plantings soften the harsh lines of the foundation and serve as a link or medium to connect the school to its setting—the lawn with its plantings. They also give the impression of a school nestling into the earth, expressive of the care and thought of the trustees and teachers and of still greater importance is the influence upon the children who are educated therein.

The planting of only the hardiest and enduring types of shrubs and perennials is advised for rural school grounds. Often labor to properly maintain is not procurable, thus subjects which are at all fastidious in their cultural requirements or are not fully hardy should not be planted. In all the work of beautifying school grounds economy should be kept in mind.

In summing up the question of the beautifying of rural school grounds on Arbour Day every year we will surely be forced to the conclusion that it is work worth while.

Whether from the utilitarian or aesthetic viewpoints we study it we must agree that it is of great importance. If for economic reasons alone, however, we should plant trees and shrubs imparting as they do, coolness in summer and warmth in winter. Above all, however, they impart cheerfulness for they are not only useful but beautiful. Thus rural school grounds which are unbeautified are void of any example to stir the imagination of youth; are void of inspiration; are not suggestive of life and of beauty and so the best days of growing childhood are spent amid surroundings which are dull and drab and at this its most impressionable age.

UTAH MAN TO DIE BY FIRING SQUAD

Prisoner Who Slew Wife, Her Mother, and Uncle Has Avoided Death 5 Years.

TWO APPEALS.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, May 2 (U.P.).—Unless a plea of insanity or action by the board of pardon intervents, Delbert Green, 26, will die before the fire of a squad of riflemen here June 26.

The twice convicted and confessed slayer of his young wife, Gladys, her mother, Mrs. Delbert Green and James Green an uncle, was sentenced for the third time late yesterday at the tiny village of Farmington, county seat of the rural community, where the crime was committed.

A successful appeal to the State Supreme Court stayed execution the first time. At a second trial Green was convicted again, but once more an appeal gave him a lease on life, but in this instance the appeal was denied so Green automatically came up for re-sentencing.

In Utah, a condemned man has the choice of being hanged or shot. Green, however, refused to make a choice. The first time he was asked to name the method of execution he jokingly said, "Neither." The judge, thereupon, selected shooting for him.

For five years Green has avoided death through appeals. He has been an inmate of the state prison here during that time and is classed as a model prisoner.

The triple shooting occurred at Green's country home, January 4, 1930. He was arrested a few hours later in Ogden and readily admitted the crimes. Family troubles prompted the act, he said.

Janetville

On Friday evening April 26, the final crokinole party of a series was held in the primary rooms of the United Church under the auspices of the Women's Association. The successful winners of the game were Mrs. Wilfred Leslie and Mr. Frank Joblin. The proceeds amounted to $7.00.

The Young People's Society of Mount Horeb United Church was entertained by their public school teacher, Miss Marjorie Robinson at the home of her mother, Mrs. Thos. Robinson, Viewlake. There was a splendid attendance of young people and after the usual opening and devotional exercises the meeting was turned over to the literary and citizenship convenor, Mrs. Vincent Hickson. Mrs. Hickson had a delightful arrangement of music, games and contests which were thoroughly enjoyed by all. At the close of the evening, dainty refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Robinson and Miss Marjorie Robinson.

The Mission Band of the United Church are busily making arrangements for a social evening on Wednesday, May 8, when Miss Ruth Hamilton, R.N., of Bethany will be the guest speaker.

There's a cleanser we know as Old Dutch,
For both tubs and sinks there's none such,
Keeps sauce pans so bright,
For paint work it's right,
Try a can, the cost isn't much.

—Written by Mrs. E. Fraser, Peterboro, Ont.

Saimolite, one of the important ingredients in Old Dutch, is a fine, flaky, cleaning and polishing material and is so remarkable in its cleaning action that it makes Old Dutch unique in the service and satisfaction it gives. No other cleanser can equal Old Dutch because it is the only one made with pure saimolite.

You can use Old Dutch on any surface water will not harm. It doesn't scratch; cleans quicker; saves your time and energy.

Saves you money, too, because its flaky, flat-shaped particles cover more surface and do more square yards of cleaning per penny of cost. Try Old Dutch.

Write a limerick about Old Dutch on the back of an Old Dutch Cleanser label (or a reasonable facsimile) and send it to us. We will pay $5.00 in cash for each limerick which we publish and publication will include the writer's name and address. All limericks become the property of Cudahy Soap Works.

FIRE DESTROYED BEGLEY HOME

Two Bed-ridden Women Are Removed From Home in Early Morning.

FIVE HAVE NARROW ESCAPE

DOWNEYVILLE, May 3 (Examiner Correspondence). — Fire early this morning competely destroyed the frame home of Dennis Begley and his four sisters who reside near here. Mr. Begley and his sisters, two of whom are bed-ridden, had a narrow escape from death and would likely have perished but for the timely call of a neighbor who, being up early, noticed the flames.

The fire was first observed by Aphonse Fitzpatrick, Mr. Begley's neighbor, at 5.30, and he immediately phoned Mr. Begley, who was still in his bed and then sent in a general alarm. Neighbors gathered and were just in time to help Mr. Begley remove his two bed-ridden sisters, Miss Isabel and Miss Nellie. Both were carried out on their beds. The other two sisters, Miss Mary and Miss Annie, escaped in their night attire.

Althought a gallant effort was made to save some of the household furniture nothing could be rescued ,and Dennis Begley a brother who resides near, was almost overcome when trying to rescue some of the furniture from the flames. Trapped by the fire, he was forced to kick a window out and escape through it.

The cause of the fire is unknown as there was none in the house stoves at the time. No insurance was carried.

LUNENBURG, N.S., May 3 (CP)—Machine gun fire from the Royal Canadian Mounted Police cutter Acadian instantly killed William Tanner, 30, aboard his allegedly rum-running motorboat early today off Cross Island outside of Lunenburg Bay.

Tanner, at the wheel in the pilot house, was almost decapitated by the rain of bullets. Alton Mason, only other person on the powerful motorboat, escaped injury and is under arrest here. He comes from Eastern Points and Tanner was a native of Stonehurst, both near Lunenburg.

The fatality followed a chase off these shores. Tanner, it was said, failing to stop when challenged by the cutter. With the small craft speeding along after a shot had been fired across her bow, according to details first reported, a blast of machine gun fire tore through the pilot house window.

Killed instantly, Tanner crumpled over the wheel. The fact Mason was at the engine saved him from possible death or injury. He is being held under strict guard pending an inquest.

The grant for venereal disease clinics is unchanged at $21,250.

"We're not going to do for one what we don't do for another and everyone has to be treated the same," said Dr. Faulkner pointing out only a few municipalities received grants for school medical inspection and public health nurses.

In the fiscal year ending October 31, 1934, the grants totalled $34,720.20. Only 11 cities received grants which were: Brantford $900; Hamilton $2,749.40; Kitchener $1,350; North Bay $750; Oshawa $1,050; Port Arthur, St. Thomas, Woodstock and Stratford $750 each; Sarnia $900; Toronto $3,562.

LONDON, May 3 (C.P. Cable).—Governments of Great Britain, France and Italy are drafting an Air Locarno. This is the pact—providing for swift reprisals against aggression from the skies—contemplated in the Anglo-French communique of London, February 3, to which Italy subsequently subscribed.

The proposed signatories are the five signatories of the Locarno Treaty, Britain, France, Italy, Germany and Belgium. In one particular the Air Locarno now under preparation goes farther than the original Locarno Teatites. These guaranteed frontiers between France and Germany and Belgium and Germany. Britain and Italy appear in them merely as guarantors. They themselves are not guaranteed against aggression.

Original Guardians Of Quints Get $4,400

CALLANDER, Ont., May 3 (C.P.).—Original guardians of the Dionne quintuplets were to-day rewarded for their services in the interests of the babies. In a Surrogate Court order, Judge T. F. Battle awarded the former guardians $4,400.

The Judge gave his approval to the accounts presented by the guardians and paid tribute to their efforts. The former guardianship board consisted of W. H. Alderson, Red Cross official, Muskoka Beach; G. K. Morrisor, Callander merchant, and Oliver Dionne, grandfather of the babies. Dr. A. R. Dafoe was a guardian of "persons only."

Mr. Alderson, chief of the old guardians, was granted $2,500. Mr. Morrison received $1,000, and Oliver Dionne, guardian of the babes during the summer months last year, $400. Dr. Dafoe was ordered paid $500 in addition to the $200 monthly stipend he receives for medical services to the babies.

Sleet Storm Plays Havoc, West Ontario

(By The Canadian Press)

Driving rain which froze amost as soon as it fell on trees and poles, followed by strong winds, coated everything in Western Ontario with a silver sheen reminiscent of March rather than May and caused damage to communication lines to-day.

The Canadian National Telegraphs reported loss of 40 poles in the area around Stratford and eight telephone poles were down in the London district. Trees in and around Woodstock were damaged when buds and sometimes limbs were stripped off.

Shipping was tied up in the Hamilton harbor as waves 20 feet high broke over the pier. Galt and Brantford motorists also reported inclement weather. Rain was general throughout the province.

Five Are Nominated But Only Two Names Go To Convention

Bennett Dictatorship Is Assailed By Northumberland Member—Liberal Candidates In Surrounding Riding Give Short Addresses.

Joseph J. Duffus was nominated candidate of the Liberal party in the federal riding of Peterborough in a contest with Colonel John A. Dewart, M.C., at last night's convention in the Grand Opera House.

Neither the majority nor the total number of votes cast by the delegates was announced.

Dr. A. Moir, Hon. G. N. Gordon, K. C., and Alex L. Elliott were also proposed, but at their request their names were withdrawn from the ballot.

When Ernest L. Sackville, president of the Liberal Association, announced the result of the voting in the words, "J. J. Duffus will be our candidate", Colonel Dewart crossed the stage and shook hands with Mr. Duffus in a gesture of congratulation that was approved with a blast of applause from all over the house.

"I want to congratulate my good friend Mr. Duffus on being the choice of this convention," Colonel Dewart said. "We all know him and the type of citizen he is, and we can be certain that he will conduct the coming campaign in a clean, gentlemanly and energetic manner."

"So would you", one of the delegates interrupted.

"The result of the balloting has taken a great weight of responsibility off my shoulders," Col. Dewart continued. "I am sincerely happy in congratulating Mr. Duffus. I have been through one campaign, and I know that a candidate is worn out when it is all over. I ask each and every one of you to lighten the burden that Mr. Duffus has to carry, and to get behind him in this campaign."

Candidate's Acceptance

In accepting the nomination, with the closing speech of the night, Mr. Duffus said it was difficult for him to find words to express his appreciation of the confidence the delegates had placed in him.

"It is my desire to conduct the coming campaign in a manner that will uphold the traditions of the Liberal party, and the ideals of all the people whom you have chosen me to represent. This is not a one-man campaign. You are responsible for what has happened here to-night. I expect that I will receive the active support of those who voted for me, and I appeal to all those who voted for my good

LONDON, May 3.—(CP. Cable).—"I have said before and I repeat here, that among the men I have known some of the best have been kings," General Jan Smuts, South Africa's distinguished soldier and statesman, wrote in to-day's Spectator.

"You may go far among presidents and dictators to find human like them."

He refers to encounters with King Victor of Italy and the late King Albert of the Belgians and then, referring to King George, adds: "One never, with the king, has a sense of position, pose or pomp. The centre of the mightiest and most successful group that ever existed in history, he himself is simplicity itself, and that simple self is composed of sheer humanness, giving him a tact and sympathy and intuitive understanding of others which are real sources of strength."

Officials Been Carrying on Too Long With Inflated Idea of Their Credit.

TORONTO, May 3.—(CP)—Taxpayers must realize the Ontario government cannot carry on services on borrowed money, Minister of Health J. A. The grant for venereal disease clinics is unchanged at $21,250.

"We're not going to do for one what we don't do for another and everyone has to be treated the same," said Dr. Faulkner pointing out only a few municipalities received grants for school medical inspection and public health nurses.

In the fiscal year ending October 31, 1934, the grants totalled $34,730.20. Only 11 cities received grants which were: Brantford $900; Hamilton $2,740.40; Kitchener $1,350; North Bay $750; Oshawa $1,050; Port Arthur, St. Thomas, Woodstock and Stratford $750 each; Sarnia $900; Toronto $3,562.

BIG THREE BUSY UPON PLANS FOR AN AIR LOCARNO

Treaty Provides Swift Reprisals Against Any Aggression From the Skies.

EXTENDS GUARANTEES.

Proposals Exceed Present Pact to Protect Both Britain and Italy.

(By George Hambleton, Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

LONDON, May 3 (C.P. Cable).—Governments of Great Britain, France and Italy are drafting an Air Locarno. This is the pact—providing for swift reprisals against aggression from the skies—contemplated in the Anglo-French communique of London, February 3, to which Italy subsequently subscribed.

The proposed signatories are the five signatories of the Locarno Treaty, Britain, France, Italy, Germany and Belgium. In one particular the Air Locarno now under preparation goes farther than the original Locarno Teatites. These guaranteed frontiers between France and Germany and Belgium and Germany. Britain and Italy appear in them merely as guarantors. They themselves are not guaranteed against aggression.

Britain, Italy Included.

But in the Air Locarno protection against aggression is extended to both Italy and Britain.

CALLANDER, Ont., May 3 (C.P.).—Original guardians of the Dionne quintuplets were to-day rewarded for their services in the interests of the babes. In a Surrogate Court order, Judge T. F. Battle awarded the former guardians $4,400.

The Judge gave his approval to the accounts presented by the guardians and paid tribute to their efforts. The former guardianship board consisted of W. H. Alderson, Red Cross official, Muskoka Beach; G. K. Morrisor, Callander merchant, and Oliver Dionne, grandfather of the babies. Dr. A. R. Dafoe was a guardian of "persons only."

Mr. Alderson, chief of the old guardians, was granted $2,500. Mr. Morrison received $1,000, and Oliver Dionne, guardian of the babes during the summer months last year, $400. Dr. Dafoe was ordered paid $500 in addition to the $200 monthly stipend he receives for medical services to the babies.

Sleet Storm Plays Havoc, West Ontario

(By The Canadian Press)

Driving rain which froze amost as soon as it fell on trees and poles, followed by strong winds, coated everything in Western Ontario with a silver sheen reminiscent of March rather than May and caused damage to communication lines to-day.

The Canadian National Telegraphs reported loss of 40 poles in the area around Stratford and eight telephone poles were down in the London district. Trees in and around Woodstock were damaged when buds and sometimes limbs were stripped off.

Shipping was tied up in the Hamilton harbor as waves 20 feet high broke over the pier. Galt and Brantford motorists also reported inclement weather. Rain was general throughout the province.

Five Are Nominated But Only Two Names Go To Convention

Col. J. A. Dewart, M.C., And J. J. Duffus Two Nominees Placed Before Liberal Convention Of 900 Certified Delegates In Opera House.

ELECTION OF TORY GOVERNMENT IN OTTAWA MEANS LAST DEMOCRATIC VOTE FRASER SAYS

Bennett Dictatorship Is Assailed By Northumberland Member—Liberal Candidates In Surrounding Riding Give Short Addresses.

Joseph J. Duffus was nominated candidate of the Liberal party in the federal riding of Peterborough in a contest with Colonel John A. Dewart, M.C., at last night's convention in the Grand Opera House.

Neither the majority nor the total number of votes cast by the delegates was announced.

Dr. A. Moir, Hon. G. N. Gordon, K. C., and Alex L. Elliott were also proposed, but at their request their names were withdrawn from the ballot.

When Ernest L. Sackville, president of the Liberal Association, announced the result of the voting in the words, "J. J. Duffus will be our candidate", Colonel Dewart crossed the stage and shook hands with Mr. Duffus in a gesture of congratulation that was approved with a blast of applause from all over the house.

"I want to congratulate my good friend Mr. Duffus on being the choice of this convention," Colonel Dewart said. "We all know him and the type of citizen he is, and we can be certain that he will conduct the coming campaign in a clean, gentlemanly and energetic manner."

"So would you", one of the delegates interrupted.

"The result of the balloting has taken a great weight of responsibility off my shoulders," Col. Dewart continued. "I am sincerely happy in congratulating Mr. Duffus. I have been through one campaign, and I know that a candidate is worn out when it is all over. I ask each and every one of you to lighten the burden that Mr. Duffus has to carry, and to get behind him in this campaign."

Candidate's Acceptance

In accepting the nomination, with the closing speech of the night, Mr. Duffus said it was difficult for him to find words to express his appreciation of the confidence the delegates had placed in him.

"It is my desire to conduct the coming campaign in a manner that will uphold the traditions of the Liberal party, and the ideals of all the people whom you have chosen me to represent. This is not a one-man campaign. You are responsible for what has happened here tonight. I expect that I will receive the active support of those who voted for me, and I appeal to all those who voted for my good

GEN. JAN SMUTS PAYS TRIBUTE TO KING GEORGE

Says Ruler Simplicity Itself as Head of Mightiest, Most Successful Empire of History.

HAS TACT, SYMPATHY.

By THOMAS T. CHAMPION.
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

LONDON, May 3.—(CP. Cable).—"I have said before and I repeat here, that among the men I have known some of the best have been kings," General Jan Smuts, South Africa's distinguished soldier and statesman, wrote in to-day's Spectator.

"You may go far among presidents and dictators to find human like them."

He refers to encounters with King Victor of Italy and the late King Albert of the Belgians and then, referring to King George, adds: "One never, with the king, has a sense of position, pose or pomp. The centre of the mightiest and most successful group that ever existed in history, he himself is simplicity itself, and that simple self is composed of sheer humanness, giving him a tact and sympathy and intuitive understanding of others which are real sources of strength."

Twelve seats in St. Paul's Cathedral for the great Jubilee service Monday have been reserved for wounded soldiers, representative of the large mass of maimed humanity throughout the Empire. This pathetic platoon will comprise three commissioned officers and eight other ranks, with one army nurse. In addition 300 other wounded have seats in a special stand outside.

JOSEPH ALISERO DIES ON GALLOWS MONTREAL JAIL

Convicted of Killing Sweetheart, Stuffing Body in Rear of Car.

FINGERPRINTS GIVE CLUE.

Last Minute Appeal to Throne By Prisoner's Lawyer Fails.

MONTREAL, May 3 (C. P.). On the week-day which has come to have a fearful significance in the Province of Quebec criminal annals, another murder was avenged today. Joseph Alisero, who stuffed the body of Graziella Viens, his sweetheart, into the rumble seat of his car after he had killed her with pistol bullets, was hanged at Montreal Jail at 8 a.m.

In a vigorous attempt to save the condemned man's life, Alisero's counsel had made an appeal direct to the Throne. It was disclosed yesterday a cable had been sent King George seeking commutation on the occasion of the Jubilee, but the Royal prerogative was not exercised.

One morning last summer passersby were startled by blood that had oozed from the rumble seat of an automobile parked in a north-end street. When the seat was opened the body of the girl was found. Alisero told police he had lent the car to the girl, but knew nothing of her death.

Tell-tale fingerprint, however, was found on the side of the car, pressed into the dried blood. It was declared by experts to be that of Alisero.

The man was hopeful until the last few hours the death sentence would be commuted. When the last hope was gone he turned to religious consolation and was accompanied by a priest when he went calmly to the iron grating over the jail yard.

THREE KILLED AS FIERCE GALE RIPS KENTUCKY

Lightning Bolt is Responsible in Each Case—Power Off in Six Towns.

THOUSANDS IN DAMAGE.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 3.—(AP)—Storms that killed three persons as they roared eastward ripped into derby-bedecked Louisville today. Loss was estimated at thousands of dollars.

Power lines and trolley cables were severed. Partof Louisville, half a dozen nearby towns and Kentucky's capital, Frankfort, were without lights. Trees, shrubbery and derby festival decorations filled the streets. Churchill Downs was reported undamaged.

Mary Jane Floyd, 4, escaped unhurt when her home was shattered. Falling timber and bricks rumbled over her bed, but she was shielded by a heavy piece of furniture.

Bed Blown To Street

At Jasonville, Ind., Frona Gentry, 7, was given up for dead by her family when her home was destroyed. Then she was found in bed in the street where she had been blown without waking up.

Lightning caused the three Kentucky fatalities.

C. C. Bennett, 50, and Malcolm Flanigan, 31, were killed under a tree on Bennett's Henderson county farm. Thomas Spencer, 19, was hit on the neck by a bolt near Kevil, Ballard county.

FRANCE, RUSSIA SIGN AID PACT

Forge First Link in Proposed System of Treaties For European Peace.

CZECKS MAY JOIN

PARIS, May 3 (C.P.).—France and the Soviet Union were bound together to-day by a mutual assistance treaty giving teeth to the League of Nations covenant, thereby forging what is said to be the first link in a proposed system of treaties for the peace in Europe.

Foreign Minister Pierre Laval of France and Vladimir Potemkin, Soviet Union Ambassador, signed the important document yestreday in the Quai D'Orsay.

Czechoslovakia, it was said in well-informed circles, will probably join the agreement soon, and it is hoped it may serve as a model for a whole system of such pacts.

Reports from Warsaw indicate Poland will seek an explanation from Foreign Minister Laval of just how she will be safeguarded by her non-aggression treaties with Russia and Germany and her military alliance with France if the troops of some neighboring nation wish to cross her territory.

100,000 Evergreens Planted In District

With the object of beautifying highways throughout the province the Department of Highways in co-operation with the Forestry Branch is planting trees at diversions, old gravel pits and on the top of cuts and fills.

It was stated by an official of the Forestry Branch that 100,000 trees are being planted in the Port Hope residency, which includes the highways in Peterborough and district.

A plantation having a combined area of 10-acres has been set out on Highway 7, five and six miles east of this city, with pine and spruce saplings. Other trees have been planted on Highway 7 beyond the Ohemong turn; in an old gravel pit near Omemee; and also on Highway 28 between Peterborough and Bewdley and in the immediate vicinity of the Scriven's monument south of Bewdley.

Trees have all been obtained from the Forestry Branch at Orono, and it was stated by an official that farmers may obtain trees free of any cost, for shelter belts and windbreaks around their farms.

BLOODY REVOLT IN PHILIPPINES COSTS 49 LIVES

Trouble Makers Demand Immediate Independence From U.S. Rule.

COMMUNISTS ACTIVE.

MANILA, May 3.—(AP)—Bloody outbreaks and disorders in a sudden uprising against the projected new Philippine commonwealth left a trail of at least 49 dead today in two provinces.

At least 47 were known dead in a clash between constabulary and the extremists at Cabuyao in Laguna province, southeast of here.

The Sakadlistas, who rioted, favor independence for the Philippines and oppose the leadership of senate President Manuel Quezon. Under the Independence Act of the United States congress the Philippines must go through a 10-year transitional period before obtaining freedom. A plebiscite for ratification of the commonwealth constitution will be held May 14.

Order was restored at Cabuyao late today, the constabulary reported, only after bitter fighting in which 47 were killed and 40 more wounded.

Work of Reds

Reports showed the Sakadlistas, who officials charge have communistic leanings, actually controlled three towns for short periods during the night. These were Cabuyao and Santa Rosa and San Idlefonso.

Constabulary officials declared some of the Sakdalista rank and file recently contributed $1.50 each

GERMANY GETS GIRL SPY BACK

Exchanges Polish Baron Responsible for Beheading of 2 Titled Women.

AGENTS BOTH IN HIDING.

(Copyright, 1935, by the A. P.)

BERLIN, May 3.—(AP)— Baron George Sosnowski, Polish spy whose machinations resulted in the beheading of two women of noble birth with whom he was associated, has been exchanged for Germany's beautiful young espionage agent, Theodora Ogurek, it was learned today.

The exchange was understood to have taken place nine days ago but the movements of the couple have been enveloped in gratest secrecy because of fear for their safety.

To the 20-year-old peasant girl, the exchange meant reunion with her husband, Ernest Dragga, whom she has not seen since their prison marriage the night before she went on trial in Warsaw.

For Sosnowski, release meant a period of hiding even from his friends and relatives. Even Sosnowski's parents do not know of his whereabout but it was learned he is not far from Warsaw biding his time until it may again appear safe for him to appear in public.

Statement on Ottawa Parley Await Result of Their Report.

Hepburn Proposes to Spend $4,000,000 Between Pembroke and Manitoba.

OTTAWA, May 3.—(CP).— Department of Labor engineers to-day went to work on problems connected with Ontario's proposal to employ 5,000 men and spend about $4,000,000 on a highway project between Pembroke and the Manitoba boundary.

Definite decision on resumption of work on the Trans-Canada Highway in Northern Ontario and elsewhere in the province was deferred yesterday after conferences between Minister of Labor Wesley A. Gordon, Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn of Ontario, and Hon. Peter Heenan, his minister of northern development.

Progress is Made.

Following yesterday's conversation in which Minister of Railways R. J. Manion joined for a while it was said marked progress had been accomplished. An official statement was withheld, however, pending examiantion by engineers of Ontario's proposals which were understood to be based on the presumption the Dominion would go 50-50 in footing the bill.

It was said this was not the only scheme Ontario had in mind to give men work and that further proposals were under consideration.

Premier Hepburn and Mr. Heenan went home last night. The official statement is expected within a day or two.

MANY PEOPLE are astonished to find that the Ford V-8 interior actually has more head room, shoulder room and leg space than many "big" cars. That's why the V-8 is such a splendid family car. Seats are inches wider (front seats 4 ins. to 5½ ins.) so that three people can ride on either front or rear seat. Doors are inches wider too, permitting easier entrance and exit.

The new forward position of the V-8 engine, new distribution of passenger weight and the new springs, effect a marvellously easy ride. Roominess and riding comfort are matched by elegantly styled body lines, rich appointments and exterior and interior finishes. The economical Ford V-8 engine gives the performance you would only expect in an automobile costing several times as much. In fact, to get a V-8 engine in any other car you have to pay $3500 or more.

Carley, Howard Quinn, James Hawthorne, Nelson Parliament, Liberal organizer in Ontario.

An Historic Convention.

In its thoruogh organization, primarily to secure equitable representation of every section of the riding, was of special interest to the men and women who came as delegates from the city and adjoining townships, from Lakefield, as even from the northwestern part of the county. The efficient operation of the details for receiving the delegates, who were appointed by credentials from their polling sub-divisions, and the precise arrangements for the receiving and counting of ballots, were obvious evidence of both the ability of the executive, led by Mr. Sackville, with Colonel Dewart as vice-president, T. J. Carley secretary, and Alex L. Elliott as treasurer.

It was the first Liberal convention in recent times to be conducted by representative delegates, and the members of the executive received from every speaker praise in superlative terms for the work they had performed. The large audience, virtually filling the theatre into the top gallery, was spirited and enthusiastic, and apparently approved of the manner in which the executive had fulfilled the "new deal" form of convention which was adopted at the last annual meeting of the Asscnation.

Mr. Sackville informed the delegataes that R. R. Hall, K.C., had sent his regret that owing to a recent illness he was unable to attend the convention.

"I know you all appreciate the splendid work Mr. Hall has done on all occasions in the part for the Liberal party," the chairman said, and his reference to Mr. Hall was roundly applauded.

List of Scrutineers.

The scrutineers were Harlan Keefer, E. B. Fowler, H. T. Hickey, Keith Lech, Walter Perks, Dr. J. F. O'Brien, Dr. C. H. Fulford, Fred Whatley, Wm. Mellis, Alderman James Ellis, H. R. Nagar of Lakefield and Fred J. Overend.

Cyril Rice led in the community singing with which the convention opened on a ringing note of harmony; and during the counting of ballots several vocal numbers were sung by the Liberal quartette, composed of Mr. Rice, first tenor, Albert Radford, second tenor, Ronald Fleming, baritone, and John Ridyard, bass. They were accompanied at the piano by Miss Dorothy Whatley. Mr. Fleming also contributed as a solo "On the Road to Mandalay."

Visiting Candidates.

The address of the several candidates to the convention were brief and modest, and during the counting of the ballots Mr. Sackville introduced the candidates from the neighboring ridings, the first time in the procedure of local Liberal conventions that plans perceived the community of interests and modern proximity of the group of counties that have brought into close touch by provincial highways and the motor car.

Rork Perguson, looking as genial and solid as in the days of his wardenship here, was the first of the group of visitors who are carrying the Liberal standard in their constituencies. Mr. Perguson's political destinies are cast in the extensive and rambling riding of Hastings-Peterboro.

"As a farmer I can't help but look on the conditions in this country from the standpoint of the farmer's prospects," Mr. Perguson said. "When you compare conditions with what they were five years ago, you find that the prices for farm products have decreased from one-half to one-third, but for the things he buys the farmer has to pay just about the same prices as in 1930.

The farmer is the greatest employer of labor, and he is the consumer of manufactured goods. When his income is cut from one-half to one-third while the cost of the goods he has to buy remains about the same, you find the conditions which are existing today. Many of the farmers who were comfortable five years ago have mortgages on their places today.

When we can bring about a freer exchange of goods with other countries and a more favorable tariff I believe that conditions will rectify themselves, but that won't be until we have a Liberal government at Ottawa, and then I believe we will have prosperous times again. If you do your part I feel sure you will have a Liberal representative at Ottawa."

W. F. Rickard of Newcastle, ex-Warden of the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham, remarked that the people of Canada had an experience with the promises of the Hon. R. B. Bennett five years ago which they had not forgotten and were not likely to forget when the Bennett government decides to go back to the people this year.

Bruce McNevin

Introduced by T. J. Carley, Liberal candidate in Victoria-Haliburton in 1930, Bruce McNevin said the presence of so many was an encouraging sign.

"I don't think there is any class of people in Canada who have suffered more from the depression than our women," Mr. McNevin affirmed. "They are the heads of the homes, the family worries are theirs, and when there is little money coming in it is the mother who has to scrape and manage to obtain the things which she knows her children need. In that respect I believe the mothers of this country have suffered far more than most people realise, and for their sake alone we should do everything to lift this depression."

Until the final stage of the Bennett government had been reached, the interests of the farmer and the laborer had been seriously neglected by the government at Ottawa, Mr. McNevin said.

"But, if you look into the statistics you find according to the Toronto Telegram that in 1929 there were 662 millionaires in Canada, and after five years of depression our number of millionaires has increased to 1227, an increase of 615 during that time. This increase alone is more than all the millionaires who had been created in Canada previously as far back as Confederation."

Mr. McNevin declared that the Bennett government had failed in its responsibility to the cattle producers of this country by rejecting a proposed agreement with Russian that would have given an outlet for 100,000 head of cattle.

"As a result of the communist policy in Russia and the government taking the products of the farms, the producers naturally decided that a cow or two was all they needed, and the number of cattle was greatly reduced. If we could have sold them 100,000 cows a year for twenty years, and if they had not slaughtered any of them, they still wouldn't have built up a supply that would let them export one head.

Why was that deal turned down? That is one of things the cattle producers will take into consideration when they are making their ballots this year. We offered gasoline in payment for the cattle, and it would have been laid down at five cents a gallon at Montreal. Add six cents a gallon for transportation into Ontario, and we could have gasoline here at fifteen cents. It was a common sense agreement, and it should have received more consideration than it did at the hands of the Bennett government.

As the candidate in the next riding to the west I will be willing to co-operate in any way I can with you."

W. A. Fraser, M.P.

W. A. Fraser, M. P., Trenton, warmly congratulated the executive and the delegates on the large numbers and the keen spirit reflected in their convention. Liberal meetings everywhere were being largely attended, he said, indicating that the people were fully aroused to what had taken place at Ottawa during the last five years. He directed a special appeal to the women and young people to study the political situation, and to remember that Liberal policies put into effect by Liberal governments at Ottawa had always been productive of prosperity.

"With 500,000 unemployed, and a million and a quarter of our people on relief they have reached the dead line of optimism," Mr. Fraser stated. "They have shown more forbearance, they have taken it on the chin better than might have been expected, and they are only waiting for the opportunity to put their 'X' opposite the name of Liberal candidates and vote the Bennett government out of office."

Abriding to a scant ten minutes his reference to the trend toward fascism and dictatorship in legislation which he said had been brought down by the Bennett government, Mr. Fraser said that if the Marketing Act came into full force it meant nothing more than the regimentation of the producers of primary products in Canada.

"I have time only to warn you tonight and to beg of you to study the proposals of this Act which means that a form of dictatorship with political friends of the Government appointed to tell you what you shall grow and where you shall sell your goods. It means such control over your business and your production that you can be sent to jail for selling honest, Canadian products, if you don't do what some Board of dictators tells you. The danger is that this regimentation will be put over the people before they realise the seriousness of it.

Mr. Bennett said in Montreal that the open market was gone and the profit motive was gone. Mr. Bennett the Tory says these things and then he would apply regimentation to the lives and the actions of Canadian people. Study this legislation, and see where we are drifting. The reason why I am trying to impress this on you is because we as Canadians are confronted with this fact that if we elect a Tory government at Ottawa this year it may be the last time you will cast a democratic vote.

Under the Tory dictatorship that has already appeared in this legislation you can be told what you shall do, and you can be sent to jail if you don't do it. It means that if I sell my apples to some one in the way I have always been selling them, and the way you have sold your produce, but some one the appointed board of dictators to control this primary business says I can't sell them to that person, they can actually send me to jail.

That is why I ask you to study the Marketing Act and what it is leading to in this country. The continued freedom of the individual and of our Canadian democracy depends on the defeat of Bennett and his satellites. Never mind the internal quarrells of Mr. Bennett and Mr. Stevens. Of the two I'd rather Bennett, At least he is safe."

A BARBER WHO HAD RHEUMATISM

Tells How He Carried On

A barber who had been "a martyr to rheumatism" writes:—

"I have been a martyr to rheumatism for some ten years. For five years I was so affected that it was with the greatest difficulty I was able to carry on my business. I may say I am a barber by trade. After having tried numerous remedies, I was finally advised to try Kruschen. I am pleased to say that after having used Kruschen for some twelve months I am now freer from aches and pains than I have been for some ten years. In fact, I consider I am rid of rheumatism, thanks to Kruschen Salts."—W. M.

Two of the ingredients of Kruschen Salts are the most effectual solvents of uric acid known to medical science. They swiftly dull the sharp edges of the painful crystals, then convert them into a harmless solution. Other ingredients of these Salts have a stimulating effect upon the kidneys, and assist them to expel the dissolved uratic needles through the natural channel.

Charge Reds Invading Coast High Schools

VANCOUVER, May 3 (C.P.). — Charges of interference by Communist agents in affairs of the Vancouver High School Students' League were added to-day to the Vancouver strike situation, precipitated by 2,000 relief camps workers quitting their posts and trekking to the city.

William Preece, president, and Gordon Gray, secretary, handed in their resignations to the Students' League immediately after making charges of Communist interference. They declared their resignations were submitted because Communists were attempting to use the League for their own purpose.

In announcing their resignations, the two students declared they had nothing to do with Wednesday's May Day strike when a number of High School students were absent from classes, presumably to take part in a May Day demonstration organized in connection with the relief camp strikers in Vancouver.

REV C. D. DANIELS IS GUEST SKEAKER

Addresses Final Meeting of St. John's Men's Club at Campbellford.

CAMPBELLFORD, May 3. (Examiner Correspondence). — About sixty members and guests attended the final meeting for the season of the Men's Club, which was held in the school hall of St. John's United Church on Thursday evening.

After a delicious supper served by the ladies of the church, during which George Luey led in community singing the president, Stewart Nelsons introduced the speaker of the evening, the Rev. Charles D. Daniel of Peterborough and well known throughout this district as a former minister of the Seymour charge.

Mr. Daniel opened his remarks by stating that it was always a pleasure for him to visit in Campbellford; a real happy experience. It was just like coming back home. He thought that men's clubs in connection with the church were a grand thing. Men must look to the minister; he is the key man and the men are the links around him. A minister is not supposed to have any particular friends and there are many ways that men can help their pastor in the way of bringing people to church.

"It pays to advertise" said the speaker. "If your church is doing anything in particular, go out and tell the people. There are many families not attending church. Do you know why? Because no one ever has asked them. There's a job which every layman can do. It is almost impossible for the preacher to get out and see all the people. My own job is going out to see people who are away from the church."

Mr. Daniel also laid great stress on the power of prayer and cited many instances which had come under his observation. "If you have found Jesus Christ your own personal Saviour you can accomplish things and to save a soul early in your life was one of the greatest."

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered by S. A. Maguire, seconded by David Wilson and conveyed to the speaker by President Nelson, for his most interesting and inspiring address which was a challenge to men to exemplify their religion in their daily lives. During the evening George Lucy, in splendid voice, sang 'Friend O'Mine" (Sanderson) accompanied by Albert Hazell. Harvey Donald moved a vote of thanks to the ladies for the excellent supper, stating that each group of ladies who had charge of these affairs seemed to try to do a little better than the previous ones and that the final supper for the Men's Club for the season was a masterpiece.

ONTARIO GRAIN.

TORONTO, May 3. — Approximate prices track shipping point:

Wheat 87c to 89c, oats 35c to 37c, barley 43c to 45c, corn 58c to 61c rye 53c to 54c, buckwheat 47c to 49c, malting barley 65c to 69c.

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, May 3. — Prices were steady to slightly easier on the Montreal Dairy and Produce Market yesterday, with grading generally quiet. The butter market was quoted at 23¼c to 23½c pound for carlots or less of No. 1, with small lots to retailers at 23¼c to 24c and 24½c to 25c for solids and prints, respectively. Receipts were 389 boxes.

No. 1 Ontario cheese was down ¼ of a cent at 19½c to 19¾c a pound for current arrivals. Offerings amounted to 1,976 boxes.

On the egg market graded shipments in carlots or less were quoted at 19½c to 20c a dozen for A-large, 17½c to 18c for A-medium, 17c to 17½c for B and 16c to 16½c for C. A total of 2,331 cases was offered for sale.

No. 1 Green Mountain potatoes continued at 40c for Quebecs, 50c for New Brunswicks, and 55c for Prince Edward Islands, in 80-pound bags.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, May 3. — Beneficial rain and snow in the spring wheat territory brightened crop prospects and dampened the spirit of wheat buyers here yesterday. As a result wheat prices lost about a cent and corn almost as much.

Private trade advices indicated that current and recent precipitation in both wheat and corn territory had materially relieved the crisis coincident with dearth of subsoil moisture reserve in some drought sections of the North-west. Although holding up seeding of the 1935 crop to some extent, the moisture will more than make up for this by replenishing the reserve, commentators said.

Rallying from a maximum overnight drop of nearly 2c, wheat closed ½c to 1½c below Wednesday's finish, July 97-97½c, and corn was ¾c to ⅞c off, July 83⅞c-84c. Oats lost ⅝c to 1c, and barley was unchanged to 1c down.

Traces of rainfall were reported at south-western "dust bowl" points but it was pointed out that crops in much of that territory were beyond recovery. Weakness in foreign markets and in silver acted as a drag on wheat. May wheat liquidation was in evidence and deliveries on contracts totalled 562,000 bushels. Commission houses supported the market at around 97c for July. Minneapolis May wheat continued to display relative strength, at times showing a premium of 17½c over the Chicago quotation.

Corn for the most part followed wheat, although the demand for the cash article improved. Provisions were higher, reflecting a gain in hog prices.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, May 3. — Rains beneficial to wheat crops resulted in minor impairment of the price structure on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange yesterday. Futures closed ⅝c to ¼c lower, May at 87¼c and July at 89¼c.

General moisture that fell over the spring and winter wheat areas of the United States and in Western Canada led to sharp declines at Chicago and Liverpool, but lack of trading interest locally restricted losses.

Contributing to the lethargy here was the lack of a broad foreign demand for Canada's wheat, and with yesterday's sales comprising but a few scattered lots, upon which no figure was placed, most traders avoided commitments.

Liverpool finished 1d to ¼d lower, and Chicago was off 1¼c. Buenos Aires was down fractionally. Cash grains were quiet, generally easing fractionally better, and coarse grains followed the trend of wheat.

TREES ALONG THE HIGHWAYS.

The program of tree-planting that is to be done along the provincial highways in Ontario by the Department of Highways in co-operation with the Ontario Forestry branch, will appeal to most people as good business.

By this means many unattractive sections along the route of the provincial road system will be made much more attractive, the intention being to plant evergreens at all such points, and in a few years their appearance will have been transformed.

The Forestry Department has available large numbers of young trees, and the decision to use some of the surplus stock for this purpose will be heartily approved.

One of the unavoidable consequences of modern road building with the wider driving surface demanded by motor vehicular traffic has been that many fine trees have necessarily had to be sacrificed, and the program now announced will do something to offset these losses.

The fact that in our own immediate districts some one hundred thousand evergreens are to be planted indicates that the scheme is to be carried out on a big scale.

Ontario's highways, already the admiration of visitors from outside the province, will be made all the more attractive because of this extensive tree-planting program.

THE BUSINESS OUTLOOK.

According to Canadian Business for May, although only preliminary data are available, it is probable that business activity in Canada during April was on a slightly higher level than at any time since recovery set in two years ago.

While final figures may alter the picture, the upswing since March, 1933, the organ of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce finds has been particularly impressive in that no serious lapse has occurred.

The chart in the May issue of the magazine shows that business activity in Canada for the past year has been characterized by a high degree of stability, which stands out in sharp contrasts to the broad swings which have featured the recent course of business in the United States.

The index of business activity of March of this year stood at 87.3 in Canada, as against 81.2 in the United States.

Satisfactory as is the April showing, however there is in the latest survey made by Canadian Business a somewhat pessimistic note.

The magazine is inclined to regard the future with some degree of concern.

With the prospect of increased Government intervention, the path of recovery may be less smooth, it fears.

Then added to this domestic threat to our business well-being is the continued stagnation in world trade and the improbability that Europe will give further stimulus to expansion in this country while an international currency war looms on the horizon.

BARRING THE PRESS.

The unusual course followed by Attorney-General Roebuck in refusing to permit reporters to be present at the execution of Harold Vermilyea is not one, The Examiner feels, upon which that official is to be commended.

We believe that the Attorney-General would have been quite safe in trusting to the judgment of the press, and that the presence of reporters would not have resulted in the publishing of any gruesome or harrowing details.

As a matter of fact, the stories that did appear in the newspapers were probably just about as detailed as if representatives of the press had been in the jail yard; the only difference being that the reporters had to depend upon second-hand information for their accounts of the execution, and the authenticity that marks the work of trained newspaper men was lacking as a consequence.

With the exception of the two Salvation Army officers who were the prisoners spiritual advisors, only a handful of officials was in attendance at the hanging, and we submit that the absence of representatives of the press and of members of the coroner's jury was not a desirable thing, inasmuch as it made possible the circulation of the wildest kind of rumors.

Few newspaper men have any personal desire to be an eye-witness of a legal execution, and certainly a reporter who has been called upon to attend such a function would not care to repeat the experience, but those who are assigned to be present on an occasion of this kind are merely doing their jobs, unpleasant as the task may be, and serving as the eyes of the public.

THE STRIKE IS SETTLED.

Premier Hepburn's firm attitude has brought the Crowland Township relief strike to an end, and upon that happy culmination the head of the Ontario Government deserves hearty commendation.

The situation in the Crowland area was becoming intolerable, and it was necessary that decisive measures should be taken to remind the strikers and the agitators whose advice precipitated the trouble that law and order must be observed in this country, and that mob law cannot be countenanced.

Mr. Hepburn's first visit to the scene of the strike resulted in the strikers deciding to return to work for a week, but in announcing that decision they declared that if the Government did not give them what they wanted they would promptly resume the strike at the end of the week.

The Premier refused to be bluffed; on the contrary he promptly returned to Crowland Township, and in language that nobody could misunderstand, he told the strikers that the Government did not propose to allow ultimatums of that nature to be delivered. There would be no consideration of the strikers' requests, he declared, unless the men went back to work and remained on the job.

The strike committee has now notified Queen's Park that the trouble is over, that the strikers are working, and will continue to do so, and now the Government will devote some attention to the conditions with a view to eliminating grievances, if this course is found possible.

While it is not to be expected that Mr. Hepburn should have to give his personal attention to all such problems as this, his handling of the unpleasant situation in Crowland Township was a useful job, well done, and the effect should be beneficial in other areas.

AT THE END OF IT ALL—WHAT?

In the minds of most men to-day there must be one thought, or hope. The hope that they live to see how the world emerges from the tribulations of these years. Our whole outlook upon things, our attitude toward life, has changed almost incredibly. Hardly a day now but sees adoption of some new policy or creed or proposal, the creation of some new agency, which, only a few years ago, would have been unthinkable. A nation of professed individualists, we embark upon a career of paternalism, set up boards, bureaus and commissions with an adventurous abandon. What the cost of it all is to be, or the consequences, no one seems to know, or to greatly care.

For centuries men have believed that certain biological laws governed life. They held that certain natural forces and laws could not be defied, that specific economic consequences followed specific economic action, that such things as trade and prices and employment depended upon supply and demand. What is believed now, or what seems to be believed, is the opposite. It has come to be thought, or thought by a majority, that there can be such a thing as a planned economy, that natural laws and forces may be controlled, that existence can be charted and card-indexed, that society can be graded and regimented into better living. Whether the new thought is right, with all of history wrong, only those who live in coming generations will know.

There are those who confess skepticism. They believe, and with something of reason, that natural forces must continue to operate, that not all of man's wit nor resolution can overcome nor much change those biological rules which have seemed to govern existence. Planned economy, so much on the lips of reformers these days, they regard as a delusion. Pointing to the truth that the basic needs of life depend almost entirely upon natural forces—upon such things as sun and rain—they hold up this as the answer to all plans, as the certainty of their failure. In all efforts towards control they see little but futility.

Whether these skeptics be right or wrong, this must be said: that, the world being what it is to-day, or government what it is, their fatalism must be ignored. For while many may believe that the speediest and most effective cure of the present depression would be in society's abandonment of its chief victims, such a policy is unthinkable. For better or for worse, we have adopted the creed that we are our brother's keeper, that the old doctrine of the survival of the fittest must be put away. And whatever history may tell of these times, whatever errors of mind it may point to, it will scarcely be able to tell that humanity in these years lacked in good intentions, or in a spirit of brotherhood. All of these things we are trying, the boards and bureaus we are setting up, the agencies we tax ourselves for, the plans and charts and graphs that rain upon us, the bureaucrats that rise upon to regulate our living—all evidence one thing. They evidence a more humane spirit among men, a groping for more of justice, a greater compassion and pity for our kind.

Therefore, while many among us may be skeptical of the wisdom of much that is being tried, or frankly dislike what is being tried, let none of us become embittered or too pessimistic. If life at best be a hard campaign with some lost battles, and if Utopia be but a dream, that should not mean refusal to strive for betterment, nor even refusal to greet fresh hopes with a spirit of tolerant inquiry. It may all end in futility and failure, in defeat and disillusionment, but, if so, what of it? Even in failure, where there has been great effort, there is something fine and gallant.—Ottawa Journal.

THEY SLEEP ALL NIGHT!

Now and then we read something more about the Dionne children. About the squabbles of Dionne himself or his manager with the Provincial Government we care little. About the little girls we care much.

We find they have left off their nursing bottles and that seems right enough. If they are going to grow up and be famous the time had to come when the bottles would be discarded.

Five times a day are they fed, but the keen edge is taken off two of those sessions by the inclusion of cod-liver oil. Perhaps they have some new-fangled way of giving it, but taken raw and straight it always left the feeling of a mouthful of fish fat. Not at all pleasant.

But here is the point where we became interested. Dr. Dafoe says the children are tucked into their cots at 6 in the evening and sleep for 12 hours. Rarely do they waken during the night.

Now after reading that we do not care what the visiting specialists may say, nor are we to be interested about what Dionne or his manager or his secretary or his wife may think. When one baby goes to bed at 6 and sleeps 12 hours it is fine and good. When five babies do the same thing it is nothing short of marvelous. Not one of them with a safety pin out of place, not one of them with a little gas on the stomach that needs to be eased off, not one of them doing a little orchestration in the middle of the night. Never before have we heard of such a thing. Deep admiration crowds in and suppresses any and all criticism or words of advice.—Stratford Beacon-Herald.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The circus to-night should be a revelation of the beneficial results of physical training as provided in the local Y.M.C.A.

Out of sixty-three persons charged in sixty cases of manslaughter in Toronto courts last year, only two went to jail. That is a record that throws some doubt upon the sureness of Canadian justice.

Peterborough's observance of the silver jubilee of His Majesty King George should be an impressive and memorable occasion, particularly for the hundreds of children who will take an active part.

Accident figures for March afford no reason for Ontario to feel that its driving technique is improving. There were increases all along the line as compared with the same month a year ago.

50 new Government bureaus are to help spend President Roosevelt's 4 billion dollar fund. At least the scheme will provide work for a small army of voters.

You see, the poor haven't enough credit to stay four months behind with their bills.—Brandon Sun.

UNNECESSARY NOISES

The Editor of The Examiner,

Sir,—May I be permitted space of a few lines to protest against the unnecessary racket made by trains operating nightly within the city.

How long is the slumber of residents in close vicinity of railroad tracks to be nightly disturbed by the insane and melancholy tolling of bells and the thoughtless hooting of train whistles?

True, railroaders have regulations to abide by, which possibly stipulate that bells and whistles must be sounded upon approaching open crossings, yet it would appear that engineers might well exercise a little commonsense in their interpretation of such rules, particularly at night time when vehicular traffic is at a minimum, and when people who were working while the engineer was in his bed, are trying to get their sleep.

Why for instance should there be any necessity for the clanging of bells and the shrieking of whistles on that section of the C.N.R. line immediately south of Brock street and on into the freight yards, which is, I believe I am right in stating, enclosed by gated crossings on its entire length? Yet invariably around one o'clock each morning a freight train pulls in from the direction of Lindsay and shunting operations are accompanied by an unholy din and clamor to the disturbance, undoubtedly, of a large number of residents.

What's in the Name of Canadian Cities and Towns?

by FRANK H. WILLIAMS

MERRITT, BRITISH COLUMBIA

The first settler in this thriving community was Jesus Garcia, a California Spaniard, who had been a packer on the old Cariboo trail during the gold rush in the sixties and who, in company with other packers had wintered his animals in this vicinity on account of the favorable grazing conditions.

He settled here as a rancher about 1868 and was followed by other ranchers. By 1883 there was talk of building a railroad to open the coal deposits which were known to exist. This led to the establishment of a small settlement at the confluence of the Nicola and Coldwater rivers, which was appropriately named Forksdale.

Some time later a charter for the Nicola, Kamloops and Similkamen railroad was applied for one of the original applicants being Col. William Hamilton Merritt of Ontario, for whom the town was named.

Merritt is the centre of a sportsmen's paradise, in addition to which it is the headquarters of a large agricultural area.

TUNE IN!

TUNE IN ON LIFE!

If you don't, you'll be sorry. You'll wish you had. You'll ask yourself when it's too late: "What was I doing while life was going on? Why was I so dull, so foolish as not to realize that life can be profitable and exciting if one has the courage to make it so? Why DIDN'T I have more sense?

There are some who fear love—and it CAN bring wracking pain to the tortured heart, but it can bring sweetest joy, as well. It may not last, you may not be wise enough or strong enough to love as you should, but you must not be so foolish as to fear it and deny it.

There are married ones who have no children. They insist their love for each other is enough—and they have work to do and their own lives to live, and children would hamper them. But men outlive their little chores, and the treasures that seem so precious in the arrogant days of youthful strength dry up and blow away and they are left empty.

But children give completeness to a life, and even the mother who has lost her beloved and only child does not regret the pain of its birth or any worry and trouble it has caused her. She would rather have had that child and lost it than never to have had it at all—she looks with pitying pride at women who are not so wise as she.

And as you accept the gravely beautiful parts of life, so, too, you must accept foolishness, its triviality, its nonsense. You must do silly things and not regret them too much. You cannot live forever in deadly fear of "what people might think." Part of you must still be young and absurd. Because if you grow altogether old, some of the green goes out of life.

You'll make mistakes. You'll be ridiculous. You'll be cheated, annoyed, fooled and frightened and hurt—but if you tune in on life, if you tune in on every bit of living that comes your way, it'll never be said of you that you wasted your life. You'll have done more than Put in Time....You'll have Lived and you'll not regret it.

Your Health

By DR LOGAN CLENDENING

In reviewing the many methods of diagnosis used by the modern physician, we have done this week, we have been able to do barely more than mention a great many of the most useful ones. But it must be evident that the most useful of all methods are those which depend upon the sense of sight.

There have not been many blind doctors in the world who have been active. I can recall only one—the late Dr. Babcock of Chicago, who had so trained his sense of hearing to compensate for his blindness that he was able to make uncanny diagnoses in the department in which hearing is important—that of the hearts and lungs. For most of us sight is the most active and accurate sense, and it is here that the skin specialists have the great advantage over everyone else, because they can see exactly the diseased condition.

Some of the most remarkable developments in diagnosis have been the methods which have extended the sense of sight so that portions of the body ordinarily hidden have been brought to view. In a sense the X-ray is nothing more than an uncanny magical extension of the sense of sight, dealing with opacities and comparative densities, rather than with color.

One of the earliest of these extensions of sight for purposes of diagnosis was made in 1851 when Helmholtz invented the ophthalmoscope, by which he was able to look into the back of the living eye. It is simply the reflection of a ray of light into the back of the eye with a simultaneous observation of the objects thus illuminated. But it is a wonderful help in every field of medicine, to every form of specialty, because nowhere else can we see the minute and middle-sized blood vessels so plainly shown. Helmholtz has recorded his emotions when he knew he was the first to view the inside of the living human eye, and it must have been an exciting moment, as indeed it was a very- fruitful discovery.

Looks Into Throat

Not long afterward, a singing master, Manuel Garcia, conceived the idea of looking into the vocal cords by reflected light on a dental mirror in the back of the throat.

These two discoveries practically founded the specialities of the eye and the throat. It is astonishing that they were not thought of before. We remember that so comparatively short a time ago as the period of the death of George Washington, that great man died of a throat complaint, and yet none of his attending physicians had the initiative to attempt to look inside his open mouth to see if they could see the trouble.

Looking inside eye with ophthalmoscope

Similar to the ophthalmoscope and the laryngoscope is the otoscope, with which we can look into the ear drum and deduce conditions of the middle ear.

A whole series of instruments have been invented for looking into cavities of the body ordinarily hidden. These work on the principle of the periscope, with an electric light on the end and a series of reflecting mirrors through a narrow tube. With them we can view the lining of the bronchi, of the stomach, of the lower bowel, and of the bladder.

Along the same lines as the extension of sight, we have methods of diagnosis which depend upon transillumination—the illumination of body cavities in a dark room. This gives valuable information in diseases of the nose, and it has lately been extended to the abdomen. The light being placed in the bladder and in a dark room, the entire contents of the abdomen are vividly outlined.

ON THIS DATE

A DAY IN CANADIAN HISTORY

By Fred Williams

On this date (May 3) in 1874 the first pupils were registered at the School of Agriculture and Experimental Farm at Guelph, which in 1880 had its name changed to the Ontario Agricultural College. The father of the institution was John Carling, who, when commissioner of agriculture in the Sandfield-Macdonald government, had urged the need for such a school. The college might have been located at Mimico; indeed a site there was actually bought but in 1872 the Liberals came in under Oliver Mowat and the Mimico site was abandoned in favor of Guelph where Moreton Lodge Farm was bought from F. W. Stone. Among the reasons assigned for the change was that Wellington county was a centre of live stock production and because of "the strong moral and religious tendencies of the people", of Guelph (Which can be taken, if you like, as a certain reflection upon "Toronto the Good").

Thirty-one students enrolled "to engage on an average, seven hours daily in the work of the farm, farmyard and garden, in return for which they will receive instruction, board, washing and lodging," and if they passed their examinations $50 in money, which was quite a lot of money in those days. The school had its troubles, its changes of principals, a strike, of students, and other collegiate maladies, but perhaps the students of today will be interested to be told "the use of tobacco was not permitted, except in the smoking room," and cards were prohibited altogether.

The alumni of O.A.C. include a remarkable number of men who developed into political leaders. I know of three who became provincial premiers—E. C. Drury and George S. Henry of Ontario and John Bracken of Manitoba. Hon. W. R. Motherwell, who was minister of agriculture in the Mackenzie King Cabinets was a graduate of O.A.C.; so were Nelson Monteith, Manning Doherty, and H. C. Nixon, now provincial secretary of Ontario, and Mitchell Hepburn's right hand man. Others have taken the fame of the O.A.C. all over the world in various positions; and not a few of them lie buried in France where they gave their life for Canada and the flag which daily flies at the O.A.C.

Better Programmes For Hastonian Club

HASTINGS, May 3 (Examiner Correspondence). — The Hastonian Club held their regular meeting in Lynch's Hall on Wednesday night, with a good attendance of members. The president, W. H. Flatman, occupied the chair. In opening the meeting the president stressed the point of having larger programs at the meetings and the members co-operating with the program. He suggested that at future meetings some local citizens be asked to give twenty-minute talks on some interesting subject. Earl Hahn was elected vice-president.

The following program committee was appointed: Misses M. Bonis and I. Sargent, Messrs. S. Richardson and R. Johnson.

On behalf of the Re-union Committee, J. R. Chapman addressed the meeting in regard to a prize. The meeting decided to donate ten dollars to the committee.

A short program of three musical numbers supplied by Mr. and Mrs. R. Johnson and Misses Jean and Pauline Scriver was greatly enjoyed. The meeting was brought to a close with a couple of hours' dancing.

George Street Y.P.S. To Visit Millbrook

MILLBROOK, May 3 (Examiner Correspondence) — The cultural committee had charge of the Young Peoples' Society on Monday at 8 p.m., Miss Bernice Smith being in charge in the absence of the regular convenor, Miss Francis Jones, who spent the Easter vacation with her parents, Rev. W. W. and Mrs. Jones, at Cardinal.

The gathering opened with a recreational period, under the supervision of Ken Kidd, followed by the business taken charge of by Olver Brock the announcement being made that the executive will meet at the home of Miss Marian Earle on May 23; the Y.P.S. of George Street Church, Peterborough, will be guests of the local society on May 13.

"Famous Painters" was the cultural theme, Marian Earle covering the life of Botticelli, with special reference to his painting, "The Virgin and Child"; the life of Raphael, with special attention to his work of art, "The Transfiguration," was taken up by Dorothy McDowell, and Hoffman, mentioning particularly his "Jesus in the Garden of Gethsemane," by Barbara Sisco.

Marjorie McDowell gave an outline of the life of Leonardi de Vinci, and his famous picture, "The Last Supper," and Phyllis Kidd followed with a talk on "The History of Art" beginning in pagan times up to modern days, and giving detailed attention to the life and works of Michael Angelo. Bernice Smith took the concluding paper on "What can art do for us as young people?"; Orville Wainman read a poem, "God the Infinite Artist," and the meeting closed with the worship service which included prayer by Mrs. B. B. Dawson, and an informative talk by Henry Gray on the development of life and service, speaking particularly from the Scout viewpoint.

A hotel being constructed in Ashkhabad, Russia, contains 100 flats, two large dining rooms, a recreation room and a department store.

HEALHTY GAINS SILVER ISSUES

Advances Range From Few to 20 Cents With Volume Bulking in Eldorado and Bear.

BASE METALS STEADY.

TORONTO, May 3 (C.P.) — The old silver lining of the mining market was shining better to-day as feverish trading in the white metal group was resumed an onnuncement of a gain in the metal price after four days of declines. Advances in the group ranged from a few cent to 20 cents, with volume bulking in Eldorado and Bear. Golds were firm to strong with a few soft spots and the base metals held steady in rather slow trading.

AN EGG ONTRAST.

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., May 3 (C.P.).—Henry Roger, of North Pelham, near here, saw both sides of the freak egg phenomenon. In one nest was a double-yoke egg weighing six ounces and measuring seven inches in diameter. In the next nest was an egg weighing only half an ounce.

Thieves' Paradise

ENNIS, Texas, May 3 (C.P.).—You might compare M. D. Glaspy with the old woman who lived in the shoe. Only Glaspy's trouble is automobiles. He has had so many stolen from him in the last few years he doesn't know the difference when two come up missing at the same time.

He counted up and discovered he had lost 11 autos in all—two of them were stolen last Tuesday.

But Glaspy didn't know they were gone until City Marshal J. Frank Clarke returned them to him.

One had been stripped.

The Crown City

GRAND FORKS, B.C., May 3 (C.P.). — This little Okanagan town that nestles in the mountains along the international boundary between Canada and the United States may become known as the 'Crown City of the Rockies" as a result of a novel Jubilee memorial to King George which has been constructed on a 1,000 foot eminence in the centre of the city.

Seeking something out of the ordinary for the King's Jubilee celebration next Monday, the Grand Forks Council decided on construction of a power line to the top of Observation Mountain where a large electric facsimile of the Royal Crown was erected.

When tested, the Royal emblem blazed out to be visible on highways for 20 miles, and won such favor that it may become a permanent fixture.

Greek Castle Site Located Near Jericho

JERICHO, Palestine, May 3 (C.P.-Palcor Agency). — Remains of a Greek castle have been found on the Mountain of Jebal Quarantal above Jericho on the site of the temptation of Christ during the 40 days in the wilderness. Dr. E. L. Sukenik, Professor of Archaeology at the Hebrew University of Jerusalem, reported the discovery today.

The scene is notable for the tragic event in Hasmonean history when, in 135 B.C., Simon the Maccabean was murdered by his son-in-law, Ptolemy, whom he came to visit, as reported in the First Book of Maccabees, in the Apocrypha.

At the summit of Jebal Quarantal, famed during the Crusades as Quaranta, remains of Greek civilization were recently discovered by Dr. Sukenik above the Greek monastery very near the top of the mountain.

A number of stones have been found, including Ionic capitals, columns and drums, and also the remains of a frieze and an entablature.

He said if Germany refused to return to the family of nations and sought to impose her will, "she will find this country in her path and with this country that great free commonwealth which centres around it, and she will have met a force that once again will be her master."

Prime Minister Bennett himself has made no public statement on the matter since the Empire Premiers met members of the Cabinet and were informed of British foreign policy. Since the Treaty of Versailles and consequent creation of the League of Nations, the traditional policy of successive Canadian governments has been not to accept obligations additional to those assumed by all adhering to the League covenant. Prime Minister Bennett, it is understood, is following the same policy.

ADOPT A CHILD WEEK IN ONTARIO

quintuplets, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Oliva Dionne.

The Minister's Statement

"On May 28 the Dionne babies will be one year old, I know the whole province, yes, the whole world will rejoice that they have passed their most critical period and are approaching their birthday in such sturdy health. So excellent has been the care lavished on them that we can look forward confidently to their continued development as normal, happy children, and such beautiful babies.

"We are proud of the quints. They are an asset to Ontario and in no way more than in making everyone, married or single, young or old, intensely interested in all that concerns them in particular and babies in general. I am sure they have awakened wider interest in child welfare.

"So it has occurred to me that in May when we are thinking of Yvonne, Annette, Marie, Cecile and Emilie, we might well spare some attention for children, who are not famous but forgotten. There are nearly 1,000 children who, through no fault of their own, are missing the best things in childhood — the things that all of us look back upon with such happiness. They have no home but the white walls of an institution, no father or mother to turn to, none of that freedom which belongs to youth.

Victims of Neglect.

"They are the occupants of the Children's Shelter, boys, girls and babies who, through someone's neglect, have become wards of the Children's Aid Society. In most instances, they are being treated with all the kindness of which superintendents and matrons are capable, but, unfortunately, we haven't been able to raise all these officers to the level we hope ultimately to attain. The fact remains that the children are not living normal lives, the years they are spending in institutions will leave them unfit to cope with the everyday, rough and tumble world into which they will finally be thrown.

What they need are mothers and fathers and homes. And, as it happens, there are plenty of childless couples who could supply just this need. They simply have never thought of adopting a baby—or if they have, they do not appreciate the measures which we take to protect both adoptive parents and adopted child from possible mistakes.

"So on one side are children who need homes and on the other are homes that need children. Couldn't we, when the Dionne babies are having their first birthday and people are thinking of the deep joy which a child brings—couldn't we get these two groups together? Why shouldn't we have an 'Adopt a Child Week?' Let us try to take these children out of the shelters and give them a chance for a normal, happy home life. Make them not wards but sons and daughters."

dawn in waters made choppy by a brisk breeze. In command of Captain J. C. Kelly, Halifax, the Acadian was near Cross Island at first sight of the motor boat. Allegedly failing to heed a challenging signal shot, Mason and Tanner continued on their way. A second burst of fire followed without effect, but at the third Tanner collapsed.

With his body still aboard, the motor boat was taken in tow and tnde up at the government wharf here. It was stated the inquest would be held in the blood-stained pilot house.

Tanner, leaving a wife and five small children, was well known along the Lunenburg water front, and word of the fatality spread quickly after the Acadian brought in the 50 foot boat. A small crowd soon congregated around the craft.

Nearly 750,000 school children in London to-day received a message from the King as a souvenir presented by the London county council. It says:

"You are heirs of a great past, but the future is yours, and it is your high responsibility. Each of you must try to be a good citizen in a good city. To this end you must make the best of all your powers. Strive to grow in strength, in knowledge and gradee. If you persist bravely in this endeavor you will work worthily for your family, your city, your country and for mankind. So to live, in whatever sphere, must be noble and may be great. My confident trust is in you.—George, R.I."

Precautions

ONTARIO, Calif., May 3.—(CP).—Twenty years ago John Conod stood on a street corner here, homeless, hungry and broke.

The best place to go, he thought, was jail. So he threw an old discarded battery through a plate glass bank window.

Yesterday the constable noticed a solitary figure lingering on a street corner. It was Conod, now 61 years old.

He was in the same plight as he was two decades before. Nearby was a plate glass window.

The constable looked at Conod, looked at the window—and herded him off to jail for 60 days. The charge was vagrancy.

$108 to Peterborough

Major portion of the school board grants was divided as follows: Belleville, $116; Brantford, $384; East Windsor, $406; Peterborough, $108; Port Arthur, $157; St. Catharines, $161; Thorold, $181; Walkerville, $579; York Township, $3,552.

"People who pay taxes have to get together and realize the government cannot carry on services on borrowed money," said Dr. Faulkner, "and when they're in a position to assume the responsibility of carrying these services, which they aren't at the present time the Government will be prepared to co-operate with them."

"Our idea is to get the public to realize the situation in which the government is placed," continued the minister. "They have been carrying on here too long with an inflated idea of their credit."

Discussing the general hospital situation, Dr. Faulkner said a survey conducted by his department showed paying patients remained in hospital for an average of eight days but indigent patients stayed there 13 days.

"Malingering?" he was asked.

"Yes, you might as well call it that—chiselling," he replied.

proclamation, each of the men will be granted a reduction of 10 days for each month of his sentence. One is under sentence of four months, and will thus gain 40 days through the general amnesty. One is serving a sentence of two months, and the two others sentences of one month.

Any who may be released before Monday, the Jubilee date, will be released by reason of the fact that the reductions bring the termination dates of their sentences within the Jubilee date. The four here were sentenced for breaches of Ontario Provincial laws, and thus come under only the Provincial proclamation of Lieutenant-Governor Bruce. The Ontario proclamation concerns only prisoners serving sentences of thirty days or more. It became effective to-day.

The Federal proclamation, pertaining to prisoners on Federal offences sentenced to six months or more, did not apply to any prisoner here.

BIRD SUICIDE.

WARE, Mass., May 3 (C.P.). — A robin accidentally hanged itself with a piece of string here yesterday. The bird was flying with the string in its beak and landed on the tip end of a high tree bough. The loose end of the string became caught on the branch, and as the bird tugged to free it, the string twisted around the bird's neck.

EMPIRE RADIO BROADCAST WILL BE HEARD IN PARK; PART OF JUBILEE PROGRAM

Jubilee Anniversary Will Start With Special Sunday Services.

SPECIAL CHORUSES

Big Bonfire on Monday Night In Exhibition Park.

Peterborough's celebration of the Silver Jubilee anniversary of the accession of Their Majesties King George V and Queen Mary, will open on Sunday with special religious services in churches throughout the city, and will conclude Monday evening with a huge bonfire and firework display at Exhibition Grounds.

Chief feature of the civic celebrations will be the Jubilee program to be held in Victoria Park starting at eleven o'clock E.S.T., on Monday with a full representation of civic officials, local government and judicial officers, ex-servicemen, militiamen, school children and everybody else included, in attendance.

The detailed program in connection with the celebrations has already been published in The Examiner, and is again to appear in Saturday's issue, together with the words of the various songs that are to be part of the program.

A Suggestion

It is suggested that the official program together with the words to the national songs, be cut out of the paper for use by all who will be present at the civic gathering in Victoria Park, in order that everyone concerned will be better able to enter fully into the joyous spirit of the occasion.

The amplifying equipment that is being used in connection with the celebrations is the property of the Kawartha Golf and Country Club, the directors of which decided to support the local Jubilee Committee 100 per cent so far as this equipment was concerned. Through the courtesy of the directors of the club, and also C. A. Salmonsen, works manager of the Canadian General Electric Company, and by special arrangement with the Northern Electric and Baldwin Companies owners of the exclusive rights, the equipment will be in Victoria Park, all day, not only on Monday but also on Saturday.

On Saturday radio programs will be amplified over the equipment, and through the courtesy of Robert Haddow a program of recorded music will be given throughout the day. Such programs will not merely be in the nature of a test in preparation for the Jubilee celebrations proper, but will also tend to advertise the Monday celebrations to all and sundry.

Special Request

On Monday morning the equipment will pick up the Empire radio broadcast from Ottawa commencing at 10 a.m. E.S.T., with the local program following sharply at eleven o'clock. Owing to the very sensitive nature of the microphones being used, motorists are urged to note that motors will not be allowed to approach the restricted parking area, as laid down by the City Police, after the hour of 10.55 a.m.

For the benefit of all citizens who desire to hear the broadcast of the King's speech at 2 p.m. E.S.T., the equipment will remain at the Park throughout Monday, and in the event of wet weather arrangements have been made for the use of the Armouries.

Members of Peterborough Militia Garrison have signified the intention of parading about 150 strong in mufti, and they will assemble together with members of the Canadian Legion and other ex-servicemen at the Legion Hall at 10.15 a.m. ready to move off sharp at 10.30 a.m.

Through the kind permission of Principal H. R. H. Kenner of the Collegiate and Captain H. A. Craig, M.C., cadet instructor the parade is to be headed by the drum and bugle band of the P.C.I. Cadets. Route of the parade will be west on Murray to Aylmer; south on Aylmer to Charlotte; east on Charlotte to George; north on George to Brock; and east on Brock to the Park.

Ex-servicemen are asked to parade in berets and medals.

1,800 School Children

It is further expected, according to James Dutton, chairman of the general committee that 1,800 school children will take part in the celebrations in the Park.

The schools were dismissed at 2.45 p.m. this afternoon, to enable the children to take part in rehearsals that will acquaint the various schools with the positions they are to occupy in the Park on Monday. The rehearsals included a gathering of school children in St. Paul's Church for the singing of national songs under direction of Martin B. Chenhall, A.R.C.O., who has charge of the musical part of the Jubilee program.

On Monday morning the children will assemble at their respective schools, and will be marched to their positions in the Park in charge of their teachers.

The Cancer Fund

In connection with the Cancer Fund collection which the general committee have decided upon, canvas receptacles for the depositing of contributions have been ordered. They will be placed at vantage points in the Park and uniformed nurses are to be invited to do special duty, for the purpose of giving receipts to all persons making donations of one dollar or over through this channel. It will be necessary to obtain names and addresses of persons making such contributions through this channel in order that they might receive the official certificate, to which they are entitled, from Their Excellencies Lord and Lady Bessborough.

The public will be admitted free of charge to the big bonfire and pyrotechnic display to be held at Exhibition Grounds as the concluding item to the Jubilee celebrations here on Monday evening. Ample seating accommodation will be available on the grandstand. In connection with the huge bonfire the co-operation of Chief George Gimblett of the City Fire Department is to be sought by the committee. Music will be supplied by the radio amplifier.

In connection with the amplifying equipment the committee acknowledge their indebtedness to officials of the Bell Telephone Company; Ross L. Dobbin, general manager Peterborough Utilities Commission and his staff; Robert Hanscombe, radio technician of the C.G.E. staff; William Cruthers, president of the Kawartha Golf and Country Club; C. A. Salmonsen, works manager C.G.E. Company.

In the year 1866 when John Minihan with his widowed mother and brothers and sisters (except Mrs. Rowen who remained in Ireland) sailed for Canada. First, they took up residence in the house now occupied by Howard Hamilton, later moving into the farm now occupied by James and Alice Minihan.

In 1912 the late Mr. Minihan returned to Ireland where he lived for some time. Later he returned to Cordova accompanied by his niece Katie Rowen who later married Louis Meyers and with whom the deceased lived until his death.

Mr. Minihan was a great lover of hunting and fishing and in the long evenings would delight his listeners with reminiscences of interesting events in the old country and also of times when the mines of Cordova operated years ago.

The deceased enjoyed the best of health until about eight months ago. He is survived by his brother James and sister Alice, three nices and one nephew.

The funeral took place on Monday, April 29, at 8 a.m. from the home of his nephew, Louis Meyers and proceeded to Marmora Sacred Heart Church where mass was sung by Rev. Father J. J. Keeley.

Messrs. Hugh Mahoney, John Connor, Wilhelm Baker, William Peacock, Ed. Dunlay and George Forrestel acted as pall bearers.

Find Much Grist In Divorce Mill

MADRID, May 2 (CP)—Since the new divorce law was decreed, the Spanish courts have granted 6,000 divorces. It is estimated that half of the cases merely needed legal confirmation as the couples had actually lived apart for some time past.

The number of new divorce cases is estimated to be about 800 annually. This means ample work for most courts and it may be necessary to extend judicial facilitis in order to avoid congestion or delay owing to the great number of divorce cases.

There is a higher percentage of divorce cases among the old Spanish nobility than the lower classes. It is to be recalled that it was mainly the Monarchist nobility who opposed the divorce facilities.

Home At Actinolite Levelled By Fire

TWEED, May 3. (Examiner Correspondence). — The community of Actinolite was visited Saturday by the second bad fire within recent weeks when the property known as the 'old James residence' and at present owned by A. B. Stewart, C.N.R. agent at Burwash, was completely destroyed.

The house had been occupied for some time by Sandy Scott, and when the family returned home late in the evening a fire was built. About 2.30 in the morning it was discovered that the fire had gained some headway and an effort was made to remove the furniture, most of which was saved. The loss on the building will be partly covered by insurance.

Mr. Stewart had planned to return to Actinolite next month to make their future home.

SOLUTION NEAR IN AUTO STRIKE

Jobs of 26,000 Workers in General Motors Subsidiary Plants Affected.

VIOLENCE THREATENED.

DETROIT, May 3 (A.P.).—Hope for a swift settlement of the automobile strike which has affected the jobs of 26,000 workers in General Motors subsidiary plants rose to a new high to-day on reports mediators and the embattled forces were nearing an accord.

Definite confirmation a settlement was rapidly taking shape was lacking, but Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins, in Washington, viewed the situation optimistically.

Her chief representative on the strike scene, Edward F. McGrady, first assistant Secretary of Labor, was endeavoring to harmonize the wage dispute between the General Motors management and spokesmen for the American Federation of Labor.

In Toledo, scene of the key strike of Chevrolet Motor Company workers, Fred Schwake business agent for the Toledo Automobile Workers' Union, voiced a threat of violence if General Motors attempted to transfer its manufacturing operations from Toledo to a subsidiary plant in Muncie, Ind. He said if such a move developed, he would advocate demolishment of the Muncie plant.

Mrs. J. R. Dawson, 868 Dundas St., Galt, tells in a legal statement made before a lawyer, how Fruit-a-tives brought her complete relief from constipation. Mrs. Dawson says, "I was bothered with constipation for years. Then I started to take Fruit-a-tives and they brought me complete relief. I have taken only Fruit-a-tives whenever there is a suggestion of constipation or whenever I feel off colour. I find Fruit-a-tives easy to take and so gentle in action that there is no discomfort attached to their use."

Fruit-a-tives are the result of years of research by a famous Canadian Physician. Natural, yet scientifically prepared—they contain extracts of apples, oranges, figs, prunes combined with certain herbs and medicinal ingredients in such a way as to give unusual benefits. Fruit-a-tives are positively not habit-forming.

Peterborough's Possibilities

By BOMER MOORE

ARTICLE 25

While there are certain customs of the "Old World" we do not care to imitate there are architectural beauties which could be duplicated or improved upon, if built in the city of Peterborough. In doing so, it would at once make our city a drawing card for visitors from far and near. In all Canada, there is no such architecture as I have in mind and which could be a factor in "Peterborough's Possibilities." The small things as well as the great, are necessary, just as a poor man has his place in the scheme of life as well as the rich man. No person is of more importance than anyone else—all are necessary. Same applies in building a city or any other occupation. The stowaway who discovered a small leak in the ship was as valuable to the safety of that vessel as was the captain! So, in our natural resources, some at first glance, insignificant material, is very important. When a famous stained glass window was being built, piece by piece, the artist discovered that the design was not complete and there was no material, apparently, to fix it. He went to the rubbish heap and there discarded by somebody, was a piece of glass of right shape, size and color, to complete the design. So in human affairs, the person apparently discarded may be of vital usefulness.

As we look at our natural resources we may find something overlooked by the majority of people, but which is just the thing to bring success.

In the township of Dungannon is a very rare and beautiful deposit. It is called "Sodalite." As far back as 1906, a shipment of this semi-precious stone amounting to one hundred and thirty tons, was sent to England, to decorate the residence of Sir Ernest Cassel, Hyde Park, London. If so beautiful as to be used there, why couldn't it be used in Peterborough city? The raw material is not far from Peterborough and after a while it may be found very near Peterborough. When the deposit in the township of Dungannon was first known, samples were sent by request to a great jewellry firm in New York City and more shipments followed, as the American firm turned it into most beautiful designs and novelties! Why not use some of our beautiful things in our own country before we export them to beautify some place else?

"Sodalite" ranges from a dark shade to a very pale blue takes a high polish and is eminently fitted to be used as an ornamental stone of high grade." Sodalite is found in Haliburton and Peterborough counties also.

The magnificence of India as seen in the architecture there could be duplicted here in Peterborough city. In India carved marble pillars for entrance supports and marble pools in the foreground bordered by walks of many colored stones suggestive of wealth are very beautiful.

But it didn't cost as much as it would where material is scarce. In India, like in Peterborough and adjacent counties, the necessary material for those artistic creations was simply waiting to be used. In India, the rulers utilized it. Here they still leave it in the care of Nature. However, by astronomical calculations, it is known that within the lifetime of some who are now reading these articles, people will have the urge within them to live among the beautiful things from the rocks to embellish our present beautiful city. When will our citizens wake up to the fact that God put certain things in our northern rocks, not for beauty there, but for beauty where human beings live?

Those beautiful natural resources were not put there by "The Great Architect of the Universe" to forever remain there! They were meant to be used. Some parts of the world were favored in this respect, and just as a person will be held responsible for not using a God-given talent—so also will people for not using in the right way, these God-given natural resources.

In India the rock formations in some respects were like those in parts of Canada, but the people of India saw the abundance and used it. In Turkey, similar deposits are found. A Turkish business man residing in Canada, in speaking to me about the beautiful artistic creations he had in his store, gave me a most wonderful jewel case, and said: "You Canadians try to Christianize us, but we in Turkey take the natural resources God gave us and from them fashion artistic and useful things as object lessons to indicate God really made it." The same gentleman gave me a novelty, consisting of three monkeys—one with hand over mouth, one with hands over ears, one with hands over eyes. These were made from a semi-precious stone, and the gentleman from Turkey said: "In Turkey everyone has this novelty, which is an object lesson to see no evil, speak no evil, and hear no evil of anyone." The point of the above is that they considered they were praising their Creator by using their natural resources in a manner which we had failed to do with our own.

Where the natural resources, I have reference to, were found in abundance in the Old World, they were always used in abundance. In Egypt, a similar rock formation as we have here in Peterborough and adjacent counties, gave the Egyptians material to produce wondrous creations which were not only a delight to the eye, but also a lasting recognition of both the material in its original form and the human mind which conceived the idea, and above all, the Creator who made both man and material. We have the same kind of material in Peterborough and adjacent counties and I am of the opinion that the reason such has not been abundantly used was due to the directing force of men's intellect, holding such back until the "time" indicated for beautiful things in our own county. That "time" is not far off.

Dr. Talmadge, whose veracity was well known, in describing his journey through Egypt, said:

"There were palaces aflame with red sandstone, entered by gateways that were guarded with pillars and odorned with winged creatures, their eyes and beaks and pinions glittering with precious stones. There were marble columns blooming into white flower buds; there were fountains from stone-wreathed vases, climbing ladders of light. You would hear a bolt shove, and a door of brass would open like a flash of the sun. On floors of mosaic, the glories of Pharaoh were spelled out in letters of purple and flame. There were beds fashioned out of a single precious stone." That gorgeous display was only possible on account of abundant material and skilled artisans. Abundant material made it easy to do but to the visitor from some country where such material was not so abundant, the impression would be that such an idea must have cost a fabulous amount.

Right here in Peterborough and adjacent counties we have in an undeveloped state the very same rock formations and material from which the wondrously beautiful artistic creations of Egypt were obtained.

Press reports say that the King's Jubilee celebration will see gems worth millions worn by Indian princes. Where did they get them? From the rocks of India, of course—and we have the same rock formation in this country. Years ago I heard or read that "Canada was the brightest gem in the British Crown." At first I thought it was on account of her wheat production but now I know it had a deeper meaning than that. Now, I believe it referred to her undeveloped natural resources, constituting a promise for the continuance of the Crown. It also referred to Canada's people as they would be found leading the way!

"Peterborough's Possibilities" for a part in that leadership, depends on whether or not we use our natural resources as intended. The wrong kind of workman will make a failure of it because not knowing the destined purpose. The right kind of workman will know, and proceed to do it!

What do you suppose the Creator put graphite in our rocky areas for? And it is there! It is not far from Peterborough city!

What do you suppose the Creator put corundum in our nearby rocks for? Formerly it was used as an abrasive until the product from an electric furnace became the desired abrasive and the production of natural corundum stopped. Why do you suppose the Creator made not many miles from Peterborough, over five hundred square miles of corundum bearing rocks? Why within reach of Peterborough city? Peterborough city was not an accident! Peterborough was started for a definite purpose! Although some people think it is just a place in which to buy their groceries or sell them or a place where they can go to church or have fun bowling or acquire money in various ways—those things are not the real purpose of our city! Our city has become a concentration centre of the forces — human and mechanical—necessary to bring to it, those natural resources of our near north and change them into useful things.

God put iron in the rocks but not in the form of stoves and furnaces. That part was left for the human mind to do. Man has made steel out of iron. The great steel plants sometimes use large amounts of limestone, and fluorspar and dolomite and produce steel for the upbuilding of cities, navies, and the country generally. We have in our district the iron, the limestone, the fluorspar and the dolomite. Why do we not have a great steel plant? Remember, God intended those resources to be used!

Ping pong has captured India.

"Used to think bread wasn't any good unless it had a lot of jam on it, but it's different now. Our neighbour told Mother about "Wonder" Kracked Wheat Bread and so we got a loaf. Mother watched me to see how I'd like it. And, boy, was it good!"

That's the experience of one boy—there are thousands pretty much like him. "Wonder" Kracked Wheat Bread certainly makes a hit with the kiddies. And they just gobble it up when toasted!

Children are hungry most of the time. They grow so fast they need a lot of nourishing food. And "Wonder" Kracked Wheat Bread gives them both healthful bulk and delicious taste. It's neither white nor brown, but an appetizing, strength-giving blend of both. White bread 'fans' get the very taste they like; brown bread 'customers' say they never tasted brown bread so good.

"Wonder" Kracked Wheat Bread is economical, too. It sells at the regular price and because it suits the taste of the whole household, you need buy only one kind instead of two. It's all eaten. There's never a stale 'end' to throw away. Stop our salesman as he passes your house, and learn for yourself how much your family will like this different loaf.

The City Council, Chamber of Commerce and Merchants are wholeheartedly behind this and every endeavor to make Peterborough a more beautiful city. Property owners and tenants and citizens generally are asked to co-operate by making any improvements necessary to their homes and adjacent gardens and lawns. Much repainting and alterations have already been noted and others are underway, so let's make next week a week of general activity along this line (not forgetting of course the King's Jubilee Celebration on Monday next).

GIVE SOME MAN A JOB!

LET US hope that the week of May 6th to 11th will see a community-wide effort to give hundreds of self-respecting unemployed men jobs—around the house, cleaning cellars and windows,preparing and planting gardens, etc.

Oh, what a timely opportunity this week should afford us to come to the aid of our less fortunate fellow citizens by giving them much-needed assistance in the shape of a day or two's, or a week's work.

And how fitting to observe in a practical way His Majesty's Silver Jubilee by exercising that spirit of philanthrophy he is ever to the fore in practising himself.

So, why not get together, so to speak—we who are in assured positions—and give a few days' employment here and there, this Clean-up Week, to those fellow citizens for whom these days are "dark days" indeed, with very little, if any silver lining in evidence.

IF YOU HAVE WORK TO GIVE A MAN

MAY WE suggest that a little paint here and there, a well groomed lawn, a few flowers, a tidy back yard or vacant lot, trees and bushes trimmed, etc., etc., will all enter into the scheme of things, and you'll be delighted with the results. Possibly the best advertisers of any community are its visitors. The Park's Board of your City Council has in other years certainly made the various parks throughout the city things of beauty and this year they promise to be better than ever.

CHANDOS MAN CONVICTED OF ASSAULT COUNT

Sequel to Domestic Battle in Northern Backwoods of County.

ONE MONTH IN GAOL.

Details of a triangular domestic battle, waged in a backwoods settlement in Chandos Township, on the night of March 1 last, were aired in court before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K. C., at an all day sitting here yesterday, and resulted in sentence of one months imprisonment for Daniel O'Brien, convicted of "assault occasioning actual bodily harm" in respect to his sister-in-law, Mrs. Anna Johnson.

A further charge of a similar nature laid on the complaint of the accused's wife was not sustained. Judgment was handed down by his worship today. Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K. C., conducted the prosecution, while the accused had W. J. Arthur Fair as defence counsel.

"I gave the accused the benefit of the doubt in the first case because of the indefiniteness of the evidence presented", His Worship stated, "but I do not feel that way about the second charge and I have to find the accused guilty."

Magistrate Comments

He was satisfied the Magistrate added, that there were a great many aggravating circumstances, yet the action of the accused was not strictly one of self defence. The outstanding feature the bench believed was that the accused admitted that he threw a stick of wood at the girl causing injury that drew blood, and whether or not the scar on her forhead was an old one or not, was beside the point. The accused did not deny the allegation that he also struck the woman with a child's sleigh, His Worship observed.

It was related in evidence that Mrs. Johnson had spent seven weeks at the O'Brien home prior to the accouchement of Mrs. O'Brien. In his own defence accused stated he had objected to the presence of his sister-in-law for various reason, but she had refused to leave the house.

The accused was stated to have reached home on the night of the disturbance to find the door locked against him, and his clothing thrown outside, "in the dirt."

Seeking admittance to his own house, the accused broke down the door and when he met resistance from his wife and sister-in-law, a pitched battle resulted when the alleged assault and injury was sustained.

Argues Justification

In his argument of the case, Mr. Fair upheld that any man was justified at law to break into his own home that was locked against him, and that any injury might be received was due to their own resistance.

The complainant Mrs. Johnson, who exhibited an ugly scar on her forehead, alleged to have been inflicted by the accused when he struck her with the iron runner of a child's sleigh, provided graphic details of the fight.

After describing the events leading up to the row, she stated, "He broke in the door and rushed at his wife with an oath, I grabbed a poker off the stove and warned him to cut that out."

She further stated in the witness box, that the accused threw lengths of stovewood into the house which struck her in the teeth; and on the chest and arm. Afterwards she testified the accused rushed into the house wielding a snow shovel prior to striking her on the forehead with the sleigh.

Injuries to complainant's head were treated in typical backwoods fashion according to Mrs. Johnson's story in which she said that the flow of blood was stemmed by the application of flour.

While denying that she had threated accused with a butcher knife, she said she had been terrified of her brother-in-law and had begged him for mercy. He called for his two guns, a razor and his shells before leaving the house to seek shelter at his uncle's home, Mrs. Johnson related, "and I feared he was going to murder us both".

JUBILEE CHOIR PRACTICE.

Choristers from the city are invited to meet at St. Paul's Presbyterian Church to-night at 7 o'clock to rehears music for Jubilee celebrations on Monday. Large representation is expected. Note the hour of practice.

NO JUBILEE COINS HERE

It was stated by one of the tellers that the new coins are not yet in circulation locally, but that they have already been issued by banks in Toronto.

R. P. GOUGH DIES ON HEALTH TRIP

Former Peterborough Business Man Convalescing From Pneumonia.

ILL TWO WEEKS.

Peterborough friends were shocked to hear of the death in Atlantic City yesterday of Richard Patrick Gough, 92 Crescent Road, Toronto, president of the Sellers-Gough Fur Company, Ltd., in his seventy-first year.

Mr. Gough, who had been ill for two weeks with double pneumonia, had gone to Atlantic City for his health. He was accompanied by his wife; one son, Richard, and a daughter, Geraldine.

Born in Kleinburg, Ont., he was educated in York County public and high school. In 1880, at the age of 15 years, he entered the employ of Pedley and Co. In 1883 he purchased the general store of Gooderham & Worts at Pine Grove, and three years later, in conjunction with his brother, conducted a general clothing and furnishing business here.

The business here progressed so favorably that additional stores were opened in Lindsay and Port Hope. In 1896 the business was extended to Toronto and organized as Sellers-Gough Fur Company, in 1905. After the death of his brother, A. J. Gough, who was his business partner for forty-four years, he and his sons acquired practically all the outstanding stock of the Sellers-Gough Fur Co., Ltd., and Gough and Sellers Investments, Ltd., of which he was president.

So that these two businesses might be given all his attention, Mr. Gough retired from several other important positions, including the C.N.R. Board, Capital Trust Corporation, Ottawa, and James A. Ogilvys, Ltd., Montreal. He was a director of the Capital Life Assurance Co. of Ottawa, and of the Salts and Chemical, Ltd., Kitchener.

He was a member of the Toronto Board of Trade Club, Canadian Manufacturers Association, Ontario Club, Lakeview Golf Club and the York Pioneer and Historical Society. His main recreations were motoring and fishing.

DONATIONS APPROVED.

At the regular meeting of the Peter Robinson Chapter, I.O.D.E., held at the home of Miss Helen Anderson, George street, on Tuesday evening, a donation of $12 was voted to the Y.M.C.A. and $6 to the Humane Society.

Arrangements were made for a rummage sale, in charge of Mrs. Mel Turner, held this week, and reports were given of the Provincial convention in Hamilton, early in April.

At the close of the busniess session, refreshments were served, in charge of Miss Rose Mulholland and her group.

SEEK RECOVERY OF WANTASA INN AND $10,000.00

Cholmley Strickland Sues Mr. and Mrs. Cal. A. Case of Texas.

CASE ADJOURNED.

Taking of evidence in an action by Cholmley E. Strickland of McCracken's Landing and Toronto against Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Case of Texarkana, Texas, occupied the attention of Mr. Justice J. A. McEvoy throughout yesterday and this morning in Supreme Court here. Mr. Strickland is seeking recovery of the Wantasa Inn property at McCracken's Landing from Mr. Case, and $10,000 damages.

Justice Kelly adjourned the hearing to 12 o'clock noon, Tuesday, May 14, at the conclusion of the morning sitting to-day. He stated that previous appointments elsewhere in the province prevented him from remaining to the completion of the case. Emmett F. Sheehy is acting for Mr. Strickland and J. W. Stevenson for Mr. and Mrs. Case.

According to the plaintiff's pleadings in the case, the property was owned by Stoney Lake Hotels Limited, a family company in which Mr. Strickland and his wife, Grace M. Strickland, were the principal figures, prior to October, 1932. There were two mortgages on the property —one from Stoney Lake Hotels Limited, Mr. Strickland and his wife to Midland Loan and Savings, Port Hope, for $5,600, and one from Stoney Lake Hotels, Limited, to Mr. Case for $3,000.

Mr. Strickland claims that he made an agreement with Mr. Case by which Mr. Case would foreclose his mortgage on the hotel company, obtain title to it, and hold the property in trust for him.

According to the agreement, he asserts, Mr. Case was to turn over the property to him on demand. In the meanwhile, it is alleged, Mr. Strickland was to ward off a threatened foreclosure by the Midland Loan and Savings by payment of back interest. Mr. Case was to be paid the amount owing him under his mortgage by way of meals for him and his family at Wantasa Inn during following years.

Refused Demands

He claims further that according to the agreement he paid $677.11 to put the Midland Loan and Savings mortgage in good standing and that Mr. Case procured a final order of foreclosure on May 23, 1933. He states he lived up to the alleged agreement by providing meals during the summers of 1933 and 1934. Mr. Case, however, refused repeated demands to turn over the title to the property, Mr. Strickland asserts.

The plaintiff is asking the court for a declaration that the defendants are trustees for him in the holding of the property, and for an order vesting the property in him. The $10,000 damages are sought from Mr. Case, not both defendants.

Denies Agreement

Defendant Case denies the existence of the agreement claimed by Mr. Strickland. He denies that the $677.11 payment was made as the result of any agreement with him. He maintains that any meals supplied him and his family in 1933 and 1934 by the plaintiff were by way of part payment of rent by the hotel company to himself as owner of the property.

Mr. Case asks that any interest which the court may find the plaintiff to have in the property be subject to the payment to him of all moneys he has given to Stoney Lake Hotels Limited under the mortgage and for improvements to the property.

No Dower Rights

Co-defendant Cozia Case claims that she has no dower rights in the lands, and thus the plaintiff is entitled to no relief against her.

Trial of the case was halted twice yesterday while the litigants discussed without avail the possibility of a settlement in the case.

Mr. Strickland testified throughout the morning, afternoon and evening sessions. A large part of his evidence centered about correspondence between himself and Mr. Case from 1932 up to the institution of the present action. The greater part of the testimony was of involved technical significance in connection with the claim and defense in the case. The examination was marked by many verbal clashes between Mr. Stevenson and Mr. Sheehy.

During his long tenancy in the witness box yesterday and to-day, Mr. Strickand was questioned in detail by both counsellors concerning the circumstances surrounding the foreclosure of the Case mortgage, the payment by him of $677.11 to put the Midland Loan and Savings mortgage in good standing, and correspondence which Mr. Strickand claims to set forth the alleged agreement.

He testified that when Mr. Case foreclosed his mortgage, no defense was made by Stoney Lake Hotels Limited because of the agreement he believed to exist. Regarding the sums charged Mr. Case, his wife and a member of the family group, Miss Rogers, for meals during the summers of 1933 and 1934, the witness said the payments by Mrs. Case were at the rate of $700 to $1,000 annually. The issue at point was on what account the sums would be applied.

A number of questions were directed with a view to determining the differences in the status of Stoney Lake Hotels Limited and that of Mr. Strickland. Sometimes he was acting as an individual and sometimes he acted as an agent of the hotel company in the interests of the creditors, he claimed.

Questioned further regarding the foreclosure action of Mr. Case, Mr. Strickland declared he would have had the hotel company defend the action if he had not considered the alleged agreement binding.

The witness told of moneys including the $677.11 for the interest on the Midland mortgage, supplied by his brother, R. P. Strickland of Saskatchewan. It was wired to Mr Case's solicitors who, in turn, made payments on the first mortgage after the hotel had been taken over, evidence indicated.

During the cross-examination Mr. Stevenson suggested that Mr. Case was clearly the owner of the property and that Mr. Strickland accepted that as a fact.

"You explained to the bailiff that Mr. Case was the owner, did you not?"

"Yes."

"Then you say what you told the bailiff was untrue?"

"No. He was the registered owner."

Mr. Stevenson asked about a letter on file from Mr. Case to Mr. Strickland, asking for payment of rent on his "lease."

"Those letters were written by mutual agreement."

"If the 'lease' was just a fiction, what was your object in keeping up that fiction?"

"It was in keeping with our agreement."

"Did you remonstrate with Mr. Case for talking of a 'lease'?"

"No."

"Since the summer of 1934 have you paid anything by way of interest and upkeep on the property?"

"No. I refuse to pay any more."

"Do you know if they were paid?"

"Yes. I understand they were paid by Mr. Case."

Fred Mills was called to the box and testified an insurance premium of $180 on the property was paid on Sept. 5, 1934, by Mr. Case. The next premium is not yet due, he said.

Robert Melville of Port Hope, mortgage clerk, told of a series of interest payments in the past year by Mr. Case.

Harry Morgan, Dummer tax collector ,tectified Mr. Case paid $55.44, the 1934 taxes on the property, and Gordon Crowe stated from the box Mr. Case had paid him for work done at the property since last summer. Two shareholders in the hotel company, Frederick Galloway and Mrs. Marion Cameron, both of Otonabee, declared they have not been consulted with regard to affairs of the company since they bought the shares.

The Eye And Its Relation To General Diseases

By DR. T. P. McCULLOUGH 166 Brock Street

Measles in its early stage is often accompanied by well-marked catarrhal inflamation, irritation, intolerance to light, lacrymation (tears) weakness of accommodation and a sense of fatigue. These manifestations are seen most frequently amongst those who are delicate or tubercular and in those who are suffering from some error of vision, such as hypermetropia (long sight or astigmatism. There have been recorded cases of bilateral blindness following measles. I have seen one patient, a boy of eight years old with a hemorrhage of the retina in one eye followed by blindness as the result of measles.

Scarlatina or Scarlet Fever is at times accompanied by inflammation of lids, but it is not so frequent as in measules, nor so valuable as an aid to early diagnosis. Scarlatina especilly when severe may be accompanied by an active infimmation of the lids or front part of eyeball with extensive ulceration of latter. Temporary blindness during the desquamation (shedding of skin) period of scarlatina is not an infrequent condition especially when complicated by kidney trouble. The temporary blindness may be accompanied by brain symptoms, such as headache, convulsions, vomiting and stupor without any lesions in the eye. These cases must be classed as uraemic. With proper treatment most of these cases made a good recovery. It is only in the chronic cases that eye lesions occur such as paralysis of the eye muscles and inflammation at posterior portion of the eyeball. Purulent inflammation of the middle ear is one of the frequent and dangerous complications of scarlet fever. We have the same accommodative symptoms in scarlet fever as occur in all diseases of childhood, such as an inability to see clearly at near range, as the result of fatigue, exhaustion and weakness of the eye muscles. These latter symptoms may occur after any long continued illness as an after result in any general disease, but are more prone to take place in diseases of childhood.

Diphtheria. — How does it affect the eyesight? It generally affects sight during the period of recovery from diphtheria or during period of convalescence. First, by a partial or complete loss of accommodation (and the latter means the loss of power or effort to see near objects). Such a patient may see well in the distance, but is unable to read or write. The loss of accommodation is brought about by paralysis of the third nerve or a branch of it, which supplies the ciliary muscle; the muscle of accommodation. Other symptoms are dilation of pupil, paralysis of throat muscles, inability to swallow liquids which regurgitate through the nose. How known or diagnosed.—1st, patient sees well in the distance, say 20 feet. That excludes opacities in the interior of eyes, or almost any other disease. 2nd, if one places a weak convex glass in front of eye, if it causes blurring of vision that would exclude hypermetropia or long sight, but the same glass or one somewhat stronger restores near vision. This, along with a history of a previous sore throat, will be sufficient to diagnose diphtheria.

Treatment.—A good generous diet, temporary convex glasses, pilocarpine drops. Nerve tonics will generally be sufficient to bring about recovery in ten days or two weeks' time.

UNITED HEADED FOR FIRST DIVISION

West Ham Must Defeat Oldham While Wanderers Lose —Season Ends Saturday.

LONDON, May 3 (CP Cable). — Marked by the magnificent triple success of London cubs in winning the First, Second and Southern Section, Third Division championships, the English soccer season closes Saturday.

Arsenal made sure of top place in the First Division on Easter Monday, Brentford lead the Second and Charlton Athletic the Southern Section. Londoners are now wondering whether West Ham United will add to the achievements of their favorite clubs by accompanying Brentford into the First Division next season.

To accomplish this the revivified Hammers must defeat Oldham Athletic and Bolton Wanderers must lose to Blackpool on the Seasiders' ground. It should not be hard for West Ham, at home, to defeat the Athletic now without hop of remaining in the Second Division another season. But it is by no means certain Bolton will fall before Blackpool. Even a draw will be sufficient to keep the Wanderers in second place as they have 55 points, one more than the Londoners, and a much superior goal average. Blackpool occupies fourth place in the league standing with 52 points.

There seems little doubt that Leicester City will accompany Tottenham Hotspurs into the second Division. The City is one point behind Middlesbrough in the league table, and is faled with a hard game at Portsmouth. On the other hand Middlesbrough is at home to Chelsea. The figure closing match is with Leeds United on the Yorkshire team's ground.

Elsewhere in the leagues positions were clarified last weeks. Notts County and Oldham will be relegated to the Third Division, while Doncaster Rovers and Charlton Athletic take their places in the second. Tail-enders in the two sections of the Third Division. Carlisle United and Newport County will be forced to apply for re-electon to the league.

Society Donation For Mothers-Daughter Fund

The members of Group F. of the W.M.S. of George St. United church held their regular meeting at the home of Mrs. J. Douglas, Water street last evening. The leader Mrs. J. M. Fanning presided. Mrs. W. H. Morton read the scripture lession from St. Luke, 24 chapter, followed by prayer by Mrs. Fanning. Miss Ariel Wildman and Miss Gweneth Boorman rendered a pleasing vocal duet.

Mrs. Lane gave an excellent talk on "The Easter Message" and Mrs. Hales reading on Stewardship entitled The Lord's Orange Tree was very interesting. It was decided to give donations to the mother and daughters fund as the banquet had been withdrawn this year.

After the close of the meeting dainty refreshments were served by Mrs. Douglas and members of her section and a social hour enjoyed. Before dispersing Mrs. V. Boorman moved a hearty vote of thanks to those assisting with the program, and to Mrs. Douglas and her assistants for their hospitality.

A very favorable report was given on the work of two pupils assisted by the Chapter, and the Regent, Mrs. B. Jackson, from the chair, read an interesting report, prepared by Mrs. W. Gordon Hall, Regent of the 57th Regiment Chapter, of the proceedings of the recent Provincial convention in Hamilton.

The members decided to have a rummage sale on May 14 and Mrs. R. R. Hall kindly offered to lend her home for a tea in June, to celebratebrate the 20th anniversary of the Chapter. Proceeds will be used for the Well Babies' Clinic. Mrs. H. Beal and Mrs. W. Comstock councillors for June, will be convenors.

A hearty vote of thanks was accorded Mrs. H. W. Darcy and Mrs. E. F. Lawrence for the recent very successful bridge parties of which they were in charge, and gratitude was also expressed to Mr. W. Gordon Hall for lending her convention report.

There will be no June meeting of the society.

Catcher Starts Rounding Up Dogs

Stray dogs are to be rounded-up and impounded by the dog catcher, according to warning issued by authorities here today. Dog owners are further informed that validity of old license tags expired at midnight on April 30, and that new tags may now be obtained at the City Police Office.

Owners of dogs are strongly urged to co-operate with the authorities, by preventing their dogs from roaming at large to the annoyance and dismay of all who pride themselves on their well-kept gardens, and are respectfully advised to secure new dog license tags without delay.

Failure to comply with these requests, will result in owners of troublesome and tagless dogs being proceeded against under provisions of city by-laws, it is threatened.

New Water Supply For Quints' Hospital

CALLANDER, Ont., May 2 (C.P.). — Work has started on a project that will shortly supply the hospital home of the Dionne quintuplets with better quality water. Trenches are being dug to hold piping from the new well, and the pipes will be laid deep enough to ensure against freezing.

For the second successive day, Baby Cecile was kept inside while the rest of the tiny sisters enjoyed their veranda airing. Cecile suffered a relapse from a slight head cold and Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe said he is "taking no chances."

Dr. Dafoe again stressed visitors would not be permitted to see the children until all sembiance of their recent illness had disappeared. The doctor said it made no difference whether the visitors came from nearby North Bay or the State of Texas.

Talks to the People by J. H. Burnham

Recent meetings of the old parties show a keener interest than usual in national affairs, by representative men. Not too soon. Mr. Duffus, former Mayor, is the Liberal choice, and is undoubtedly a good one. Clear-headed, unselfish and therefore willing to espouse a good cause, and an excellent speaker, he will if he develops an employment policy, travel far. But, will he develop a new policy or cling to the old one which has been utterly overthrown by modern mechanistic conditions? Disraeli was defeated as a candidate five times, but lived to be England's greatest statesmen. He moved with the times.

Secret Appeal Raises $7,200 For Token to be Given King and Queen.

REMAINDER TO CHARITY.

By JOSEPH DENNIGAN.
(Canadian Press Correspondent.)

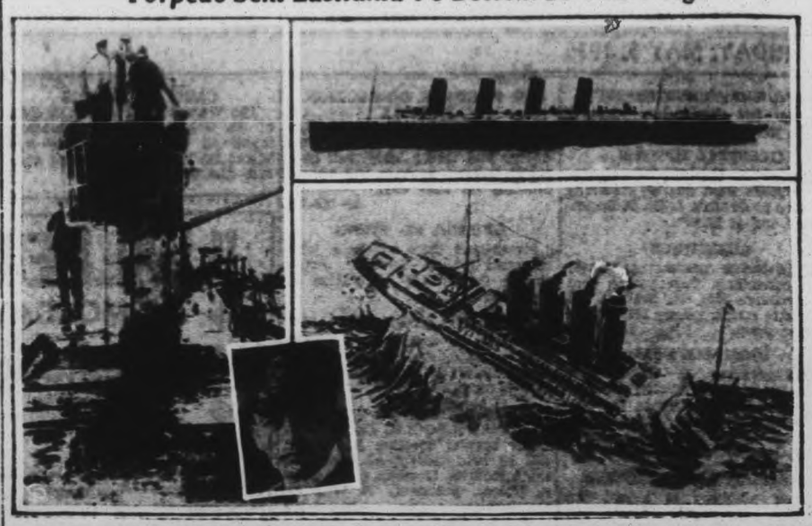
DUBLIN, Irish Free State, May 3. (CP).—After a secret appeal, conducted by word of mouth only, loyalists in the Free State, Catholic as well as Protestant, have contributed £1,500 (approximately $7,200) to buy a Jubilee gift for Their Majesties.

It has been revealed here the organizers divided the whole county into districts for collection purposes with a committee and collector for every section. The majority of the collectors were women.

The organizers had encouraged small subscriptions and from Dublin to Galway and from Cork to Cavan, people contriuted in an unexpectedly enthusiastic way.

The intention was to present some suitable token out of a portion of the money, sending with it in confidence a list of the names of the thousands of Their Majesties admirers who had joined to give it. The remainders of the fund would be allocated to some deserving work, probably a well-known Irish nursing institution under the patronage of Her Majesty the Queen.

Torpedo Sent Lusitania To Bottom 20 Years Ago



Monday, May 6, is 25th anniversary of the accension to the throne of King George. Tuesday, May 7, is the 20th anniversary of the sinking of the S.S. Lusitania by a German submarine. Among the 1,195 lives that were lost in the terrible disaster, nearly 175 were Canadians. The sinking precipitated the United States' entry into the great war. Captain Schweige (inset) of the German U-boat J-20, type of which is shown ABOVE LEFT, directed the fatal torpedo. The submarine and its crew were later destroyed by a depth bomb. The last photo of the Lusitania is shown TOP. An artist's conception of the death plunge of the vessel is also shown.

The use of "V" for "U" in inscriptions is a survival of a custom which began when "V" and "U" were merly different forms of the same letter.

No Moving Of Quints Until At Least Five

OTTAWA, May 3.—(CP)—Sharp criticism of Leo Kervin, "manager" of Mr. and Mrs. Oliva Dionne of Callander, Ont., for his activities in connection with the famous quintuplets, was voiced by Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn of Ontario, when interviewed here yesterday.

"The babies won't leave Callander until they are at least 5 years old," Mr. Hepburn said.

Paying tribute to Dr. A. R. Dafoe, Mr. Hepburn described him as one of the most lovable of men.

Roberta's Chat

A column conducted by a reader of The Examiner for her other reader friends. Address all mail to Roberta in care of The Examiner.

DEAR FRIEND—How are you as a friend? Do you take all and give nothing, do you go 50-50, or do you give three parts, and the other one only gives one part?

Naturally the best friendship is based on a 50-50 basis.

The first requisite of a friend is dependability, so, if you promise anything, keep your word.

If you say you will phone on a certain day, do so. If you arrange to meet your friend at a certain time, be there at that time.

Most friendships are wrecked by small trifles, which don't seem to amount to much, yet these trifles are really important.

Don't expect more from your friend than you are prepared to give.

Be loyal. Don't tell anything which was told to you in confidence.

Don't resent your friends faults too much, as she has to put up with your faults too. Let it be clearly understood between you, that each expects certain standards from the other, and do your best to live up to them.

If you think you are giving more than the other, slow down, and let her catch up with you.

Don't overwhelm your friend by too much friendship. Be loyal, moderate, considerate, not too critical, and you have the basis for a sound lasting friendship. Help me to feel that I have a friend by writing to,

ROBERTA.

Fenelon Falls Store Entered Wednesday

LINDSAY, May 3—(Special to Examiner.)—Heard's hardware store, Fenelon Falls, was entered on Wednesday night. The till was rifled and a quantity of shells stolen. A window in the door at the rear of the building had been broken with a stone, affording the thief or thieves a means of entry. They were evidently prepared for interruption. A 22 rifle had been removed from the front of the store, loaded with four shells, and left lying beside the till. A hatchet was also moved to the counter in a convenient spot and other evidences of preparedness were not wanting. Whether any other articles were taken could not be determined as a large stock is carried.

KNOWING WHEN TO STOP

Unless one knows when to stop bidding, particularly when vulnerable, he will not travel far before encountering needless losses. Both sides were vulnerable when the following hand appeared. All four players displayed unusual wisdom in stopping bidding when they did.

Bidding went: South, 1-no trump (a better opening bid than 1-heart, on the 4-3-3-3 distribution and 4 guarded suits); North, 2-diamonds (he must not bid 3 as that would surely drive South into 3-no trumps); South, 2-hearts (obviously a 4-card suit); West, 2-spades; North, 3-diamonds, which he was allowed to play.

The opening lead was the 3 of spades (the fourth-best lead is better than the old-fashioned lead of the top car, unless that happens to be either ace, K or the top of a sequence; West wanted to know how many spades North held and the low lead told him one. Dummy's J forced West's ace. It was worse than useless to continue leading spades, so West shifted to his fourth-best club, forcing dummy's ace to capture East's K. As a matter of fact an opening lead of clubs would have held the declarer down to a score of just 3-odd, but that could not have been anticipated.

North led off dummy's K of spades, discarding thereon one of his losing clubs. The ace and K of trumps picked up the next two tricks. North led a heart, finessed dummy's J and won. He ruffed a spade, again led a heart and won with the Q. The ace of hearts was led, but the suit would not break. North saw that he must give opponents a trump trick and a club trick, so he spread his hand for 4-odd.

It always is interesting to note what would have happened had another call been played. Suppose West had been supported and had bid even 3 spades. In the first place it is probable that North would have bid 4 diamonds and made it. Opponents cannot bid higher in spades without serious loss. They should lose 2 heart tricks, 1 diamond trick, 1 club trick and a trump trick, just fulfilling their 2 spades' cntract.

South can win 2-odd at no trumps, against a spade opening, by allowing East to win the second diamond trick and giving opponents 4 spade tricks, but diamonds is the safe call. Against perfect defence, and an opening club lead, South would be none too happy trying to make even 2 hearts.

It may be interesting to those who will hear the children sing at the Jubilee celebrations next Monday, to know that one of their songs, "We are Part of Britain," was composed for a similar occasion forty years ago. The words and music were written by Mr. A. T. Cringan, Bachelor of Music, one of the founders of school music in Toronto and for many years teacher of music in the Normal and Model schools of that city. When Canada, in conjunction with the whole of the British Empire, was celebrating the Diamond Jubilee of Queen Victoria, Mr. Cringan wrote this song, and it was given in Toronto at that time by combined choirs of Normal and Model school students. Monday, May 6th, marks the Silver Jubilee of Queen Victoria's grandson, and it seems fitting that the children at this time should use this old song to express their loyalty. The second song, "Let us Sing unto Their Majesties," has been especially composed for the Silver Jubilee celebrations of this year, and has been released to the public only within the last two or three months.

Coyote Dogging

ISMAY, Mont., May 3 (CP)—Cowboy John Brange has found a new thrill for bulldoggers.

While riding the range he spurred his horse in pursuit of a coyote. As the horse galloped alongside the wild animal, Brange reisted, he leaped from the saddle, threw the coyote, and with the aid of companions tied it.

The cowboy brought the coyote to Ismay as proof of his feat.

SHOPPING WITH ANNE

Shopping these days is so thrilling—We thought we had never beheld such a gorgeous array of lovely lingerie as we admired in the stores this year and aren't the June brides-to-be lucky, for what bride does not want lots and lots of lovely lingerie for her trousseau. There were lovely wisps of lace and satin, delicately tinted crepes, with pleats, ruffles and the exquisite simplicity of the tailored models that fit so smoothly and snugly under the form fitting frocks of the present mode.

• • •

You can get nighties, slips, teddies, pantie sets and dressing gowns to match—you can carry your favorite shade out to the last detail and the prices are really so attractive that you will want several of these lovely sets.

• • •

Gloves..Gloves .. What a charming selection there is this season. Did you see the darling little silk ones with lovely lace cuffs—in black and white—they are just too divine. They will go to church with you in your lovely pastel frocks this summer and you will actually feel very divine with them along....they just have that look—White washable doeskin is very smart too, smart kid pull-ons, and the very smart and serviceable chamoisette — are very classy in the new chamois shade.

• • •

A smart dress in a large size for the matron was carried out in black and white sheer. The lines were very slenderizing low—The loveliest model of our trip was of amber lace in the lovely new stiff weave—It was double purpose for it boasted of a little coat to be worn over the very smart dress with its classy lines—this dress was so swishy that we are sure it would stand up alone—It would make a nice bridesmaid dress or could be worn by the bride's aunt or older sister.

• • •

Gifts for the bride is another question that arises as the month of brides arrives—A complete dinner set with crystal to match would make a gift supreme for the young couple. Our china stores have a complete stock of newest and most attractive designs in the finest of dinnerware. A beautiful Wedgewood in a soft creamy shade, with attractive shell edges, and such an appealing design. The shape of the cups in this set is very unique and the unusual handles on the larger dishes were very appealing. We inquired and found that most of these sets are open stock so they can be purchased as you require them or as your purse dictates.

• • •

The crystal was very alluring—and the designs were so attractive that it will be hard to decide—we fell very hard for the old English shapes, as being most effective and then the cuttings on this line was very effective in its simplicity.

• • •

If you are think of silver — you will be well advised to buy it now before the prices go soaring. There are many attractive bargains just now in Sheffield and Sterling. Have you seen the new "Berkley Square" patterin? It is very attractive. Wouldn't it be stunning engraved. We saw a service to-day, three pieces in Sheffield reproduction for, guess—$27.50. Entre dishes, trays—You can get a worthwhile wedding gift in silver for $10 and less, and of course as much higher as you want to go. But the values are really worth while.

• • •

Now for a word to the lady herself. We must be correct in every detail—and the choosing of wedding invitations, and announcements is a very important detai and you must tell the world in the correct conventional manner. The Examiner Job Department is just perfection in this matter and if you bring your problems with regard to your wedding stationery, printing and engraving you will receive every possible courteous attention and you will be sure you are correct about this very important matter.

Anne Wilcox.

P.S.—Anothe thing I almost forgot to tell you is that we have a very attractive line of wedding cake boxes. They are of a very simple and pretty design. I am sure they will appeal to you.—A.W.

Free Moving

FORT WORTH, Tex., May 3.—(CP).—Workers jacked up the house when its occupants refused to vacate and moved it two miles — including Jimmy Owens, convalescent daughter, a sick stepmother and five chickens. Mrs. Owens said her family moved into the vacant house after a futile search for the owner.

Be Beautiful

By GLADYS GLAD

Little Janie Pickens, of the beautiful Pickens Sister, is what I'd call a regular Georgia peach. These three gals, you know, hail from Georgia, and they certainly do have peaches and cream complexions. Despite the renown they have gained through their radio, screen and stage work, these lovely girls will stick to simple beauty remedies. And according to Janie, there's nothing like a good, old-fashioned egg mask for keeping the skin clear, smooth and fine-textured.

A weekly egg mask really is most effective in clearing the skin and refining its texture. Such a mask is so simple to administer, that no girl should pass this beauty bet by. Actually, there are three different methods of administering an egg pack. In the first method, the yolk of the egg alone is used. In the second method, only the white of the egg is utilized. And in the third method, both are employed. But these three methods are all equally effective. And a girl may choose whichever of the three methods she prefers.

In the first method of giving an egg mask treatment to the face, the egg yolk alone should be used. Before the application of this mask, the skin should be thoroughly cleansed with a bland soap and tepid water, and then with cold cream. If the skin is inclined to dryness, a thin film of nutrient cream may be smoothed around the eyes and mouth, and then the yolk applied. When applying the yolk, however, don't forget your neck—so many women do. You should apply the egg yolk to the neck first, and then spread it up over the jawline and over your entire face, with the exception of your eyelids.

After this, the mask should be allowed to dry, and when thoroughly dry, may be removed. In the removal, however, take care that you do not treat your skin too roughly. The best course is to stand over a bowl of clear, tepid water and have the water over your face and neck with a soft cloth, until all the egg has been removed. Then draw a fresh bowl of tepid water and rinse the face and neck again. And finish up with an application of cool water or a mild skin tonic, in order to tone up the skin.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

WHAT WOULD YOU DO? This is a good question to ask when you listen to the complaints of others about how things are run, or how people have acted under difficulties, or hear criticisms of state or national affairs, or derogatory remarks about management of home, family, or community affairs, etc.

• • • • • • •

Find what solutions the critical person has to offer. It is amazing the willingness with which people will find fault about such matters without having the faintest idea of what they would do if they found themselves in a similar position. I have seen complainers completely flabbergasted when confronted by the question: "What would you do?" or, "What would you have done?" if you had been placed in such a position or predicament?

• • • • • • •

There is a strange willingness in people to censure the actions of others, and a consummate inability to know how they would have handled such situations, or what they would have done. Because of this, trouble and unhappiness spread, and problems of minor or major importance are no nearer being solved.

• • • • • • •

It is the person who knows what to do who seldom finds the fault, or the one who has the rare gift of being able to put herself in imagination, in the same place. It is only when one has the understanding to appreciate that there would be difficulties that cannot be known to outsiders, or hampering actions of others when the affairs are world-wide or other extenuating circumstances that influence decisions, that she can judge with any degree of rightness.

• • • • • • •

It is well for each us to ask ourselves the same question, "What would I have done? when we are prone to be critical. The question is a poser. It brings us up with a round turn. Immediately we begin to discover the difficulties that could come in the way, or the disastrous effects on others of certain actions which seem reasonable to us when we are not in the position.

• • • • • • •

One thing we all can do is to put the question, "What would you do?" to those who find the fault, or to ourself, "What would I do?" It sets the mind to work with the good result that each gets less critical, unless one is totally lacking in human sympathy or understanding, or is so soured in disposition that normal judgment is dead. The questions are like medicines which stop the spread of disease since they have the same tendency to prevent th spread of drogatory comments.

Art Association Honors President on Her 10th Year

GREAT MEN OWE THEIR SUCCESS TO THEIR WIVES

Mrs. Nancy Pyper Addresses Annual Banquet of Art Association.

GIFT TO MRS. BLACKWELL.

"All Great People Are Always Nice Simple Ones," Speaker Says.

"All the great people are always the nice simple ones."

If Mrs. Nancy Pyper's estimate of the great ones with whom she has held converse be a true one, then she too should be numbered with them. It is seldom that so simple and direct and friendly a personality is encountered in the scope of newspaper reporting of guest speakers who, at one time or another, come to Peterborough to air their views for the benefit of local listeners.

This lady who has evidently within the short space of a year made quite an impression on blase Toronto, for it is only a twelvemonth since she reached the Queen City and already she has been accorded the coveted appointment of Director of Hart House Theatre, possesses a truly unique personality. Vivid, vital, magnetic and compelling, and, above all, extraordinarily friendly and sincere, she held the attention of her listeners for the space of several hours (and it didn't seem very long, at that), at the Empress Hotel last night, when, as guest speaker at the annual dinner of the Lyceum Club Women's Art Association, attended by eighty-four ladies, she gave a talk on "Places and Personalities" and then read one play and a portion of another, both of which are to be presented at Hart House Theatre next season.

And the whole-hearted enthusiasm of a type, encountered seldom hereabouts, that reckons with life in the terms of Shakespear's famous phrase, "All the world's a stage," seemed to imbue every phase of her personality and every sentence in her discourse, which was punctuated at moments by little bits of Puckish humour in the form of unconventional words and phrases. These lapses from hide-bound language and its implications seem to be characteristic often of speakers whose mentality is brilliant and whose vocabulary has a very wide range.

Gift to Mrs. Blackwell

The evening, which was an extremely pleasant one, was featured by the presentation to the president of the Art Association, Mrs. W. Blackwell, of some lovely pieces of china, in cups and saucers, on the attainment of the tenth anniversary of her election as presiding officer of the society, a post which she has held continuously ever since.

Mrs. R. J. Kidd, making the presentation address in a few well-rounded sentences, alluded to the popular president as "tactful, resourceful, diplomatic, harmonious and generous," and the china was presented to Mrs. Blackwell by Madam Masson, on behalf of the members.

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. L. J. Pettit, who, as convenor of general arrangements, was in charge of the very entertaining program of the evening.

Mrs. Pyper, who directed the play, "His Widow's Husband," which was presented with great acclaim by Hart House Theatre players at the recent Dramatic Festival at Ottawa, toured Europe last summer and the impressions gleaned in visits to various famous personages formed the background of a brilliant and informative talk, filled with tiny thumbnail sketches of interesting people and places.

She was privileged to enjoy a five-hour conversation with George Bernard Shaw, after being assured that it would be impossible for her to see the great man for even a few minutes. She lunched with Mr. and Mrs. Shaw at their London house in Adelphi Terrace.

She described the great playwright's wife as of "medium height, plump, with white hair, green eyes and a charming smile. She watches Mr. Shaw like a hawk, gives him throat lozenges and gets him to rest when he is tired, and draws the attention of boresome talkers."

"G.B.S.", it seems, has a favorite seat at the theatre, in the middle of the front row of the balcony, while Mrs. Shaw sits alone in a locked box to which she and her husband possess the keys. This is their individual preference. Mrs. Shaw is a brilliant French scholar and has adapted many plays from that language. And her attitude toward her famous husband drew from Mrs. Pyper the assertion that: "There is not a single great man living to-day that doesn't owe more than one half of his success to his wife."

Jacobs, the Humorist

Mrs. Pyper also had an interview with another love of her literary heart: W. W. Jacobs, who "writes such magnificent books. To me, the whole Empire is built upon Jacobs' humour." She had tea with him at his house in Gloucester Gate, London, and spoke of him as very shy, with a little, thin voice and a pale face that reminded her forcibly of Julius Caesar.

An episode that struck her forcibly was the fact that his two sons, sharing the tea hour, spoke with enthusiasm of the work of P. G. Wodehouse and seemed to think that their own father's light burned with a lesser glow.

Mrs. Pyper spoke of Dublin and of Sheen O'Casey, in whose famous play, "Juno and the Paycock," she had the title role; of the Abbey Theatre, "little and dirty, where they throw jugs and bottles and things on the stage if they don't like you, and where they have produced marvellous lays, chiefly of the peasant type"; and of the New Gate Theatre promoted by Lord and Lady Longford, where they go in for deeper things like the plays of Ibsen and Materlinck and have made a great success.

She met Clemence Dane, who not only writes wonderful books like "Broom Stages," but also writes plays like "Bill of Divorcement," and acts and directs in the theatre, as well. "And at her house in Yorkshire she has ham and eggs for breakfast every day."

Sir Archibald and Lady Flowers, presiding geniuses of the Stratford-on-Avon Theatre, were met, also Phyllis Neilson-Terry, niece of the great Ellen Terry, who is "very modern and interesting" but does not possess the charm of her famous prototype, whose tradition she carries on.

With fear and trembling, Mrs. Pyper essayed an interview with Rudyard Kipling, after being warned that "he does not suffer fools gladly," and that, after an instantaneous sizing-up of a visitor, he is often apt to disappear for good with an excuse that he has something to which he must attend. But she stayed for luncheon in his Sussex home, and described him as "older, with lean jaws, quicksilver eyes and enormous eyebrows."

Tribute to Hollywood Films

Turning to the world of the cinema Mrs. Pyper spoke of a cup of tea enjoyed with George Arliss in his dressing-room on the British-Gaumont lot, where he was making "The Iron Duke."

"Arliss has an enormous admiration for American films," she declared. "Although he thinks the British industry is progressing, he says it cannot yet come up to scratch with the American films and that Hollywood has much to teach England. He mentioning his admiration of the American system in which a moving-picture magnate will listen to a criticism from even an office boy, whereas the British heads take the attitude that they know it all."

"Personally," went on Mrs. Pyer, "although I admire many of the British-made films, still I feel that we owe a great deal to the American firms."

She said: "Arliss, I think, is tired. He does not work now in a way that could come up to his marvellous portrayal in "Old English," as a stage play. He is taking the easy way of the films."

She mentioned also Conrad Veidt and Charles Laughton as two of the stellar lights of the film world of abroad. And Gwen Lally, the famous woman director of pageants that bring back the glories of Ole England.

Of great interest was her reference to a brief visit allowed with the German Reichsfuhrer, Hitler, on a trip to Germany, a privilege accorded very few women.

"The world used to think of Hitler as a little man with a Chaplin-like moustache who wouldn't amount to much. But the estimate is wrong. I had the same impression until I heard him speak and then I recognized the magnetic quality of the man. It is his marvellous voice that holds and compels your attention. It is one of the most beautiful voices I have ever heard.

He is very nervous. Mrs. Pyper, illustrating the total absence of a sense of humour in his make-up, related the tale of the Irish professor named Baxter who managed to obtain an interview with Hitler. Being very nervous, he was unable to determine how to address him. Hitler, observing his dilemma, sought to assist by rising quickly and stretching out his hand, with the popular cry, "Heil, Hitler!" on his tongue. Not understanding, the visitor repeated the motion and said: "Heil, Baxter" Hitler immediately pressed a button and terminated the interview without another word.

Mrs. Pyper also described Goering as "an amazing man, with a face that appears to be carved from stone" and spoke of his present wife, Emmy Sonneman, the actress, as a very fine performer.

A Little Theatre

Turning to a phase of her activity that evidently holds her whole allegiance, the speaker deplored the absence of a "little theatre" in Peterborough, and went on to adjure her listeners to become interested in this movement; towards dramatic expression.

"When you act, you leave yourself in a seat and become another personality. You learn about life; its difficulties and tragedies, and you can never again make hasty judgments of other people.

"And age is no drawback. Lynn Fontanne is fifty-five years old, Phyllis Neilson-Terry is forty-nine. Katherine Cornell is advanced in years."

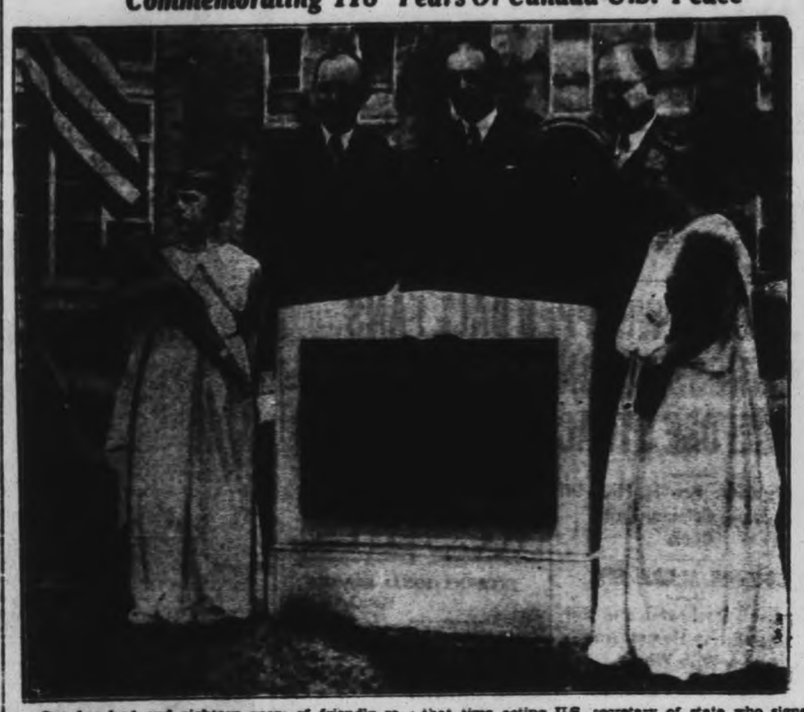
Mrs. Pyper offered her own assistance at any time in designing scenery or costumes or helping in any way to further a Little Theatre project. And also invited her listeners to drop in and have tea with her at her Hart House Theatre office any time during a visit to Toronto.

Later, she read for her absorbed audience two scenes from the first act of "Once in a Lifetime" the first play to be presented next season at Hart House, and followed this with the reading of a little tragedy that was superbly done, "Red Turf" and will also be put on the boards at Hart House next season.

Mrs. Blackwell voiced the appreciation of the assemblage to Mrs. Pyper, also to all who had assisted by a large low silver bowl filled with rich red tulips.

The convenor of general arrangements was Mrs. L. J. Pettitt, while Mrs. H. Wightman was convenor of the telephone committee. Miss Amy Matthews assisted with the decorations, and Miss Amy Beal was in charge of the sale of tickets.

Commemorating 118 Years Of Canada-U.S. Peace



One hundred and eighteen years of friendly relationship with 3,000 miles of unarmed border between two nations was signalized as this tablet, commemorating the signing of the Rush-Bagot agreement, between the United States and Canada was unveiled at Washington. The tablet is located on the spot where the British legation, at which the famous international agreement was signed, formerly stood. The treaty gets its name from Sir Charles Bagot, then minister from Britain, and Richard Rush, at that time acting U.S. secretary of state who signed the treaty in 1817. This memorial was prepared by the International Kiwanis of America. Miss Margaret Maxfield, representing Columbia, and Miss Nancy Jorss, representing Canada, unveil the tablet. In the rear are: Hon. Hume Wrong, counsellor of the Canadian legation; Hon. William Phillips, under secretary of state, for the United States, and Dr. William J. Carrington, of Atlantic City, N.J., president of Kiwanis International.

Newsom Is Versatile Mimic

Bragging of Hurler Louie Not in Vain For St. Louis Browns.

TRAVELLING PLAYER.

LOUIE NORMAN

Newsom, young hurler of the St. Louis Browns is one ball tosser who could step right out of baseball and land himself a radio job. He is rated a talented mimic and one of the best of his imitations is Amos and Andy. During a recent broadcast at St. Louis, he staged his Amos and Andy imitation and did it so realistically that a studio manager in Cleveland who heard it believed it actually was the famous radio comedians.

× × ×

Newsom is known as quite a braggart, but his recent record with the Browns has shown that some of his braggadocio is not vain. He captured sixteen games with the Browns last season and thirty with Los Angeles the previous year. Newsom has been shunted about considerably. This is just his eighth season in baseball, and he already has been a member of nine different club, including three in the majors—Brooklyn, Cubs and Browns.

× × ×

COLLEGIATE football stars have invaded major league baseball with greater frequency in recent years. For some reason or other the St. Louis Browns seem to have drawn more than any other club. They had Ernie Nevers, one of the greatest fullbacks of all time; Larry Bettencourt, an all-American center; and "Red" Badgro, an all-American end. Another footballer on the current Browns' roster is Ray Pepper. Ray played college football at Alabama, which this year sent up Dixie Howell to Detroit.

Though Pepper still is regarded as a major league rookie, he has seen considerable service. This is his ninth season and, like Newsom, he has traveled widely, being attached to nine different ball clubs during his meandering. Pepper is a big fellow, but quiet and retiring. He speaks loudest with his bat when runners are on the baselines. Ray, appearing in the cleanup position, last season, drove in 101 runs, twelfth in the American League, though his batting mark was only .298.

Regret in 1915 Only Filly to Win Derby in Past 60 Years.

STURDY RACING CLASS.

Matched Against Bunch of Ordinary Colts in 61st Running.

By Alan Gould
(Associated Press Sports Editor).

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 3 (A.P.).—Approach of another Kentucky Derby, the 61st, and by far the stormiest since the epochal year, A.D., 1929, to-day finds one intriguing question, above all others, absorbing the best and most masterful minds of the horse-racing fraternity.

To give this serious subject a light and frivolous touch, the issue concerns the ability of a lady of unquestioned thoroughbred class to kick mud in the eyes of 15 or more blue-blooded gentlemen, right out in full view of perhaps 60,000 horse racing addicts, gathered to witness the running of this colorful classic for three-year-olds.

In short, can Nellie Flag, strapping grand-daughter of Man o' War, who was the best filly of 1934 and has returned to the races this year with smashing success, overcome the handicaps of sex and precedent sufficiently to whip a somewhat ordinary field of colts tomorrow afternoon in heavy going over the mile and a quarter route at Churchill Downs?

Odds Against Nellie.

On the face of it, the odds seemed to be 50 to 1 against Nellie. Only one filly in the past 60 years had shown the way home in the Derby. That was Regret in 1915, and only one other racing mare, Lady of Navarre in 1906, was able to do as well as second place. Still fresh in mind are the high hopes placed in the chances last year of two other queens of the turf, Mata Hari and Bazaar, but the best either could show was fourth place money after it was all over and the mighty Cavalcade had run his field into the ground.

But there's no Cavalcade in the 1935 Derby ranks and Nellie Flag, the experts insist, is a lady of sturdier fibre, if not greater racing class, than any filly that has ever gone to the post in quest of the blue ribbon of the blue grass country.

She ruled second choice in the betting to-day, at no more than 5 to 1, and it appeared altogether possible she may displace Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney's colt, To-Day, as the book favorite by the time the Derby field is called to the post.

GIRL ATHLETES MORE ROBUST

LONDON, Ont., May 3 (C.P.)—No longer do the girls with the boyish silhouette predominate among the women athletes at the University of Western Ontario.

Miss 1935 at Western, a mythical creature compiled from the statistical records of the women's athletic department, is definitely more robust than her sisters of bygone years. The average size of girl's uniforms was a size larger than in 1934.

Tough For One In The Brook

Making a graceful arch, Lord Lindsay's big gray, Jane Gray, is taking the brook perfectly at Towcester, England, adding not a whit to the enjoyment of the rider in the foreground who took a ducking when Mrs. M. Margesson's Littlejohn slipped into the water. The race was in the novice class at the Grafton Hunt Trials, which produced some spectacular steeplechasing.

DOUBLE BASEBALL BILL HERE MONDAY

Toronto Valleyviews Will Oppose New Named Petes, the Johnson Motors.

Baseball makes its 1935 debut locally with two exhibition senior games here Monday. Both will be played at Riverside Park, the first at 10.15 in the morning and the other at 3.15 in the afternoon. Toronto Valleyviews will oppose the home team in each case—Johnson Motors being the new name for the Petes this year. These contests will prove of benefit to the players in their preparation to defend their C.O.B.I. title through the summer. A low admission price will be charged fans who want to see the new Petes against classy opposition.

Knotty Lee said today he expects to use all his hurlers in these two tilts. Each pitcher will get two or three innings work. All prospective players that are being watched by the veteran coach are likely to see action in the infield and outfield, and a couple of catchers may be used. Valleyviews — last year's champions of the outlaw Toronto Senior League, now in the Ulster League—will provide stiff opposition as they are in better shape. Both games should be worth seeing on the holiday.

Because it drove the grouse from the Long Mynd hills of England, gliding from there has been stopped by the courts.

Montreal, Rochester and Buffalo Please Hometowners With Wins.

(By the Associated Press)

Despite cold and inclement weather, the second round of "openers" in the International League drew enough customers to gladden the hearts of the magnates as the teams from the "northern" sector played host to their rivals from the lower tier.

Crowds totalling 30,500—10,000 more than the first inaugural — turned out yesterday in near freezing weather to witness three of the home teams, Rochester, Montreal and Buffalo celebrate their home debuts with victories while the fourth, Toronto, went down to defeat.

Holds Baltimore Birds

Lauri Myllykangas got Montreal Royals off to a good start before 7,000 of the clientele, limited Baltimore Orioles to four hits, two of them which were homers by Vince Barton, as his teammates pounded Beryl Richmond and Harry Gumbert for 11 blows and a 9-3 victory. The win enabled the Royals to take second place from the Orioles.

Playing before 9,000, the Rochester Red Wings shut out Newark Bears 5-0 as James (Little Caesar) Lyons, rookie southpaw, held the league leaders to five bingles. Lyons gave only three scattered hits until the ninth, when the Bears threatened with two straight hits. Lyons, however, forced Pinch Hitter Bill Hershberger and Leishman to pop out to end the game.

Despite Hack Wilson's two homers and another by Frank Packard, Buffalo Bisons defeated Albany Senators 7-5 before 7,500 chilled spectators. The Bisons ran up a six-run lead in the early innings and held it against the home run barrage of the visitors.

7,000 See Defeat

Syracuse Chiefs made the home crowd of 7,000 miserable at Toronto by humbling the Leafs 11-1 behind the sterling pitching of Bobby Coombs. Coombs restricted the Leafs to six hits while his mates, led by John Kroner, pounded the offerings of Stan Lucas, Coleman and Earl Cook for 12 hits. Lucas went well until the fifth when a storm of hits netting six runs drove him to the showers.

BLACKMAIL RING CENTRE?

LONDON, Ont.—A letter from a person in Fort Wayne, Indiana, signed Interested Citizen, and believed to be a crank, alleges London is the headquarters for an international blackmail ring headed by members of Al Capone's former gang. The letter was received by Mayor George Wenige yesterday.

Whitney's 'To-Day,' Derby Favorite

SCHOOLBOY ROWES WAIT STORK VISIT IN FALL

Walter Winchell reports a Detroit "blessed event."

And Mrs. Edna Skinner Rowe, wife of Detroit's famous "Schoolboy" Rowe, to-day confirmed Winchell's prognostication.

The child will be born shortly before this year's World Series. Mrs. Rowe, who is in Detroit, will return to Eldorado, Ark., home town of the famous pitcher, for the big event.

"Schoolboy's" pickled to death," said James Driscol, Eldorado friend of the Tiger pitcher who is with the Tigers in St. Louis. "I hope it's a boy and he can pitch."

EVEN THE WRONG SIDE MUST BE RIGHT.

WHEN we refer to the wrong side, we mean, of course, the inside, but we do not refer only to the lining which is all you can see on the inside. Between the lining and the fabric, there are many highly technical operations which can only be done well by skilled craftsmen.

Twenty-five years of tailoring experience has taught us to carry out these operations efficiently. The foundation which is formed by a canvas, must be constructed and placed with meticulous care. The choice of suitable Hymo is an all-important factor, because this material when properly moulded, brings out the smart lines in the lapels.

We have selected Spun Hairclyth that forms a foundation which insures a shapely coat. This is so woven that it does away with the irritation of horse hair working its way through the fabric. These are some of the hidden advantages that ensure you Tip Top satisfaction.

New Twentieth Century Club Makes Its Initial Bow With Bout on May 28th.

ROMANTIC SET-UP.

By Bill Braucher
(Central Press Canadian Sports Writer).

New York's new Twentieth Century Club makes its bow May 28 with a battle for the welterweight championship between two of the best fighting men in the ring today, Jimmy McLarnin and Barney Ross.

The Canadian Irishman from Vancouver and the Jewish jabber from Chicago proved in two rousing settee last year to be so evenly matched that ringsiders who saw both bouts still are arguing the boys' merits.

When Ross won the decision and the welter title from the baby-faced Harp last May, many questioned the verdict. In their return match in September, McLarnin accomplished what seldom is seen in ringdom when he regained his title. But the second fight, too, found many who thought Ross had earned no worse than a draw.

The stories of how these two boys won their way from obscurity to wealth and fame is as romantic as any the ring has seen. McLarnin was a 14-year-old kid with a little gym in the basement of his father's store in Vancouver, B.C., when he met Pop Foster.

Several Meals Delayed.

Pop had recovered from world war wounds in a Vancouver hospital. He took an interest in the lad with the straight left and roaring right hand. With the consent of Jimmy's parents they fared into the world together, their union based upon honest understanding rather than legal contract. They were not only manager and boxer. They were friends

Pop almost had to fight himself to get Jimmy engagements. They went up and down the Pacific coast, postponing many meals. Finally Jimmy was put on with a tough youngster in Oakland, and surprised the promoter by winning.

From that start—at $1.25 per night—McLarnin blasted his way to the welter title when he defeated Young Corbett III. in 1933, and his fists won fortunes for Pop, Jimmy's parents and himself.

In 13 years of fighting, McLarnin has punched out a brilliant ring record. Three years ago when he lost to Lou Brouillard he seemed to be slipping. It appeared the title would forever elude him. But he came back to knock out San Francisco's Corbett in the first round, winning the championship.

The story of Ross is remarkably similar. Barney's father, a grocer named Rasofsky, was killed by hold-up men in his store in a tough Chicago district. Barney's fists became breadwinner for his mother, brothers and sister.

The Jewish boy got his start in the Chicago Golden Gloves. He fought his way up in short order to become Tony Canzoneri's most formidable challenger for the lightweight title.

Held Two Titles.

He beat Canzoneri in a hair-raising battle in Chicago, gave Tony a return chance in New York, and beat him again. Recently, he announced abdication of his lightweight championship, admitting inability to make the weight.

Most of Barney's fights lately with lightweights have been over-the-weight affairs that proved little more than workout exhibitions. The title was not at stake and the boy from the Ghetto was not pressed to win. Frankie Klick did give him trouble, however, in a draw.

As a welter Barney scored the outstanding ring feat of 1934, holding two title at the same time after his defeat of McLarnin. The ring also is under obligation to Barney for his gift of fighting color. Not rugged in appearance, he has shown great skill — one of the best left hands in the sport to-day—and he will stand up there and trade punches when the going is rough.

Without the handicap of taking off five to six pounds facing him, Ross is sure to be a stronger fighter than he was a year ago. He has a good chance to write the end of the championship chapter for the tough little Irishman.

Because of the power in his right, odds probably will favor McLarnin. Youth will be on Ross' side, and a left hand like Benny Leonard's.

The winner? It's like guessing a Billion-Ted Kid Lewis bout. Offhand, McLarnin.

GOLF FACTS NOT THEORIES!

By ALEX. J. MORRISON

Number 602

There are players who insist on giving too much importance to the follow-through. These players have the notion that a good finishing position means a good swing. Far from it.

What happens after the moment of impact has nothing to do with the flight of the ball. As a rule a swing that is good up to the moment of impact will have a good finish. But an apparently good finish can be posed.

Many players do affect certain positions at the end of their swings. This only leads them to overlook things happening in the important stages such as the backswing and downswing. Give all of your attention first to your starting position, how you start the backswing and then to keeping your head in the proper position until after impact. This will give you a better swing, a good shot and a much better finish.

Joe Louis And Braddock Not Regarded Highly By N.B.A. As Heavyweight 'Stuff'

PROVIDENCE, R.I., May 3. (CP). — President Edward C. Foster of the National Boxing Association was firmly convinced to-day the summer's heavyweight fight menu that has New York fistiana expectantly smacking its lips isn't going to be so digestable.

"James J. Braddock," he said with feeling here last night, "is being foisted on a gullible publice in his role as contender for the title held by Max Baer. He isn't in the same class with Baer.

"Braddock," President Foster continued "merely is the fortunate victim of a high-handed scheme to enrich some individuals connected with the fight game. He's an in-and-outer and although he did outscore Art Lasky in his most recent fight he didn't in my opinion, look like a title contender when he fought John Henry Lewis last December. Lewis should have been given the decision in that bout."

Joe Louis, Detroit negro heavyweight, still is a novice as far as the N.B.A. prexy is concerned. He said he would stand by previous statements in which he announced the N.B.A. wouldn't regard Louis as a title contender until he has proven his forthcoming battle with Primo Carnera.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two.

DAY BY DAY

(By C. J. P.)

Knotty Lee stepped his seniors through a stiff workout in Riverside Park last eve. The boys soon forgot the chill and they were sweating before it was over. Some of th outfielders—and there weren't many on hand—were shagging flies while Scriver and Lepper were off on one side warming up with a catcher. The infielders had a lengthy, peppy drill with Ash on first, Konopka on second, Murphy at short and Calladine on third. They looked good. This Murphy fellow has class with a capital "K" and will more than take care of his position. Calladine may fill the bill okay at third after a few more practices. It's a strange spot to him. Konopka and Ash were fielding in fine style.

Webb Starr is trying out for a berth as catcher. Three softball teams are after him but he is going to the baseball workouts. Starr—an older brother of Eddie, who also catches—is about 24, a short, husky fellow chuck full of fight. He caught in the City League but the last few years has been catching in softball. A good steady receiver with a fine throwing arm and a hard hitter, Webb might prove okay with the seniors. The Petes should have two catchers and, while we really expect to see Cy Whatley have a big season, Starr might be worth watching for a while and maybe signed up.

All the prospects will be seen in action at the two exhibition games with Toronto Valleyviews next Monday at Riverside Park. First game on the holiday will be at 10.15 a.m. and the second at 3.15 p.m.—a morning and an afternoon game. Need we say any more about the Valleyviews than they were champs of the strong senior outlaw loop in Toronto last summer? They will be plenty tough here Monday, but the locals may knock 'em off once, anyway. All our hurlers and various infielders and outfielders will see action in these games. There should be be a big holiday crowd of fans out to look the Johnson Motors team over.

Two or three delegates will go from here to the C.O.B.L. executive meeting in Belleville tomorrow. Main matters to be discussed will be the schedule and the umpires. This club will want Saturday games at home again and will try to secure a couple of home games on holidays like July 1st and Civic Holiday. Possibly a few twilight tussles will be sandwiched in somewhere. Oshawa, like us, wants Saturday games at home but Belleville and Kingston don't care. Five local umpires have applied so far: Shiner Johnston, Jim Coursey, Bob Hotrum, Jack McCarney and Al Heckman.

• • • • • • •

The north winds do blow and we shall have snow and what will the ball scribes do then, poor things? Well, they'll just have to hot-stove it, we suppose. Anyway, ye C.O.B.L. writers are busy working up summer feuds among themselves and as soon as we can think of something downright nasty to say about Belleville, we'll pull it. And the Quinte scribbler is just aching for a crack at us. Meantime, he intimates Oshawa Beer Barons are going pansy with brand new purplish uniforms and suggests they put a floral design on the bloomers! "Baby-blue ribbon also makes a natty trimming," adds he maliciously.

• • • • • • •

The Motor City scrivener takes the Kingston guy to task for pinching other writers' copy without giving credit—an old Kingston trick—but the latter evens it up by calling the ex-Dukes "Crocks", and scoffs at the large Oshawa hurling staff, saying: "It's all right to have a string of pitchers and perhaps Oshawa should have nine—one for each inning!" And just to draw their concerted fire we might state that Oshawa can't expect to fluke its way through a stronger loop than last year, even though it has bolstered a bit; that Belleville will probably wind up with the venerable Williams chucking every game to the ancient Mills again; and that Kingston may need a couple more American twirlers to help out their veteran ex-stars. The locals? Oh, nothing to it, m'dear Watson, nothing to it!

The first lacrosse practise to be held in the Lindsay arena took place night before last. Local players on hand included Lefebvre, LeBarr, Weir, Gardner, Magee and Ellis. Some of the Scugog guited-stick wielders are coming along fast, such athletes as McKee, Wakeline, Ringland, Nicholson, Coates (ex-Port Hoper) and Ecobichon—formerly of this burg. The boys up that way are going in for the game strong and promise to field a team that will be tougher to take than a trip to the dentist. On paper they look strong, but of course you know what happened paper profits back in '29!

Jerry Whaley is calling a meeting of his Naberhood Colts— a bantam baseball entry—in the Naberhood Store on George St. at eight this evening. All prospects are invited. The idea is to arrange for a game ala exhibish with King Edward School bantams at ten Monday a.m. in the Exhibition Grounds. The K. E. boys want to get going in their practises as they have a sudden-death Ontario bantam championship tilt in Waterloo on May 24th. And the Colts will benefit by this workout in preparation for their coming season. We hope King Edward is back in the bantam division of the City Baseball League this year.

Picking 'em off the grapevine: Gals' Softball Loop meeting has been changed from Wednesday e'en to Tuesday night at eight in Duffus' . . . . Only C.O.B.L. umpires who are willing to take out-of-town assignments this summer will be considered, we hear . . . . The two senior games here Monday will be in Riverside Park after all, not in the Exhibition Grounds . . . . Lillico Motors are definitely in the Men's Softball League and will practise at 5.30 tonight in Central; all players welcome . . . . Four Church Softball Loop tussles were run off here last p.m. . . . . Both Covert and Geddes, hockey imports, play softball, but can they get a transfer now? . . . . It's just possible the E.P.I. may operate here again this summer.

KNOX SENIORS TAKES 21 TO 10 SOFTBALL WIN

Murray and George St. Juveniles Battle to 10-all Count.

ST. JAMES WINS 23-6.

Four Church Softball League games were played last night, getting all the loop sections started. Knox Seniors took a 21-10 win over Murray St.; St. James beat Trinity Juniors, 23-6; Murray St. and George St. tied at 10-all in a juvenile fixture; and George St. Bantams turned back St. James, 27 to 23. Cold weather kept down the crowd and bothered the players.

Knox Seniors had good pitching and a steadier team to win out over their newer rivals. A. Wedlock hurled for the winners, with Young being knocked out by Knox in the second. H. McNabb finished in fair style. Palmer, Morrison and the catchers fielded well with Allen, McDonald and Wells up in batting. The teams:

Knox—A. Wedlock, p; Gatfield, 2b, rf.; Allen, ss., 2b; McDonald, cf; Ringer, cf; Masters, c; Morrison, 3b; Smythe, ; Charlton, lf; W. Wedlock, 1b; W. Ward, ss., rf; Archibald, ss.; Darling, rf.

St. James Cops Win.

St. James Juniors started off strong after permanent possession of the junior shield. The young Trinity crew hadn't the Southenders' ability. The infield was ragged and three hurlers failed to subdue their hitting opponents. Mowry was wild but had the other side bothered. Heal, Parker and Edmondson featured with neat catches, while Morrow, B. Huffman, Mowry, Leggett and McGoverin were dangerous at bat. The teams:

St. James'—Heal, 2b; McGoverin, 1b; Wood, ss.; Mowry, p.; Leggett, c; Spencely, 3b; Lawson, cf; Pife, rf; Grose, lf.

St. James' ..... 023 453 6—23
Trinity ..... 100 013 1— 6
Umpires—H. Marsh and D. Charlton.

Tight Fought Game

Hoy's wild slide home in the seventh tied up the juvenile game and, owing to darkness, the first tie game in Church League history resulted. Only four of last year's George Street champions were on hand but with R. Parnall hurling good ball, they held the smart Murray Street gang down. The Baptists were unlucky to lose as they had good heaving from McGregor and fair teamplay. Duncan, Crary and Hendren led the hitters. The league will decide on either a replay or to split the points: The teams:

Murray Street — Mortimer, 3b; Hawkes, ss; McGregor, p; Robson, c; Crary, rf; Duncan, b; K. Gillespie, 2b; Scott, cf; C. Gillespie, lf.

George Street—Galley, c; Parnell, p; McKinnon, 1b; Weese, 2b; Hamilton, 3b; Hoy, lf; Hendren, cf; Gilgour, lf; Fitzgerald, rf.

Murray Street ..... 201 231 0—10
George Street ..... 112 011 4—10
Umpires—L. Agnew and N. Batt

Wild Work at Bat

Wild hitting featured the bantam tussle. George Street cuffed the ball hard to wear down St. James finally. Parnall and Grose were both wild and hit freely, with Carter, Moorhead, Leether, Parnall and Murphy the main stickers. Murphy lost runs by missing bases twice after clouting a homer and a triple. St. James threatened the last two frames. The teams:

George Street — Hamilton, cf; Murphy, c.; Weese, 3b; Hudson, 1b; Parnall, p.; Routley, ss; Carter, 2b; Dundas, lf; Smith, rf.

REPLIES IN SKILL ON PLACING BALL

Eleanor Young, Canada's Junior Tennis Champion, Plays Her Game From Baseline.

VANCOUVER, May 3 (C.P.)—Canada's junior women's tennis champion, Eleanor Young of Vancouver, is something more than merely a good junior. She is the second best woman player in the country and, herself is the younger half of the celebrated "Tennis Twins" who will play for the first time this season at Wimbledon. The older half of the young team is Caroline Deacon, also of Vancouver.

Caroline packs the fire; Eleanor is placid. While the red-headed Miss Deacon races up and down, giving her galleries a thrill at her sheer energetic display, the 19-year-od Miss Young calmly stands at or near the baseline and places tennis balls pretty much where she likes.

Together, they won the Canadian women's doubles championship last summer in Toronto. On her own Caroline won the singles, and Eleanor was finalist, besides winning the junior singles. It was a two-girl show such as no major Canadian tournament had ever seen or may see again.

Eleanor, dark-haired and slender, brings a rare temperament to tennis. "Big names" don't bother her. She isn't aggressive on the court. Her idea is to stand at the baseline and take the ball at the top of the rise, then returning it flat and with control. No Canadian woman has as good control. She covers court easily.

BOYS! "Torchy Peden"

RIDES A C.C.M. on the Streets and Highways as well as on the Race Tracks

BIG, good-natured Torchy Peden, world-famous 6-day rider, just loves to ride a bicycle. He actually spends more time spinning along city streets and country highways than he does on the race track.

By riding out-of-doors regularly Torchy Peden fills his lungs full of life-giving fresh air, keeps his muscles flexible and his body fit. He says, "The bicycle is a grand conditioner."

And, of course, you'll want to ride the same make of bicycle as Torchy Peden. Anyone who has seen this human dynamo do his stuff in a 6-day bicycle race knows that no ordinary bicycle could stand up for long under his hard riding. Yet Torchy can show you bicycles in his C.C.M. fleet that have gone over 42,000 miles and are still on race-track duty.

All C.C.M. models have the Straight Line Drive which makes the bicycle run so truly that "back and front wheels track like one." They also have C.C.M.'s own weather-resistant, brilliant Enamel; C.C.M.'s own Chromium Plate over a 20-Year Nickel; Triplex Hanger; Rustless Steel Spokes; Endrick or Enamelled Steel Rims; Dunlop "Fort" or Dunlop Imperial Tires.

In the long run you save money by buying a C.C.M. Ask Torchy—he knows!

THURSDAY.

Consuelo's wedding day.

There was another gift that had been promised her. A pair of slippers with real French heels. The gray-haired gentleman did not know that he was buying them as a wedding present for her. Irony! "I shall never marry and be slave of a man," she had told him. Bitter words they were now.

As she left the van, she paused and looked at it and her eyes filled with tears. Her wagon no longer. A daughter of her father no longer. Tonight a different man's possession. She wrapped the shawl about her shoulders and left the camp and she was glad that no one saw her go.

She went to the oak where she and the Dummy had spent so many hours together. Her last rendezvous with him; tonight her wedding night. She found him there. He was lying face downward on the grass, his head buried in his arms. Hesitatingly she approached and knelt beside him. Her tan fingers touched his hair.

The Dummy started up and saw her. The white shawl made the real unreal. He was dreaming. His arms stretched out to her. Hadn't it been in the forest that she had come to him and he talked to her? He drew her to him and his lips touched hers. This was not wrong. It was only a dream—only a dream.

The girl was sobbing against his shoulder.

"Oh, Dummy, my dear one, you're the only real friend I have ever known and now I come to you because my heart is sad and I want to cry inside. Everything is all wrong!"

He could not see her lips. He did not know the words she spoke to him.

"Dummy, I am going to do something that you will hate me for, but don't, please don't. I have to. It's not this me but another me that says I must. Life is cold and meaningless unless you can dance to the music of it and the music has gone out of me and I am wretched. I thought that revenge would be sweet and lift me to the top of the clouds, but I am wrong. It is a bitter thing and I am weeping tears of anguish. But more bitter still is my memory. If I was not a proud gypsy it would be different. If sooner he had taken me in his arms and said 'I am sorry,' it might have been different—" Sobs choked the words. She drew her head up and looked at him then. "My big dumb one." She put her hands against his face, caressingly. "I am leaving you to become a hated stranger. Kiss me before I do. Kiss me, my dumb one, and forgive me." She put her lips against his. Then she moved back and looked into his eyes. She did not speak and he could not.

For the youth the dream had faded. This was real. To kiss and forgive. She was not asking him to be a man but to be a god. Kiss and forgive, and the bitter hurt in his heart left him. This was a moment that only the gods can give to man. And so he looked at the face he loved as a thing apart, that he might carry the beauty of her in his soul. Kiss and forgive, never again could he do that. Tonight she would be a bride, the bride of another man.

There were many things the girl had intended to say to him but she forgot them. She knew now that no matter what she did he would still understand and—forgive.

She stirred. She must be going.

She put her lips to his and kissed him long and tenderly as a mother might kiss a cherished child. Then she rose and left him and did not turn back. He made no effort to keep her or to follow. As her figure faded in the trees he turned the key in the lock of his memories. Always he would have the sweet beauty of this hour with him.

Consuelo hurried toward the town. When she reached the railroad siding she hid behind a pile of rocks to wait for the private car. Ten days. It was due this afternoon. If it did not come—but then the man had promised her a pair of slippers. Now they would be a wedding present and a reminder of unfilled dreams.

An hour and a half she waited before the train pulled in and left the private car upon the siding. Still she sat behind the rocks. She saw the men come to the observation car. They were talking together and looking around. The man they had called Stewart Blackmire had a package under his arm. He had not forgotten.

The girl left her hiding place and approached them.

"There she is now! Hello, gypsy girl." There was gladness in Stewart's voice.

"Hello, white man," she greeted, a half smile on her lips.

"I see you didn't forget us."

"I have thought of you until my head swims," she answered. "I could not forget."

"Neither could I." He held out the package to her.

"This is my wedding gift," she announced tonelessly, accepting it.

"Wedding gift?"

"Yes. Today."

He stared at her without speaking.

"So you deserted us and decided to get married," Doug filled in the silence. "The tall man you were with that day?"

Consuelo shook her head.

"No, someone else."

"Let me congratulate you and give you my good wishes, gypsy girl." Stewart said stiffly.

The light flared back into the girl's eyes.

"I do not want your good wishes! Good wishes! I spit on them! I hate him!"

They stared at each other.

"Are you really a king?" she asked.

"A king?"

"Yes, a king of the theatre who puts on shows?"

He nodded smiling.

"You thought I was a good dancer, didn't you?"

"Yes."

"Then take me back with you and let me dance in one of your shows."

After a moment Blackmire shook his head.

"But you are going to be married today."

The remark was ignored.

"Will you let me go with you?" she asked again. "I have the $50 you gave me and $14 I have had. I could live months on that. I have bracelets and jewelry—" She held out her arms. The diamond on her finger shone in the sunlight. "I could make money for you. When I dance at the fairs my hands overflow with silver. In your New York they would toss nothing less than dollars and all they throw to me I would give to you. I would make you rich. Marcu has given my father 80 pieces of gold, a gold and diamond watch, two mares, an unborn colt, and a year-old colt and my father told him it was not enough for me. He said, she will earn you a hundred gold watches. All this I am worth, white man, and I beg you will take me with you and let me dance in one of your shows."

The theme song during the recent transportation strike in Dublin, Irish Free State, was "Roll Along, Covered Wagon."

Urge More Men To Teach Boys

LONDON, May 2 (C.P.) — There is a shortage of more than 30,000 British schoolmasters — approximately only one schoolmaster to every 50 boys—but there is one schoolmistress for every 25 girls, and there is a growing feeling that more men are needed in the teaching profession in the United Kingdom. More than 5,000 classes of boys, in addition to upwards of 50,000 mixed classes, are being taught by women.

These facts were revealed by W. C. McHarrie, headmaster of a London County Council school, in his presidential address to the London Schoolmasters' Association, as an argument for the employment of more men teachers in British elementary schools.

"One of our main objects is to secure that all boys over the infant school age shall be taught by men," said Mr. McHarrie. "We consider it just as important that all girls shall be taught by women. The girls are assured of their rights.

"It is the ambition of every boy to become a man," he continued. "For this natural development, it is essential that after the infant stage he should make mesculine contacts."

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Saturday, May 4

Some commotion and excitement may prevail on this day, according to the dominant planetary influences, but with a bit of restraint and conservatism there should be definite progress and achievement, despite anxieties and perplexities. There are more or less trivial and may be successfully vanquished by good judgment, industry and determination.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may expect a lively and interesting year, with some degree of excitement, commotion and anxiety, but these should be managed with sagacity, restraint and firm application to affairs at hand.

A child born on this day may be lively, energetic, hard working and should succeed in employment. It should be trained in amiability and self-control.

MINING IN GERMANY

LONDON.—The British Foreign Office today asked its envoy to Berlin to ascertain the whereabouts in Germany of Robert Rohm, an Austrian, whose wife, a British subject, has reported he disappeared in the Reich while on a tour there with a group of British medical men April 24.

GOODBYE for ever to coaxing children to eat cereals. Make breakfast a temptation with Quaker Puffed Rice or Quaker Puffed Wheat, the confection-like cereals that children really love. And though they're as dainty and crisp as popcorn, they provide quick nourishment—and amazingly substantial food values. Get a package of the new twice-crisped triple-sealed Quaker Puffed Grains. How to Keep Well

You are in the pink today. But tomorrow you may be down-in-the-mouth, grumpy and generally hard to get along with. Ten to one it's because your eliminative processes are not complete. You are suffering from partial constipation without knowing it.

You need never feel that way any more if you follow the simple Andrews Rules of Health. They are common-sense rules. Go to bed in decent time and get all the sound sleep Nature demands. Don't worry. Eat moderately. Get as much fresh air and play as you can. And, every two or three days, take a sparkling, bracing glass of Andrews Liver Salt.

Andrews, the largest selling saline in the British Empire, helps keep millions healthy. The occasional glass gives the system just the stimulus it needs to keep you clean inside, and makes the use of griping, habit-forming medicines unnecessary.

Andrews has a very definite beneficial effect on the stomach lining, and a soothing, sedative effect on the digestive organs. The occasional, pleasant tasting glass of Andrews will keep you in splendid shape.

Ask your druggist for Andrews Liver Salt. Small tin, 35c; Large tin, 60c; The extra large bottle, 75c. Proprietors: Scott & Turner Limited, Newcastle-upon-Tyne, England. Distributed in Canada by McGillivray Bros., Limited, Toronto. 41

By Edward J. Neil
(Associated Press Sports Writer).

NEW YORK, May 3 (A.P.).—The story of relief case No. 2796, and a battle against odds that dwarf anything James J. Braddock will face in the ring on June 13 against Heavyweight Champion Max Baer, comes out in the public prints today.

Braddock, challenger for the top crown of the prize ring, would prefer that it never came to light, for the tide has turned now, the youngsters aren't hungry, the milk bill has been paid the rent is paid in advance and the butcher is no longer howling for money.

But Mayor Julius L. Reich, of North Bergen, N.J., and the relief commissioner over there got to tangling politically over the distribution of aid to the needy and Braddock's name popped out. Had the heavyweight challenger pictured always as a young athlete rolling in wealth actually been on relief?

"Sure," said Braddock slowly in his training camp at Loch Sheldrake, up in the Catskill Mountains of New York. "Sure I was. I'm not ashamed of it, either. I didn't mind for myself, but I couldn't let the kids starve."

If Braddock licks Baer, June 13—and the odds the experts say are all against him—he'll have climbed a ladder in one year from need so great to money so plentiful as to frighten even a fiction writer.

So desperate was Braddock last September that he applied and was given relief of $21 a month. He had had one fight during the summer, a fight in which he knocked out Corn Griffin in a preliminary of the card on which Baer demolished Primo Carnera and won the heavyweight title. Braddock's share was $250. That was in June.

Cleared $330 on Lewis Bout.

He didn't earn another penny in the ring until he fought and beat John Henry Lewis in Madison Square Garden, on Nov. 16, for which he got about half after expenses were deducted. In the meantime, he was able to work two or three days a week as a stevadore on the Jersey docks.

Up to that fight in November, he hadn't even an overcoat to wear. The few times he came around the fight lanes, his hair was overhanging his collar.

At Christmas the milkman was about to shut off the supply for his three children, Howard, Jay and Rose Marie, but his manager, Joe Gould, not doing so well himself, dug up $7 and paid it. The owner of the apartment house where he lived was a fight man, so when seven months' rent was overdue, he allowed the Braddocks to move from the fourth floor to the basement, where Jimmy worked out the debt as janitor. That was only six months ago.

Then Gould talked the Garden into matching Braddock and Art Lasky, Minneapolis heavyweight contender, and Braddock, going into the ring at 1 to 5, won off by himself in 15 rounds. He got $4,100 for his share. When expenses were paid that left $1,200 for himself, enough to square up most of his debts.

The tide turned. The New York State Athletic Commission named him the outstanding challenger. The Garden matched him with Baer for the championship, June 13, in the Long Island bowl. A week ago he got $300 for a broadcast.

Now the Braddocks are back in the fourth floor of the apartment house and someone else is doing the janitoring, because Jimmy is in training in the Catskills. His share of the Baer fight should net him at least $30,000. If he wins the title, his fortune is made overnight.

There's one more item in the financial report.

"As soon as I was paid off for the Lasky fight," Jimmy said, "I gave $300 to the relief funds of Union City. That covered the $240 I got all told when we were on relief."
